OIL PACT RETALIATION

Solon Leaders Call For Ending Aid To Argentina

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders called Saturday for an immediate suspension of American aid in retaliation for Argentina's cancellation of agreements with U. S. oil companies.

The demands for swift retaliation came although State Department sources said details of the Argentine action still are lacking. Unanswered as yet, these sources said, is the key question of compensation to the American companies involved in the complicated decrees issued Friday in Buenos Aires.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois expressed the opinion in separate interviews that action should be taken quickly under existing law to suspend assistance. In Argentina's case this has been running around $100 million a year in loans and grants.

CUT OFF LAW

Existing law says such aid shall be cut off to countries which confiscate American property and don't pay for it in six months.

Tightening this up, the Senate wrote into its version of the pending foreign aid authorization bill an amendment automatically suspending all aid to nations that repudiate or nullify contracts with foreign principals and don't settle justly within six months.

President Kennedy expressed concern at Thursday's news conference over the Argentine dispute and plans of the Peruvian government to nationalize a U. S. oil firm's holdings in that country.

Mansfield said aid should be suspended "pending a just settlement." If there is no reasonable compensation made to the companies, he said assistance should be terminated.

"This practice of seizure of American properties has got to be stopped or adjusted on a reasonable basis," he said. "This could happen again in Brazil, Peru and other countries. We

Area Absentee Primary Voting Begins Monday

Absentee voting for the December 7 Democratic primary will begin at 8 a.m. Monday and continue through noon on Saturday, Nov. 30 for Ouachita Parish voters who will be unable to participate in the regular election.

Balloting will take place in the Clerk of Court's office, located in the basement of the Courthouse, during regular office hours — 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. on weekdays and 8 a.m. until noon on Saturdays. The office will be closed on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 28.

Chief Deputy Clerk Carter Cozine, in making the announcement, urged voters who know they will be unable to vote in the regular election to file their absentee ballots as soon as possible to avoid a last-minute rush.

Voters are required to complete their ballots in person at the Courthouse, and must know their ward and precinct numbers.

Louisiana law rules that absentee voting must begin no earlier than 19 days prior to an election, and must close at least six days before voting.

Justice Branch Clears Gilpatric

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department said Saturday night it found no violation of the conflict of interests Statute on the part of Deputy Secretary of Defense Roswell L. Gilpatric in the TFX plane case.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee is scheduled to resume hearings this week concerning Gilpatric's association with officials of the company which got the huge TFX warplane contract, General Dynamics Corp., Ft. Worth, Tex., Division.

Gilpatric did legal work for General Dynamics before taking his Pentagon post.

The subcommittee has been seeking to find out why Gilpatric and other top Pentagon civilians overruled military evaluations that a rival design and bid by the Boeing Co. of Seattle indicated a better plane at less cost.

Goldwater's Leaders See Nomination

Claim Senator Has 500 Votes Of 655 Needed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of the drive to make Sen. Barry Goldwater the 1964 Republican presidential nominee sized up their operation Saturday — and their chairman said he thinks at least 500 convention votes already are in the Goldwater column.

It will take 655 votes at the San Francisco convention next August to nominate the Republican candidate for the White House.

TEXAS FORECAST

Peter O'Donnell Jr., Republican state chairman of Texas and head of the national Draft Goldwater organization, gave that forecast of the senator's delegate strength after meeting with 65 leaders of the draft movement.

Goldwater organizations in 35 states were represented at the closed-door talks.

Goldwater himself did not send a representative, but there was no doubt that such allies as Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., would report to him.

The senator, front runner in polls on the nomination, has not declared himself in the race. He has avoided open contact with the draft organization.

O'Donnell said he asked officials of the state Goldwater organizations to go home and prepare reports on where the movement stands — financially and politically.

Fund-raising would be a lot easier if Goldwater declared himself in the race, O'Donnell said.

Barghoorn Set To See Mother In New Haven

LONDON (AP) — Released from a Communist jail on the demand of President Kennedy, Yale Prof. Frederick C. Barghoorn, whom the Reds had charged with spying, flew into London Saturday on the way home to the United States.

The U. S. Embassy said he would arrive in New York Sunday at 1:40 p.m. aboard Pan American's Flight 101 and go immediately to New Haven, Conn., for a reunion with his 80-year-old mother.

PALE, WAN

The professor was pale and drawn when he arrived here after expulsion from the Soviet Union as a spy.

U. S. Minister G. Lewis Jones said Barghoorn would make no public statement until he arrived in the United States.

"He is terribly relieved and very happy," Jones added. "He is much happier here than where he was."

Barghoorn showed this at the airport.

"It's sure good to be out," he told U.S. officials who met him here. Then, he went into a private conference with them to relate for relay to President Kennedy the tale of his arrest in Russia Oct. 31.

Barghoorn, 52, was driven to an undisclosed private residence where he placed a call to his widowed mother, 80, in New Haven, Conn.

Each Accuses Other Of Being Conflict Cause

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) —Algeria and Morocco accused each other Saturday of aggression in the Sahara frontier war and warned of the threat of international conflict in Africa.

In statements before foreign ministers of the Organization of Africa Unity, Algerian and Moroccan delegates aimed bitter charges at each other and stood pat on their previous claims for the contested desert border area, which only recently has been found to be an area with prospective wealth in it.

SERIOUS DEADLOCK

Their statements implied a serious deadlock in the conference and its effort to solve the frontier dispute.

Foreign Ministers Ahmed Reda Guedira of Morocco and Abdelaziz Bouteflika of Algeria each blamed the other country for starting the war. Each talked about the threat of it spreading. Guedira warned that arms shipments from Cuba to Algeria may cause counterintervention by the West.

"Africa should not become the battlefield for conflicts which are foreign to it," he said.

Bouteflika charged Morocco is pursuing a policy of "expansionist adventure" and called for a decision that would "prove the wisdom, maturity and fertility of the African genius."

JFK Watches U.S. Display Of Missilery

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—President Kennedy saw superrockets, a vast moon port and a Polaris missile firing Saturday in a dramatic exhibition of the nation's ability to use the reaches of space for peace or war.

Garbed in a blue Navy windbreaker on the tossing deck of a ship 30 miles at sea, Kennedy summed up the day with a word:

"Wonderful."

It was a day filled with superlatives. And evidently it made quite an impression on Kennedy.

Kennedy took about four hours out of a restful weekend at Palm Beach, Fla., to fly north to this space center and back.

He conferred with astronauts and space officials. He got detailed briefings on the Gemini, Saturn and Apollo projects, the latter designed to put a man on the moon by 1968.

He picked up a model of an early rocket, an Explorer I powered by a Redstone, and put it beside a scale model of the Saturn V. Saturn V will stretch 365 feet above its launching pad and is designed to put astronauts on the moon.

It was five or six times as tall as the comparatively primitive Redstone-Explorer I.

Kennedy flew by helicopter over the 87,000-acre tract on Merritt Island where a billion dollars is going into facilities just to launch moon-bound astronauts.

Prince Tells Of Cambodia Aims On Aid

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP)—Neutralist Prince Norodom Sihanouk declared Saturday his country's willingness to accept aid from any source, including Communists.

He also repeated his warning he will turn back U. S. aid after Dec. 31 unless a secret anti-government radio station goes off the air.

Sihanouk told a news conference the station was operating under U. S. control outside Cambodia, a charge the State Department has denied.

"Just this morning, this station was calling upon Cambodians to revolt against us," said Sihanouk, chief of state to this Southeast Asian nation.

He said if the station continued to insult him after Dec. 31, "we will demand the withdrawal of American economic, cultural and military aid, and on the first of January we will live without American help."

In the last eight years, Cambodia has received $366 million in economic and military assistance from the United States. Communist China has been eyeing the country as a base for additional operations in the turbulant area.

Even if the hostile broadcasts cease, Sihanouk said, the future of U. S. aid will be up to the Americans. "Cambodia is not going around begging," he said.

"Cambodia is free to accept aid from any source, and cultural assistance from France, America, Russia, China and others ought to be accepted," he said.

In remarks at a school dedication Friday, Sihanouk warned his country's leftists, who have been urging an end to U. S. aid, that Cambodia's neutralist policies would also require rejection of cultural aid from Communist countries.

Reds Molesting U.S. Airliners

BERLIN (UPI) — Communist troops molested three U.S. airliners this week with high-powered searchlights in what informed sources said Saturday could mean the Soviet Union was shifting its challenge of Western rights to Berlin from the Autobahn to the air corridors.

The United States, Britain and France filed a sharp protest with the Russian air safety officer Saturday, charging that the searchlights constituted a hazard to the crews and passengers aboard the American planes.

The Soviets have created several international incidents in the past month by blocking allied troop convoys on the 110-mile Autobahn from West Germany to West Berlin through Communist East Germany.

Soviets Combine Success, Threat

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union fired another unmanned satellite into orbit Saturday, combining the feat with a threat from a top military leader that Russian nuclear missiles were capable of devastating the United States in a matter of minutes.

The space vehicle called "Cosmos 22," carried "apparatus designed to carry on studies of outer space," Tass, the official Soviet news agency reported. It said the satellite circled the earth every 90.3 minutes and that it was "working well."

It was the second successful Soviet satellite launching this week. "Cosmos 21" went into orbit on Tuesday.

ICBM THREAT

The intercontinental missile threat was made by Marshal Nikolai L. Krylov, commander of Soviet rocket troops.

His claims were published by Izvestia, the official government newspaper. Krylov said the United States, if war broke out, could be turned into a military theater within minutes. Soviet rockets could deliver nuclear blasts of up to 100 megatons at any time, in any kind of weather, Krylov said.

The military chief said the rockets were able to change course and were invulnerable to anti-missiles missiles. He said they could fully destroy an enemy's "military-economic potential, disorganize government and military direction, and annihilate the strategic means of the enemy's nuclear attack."

New Leisure May Not Mean Easy Pleasure

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— One of the nation's leading businessmen said Saturday that by 1985 automation will have piled up so many disposable working hours that each worker may have to take a year off from his job to make up for it.

Ralph Lazarus, president of Federated Department Stores, said recent studies indicated that technological improvements in production are rapidly forcing the day when a man's leisure time will be more than he knows what to do with.

"It is an awesome prospect that the new leisure might force us to search for the meaning of life within ourselves," he told the biennial session of the Family Service Association of America.

Showers May Sprinkle Area

The forecast indicates that scattered thundershowers will hit the area during the day, followed by a dip in temperatures at night. The mercury is expected to drop to a low of 48-52 tonight while the daytime high will be between 76 to 80 degrees. Saturday's high under cloudy skies was 75 degrees after an early morning low of 44. The overnight low reading early today was forecast for 58 to 62.

CLOUDY

Southerly winds will continue at 12 to 22 m.p.h. today but will shift to northerly by night, causing the expected cooler weather.

PICKETS STATE DEPARTMENT

Covered Wagoneer Fights Federal Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Gillis family, touring the world the leisurely way, formed its own picket line Saturday protesting federal barriers to a free flight to Europe for them, their covered wagon and team.

Leon Gillis, his wife and six children, of Providence Forge and Richmond, Va., have traversed this continent in their somewhat modified frontier vehicle, now stalled in New York City by a government rule.

As Gillis, 42, his brunette wife and five of their brood paced with their signs before the State Department Saturday, he explained the situation.

An airline, he said, has offered free transport for the family, the 5,000-pound, rubber-tired wagon and two horses from New York across the Atlantic — presumably for the publicity value.

Henry T. Snowden, chief of the State Department's office of transport and communications, says federal regulations bar the free trip unless the group is sponsored by some government agency.

Gillis is asking exemption from this regulation. He says he wants to take his family wherever they please and at their horses' pace.

Gillis said the commerce department's travel division and several other government agencies have expressed interest in the unique world tour, but not to the point of sponsorship.

He has turned down commercial backing for his venture, Gillis said, because he refuses to carry advertising banners or anything to detract from the educational nature of the tour which started Sept. 27, 1961.

Whatever the outcome of efforts to lift the ban on the free air trip, the family is going to Europe, Gillis said.

"We still have enough capital from sale of my business to go by freighter or even by unscheduled airline," he told a reporter. "But it would cut into our funds sharply, might require us to earn money while abroad and could shorten our tour, to which we hope to devote about a year."

Plane Crashes Near Birthday Party; 3 Killed

LINDENHURST, N.Y. (AP)— A twin-engine plane crashed in flames on take-off Saturday, plummeting into the front yard of a home where a child's birthday party was being held. All three men aboard the plane were killed.

Four persons on the ground were injured, one critically.

They were standing outside the Stanely Kata residence when the plane clipped a corner of the frame house and plunged into the yard. Flaming gasoline set fire to the Kata house and three automobiles.

Inside the house, Deborah Kata was celebrating her 9th birthday at a family party. She and three other children, her mother and grandmother escaped injury. The fire in the house was quickly extinguished.

James Pereda, 50, who lives across from the Kata house, said he saw the plane about 20 feet from the ground, heading directly for the Kata house.

"I hollered for my wife to look for the kids," he said. The children were playing nearby and escaped injury.

'Opry Performers Hurt In Collision

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Grand Ole Opry performers Jean Shepard and Johnny Wiggens were injured and 10 other Opry members were shaken up when their bus collided head-on with a car early Saturday.

"We are very, very lucky," said Wiggens, who was driving the bus.

"The car came off an exit ramp the wrong way and pulled out right in front of us," Wiggens said while hobbling about a Durham hotel lobby with his leg in a cast. He and Miss Shepard both suffered leg fractures.

The driver of the car, Hugh Manley Hamlett, 21, of Longhurst, N.C., was killed in the collision on Interstate 85 about 10 miles west of Durham.

Miss Shepard was to return to Nashville, Tenn., home of the country and western show, but Wiggens and the other performers rented automobiles and drove to Baltimore, Md., for a show there Saturday night.

Singer Ernest Tubb, the troop's leader, said he was on a bunk when the vehicles collided and he "didn't get a scratch."

Another singer, Lefty Frizzell was among those who were bruised when the bus jumped a 20-foot ditch after hitting the car, and then skidded down an embankment. The bus was heavily damaged and the car was ripped apart.

Miss Shepard, the most seriously injured, is the widow of Hawkshaw Hawkins, one of four Opry performers killed in a plane crash in Tennessee last spring. Two other performers have died in violent accidents this year.

Hawkins was killed as he and Patsy Cline, Cowboy Copas and Randy Hughes were returning to Nashville from a benefit performance for a disc jockey killed in a highway accident a few days earlier.

Three days after the plane crash, Opry star Jack Angiln was killed when his car went over an embankment. Mrs. Ruby Fox, known as "Texas Ruby" on the Opry, died two weeks later in a trailer fire.

Area Absentee Primary Voting Begins Monday

Absentee voting for the December 7 Democratic primary will begin at 8 a.m. Monday and continue through noon on Saturday, Nov. 30 for Ouachita Parish voters who will be unable to participate in the regular election.

Balloting will take place in the Clerk of Court's office, located in the basement of the Courthouse, during regular office hours — 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. on weekdays and 8 a.m. until noon on Saturdays. The office will be closed on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 28.

Chief Deputy Clerk Carter Cozine, in making the announcement, urged voters who know they will be unable to vote in the regular election to file their absentee ballots as soon as possible to avoid a last-minute rush.

Voters are required to complete their ballots in person at the Courthouse, and must know their ward and precinct numbers.

Louisiana law rules that absentee voting must begin no earlier than 19 days prior to an election, and must close at least six days before voting.

There's rain in the making for the Twin Cities today as the weatherman calls for a mild day with considerable cloudiness.

The forecast indicates that scattered thundershowers will hit the area during the day, followed by a dip in temperatures at night. The mercury is expected to drop to a low of 48-52 tonight while the daytime high will be between 76 to 80 degrees. Saturday's high under cloudy skies was 75 degrees after an early morning low of 44. The overnight low reading early today was forecast for 58 to 62.

CLOUDY

Southerly winds will continue at 12 to 22 m.p.h. today but will shift to northerly by night, causing the expected cooler weather.

Bella, Hassan Fling Barbs, Warn Of War

Each Accuses Other Of Being Conflict Cause

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) —Algeria and Morocco accused each other Saturday of aggression in the Sahara frontier war and warned of the threat of international conflict in Africa.

In statements before foreign ministers of the Organization of Africa Unity, Algerian and Moroccan delegates aimed bitter charges at each other and stood pat on their previous claims for the contested desert border area, which only recently has been found to be an area with prospective wealth in it.

SERIOUS DEADLOCK

Their statements implied a serious deadlock in the conference and its effort to solve the frontier dispute.

Foreign Ministers Ahmed Reda Guedira of Morocco and Abdelaziz Bouteflika of Algeria each blamed the other country for starting the war. Each talked about the threat of it spreading. Guedira warned that arms shipments from Cuba to Algeria may cause counterintervention by the West.

"Africa should not become the battlefield for conflicts which are foreign to it," he said.

Bouteflika charged Morocco is pursuing a policy of "expansionist adventure" and called for a decision that would "prove the wisdom, maturity and fertility of the African genius."

Plane Crashes Near Birthday Party; 3 Killed

LINDENHURST, N.Y. (AP)—A twin-engine plane crashed in flames on take-off Saturday, plummeting into the front yard of a home where a child's birthday party was being held. All three men aboard the plane were killed.

Four persons on the ground were injured, one critically.

They were standing outside the Stanely Kata residence when the plane clipped a corner of the frame house and plunged into the yard. Flaming gasoline set fire to the Kata house and three automobiles.

Inside the house, Deborah Kata was celebrating her 9th birthday at a family party. She and three other children, her mother and grandmother escaped injury. The fire in the house was quickly extinguished.

The dead reportedly were members of the Civil Air Patrol, which owned the plane.

James Pereda, 50, who lives across from the Kata house, said he saw the plane about 20 feet from the ground, heading directly for the Kata house.

"I hollered for my wife to look for the kids," he said. The children were playing nearby and escaped injury.

The persons injured had just stepped out of the Kata house.

'Opry Performers Hurt In Collision

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Grand Ole Opry performers Jean Shepard and Johnny Wiggens were injured and 10 other Opry members were shaken up when their bus collided head-on with a car early Saturday.

"We are very, very lucky," said Wiggens, who was driving the bus.

"The car came off an exit ramp the wrong way and pulled out right in front of us," Wiggens said while hobbling about a Durham hotel lobby with his leg in a cast. He and Miss Shepard both suffered leg fractures.

The driver of the car, Hugh Manley Hamlett, 21, of Longhurst, N.C., was killed in the collision on Interstate 85 about 10 miles west of Durham.

Miss Shepard was to return to Nashville, Tenn., home of the country and western show, but Wiggens and the other performers rented automobiles and drove to Baltimore, Md., for a show there Saturday night.

Singer Ernest Tubb, the troop's leader, said he was on a bunk when the vehicles collided and he "didn't get a scratch."

Another singer, Lefty Frizzell was among those who were bruised when the bus jumped a 20-foot ditch after hitting the car, and then skidded down an embankment. The bus was heavily damaged and the car was ripped apart.

Miss Shepard, the most seriously injured, is the widow of Hawkshaw Hawkins, one of four Opry performers killed in a plane crash in Tennessee last spring. Two other performers have died in violent accidents this year.

Hawkins was killed as he and Patsy Cline, Cowboy Copas and Randy Hughes were returning to Nashville from a benefit performance for a disc jockey killed in a highway accident a few days earlier.

Three days after the plane crash, Opry star Jack Angiln was killed when his car went over an embankment. Mrs. Ruby Fox, known as "Texas Ruby" on the Opry, died two weeks later in a trailer fire.

PICKETS STATE DEPARTMENT

Covered Wagoneer Fights Federal Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Gillis family, touring the world the leisurely way, formed its own picket line Saturday protesting federal barriers to a free flight to Europe for them, their covered wagon and team.

Leon Gillis, his wife and six children, of Providence Forge and Richmond, Va., have traversed this continent in their somewhat modified frontier vehicle, now stalled in New York City by a government rule.

As Gillis, 42, his brunette wife and five of their brood paced with their signs before the State Department Saturday, he explained the situation.

An airline, he said, has offered free transport for the family, the 5,000-pound, rubber-tired wagon and two horses from New York across the Atlantic — presumably for the publicity value.

Henry T. Snowden, chief of the State Department's office of transport and communications, says federal regulations bar the free trip unless the group is sponsored by some government agency.

Gillis is asking exemption from this regulation. He says he wants to take his family wherever they please and at their horses' pace.

Gillis said the commerce department's travel division and several other government agencies have expressed interest in the unique world tour, but not to the point of sponsorship.

He has turned down commercial backing for his venture, Gillis said, because he refuses to carry advertising banners or anything to detract from the educational nature of the tour which started Sept. 27, 1961.

Whatever the outcome of efforts to lift the ban on the free air trip, the family is going to Europe, Gillis said.

"We still have enough capital from sale of my business to go by freighter or even by unscheduled airline," he told a reporter. "But it would cut into our funds sharply, might require us to earn money while abroad and could shorten our tour, to which we hope to devote about a year."

LaSalle Parish Vote Campaigns At 'Fever Pitch'

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 16th in a series of articles on the December 7th primaries. Today's article covers LaSalle Parish candidates for public office. The series is intended to inform the voters.)

By SAM HANNA
Political Editor

LaSalle Parish normally runs a high degree of political temperature, but it's reaching a fever pitch this fall because of a huge number of candidates.

From constable to the Legislature, the races are loaded, even though Clerk of Court Joseph D. Nugent and Assessor Barney Basham are unopposed.

Sheriff Hershel Floyd, completing his first term, faces three opponents, Rep. Chester Floyd also has three and the Senate race is anybody's guess.

Nugent, one term in office after suceeding his father, the late J. E. Nugent, and Basham, the veteran with four terms, got by without opposition in the midst of a big turnout of candidates.

But the hottest races are probably for sheriff and the House of Representatives.

Floyd, the sheriff, is trying for a second term in office where he served as a deputy before. His opponents include Homer L. Allbritton, an oil company employe who was in business at Olla before, James A. Hodges, a salesman who serves on the Jena council, and Word Mills, a deputy who resigned to run for sheriff.

However, this race may not be as hotly contested as the campaign for the Legislature, especially since state representatives have a hard time being re-elected in LaSalle.

Floyd, the state representative, is seeking his second term in office. But before he gets there he'll have to beat three opponents.

Candidates for the House include Charles H. Huffman, a service station operator, Max W. Maxwell, who is in the insurance field, and W. H. Smith, a trucker.

LaSalle also has three candidates in the Senate race that includes LaSalle, Caldwell, Grant and Winn. Sen. Speedy O. Long of Jena is vacating the Seat as a candidate for insurance commissioner.

A former lawmaker, Gove Davis of Olla, is a candidate along with Roy Floyd, an Olla businessman, and H. G. (Sam) Wilbanks, a Jena oil well contractor.

They're the candidates from LaSalle.

Grant has two — W. T. McCain, a Colfax attorney, and W. L. Rambo, a Georgetown lumberman who served two terms in the House — while Winn has one, Ed Tullos of Winnfield.

Meantime, the LaSalle coroner, Dr. I. C. Turley Jr. is unopposed and so is J. F. Justiss Sr., member of the State Central Democratic Committee.

Candidates at-large for the Parish Democratic Committee are Jeddie R. Hodges, Lloyd T. Knapp, C. A. Owens Jr. and Lewis R. Sleeth.

WARD 1

Justice of the Peace — J. L. Randall.

Constable — E. L. Evans, Joe Westbrooks.

WARD 2

Police Jury — R. C. Cook, Albert Elias, Carl R. Hudson, Robert McCartney, I. B. Moore, Dewey Roberts, H. T. Simons, incumbent. Will elect one.

Justice of the Peace — Sonny Bailey, J. E. McCall, Lee C. Russell, Clarence E. Wilson. Vote for one.

Constable — Louis H. Boyd, J. Lonnie Brown, A. O. McCartney, J. E. Ruddell, David L. Sellers, Jurge T. Tannehill.

Democratic Committee — C. F. Brooks.

WARD 3

Police Jury — Marvin L. Flowers, incumbent; W. E. Oldn, Ottis Stringer, R. B. White. Will elect one.

Constable — H. E. Carrier, Luther Wesley Pearson, T. J. Ray, Oliver Windham.

Police Jury — Lloyd Raymon Eubanks, Orland Sandifer, Virgil W. Terrall, George Trussell, incumbent. Will elect one.

Justice of the Peace — Troy E. Bethard, C. M. Doshier, Willard Enterkin, Dewey Ford, Leonard M. Manchester, Alfres Tarver. Will elect one.

Democratic Committee — J. M. Walker.

WARD 5

Police Jury — Earl Ray Coon, Earl Paul, incumbent.

Justice of the Peace — O. D. Frazier, W. I. Hanner, Bobby Hudnall, Glen Norris, J. W. Yule. Will elect one.

Democratic Committee — R. E. Hudnall.

WARD 6

Police Jury — Edward P. Chevallier, Lloyd Thompson, incumbent.

Justice of the Peace — Lonnie E. Chevallier.

Constable — Willie L. Allen.

Democratic Committee — J. W. Crooks.

WARD 7

Police Jury — J. Fount Cockerham, incumbent; James W. Lee, Richard M. Roark.

Justice of the Peace — Alton James Smith.

Constable — Ellis Corley, Robert R. Smith.

Democratic Committee — Jack Lee.

WARD 8

Police Jury — J. D. Bradford, Phillip O. Bradford, Baker Collins, incumbent; Frank Davis, Bing Sanders, Claude Wainwright. Will elect one.

Justice of the Peace — B. B. Coon, M. C. Edwards, J. Willis Hudnall, Lyndall Kitterlin. Will elect one.

Constable — Buatt Clark, W W. Hudnall.

Knife-Armed Bandit Robs Bakery Here

A lone Negro bandit walked into Bond's Bakery at Eastgate Shopping Center Saturday morning and robbed the business of between $50 and $75.

The Negro, armed with a long-bladed hunting knife, escaped a would be captor and Monroe police were still seeking him late Saturday night.

Chief James C. Kelly Jr. said the robbery occurred around 9:45 am. He gave the following account.

The man entered the bakery and told Mrs. Marie Roe, the single employee present, that he wanted a dozen do - nuts. When Mrs. Roe turned her back on him to sack his purchase, the man jumped behind her, and drawing a knife, threw her to the floor.

Then holding the long-bladed knife against her throat, he ordered her not to make a noise and proceeded to scoop out the contents of the cash register with his other hand.

A passerby, John Cunningham, reportedly noticed something amiss. He dashed into the bakery and attempted to overpower the bandit but the man escaped.

In escaping from Cunningham's grasp, the Negro left his jacket behind. Police were attempting to trace his identity through the jacket, and said they had several suspects already. Immediately following the robbery, police broadcast a description of the bandit to all local agencies and threw up roadblocks in an effort to apprehend him should he attempt to leave the area by vehicle. The Negro was described as between 18 to 20 years of age, about medium height and stockily built.

Harold Stassen Tests Sentiment For Future Bid

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI)—Harold E. Stassen, sounding like a full-fledged candidate, said Saturday he is testing sentiment on getting into the race for the Republican presidential nomination.

But Stassen said that before he enters any contests he wants the GOP to adopt his policies and programs. Local observers regarded Stassen's words as an unofficial entry into the presidential race.

The former Minnesota governor, who was a disarmament advisor of President Eisenhower, said in a statement that he had been urged by an "increasing but limited" number of persons to seek the Republican presidential nomination.

"In testing the extent of this sentiment," Stassen said, "I will do so only on the basis of a thorough understanding by Republican voters of the program which I believe our country should follow."

MILTON, Pa. (AP) — A "hot plate on wheels" is what rail transportation specialists jokingly are calling a new railroad tank car that heats its cargo as it travels. Temperatures in excess of 500 degrees are possible in the electrically heated car, says it's developer-ACF's Shippers' Car Line Division. It is being used to transport certain food and chemical products such as vegetable oil and pitch that must be heated in transit if they are to be ready for immediate unloading at their destinations.

Jaycee Directors Vote Today On Site

The hotly debated issue of a building site for a permanent state office headquarters for the Louisiana Junior Chamber of Commerce is slated for a vote today at the closing sessions of the Jaycee's Board of Directors meeting here.

A vote on the issue is expected to be taken at the board's meeting this morning, shortly before the three-day meet draws to a close at the Hotel Frances. Another item on the business agenda today includes the election of two state vice presidents by the state board of directors.

Jack Murphy, president of the Board of Directors "wholeheartedly endorsed Monroe as the site for the Miss Louisiana pageant next year." He said that though the decisions concerning the pageant will be left to the Monroe group, endorsement by the state board was a necessity.

Paschal Norris, a well known Monroe speaker on Communism and what young men can do to aid America in her fight against its infiltration, Wales, Shreveport spokesman was featured speaker at a 7:30 p.m. banquet Saturday. Dallas for conservative politics who was formerly siated to have spoken at the banquet Saturday night, was unable to attend because of illness. The banquet was followed by a dance for the Jaycees and Jaynes, the ladies auxilary, also in attendance.

Executive committee meetings, a president's luncheon and a state board meeting comprised Saturday's activities. Murphy said that no action was taken by the group in Saturday's meetings which were mostly given over to discussion of the controversial buildnig site issue.

The Jaynes also held executive committee sessions and state board meetings Saturday.

Visitors in attendance at the meeting include National Vice President Ken Osterburger of Lake Cahrles, J. C. McDonald, Mississippi Jaycee state president of Kosciusko, and Larry Tate, Texas Jaycee state president. The reigning Miss Louisiana, Miss Linda Gayle Baucum, is also a guest.

7,000 Seek Posts In State

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Nearly 7,000 candidates seek public office in Louisiana's Dec. 7 first primary and 61 are Negroes, scattered in one-third of the 64 parishes.

The only Negro bidding for a statewide office is Ernest J. Wright, 54-year-old New Orleans labor union representative, one of the nine rivals for lieutenant governor.

Negroes are running for parish or local offices in 211 parishes. They are identified by race on the ballot.

Five Negroes are reaching toward the Louisiana House in Iberville, Jefferson and Orleans parishes.

There are 15 Negroes asking seats on the 105-member Democratic State Central Committee, including Percy Griffin of Plaquemines Parish. He is the sold opponent of Leander H. Perez Sr., arch segregationist and conservative political kingpin.

At stake in the first primary are governor and eight other state offices, all 144 legislative posts, the Central Committee, plus the offices of sheriff, police juror, assessor, clerk of court, coroner, constable and peace justice.

Republicans are running a primary in a few places.

Two Negroes are bidding for membership on the Republican State Central Committee—Mrs. Willie Lee Harris in Ward Two, Orleans, and Jesse W. Cook in Ward Seven. Three other Negroes are candidates for GOP parish executive committees, and two of them are unopposed.

Orleans, most populous parish, has the heaviest Negro ambitions, with 26 candidates, Democratic and Republican.

A dozen Negroes have their names on the ballot in racially-troubled Iberville Parish. They are running for the House of Representatives, sheriff, Central Committee, parish Democratic Executive Committee, police juror, peace justice, constable and coroner.

Many of the Negro candidates were among those arrested in the first outbreak of Negro marches, defying police orders. They worked closely with Congress of Racial Equality leaders.

In East Baton Rouge, a Negro CORE attorney seeks a seat on the parish Democratic Executive Committee.

Two Negroes already were nominated — without opposition — in St. John the Baptist Parish. They are Constable Curtis Duronslet and Peace Justice Larry Sorapuru, in Ward One. They hold the offices now

The hotly debated issue of a building site for a permanent state office headquarters for the Louisiana Junior Chamber of Commerce is slated for a vote today at the closing sessions of the Jaycee's Board of Directors meeting here.

A vote on the issue is expected to be taken at the board's meeting this morning, shortly before the three-day meet draws to a close at the Hotel Frances. Another item on the business agenda today includes the election of two state vice presidents by the state board of directors.

Jack Murphy, president of the Board of Directors "wholeheartedly endorsed Monroe as the site for the Miss Louisiana pageant next year." He said that though the decisions concerning the pageant will be left to the Monroe group, endorsement by the state board was a necessity.

Paschal Norris, a well known Monroe speaker on Communism and what young men can do to aid America in her fight against its infiltration, Wales, Shreveport spokesman was featured speaker at a 7:30 p.m. banquet Saturday. Dallas for conservative politics who was formerly siated to have spoken at the banquet Saturday night, was unable to attend because of illness. The banquet was followed by a dance for the Jaycees and Jaynes, the ladies auxilary, also in attendance.

Executive committee meetings, a president's luncheon and a state board meeting comprised Saturday's activities. Murphy said that no action was taken by the group in Saturday's meetings which were mostly given over to discussion of the controversial buildnig site issue.

The Jaynes also held executive committee sessions and state board meetings Saturday.

Visitors in attendance at the meeting include National Vice President Ken Osterburger of Lake Cahrles, J. C. McDonald, Mississippi Jaycee state president of Kosciusko, and Larry Tate, Texas Jaycee state president. The reigning Miss Louisiana, Miss Linda Gayle Baucum, is also a guest.

7,000 Seek Posts In State

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Nearly 7,000 candidates seek public office in Louisiana's Dec. 7 first primary and 61 are Negroes, scattered in one-third of the 64 parishes.

The only Negro bidding for a statewide office is Ernest J. Wright, 54-year-old New Orleans labor union representative, one of the nine rivals for lieutenant governor.

Negroes are running for parish or local offices in 211 parishes. They are identified by race on the ballot.

Five Negroes are reaching toward the Louisiana House in Iberville, Jefferson and Orleans parishes.

There are 15 Negroes asking seats on the 105-member Democratic State Central Committee. including Percy Griffin of Plaquemines Parish. He is the sold opponent of Leander H. Perez Sr., arch segregationist and conservative political kingpin.

At stake in the first primary are governor and eight other state offices, all 144 legislative posts, the Central Committee, plus the offices of sheriff, police juror, assessor, clerk of court, coroner, constable and peace justice.

Republicans are running a primary in a few places.

Two Negroes are bidding for membership on the Republican State Central Committee—Mrs. Willie Lee Harris in Ward Two, Orleans, and Jesse W. Cook in Ward Seven. Three other Negroes are candidates for GOP parish executive committees, and two of them are unopposed.

Orleans, most populous parish, has the heaviest Negro ambitions, with 26 candidates, Democratic and Republican.

A dozen Negroes have their names on the ballot in racially-troubled Iberville Parish. They are running for the House of Representatives, sheriff, Central Committee, parish Democratic Executive Committee, police juror, peace justice, constable and coroner.

Many of the Negro candidates were among those arrested in the first outbreak of Negro marches, defying police orders. They worked closely with Congress of Racial Equality leaders.

In East Baton Rouge, a Negro CORE attorney seeks a seat on the parish Democratic Executive Committee.

Two Negroes already were nominated — without opposition — in St. John the Baptist Parish. They are Constable Curtis Duronslet and Peace Justice Larry Sorapuru, in Ward One. They hold the offices now

Kirkpatrick

NEW ORLEANS (Special) — Speaking to supporters at his campaign headquarters here independent candidate for governor Claude Kirkpatrick said "I appreciate the response the citizens of New Orleans have given me, and I pledge to them to do everything I can as governor to help this wonderful city.

"I wish you could see the many letters we have received about our plan to restore three blocks of the French Quarter just as in days gone by. New Orleans is the only city in America which has the opportunity to recreate the past as we have in the Vieux Carre here in New Orleans.

This will become a nation wide tourist attraction that will put all other tourist attractions in the shade."

Kirkpatrick also said he is delighted with "the marvelous response to our plan to institute a year round industrial fair in this port city."

Morrison

INDEPENDENCE (Special)—Gubernatorial candidate deLesseps Morrison said Saturday he intends to initiate an "open-door policy" regarding information pertaining to governmental activities.

"It's your government, and you have a right to know what's going on," he said. "In fact, we have a duty to properly inform you."

Stumping through St. Helena, Tangipahoa, Washington and St. Tammany parishes, Morrison also promised all possible assistance to "the strawberry and dairy farmers of this area."

Stressing his belief is not only the right but the need of the public to know what is taking place, Morrison said he plans to conduct regularly scheduled news conferences "and special meetings with news media representatives whenever they are merited.

"If an administration is honest, there's nothing to hide. We've had too many locked doors, side deals and under-cover arrangements in Louisiana government in recent years, and we intend to change all this," he said.

Disclosures of "closed door deals" of past administrations "clearly indicate the need for an honest, forthright administration which isn't afraid to let the public know waht it's doing," Morrison said. "It's time to let the light and sunshine of full publicity melt away the dishonesty and chicanery of the past."

Michot

State Rep. Louis J. Michot Jr., gubernatorial candidate for governor, in a brief talk in Monroe Saturday proposed that all candidates interrup their campaign for observance of Thanksgiving.

"I ask all candidates to join with me in observing Thanksgiving Day in the way in which it was first observed," Michot declared.

"I ask all candidates to do as I have and cancel all speeches, meetings and political activities for this one day to give thanks for the abundance and blessings we in Louisiana and America today enjoy."

Jack Roberts, campaign coordinator, said Michot will speak at the 7:30 p.m. Monday meeting of the Lakeshore Lions Club of Monroe.

Jackson

WELSH (Special) — Shelby Jackson, state superintendent of public education, and candidate for governor said here Saturday that he had never seen a campaign pick up so fast as his in the past few weeks.

Jackson said, "There is no question I will be high man in the first primary. Due to certain incidents that have occurred the past few weeks, my campaign has moved to the top. The people of this state are aware of the three candidates financed by the administration in Washington and the democratic candidate financed by the republican party. The people of this state want no part of candidates financed by the national parties."

Jackson also said, "I shall fight federal encroachment upon the rights of the states and solicit the support of other governors in our fight to restore constitutional government in this country. We must have a free elector systems that will guarantee and give to every citizen an opportunity to exercise his vote in making his choice for a president rather than have this done by a few professional politicians. By a free elector system a majority of the people voting would determine how the Louisiana electoral vote would be cast."

Kennon

WELCH (Special) — Louisiana's ten electorial votes could easily determine who will be the next president of the United States, according to Robert F. Kennon.

Campaigning Saturday for Louisiana's governorship, Kennon said that as governor he would "lend every influence of the office against the nomination and re-election of John F. Kennedy."

Kennon pointed out that "any governor has a powerful influence over the state's position at the national convention and in the national election."

"Three of my opponents in the race had strong ties with the Kennedy election in 1960, and two of them now deny any role in the Kennedy administration," Kennon said.

He said John J. McKeithen, one of the candidates, actually supported the Kennedy campaign. "McKeithen acted as a master of ceremonies at a Kennedy fund - raising dinner in Monroe," said Kennon.

"Another candidate who supported the Kennedy election is Congressman Gillis Long," Kennon said, "and, as a congressman, has established a strong pro-Kennedy voting record. He even voted to stack the house rules committee to enable Kennedy to get his liberal legislation and abjectionable civil rights legislation to the floor of the house.

"Mr. Long tries to conceal this record while campaigning for the governorship, but records are not that easy to erase. Mr. McKeithen has found that out," Kennon said.

"The other Kennedy candidate in the gubernatorial race, Ambassador Morrison, does not deny his enchantment with the Kennedy administration and its liberal pro-intergration philosophies," Kennon declared.

Kennon accused candidates Long and McKeithen of "trying to fabricate untruths to reflect upon my character in the hope of decoying the attention of the voters from their own pasts."

Kennon declared that "it is inconceivable that any of the dates would oppose the re-election of Kennedy in 1964. I think that history will prove that we can judge the future by reviewing events of the past," Kennon said.

"I have never, do not now, and never will, support John Kennedy for the presidency. Nor will I support anyone else who holds views which I fear could eventually destroy state sovereignty, states rights and individual liberties."

Wind Whipped Flames Devour Mill At Jackson

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A general alarm fire raged out of control in a Jackson mill works Saturday night shooting flames 60 feet high and rolling plumes of white smoke into the sky.

The blaze broke out in the two-story Allen Mills building, a galvanized metal and wooden building in a primarily industrial-warehouse section.

The wood went up like tinder. Parts of the roof of the structure, which spans an area of about 250x400 feet, caved in.

A north wind fanned the blaze and hampered firefighters' efforts.

concern for Barghoorn that brought the Russians around to turning him loose. But they refused to back down from their charge-a charge denied by the President — that he spied on them during his visit to the Soviet Union on a tourist visa. The Russians claimed they had enough evidence to bring him to trial.

Barghoorn's expulsion came two days after Kennedy warned at a news conference that the arrest might upset the Soviet-U.S. cultural program — extremely popular among the Soviet people.

The professor, a Soviet affairs specialist, avoided a crowd of newsmen and photographers who had gathered at London Airport for his arrival on a British commercial jetliner from Moscow. He smiled occasionally but perspired nervously and obviously was shaken.

Among the U.S. officials who met him at the airport was an old friend, Edward Lampson, first secretary of the embassy in London. Barghoorn talked with officials at the airport after getting off the plane, then drove into the city with them. An embassy spokesman said he declined an embassy offer to arrange an immediate flight to the United States.

The spokesman said Barghoorn's travel plans are indefinite.

Relating briefly what Barghoorn had told the embassy officials — presumably the first Americans he had seen since before his arrest—an embassy spokesman told newsmen:

"The first he knew of his release was when they threw open the door of his cell at 2:15 this afternoon and told him he was going to the airport.

"As they put him on the plane a Russian official escorted him to the gangway and said he wished him a good trip. Prof. Barghoorn told us he replied: "Goodby."

The spokesman said Barghoorn told how he was allowed to read Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, while in jail and that he knew of incidents in which the Russians blockaded U.S. Army convoys on the East German highway between West Berlin and West Germany.

Barghoorn said nothing immediately about his treatment by the Russians or how he was feeling.

Soviet officials informed the U.S. Embassy in Moscow of Barghoorn's arrest only last Tuesday. American diplomats never were allowed to visit him.

In Washington, President Kennedy was described as "gratified" by Barghoorn's release.

The State Department, however, said no plans had been made as yet to send a mission to Moscow to negotiate a new cultural agreement with the Kremlin. The mission had been due in Moscow this coming Tuesday to start the talks but because of Barghoorn's arrest, Kennedy postponed the departure.

When Barghoorn's plane arrived at London, he first shielded his face with his hat as photographers snapped pictures, but later he managed a few wan smiles as he wiped his perspiring hands and sought to still nervously drumming fingers.

He talked in the airport lounge with two U. S. Embassy officials but shook off questions from newsmen.

He was escorted to an embassy car by 13 British policemen, and was driven into the city under police escort.

No indication was given when Barghoorn would publicly tell the full story of his arrest and imprisonment.

"What the professor needs now is a rest," said an embassy official.

U. S. indignation at the arrest of Barghoorn seemed to be a surprise to the Russians.

Terming the arrest unjustified and unwarranted, Kennedy told his news conference in Washington Thursday what had been repeated by U. S. diplomats in Moscow to the Soviet Foreign Ministry:

"Prof. Barghoorn was not on an intelligence mission of any kind."

Foy D. Kohler, the U. S. ambassador in Moscow, made seven protests to the Russians and boycotted Soviet celebrations for the 30th anniversary of the establishment of U. S. relations with the Communist revolutionaries in Moscow 30 years ago.

JES' Ramblin' was sorry to learn that an old friend, Walter Wilhite, had been hospitalized this week.

However, a check by Room 458 at Glenwood Hospital showed the Ouachita Parish deputy sheriff to be in the best of spirits and "raring to go home." He says, though, that he knows he'll be there until Monday and is always happy to see company. This reporter happened to overhear the nurses saying they wish they had more patients like him. How's that for a compliment?

AFL-CIO Plans Oklahoma Fight Of 'Work' Law

NEW YORK (AP)—The AFL-CIO committed all its men, money and political weight Saturday to fight a proposed Oklahoma right-to-work law, which it called part of a nationwide attack on labor by "the extreme right wing."

Charging large-scale fraud in petitions that put the right-to-work issue before the Oklahoma Supreme Court, AFL-CIO President George Meany said the giant labor organization "will do its utmost to win the battle at the polls."

Right-to-work laws, already on the books in 20 states, ban union shop contracts and the issue is expected to be a major one in 1964 presidential, congressional and many state campaigns.

" 'Right to work' has no validity. It is a total fraud and we are determined to expose and eliminate it wherever it appears," Meany said.

A spokesman for Meany said the 13.5-million-member AFL-CIO will use "everything it takes to win—politics, money and manpower"—to fight state and federal right-to-work proposals, including the one in Oklahoma.

Right-to-work laws ban labor-management agreements requiring all employes to join a union elected by a majority of workers.

have got to face up to this issue and make the best of it even though it involves a serious blow at the Alliance for Progress."

Dirksen said Argentina's action probably will result in "pinching off our aid." He said the United States recognizes the right of expropriation but must insist on full compensation for the properties taken.

"This action has been a serious blow to the Alliance for Progress and a blow to confidence," he said. "I hope that some settlement can be reached which will restore confidence for American capital investments in Latin America."

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., said that "if they (the Argentinos) want to give up U.S. assistance, that's their lookout."

Sen. Frank Carlson, R-Kan., called on the administration and the State Department to "carry out the language of the foreign aid bill" to suspend assistance.

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., said Argentina's action "flies right in the face" of the foreign aid bill provisions.

Various State Department specialists appeared at their offices after news of the Argentine government's action reached here.

Messages from Buenos Aires indicated three decrees were issued by the Argentine government. Department experts began an intensive study of cabled excerpts but indicated they might have to await receipt of the official Spanish text before their study could be completed.

The first decree covered the general annulment of the contracts claiming they were illegally granted and are "injurious to the rights and interests of the Argentine republic."

The second decree apparently applied to special drilling contracts and the third authorized the Argentine Treasury Department solicitor to bring suit to work out financial settlement between the Argentine government and the oil firms.

Experts here tentatively interpreted the third decree to mean the Argentine treasury suit would clear up the matter of compensation due the foreign oil firms and at the same time provide for a deduction of any damages claimed by the Argentine nation or money due in the form of back taxes.

Barghoorn Set To See Mother In New Haven

concern for Barghoorn that brought the Russians around to turning him loose. But they refused to back down from their charge-a charge denied by the President — that he spied on them during his visit to the Soviet Union on a tourist visa. The Russians claimed they had enough evidence to bring him to trial.

Barghoorn's expulsion came two days after Kennedy warned at a news conference that the arrest might upset the Soviet-U.S. cultural program — extremely popular among the Soviet people.

The professor, a Soviet affairs specialist, avoided a crowd of newsmen and photographers who had gathered at London Airport for his arrival on a British commercial jetliner from Moscow. He smiled occasionally but perspired nervously and obviously was shaken.

Among the U.S. officials who met him at the airport was an old friend, Edward Lampson, first secretary of the embassy in London. Barghoorn talked with officials at the airport after getting off the plane, then drove into the city with them. An embassy spokesman said he declined an embassy offer to arrange an immediate flight to the United States.

The spokesman said Barghoorn's travel plans are indefinite.

Relating briefly what Barghoorn had told the embassy officials — presumably the first Americans he had seen since before his arrest—an embassy spokesman told newsmen:

"The first he knew of his release was when they threw open the door of his cell at 2:15 this afternoon and told him he was going to the airport.

"As they put him on the plane a Russian official escorted him to the gangway and said he wished him a good trip. Prof. Barghoorn told us he replied: "Goodby."

The spokesman said Barghoorn told how he was allowed to read Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, while in jail and that he knew of incidents in which the Russians blockaded U.S. Army convoys on the East German highway between West Berlin and West Germany.

Barghoorn said nothing immediately about his treatment by the Russians or how he was feeling.

Soviet officials informed the U.S. Embassy in Moscow of Barghoorn's arrest only last Tuesday. American diplomats never were allowed to visit him.

In Washington, President Kennedy was described as "gratified" by Barghoorn's release.

The State Department, however, said no plans had been made as yet to send a mission to Moscow to negotiate a new cultural agreement with the Kremlin. The mission had been due in Moscow this coming Tuesday to start the talks but because of Barghoorn's arrest, Kennedy postponed the departure.

When Barghoorn's plane arrived at London, he first shielded his face with his hat as photographers snapped pictures, but later he managed a few wan smiles as he wiped his perspiring hands and sought to still nervously drumming fingers.

He talked in the airport lounge with two U. S. Embassy officials but shook off questions from newsmen.

He was escorted to an embassy car by 13 British policemen, and was driven into the city under police escort.

No indication was given when Barghoorn would publicly tell the full story of his arrest and imprisonment.

"What the professor needs now is a rest," said an embassy official.

U. S. indignation at the arrest of Barghoorn seemed to be a surprise to the Russians.

Terming the arrest unjustified and unwarranted, Kennedy told his news conference in Washington Thursday what had been repeated by U. S. diplomats in Moscow to the Soviet Foreign Ministry:

"Prof. Barghoorn was not on an intelligence mission of any kind."

Foy D. Kohler, the U. S. ambassador in Moscow, made seven protests to the Russians and boycotted Soviet celebrations for the 30th anniversary of the establishment of U. S. relations with the Communist revolutionaries in Moscow 30 years ago.

Strong Nationalist Sentiment Causes Argentina To Cancel U.S. Oil Pacts

NEWS ANALYSIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — A strong wave of nationalist sentiment is largely responsible for the action by the new government of Argentina in canceling oil contracts with a dozen U. S. and foreign oil companies.

President Arturo Illia, who took office Oct. 12, has done exactly what he said he was going to do in putting through the annulment.

But he may be surprised at the foreign reaction he gets, unless his annulment policy is modified in its practical effect by steps to soften the blow to the private oil operations in Argentina.

In an exclusive interview with The Associated Press three weeks ago Illia said that, as he had promised during his election campaign last summer, the oil contracts "will be annuled" but he insisted also that the whole issue of annulment is an internal Argentine matter and a question "of minor importance to us."

His promise to end the oil contracts undoubtedly helped Illia to win the election and he and his advisers clearly feel on political grounds, apart from any other considerations, that he had to go through with the cancelation.

This proved a surprise and disappointment to many U. S. officials who felt that after Illia took office he could be persuaded to drop his annulment pledge and simply renegotiate the contracts without canceling.

However, against the background of recent Argentine history, had Illia broken his promise he probably would have doomed his government to internal political disaster. On the other hand by going through with the cancellation, he risks a foreign reaction, especially in the Untied States, which could mean a fateful loss of financial assistance and inflow of private capital.

The eight U. S. and four foreign company contracts which Illia has now canceled were all signed after May 1, 1958 which was the beginning of the administration at Buenos Aires of Arturo Frondizi. Frondizi had stumped the country preaching against private exploitation of Argentina's oil. When he took control of the government he reversed his position and entered into contracts with the private oil companies for quick development of Argentina's petroleum fields.

The reason he gave for doing this was that Argentina was spending close to $400 million a year in foreign exchange to import oil and that sum could be saved if Argentina could develop its domestic sources.

Frondizi's tournabout created a sense of betrayal in Argentina which sharpened the oil issue for the campaign that produced Illia's election.

On the hopeful side of the present conflict with Argentina is the possibility that the Illia government action may appear to be more severe than it is in its practical effect.

Illia told this correspondent he does not want to throw the foreign oil companies out of Argentina. He indicated that his aim, at least in some cases, is to make them fully subject to a policy of national control by the Argentine government.

Frondizi had stumped the country preaching against private exploitation of Argentina's oil. When he took control of the government he reversed his position and entered into contracts with the private oil companies for quick development of Argentina's petroleum fields.

The reason he gave for doing this was that Argentina was spending close to $400 million a year in foreign exchange to import oil and that sum could be saved if Argentina could develop its domestic sources.

Frondizi's tournabout created a sense of betrayal in Argentina which sharpened the oil issue for the campaign that produced Illia's election.

On the hopeful side of the present conflict with Argentina is the possibility that the Illia government action may appear to be more severe than it is in its practical effect.

Illia told this correspondent he does not want to throw the foreign oil companies out of Argentina. He indicated that his aim, at least in some cases, is to make them fully subject to a policy of national control by the Argentine government.

Council Sets Unity Debate

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Roman Catholic Ecumenical heads into debate on Christian unity Monday after seven historic weeks that have changed the face that the Church presents to the world.

The coming debate among the 2,300 cardinals, patriarchs, archbishops and bishops is likely to focus even more attention on the assembly than in the past few weeks, which brought to light open controversy over how much authority bishops should share with the Pope. Pope Paul VI is reported to have been asked to intervene to break a deadlock on the issue.

But this controversy in itself has served to take away the impression that the Church is a monolithic body and instead is made up of widely different views and opinions. This is the background as the prelates take up Christian unity.

Since the council resumed its session Sept. 29 after a nine-month recess, the Church fathers have met in 32 sessions.

No basic Roman Catholic doctrine has been brought into question, but there have been arguments over emphasis and procedure.

The council fathers have debated the amount of emphasis they should give to the Virgin Mary, the validity of a concept of shared power between popes and bishops, and reform of the Vatican Curia, the government of the Church. Sometimes the debates have been sharp.

Not all punches have been pulled. Joseph Cardinal Frings of Cologne said the Vatican's powerful Holy Office was unfair and a scandal. The Italian secretary of the Holy Office, Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani, suggested such charges stemmed from "ignorance or worse."

Cardinal Ottaviani also said he did not accept a test vote in which the council fathers voted 6-1 in favor of the concept of shared power. The Italian's stand, reflecting conservative opinion, brought a retort from one progressive cardinal that he did not think the Holy Spirit had been vacationing on the day the day the vote was taken.

Council fathers pray each day to the Holy Spirit to guide them.

Clearly there is a ferment within the Roman Catholic Church, an anxiety to get things done.

Starting Monday, the council will take up directly the question of Christian unity in a schema on ecumenism. This schema not only goes into the question of unity but also contains a declaration affirming religious liberty for everyone and a statement that all mankind, not Jews alone, were responsible for the death of Christ.

MRS. HENRY P Williams, 80, mother of former Michigan Governor G. Mennen Williams, died today at a Detroit hospital. She was an heiress to the Mennen Toiletries fortune. The former governor, who now is assistant secretary of state for African affairs, was at her bedside. (AP Wirephoto)

Monroe Student Is Scholarship Grant Winner

The Louisiana Power and Light Company of New Orleans awards annually two undergraduate scholarships to deserving Louisiana students pursuing a degree in agriculture, including agricultural engineering and home economics. These awards, which amount to $300 each, are made during the fall semester of an academic session and are valid for the sophomore, junior and senior, provided the recipients maintain a scholastic average of 1.5 in all work undertaken.

Miss Ferguson, who has an over-all 2.28 average out of a perfect 3.0 system, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Ferguson of 2217 Beechwood St. She is a graduate of Neville High School.

Red China Expert Reports Dissension

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Nationalist China's top expert on Communist affairs reported Saturday findings of dissension in Red China's military forces and deep mainland economic trouble. He said Communist leader Mao Tze-tung is no match for Soviet Premier Khrushchev in the Red Chinese split with the Kremlin.

As for the military, Chen Chien-chung said 15 per cent of all officers in the mainland forces have been purged.

Chen said they included such high officers as Defense Minister Peng Teh-huai; Huang Keheng, chief of the general staff; Tan Cheng, chief of the Political Department; and Hung Shuchi, chief of the Genral Logistic Command.

He said hundreds of provincial officials in all parts of the mainland had been punished for disloyalty.

Chen is director of the Sixth—or mainland affairs — Department of the Kuomintang, President Chiang Kai-shek's ruling party in Nationalist China.

In a report to the current ninth national congress of the Kuomintang, he said the Chinese Communists were in a desperate economic plight. He said the four deputy premiers in charge of financial and economic affairs resigned last year "and asked for disciplinary punishment for their incompetence." Chen named them as Li Fupchun, Po I-po, Li Hsien-nien and Teng Tsu-hui.

He contended the Chinese Communist forces were unstable and this had unnerved Mao Tze-tung more than any other factor.

Chen quoted Khrushchev as having said the people on the China mainland "have nothing but water to eat and five persons share one pair of trousers." He did not say when Khrushchev made this observation.

Chen asserted the deterioration of industry and agriculture on the mainland had been speeded up by the sharp decrease in Soviet aid and by a series of natural calamities. He said since 1961 the Chinese Communists had been buying an average of 60 million tons of grain a year.

"No matter how it develops," Chen predicted, "the Moscow-Peking relationships will become a long-term complicated struggle which will split the international Communist movement and deal an especially heavy blow to the Chinese Communists.

"The regime will be isolated internationally, spurned by the free world, despised by the neutralists and ostracized by the Communist bloc.

"But Mao will not admit defeat. He will employ every possible maneuver and try his best to continue his struggle."

Chen said there would be little possibility of a reconciliation between Moscow and Peking "unless Mao surrenders to Khrushchev; permits Soviet Russia to control the mainland economy; and puts the Chinese Communist troops under the Soviet command system as a condition for the resumption of Soviet military and economic aid."

Rocky Claim-Jumps Barry's Stake-Out

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York entrenched his bid for the Republican presidential nomination Saturday in land already staked by Sen. Barry Goldwater and warned the Arizonan, "I am going to fight all the way."

Rockefeller, who announced his candidacy a week ago, was in St. Louis to address the annual banquet of the Metropolitan Press Club on Saturday night.

He told a news conference: "I would assume that unless he —Goldwater—modifies his announced policies, he will not get the nomination. I am going to fight all the way to get the Republican nomination, and to establish again the principles of the party of Lincoln and Eisenhower."

Rockefeller admitted he was in a tight battle. Although Goldwater has not formally announced his candidacy for the GOP nomination, he has apparent lopsided support in Missouri Republican circles, recent polls indicate.

In a recent nationwide Associated Press poll of Republican county chairmen, Goldwater was the overwhelming choice as GOP presidential nominee. In Missouri, more than 90 per cent of the chairmen favored the Arizona senator.

Rockefeller attacked Goldwater from the start. He said the Arizonan had: urged United States withdrawal from the United Nations; recommended American field commanders be authorized to use nuclear weapons; proposed sale of the Tennessee Valley Authority opposed farm price supports; favored right-to-work laws, and opposed civil rights measures.

Monroe Beauty To Seek Crown

A 20-year-old Monroe beauty, Barbara Jean McCoy, will be seeking her fifth beauty crown next month when she competes in the First Annual Queen of Queens Beauty Tournament at the Thunderbird Hotel in Las Vegas, Nev.

Miss McCoy, of 1508 Fifth St., holds the crowns for "Miss Delcambre of 1961-62," "Miss Louisiana Shrimp Miad," and "Miss Richland Parish." She has also captured the "Miss Congeniality" titles at two different events.

SPEAKS IN ST. LOUIS

Rocky Claim-Jumps Barry's Stake-Out

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York entrenched his bid for the Republican presidential nomination Saturday in land already staked by Sen. Barry Goldwater and warned the Arizonan, "I am going to fight all the way."

Rockefeller, who announced his candidacy a week ago, was in St. Louis to address the annual banquet of the Metropolitan Press Club on Saturday night.

He told a news conference: "I would assume that unless he —Goldwater—modifies his announced policies, he will not get the nomination. I am going to fight all the way to get the Republican nomination, and to establish again the principles of the party of Lincoln and Eisenhower."

Rockefeller admitted he was in a tight battle. Although Goldwater has not formally announced his candidacy for the GOP nomination, he has apparent lopsided support in Missouri Republican circles, recent polls indicate.

In a recent nationwide Associated Press poll of Republican county chairmen, Goldwater was the overwhelming choice as GOP presidential nominee. In Missouri, more than 90 per cent of the chairmen favored the Arizona senator.

Rockefeller attacked Goldwater from the start. He said the Arizonan had: urged United States withdrawal from the United Nations; recommended American field commanders be authorized to use nuclear weapons; proposed sale of the Tennessee Valley Authority opposed farm price supports; favored right-to-work laws, and opposed civil rights measures.

Monroe Beauty To Seek Crown

A 20-year-old Monroe beauty, Barbara Jean McCoy, will be seeking her fifth beauty crown next month when she competes in the First Annual Queen of Queens Beauty Tournament at the Thunderbird Hotel in Las Vegas, Nev.

Miss McCoy, of 1508 Fifth St., holds the crowns for "Miss Delcambre of 1961-62," "Miss Louisiana Shrimp Miad," and "Miss Richland Parish." She has also captured the "Miss Congeniality" titles at two different events.

A graduate of Neville High School, she is now a junior at Northeast Louisiana State College.

GOP Sets Sight On Four States For '64 Election

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Republican national committee said Saturday it will make Missouri, Michigan, Minnesota and Illinois principal targets in the 1964 electons.

The committee, in a statement, said it will put these states "in the spotlight" when it stages its Midwestern regional conference at St. Louis Nov. 22-23.

"These four states," the committee said, "with a total of 69 electoral votes, will be primary GOP targets in 1964. Illinois went Democratic by only 8,000 votes in 1960; Michigan was lost by a margin of 66,000 votes; Minnesota fell into the Democratic column by 22,000 votes and Missouri by 9,000."

The committee said that in each case an analysis of the loss showed "Republican organizational weakness" in the big cities was responsible. It mentioned Chicago, Detroit, Minneapolis, St. Paul and St. Louis.

The committee said it will make "a prolonged and concentrated effort" to bolster the Republican organizations in the big Midwestern cities. It added that holding the conference in St. Louis was "keyed into this effort."

Agenda topics include receiving reports on the organizational status of 13 Midwestern states and appraisal of that status; review of presidential campaign plans; early recruitment of candidates for congressional and state offices, and the role of the national committee on the state level during the campaign."

Scientist Warns Of Nuclear Juggle

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Children are juggling nuclear bombs—and the possible extinction of man — says Dr. Brock Chisholm, former director-general of the World Health Organization.

Emotional immaturity, based on consciences formed rock hard at 6 to 8 years of age, is the world's greatest problem, he explained Saturday at a conference on man under stress.

Conscience is no magic pipeline to absolute truth, but entirely accidental, Dr. Chisholm told 400 health scientists and community leaders meeting at the University of California Medical Center.

Conscience grows mostly from parental example, and we can't select our parents, the Canadian physician explained.

It's widely agreed that with the world's present armament we can kill everybody on earth, at least three or four times over, Dr. Chisholm said.

"In spite of that fact, vast numbers of people earnestly believe that if we can just arrange to be able to kill everyone, including ourselves, say 10 times over instead of only three or four times, we will be safer and not so frightened."

"That's obviously insane, yet, in the service of that belief we continue to spend billions of dollars and vast human effort, and risk extinction."

"We can no longer hope to survive by ruthless competition backed by our capacity to kill; from now on we will survive by cooperation or not at all," he said.

But he expressed hope:

"There are hopeful signs that this generation, while the first that has ever been threatened with extinction, is also the first which has had available the technical ability to take charge of its own destiny."

Warsaw Court Rules Death For Former Boxer

WARSAW (UPI)—A Warsaw court Saturday sentenced a former boxer to death and two other men to lengthy prison terms for the near-fatal beating of a policeman last month, the official Polish news agency Pap reported.

The sentences were the latest reported in a battle against an outbreak of "hooliganism" and violence which has plagued the Warsaw area in recent months.

Pap said Ryszard Bucholtz, 25, was sentenced to be hanged for his part in the incident. Tadeusz Komuda, 24, was sentenced to life in prison and Jan Gniadek, 20, to 10 years in prison.

The court was told the three got drunk Oct. 12 and went to a Warsaw movie house. When they were unable to get tickets, they attacked a policeman on duty in front of the theater. The policeman suffered a fractured skull and facial injuries which will prevent him from talking normally for the rest of his life.

"In reaching the verdict, the court underlined the exceptional bestiality of the defendants, who hate to work and study, who were interested only in drinking parties and in hooligan and bandit excesses," Pap said.

It added there was no appeal from the verdicts.

Monroe Police Arrest Suspect In Store Thefts

Monroe police arrested an Alabama man on two counts of theft Saturday after reportedly catching him getting cash refunds from downtown stores on goods he had previously stolen.

Chief James C. Kelly Jr. identified the man as Albert J. Harris, 39, of Ashton, Ala., booked on two counts of theft and vagrancy, and held under bonds totaling $620.

According to Kelly, Harris would allegedly go into a downtown store, shoplift an item or two and then leave. Shortly afterwards, he would return to the same store and present the stolen merchandise at the desk for a cash refund under the pretense that he had originally bought the item and was dissatisfied with it. He was taken into custody at The Fashion Shop around 1 p.m.

The Monroe department was also investigating the theft of a car, reportedly stolen between 5:45 p.m. Friday and 6 a.m. Saturday. The 1955-model, two-door Chevrolet was parked on St. John Street beside the Virginia Hotel Coffee Shop when taken, and belonged to Barron Benoit Baugh, of West Monroe. He described the vehicle as black and white, with La. license No. 982-667 and said it was left parked there by his wife who works as a nurse at the hotel at night.

Monroe police were also seeking a 15-year-old juvenile, last seen by his parents when he left for school Wednesday morning. Leon Fontenot, 4600 Jackson St., told officers he last saw his son, Roy Fontenot, when he boarded the schoolbus at 7 a.m. The black-haired youth was described as being five feet, seven inches tall and weighing about 136 pounds with brown eyes. When last seen, he was wearing blue jeans, a red-figured shirt and black slipover sweater. Anyone having seen a boy answering this description is urged to contact the nearest police headquarters.

West Monroe police were probing three house burglaries Saturday that netted the party or parties around $16 to $17 in loot.

Around 1:30 p.m., Frank Ryan, of 104 S. 2nd St., reported that his residence has been broken into and $2 or $3 taken. Police said entrance had been gained by cutting the screen on a west window, unlatching the screen and climbing through. The house was ransacked.

Tom DeBusk, at 304 Laurel St., told officers his home was entered sometime Saturday but that apparently nothing was missing. About $14 was taken from the residence of Mrs. Jo Ann Gardner, 307 Stewart St., Saturday afternoon. She said the house was empty between 3:30 and 8:50 p.m., and believed the front screen door was cut after dark to gain entrance. The burglar or burglars didn't take a number of pieces of valuable costume jewelry.

At 5 p.m. Saturday, Monroe police booked a 48-year-old Negro, Gilbert Jones, 3609 Curry St., Monroe, for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages, driving with a revoked license, reckless driving and speeding. He was taken into custody at Powell Avenue and Louberta Streets, and held under bonds totaling $500.

Meanwhile, members of Troop F, state police logged seven counts of DWI during the week. Those booked include William R. Tinker, 52, Metarie, La., arrested on U. S. 80 Sunday at 3:40 p.m.; Edward E. Holley, 35, Mangham, booked at 11:45 p.m. Tuesday as a second offender on La. 15; three booked Wednesday, Leonard W. Parker, 42, 205 Lincoln Rd., Monroe, 10:15 p.m. on La. 139 east of Monroe; Robert Claude Butler, 37, Oak Grove, 12:15 a.m. on U. S. 80; and Tony C. Neel, 24, Negro, Sterlington, at 1:20 a.m. in Sterlington; Jeff Spence, 72, 2300 Sauvelle St., at 2:55 p.m. Thursday on U. S. 165; and Willie Smith, 48, Negro, 312 Jacob St., West Monroe, at 9:15 p.m. Friday on U. S. 80 in West Monroe.

Two Are Hurt In Area Crash

OAK GROVE (Special) —Two persons were injured, one critically, in a head-on automobile collision south of here Saturday afternoon.

A 26-year-old Oak Grove Negro, Betty Jo Gayfield, Saturday night was reported still unconscious in St. Francis Hospital in Monroe where she was taken after emergency treatment at a local clinic.

In a local clinic after suffering a fractured right hip and face lacerations is Dan Adcock Jr., 33, of Oak Grove.

According to investigating state troopers the Gayfield woman was traveling south on La. Hwy. 17 about two miles from the Oak Grove corporation limits and made a left turn in front of north-bound Adcock. No other persons were involved in the accident which occurred around 2:50 p.m.

Four Officers To Attend State SLTA Meeting

The four officers of the T. O. Brown Chapter of the Student Louisiana Teachers Association at Northeast State will attend the state SLTA meeting in Baton Rouge Nov. 26.

The officers are President Pat Turner of Oak Grove, Vice President Judy Neal of Monroe, Secretary Mrs. Glenda Rachal of Pineville and Reporter Love Langlinais of Abbeville.

American Education Week was observed at a meeting the past week, held in the College Union, with "Innovation in Education" the theme of the program.

Three speakers spoke on modern trends in education. Mrs. Irene Smith of the Lakeshore School faculty discussed educational television. She said nearly 4,000 elementary students in the Ouachita Parish and Monroe City school systems receive instruction in conversational Spanish by use of television sets in classrooms. There are around 60 education television stations in the United States, including KLSE - TV in Monroe, Mrs. Smith said.

A Neville High teacher, Mrs. Virginia Mullins, demonstrated the modern method of teaching algebra in the secondary schools through a lesson in multiplying positive and negative numbers. She stressed making the process and answers reasonable to the students.

Dr. Lavelle Haynes, head of the Special Education Center at Northeast State, spoke on programmed study and its implications for bright students. He reported on the programmed study workshop held at the Center last summer and exhibited supplementary materials that aid the teacher.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

New Books Hit Library Daily

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

New additions to the book collection are made each week and the collection is growing in depth as well as in quantity. Books added last week offer a great deal of variety. For the readers of fiction there are several new titles. "The Richmond Raid" by John Brick is a very good Civil War story. "The Lost and The Found" is a new novel by Ann Chidester, which will appeal especially to women. Paul Gallico has a large following who always enjoy his novels which have a whimsical turn. His latest one is "Love, Let Me Not Hunger" and it is a delightful story. "Apollo At Go" by Jeff Sutton is an exciting the reality of the first moon shot. It is a gripping story of what the pioneers who travel to the moon will find. There are two new mystery stories among this week's additions. One is "Prisoner's Plea" by Hillary Waugh and the other is "The 10:30 From Maresilles by Sebastian Japrisot.

Books on non - fiction offer a great varity. "Three Crucial Decades" by Floyd V. Filson is a very fine study of the books of Acts. Of interest to many people who want a clearer picture of the times in which we live is "The New World of Negro Americans" by Harold R. Isaacs. A very fine book, which was a gift to the Library from Mr. Walter Kellogg is "Timber and Men" by Ralph Hidy and Frank Hill. This is the story of the Weyerhauser Company, which is one of the big lumber industries of our country. It is a beautifully done book and is a real addition to the book collection of the Library. "Birds of Heath and Marshland" by O. Stepanek is a beautiful book of birds. It is profusely illustrated and contains much valuable information. "The New World of Glass" by Irmegarde Eberle contains much information about the glass industry of today and the wonderful things which are being done in this medium.

Many men in this area are interested in guns and will want to see "The History of the Colt Revolver" written by Charles T. Haven. "Illustrating Children's Books" by Henry C. Pitz is a very valuable book for the artist, for it gives not only the history of book illustration, but the technique and possible markets. "The Best of Origami" by Samuel Bandlett is a very useful book on this interesting art of paper folding. Fisherman will want to see "Salt Water Fishing from Maine to Texas" written by Philip Francis. It contains much useful information. A book for the hunter is "Guns and Hunting" by Pete Brown. It contains descriptions of guns and advice on how to shoot with them.

One of the finest books which we have added in a long time in point of usefulness is a collection of "Medieval Epics." It contains the complete text of Beowulf, The Song of Roland, the Niebelungelied and the Cid. It is wonderful to have all of these epics in a readily accessible form. An interesting book is a collection of "Best From Farmer's Almanac."

Building Permits Soar Past Week

Two permits issued to the City of Monroe, each over $400,000, brought the total of Monroe's building permits up to $955,778 for the past week, according to Dale Martha, coordinator for the City of Monroe inspector's department.

Although the permits granted during the week of Nov. 11-15 totaled only one more in number with 29, the amount leaped up compared with the previous week, which listed $49,335.

In the breakdown, additions to existing structures accumulated 11 permits. As the clearing process continues in the civic center area, more houses are being demolished and moved out. Eight permits were issued.

The proposed new air terminal building at Selman Field was the object of the largest permit of the week. The masonry structure will cost $454,917 and be constructed by Jesse Heard and Sons.

The other City of Monroe permit was for an addition to the power plant at 800 Park Ave. Arthur Brothers, Inc. will be the contractors for the $408,373 worth of construction planned.

A $36,250 new brick veneer residence will be built at 2701 Point Drive, belonging to Mrs. J. J. Malouf. Another new brick veneer residence is planned by Leonard Taylor at 2321 Whitney Drive, costing $23,000.

Walter Watson received permits for two new frame residences, one costing $8,000 to be located at 4204 Owl, and one at 1305 Thomas for $5,500.

The largest single permit for an addition was issued to A. B. Myatt Jr. at 601 Loop Road, who plans a $10,000 addition to his brick veneer residence. Other additions to brick veneer residences are planned by T. A. ing $1,500, and R. A. Hickman. Boutwell, 3808 Lionel, cost-1903 College Ave., $2,000.

Recipients of permits for remodeling were E. H. Stewart, $300 worth of work at 402 Wilson, and Fred Fudicker Sr., 100 Stubbs, Apartment 6, costing $600.

J. E. Waters was issued two permits to move houses located at Sterlington and Loop Roads outside the city. Hunter Hill also received two permits to move houses frm 1005 Calypso to 909 Camp, and from 1007 Calypso to 907 Camp.

Arthur Felton got two permits to move a house from 605 Oak to 1102 Columbia because the house was too large to be moved intact.

Other moves are planned by George Welch, from 1001 Calypso to outside city; H .K. Litton, from 314 8th to outside city; and Belle Worley, from 213 9th to outside city.

Permits for additions to frame residences were let to: Mrs. Thomas D. Fortenberry Jr., 1700 Frances Place, $1,500; Marie Pleas, 4001 Pippin, $220; Fred Frazier, 2219 Pargoud Blvd., $1,500; Fred Foreman, 3104 Bailey, $200; J. D. Parker, 1416 Filhiol, $1,718; Oliver Evans, 2807 Georgia, $100; and Crese Louise Hill, 834 Camp, $100.

Receiving orders to demolish residences were: Elbert Scarbrough, 820 Oak; James and Mae Lena Lewis, 1013 Calypso; nd C. H. Stewart, 110 Swayze Alley.

FIFTH DISTRICT CLUB

Republican Women To Meet Thursday

The Fifth District Women's Republican Club is having a coffee Thursday from 10 a.m. until 12 noon in the home of Mrs. Lawrence Fox, 301 Loop Road, Monroe, during which a speaker from the Shreveport organization will make a brief talk.

The social is open to all women of the area, regardless of their political affiliations, Mrs. Edel Blanks, Jr., president of the organization, has announced.

"We are having this gathering so that persons interested in the purpose of the Women's Republican Club may find out exactly what we have in mind," Mrs. Blanks said. "However, this does not mean that everyone who comes must be a member of the club. Of course, we would like to have them join, but we are as much interested in letting the people, especially the women of the area, know what we have in mind, what we hope to do through our organization."

Greeting guests at the door, in addition to Mrs. Blanks and Mrs. Fox, will be Mrs. Frank Eastman, vice-president.

Working as co-chairman for the event are Mrs. Wesley Shafto, Jr., and Mrs. Robert Curry.

Judge Rules Out Two Motions In Marcello Trial

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — U.S. Dist. Judge Herbert W. Christenberry denied Saturday motions for a directed verdict of innocent in the case of Carlos Marcello and his brother Joseph.

The Marcellos are being tried on charges of conspiring to defraud the government by obtaining a fraudulent birth certificate in Guatemala in 1956 for Carlos Marcello, a New Orleans gambling figure.

Judge Christenberry also denied a motion for dismissal of the indictment against the brothers.

Freed Prisoner Assures Mother About Condition

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Yale Prof. Frederick C. Barghoorn assured his mother by telephone from London on Saturday that he was all right but didn't know when he would be coming home.

Elizabeth Barghoorn, 80, who lives in an apartment next door to her son's, was ready for his return. Friday, with a mother's intuition — or optimism — she bought a big steak and laid in some beer.

"He drank the last of it just before he left," she said. "I just had a feeling he would be coming back soon."

Barghoorn told his mother that he would stay overnight in London and that his next move had not been decided on.

The professor, a member of the Yale political science department and an expert on the Soviet Union, also spoke with university officials over the phone.

$50 MILLION ESTIMATED

Mme. Nhu's Poverty Induces Skepticism

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Claims by aides of Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu that the former Vietnamese First Lady is virtually penniless have been greeted skeptically here by government officials, businessmen, Roman Catholic priests and others.

Some sources close to Saigon's financial circles have estimated the Ngo family's assets as high as $50 million. No one can prove these estimates and probably no one outside surviving members of the family knows what the Ngo estates are worth.

Much of the answer is probably concealed in bank records in Paris, Geneva and Hong Kong. While there has been no formal announcement on the subject by Saigon's new revolutionary government, all Ngo holdings in South Viet Nam probably will be confiscated by the state.

The surviving heads of the family since the deaths of President Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, are brother Ngo Dinh Can, now in a revolutionary prison facing trial; brother Ngo Dinh Luyen, former Vietnamese ambassador to London; brother Ngo Dinh Thuc, Catholic archbishop of Hue, now in Europe; and Mrs. Ngo Dinh Kha, aging and invalided mother of the Ngo brothers, living in Hue.

Beside the immediate family members, there are Tran Van Chuong, father of Mrs. Nhu, and his various relatives.

The family wealth is divided among all these persons, but much of the estate may be held by distant relatives and close associates of the family.

Building Permits Soar Past Week

Two permits issued to the City of Monroe, each over $400,000, brought the total of Monroe's building permits up to $955,778 for the past week, according to Dale Martha, coordinator for the City of Monroe inspector's department.

Although the permits granted during the week of Nov. 11-15 totaled only one more in number with 29, the amount leaped up compared with the previous week, which listed $49,335.

In the breakdown, additions to existing structures accumulated 11 permits. As the clearing process continues in the civic center area, more houses are being demolished and moved out. Eight permits were issued.

The proposed new air terminal building at Selman Field was the object of the largest permit of the week. The masonry structure will cost $454,917 and be constructed by Jesse Heard and Sons.

The other City of Monroe permit was for an addition to the power plant at 800 Park Ave. Arthur Brothers, Inc. will be the contractors for the $408,373 worth of construction planned.

A $36,250 new brick veneer residence will be built at 2701 Point Drive, belonging to Mrs. J. J. Malouf. Another new brick veneer residence is planned by Leonard Taylor at 2321 Whitney Drive, costing $23,000.

Walter Watson received permits for two new frame residences, one costing $8,000 to be located at 4204 Owl, and one at 1305 Thomas for $5,500.

The largest single permit for an addition was issued to A. B. Myatt Jr. at 601 Loop Road, who plans a $10,000 addition to his brick veneer residence. Other additions to brick veneer residences are planned by T. A. ing $1,500, and R. A. Hickman, Boutwell, 3808 Lionel, cost-1903 College Ave., $2,000.

Recipients of permits for remodeling were E. H. Stewart, $300 worth of work at 402 Wilson, and Fred Fudicker Sr., 100 Stubbs, Apartment 6, costing $600.

J. E. Waters was issued two permits to move houses located at Sterlington and Loop Roads outside the city. Hunter Hill also received two permits to move houses frm 1005 Calypso to 909 Camp, and from 1007 Calypso to 907 Camp.

Arthur Felton got two permits to move a house from 605 Oak to 1102 Columbia because the house was too large to be moved intact.

Other moves are planned by George Welch, from 1001 Calypso to outside city; H .K. Litton, from 314 8th to outside city; and Belle Worley, from 213 9th to outside city.

Permits for additions to frame residences were let to: Mrs. Thomas D. Fortenberry Jr., 1700 Frances Place, $1,500; Marie Pleas, 4001 Pippin, $220; Fred Frazier, 2219 Pargoud Blvd., $1,500; Fred Foreman, 3104 Bailey, $200; J. D. Parker, 1416 Filhiol, $1,718; Oliver Evans, 2807 Georgia, $100; and Crese Louise Hill, 834 Camp, $100.

Receiving orders to demolish residences were: Elbert Scarbrough, 820 Oak; James and Mae Lena Lewis, 1013 Calypso; and C. H. Stewart, 110 Swayze Alley.

Republican Women To Meet Thursday

The Fifth District Women's Republican Club is having a coffee Thursday from 10 a.m. until 12 noon in the home of Mrs. Lawrence Fox, 301 Loop Road, Monroe, during which a speaker from the Shreveport organization will make a brief talk.

The social is open to all women of the area, regardless of their political affiliations, Mrs. Edel Blanks, Jr., president of the organization, has announced.

"We are having this gathering so that persons interested in the purpose of the Women's Republican Club may find out exactly what we have in mind," Mrs. Blanks said. "However, this does not mean that everyone who comes must be a member of the club. Of course, we would like to have them join, but we are as much interested in letting the people, especially the women of the area, know what we have in mind, what we hope to do through our organization."

Greeting guests at the door, in addition to Mrs. Blanks and Mrs. Fox, will be Mrs. Frank Eastman, vice-president.

Working as co-chairman for the event are Mrs. Wesley Shafto, Jr., and Mrs. Robert Curry.

Judge Rules Out Two Motions In Marcello Trial

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — U.S. Dist. Judge Herbert W. Christenberry denied Saturday motions for a directed verdict of innocent in the case of Carlos Marcello and his brother Joseph.

The Marcellos are being tried on charges of conspiring to defraud the government by obtaining a fraudulent birth certificate in Guatemala in 1956 for Carlos Marcello, a New Orleans gambling figure.

Judge Christenberry also denied a motion for dismissal of the indictment against the brothers.

Freed Prisoner Assures Mother About Condition

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Yale Prof. Frederick C. Barghoorn assured his mother by telephone from London on Saturday that he was all right but didn't know when he would be coming home.

Elizabeth Barghoorn, 80, who lives in an apartment next door to her son's, was ready for his return. Friday, with a mother's intuition — or optimism — she bought a big steak and laid in some beer.

"He drank the last of it just before he left," she said. "I just had a feeling he would be coming back soon."

Barghoorn told his mother that he would stay overnight in London and that his next move had not been decided on.

The professor, a member of the Yale political science department and an expert on the Soviet Union, also spoke with university officials over the phone.

$50 MILLION ESTIMATED

Mme. Nhu's Poverty Induces Skepticism

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Claims by aides of Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu that the former Vietnamese First Lady is virtually penniless have been greeted skeptically here by government officials, businessmen, Roman Catholic priests and others.

Some sources close to Saigon's financial circles have estimated the Ngo family's assets as high as $50 million. No one can prove these estimates and probably no one outside surviving members of the family knows what the Ngo estates are worth.

Much of the answer is probably concealed in bank records in Paris, Geneva and Hong Kong. While there has been no formal announcement on the subject by Saigon's new revolutionary government, all Ngo holdings in South Viet Nam probably will be confiscated by the state.

The surviving heads of the family since the deaths of President Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, are brother Ngo Dinh Can, now in a revolutionary prison facing trial; brother Ngo Dinh Luyen, former Vietnamese ambassador to London; brother Ngo Dinh Thuc, Catholic archbishop of Hue, now in Europe; and Mrs. Ngo Dinh Kha, aging and invalided mother of the Ngo brothers, living in Hue.

Beside the immediate family members, there are Tran Van Chuong, father of Mrs. Nhu, and his various relatives.

The family wealth is divided among all these persons, but much of the estate may be held by distant relatives and close associates of the family.

Reynolds Honored On 80th Birthday

WINNSBORO (Special) — Dr. A. J. Reynolds of Winnsboro was honored with a steak barbecue and birthday party at the VFW Home here Thursday night. He was 80 years on November 8.

Mrs. Thelma C. Applewhite was master of ceremonies for the occasion and music by Martin Biddy and his band was provided by Dr. R. E. King.

Dr. Reynolds left the employment of the Louisiana State Board of Health in September of this year after being with them for over 19 years, and is now unopposed as a candidate for coroner of Franklin parish.

Dr. Reynolds was born November 8, 1883 at Vixen in Caldwell parish. He attended Caldwell parish public schools, Tulane University, and graduated with the spring class of 1909 from the University of Tenn.

He was married to the former Miss Maud Turner of Fort Necessity in 1911. They were the parents of one daughter, Evelyn, and three sons, Turner, John and Jim.

Dr. Reynolds worked for the Hudson River Lumber Co. at DeRidder for one year and then accepted a position as house physician with the industrial Lumber Co. at Elizabeth.

The Reynolds family moved to Franklin parish in 1913 where he did general practice until 1943 when he accepted a position with the Louisiana State Board of Health as Director of the Franklin Parish Health Unit. During part of the time during the past 20 years he has also served additionally as director of the health units in Richland, Concordia and Tensas parishes.

Dr. Reynolds was the first Doctor in Franklin parish to use a microscope and x-ray.

He has been a Master Mason for 56 years, has a 50-year button from the Louisiana State Medical Society, life membership in the American Medical Association and is a member of the Louisiana Public Health Workers Association.

Dr. Reynolds was listed in the Marquis Who's Who for he South and Southwest in 1961.

LANCASTER TALKS

FERRIDAY (Special) — The superintendent of Concordia Parish schools, James O. Lancaster, recently spoke to the Ferriday Women's Club at the club's November meeting. In his talk Lancaster presented some of the financial needs of area pupils and told the group of ways the public could help overcome these needs.

Annual Career Day Scheduled At Pineville

PINEVILLE (Special) — Louisiana College's 10th Annual Career Day, set for Saturday, Nov. 23, is expected to attract hundreds of high-school upperclassmen to the Pineville campus.

Featured will be various career guidance conferences, a concert by the Wildcat band and a matinee performance of the Louisiana College Theatre's version of George Bernard Shaw's, "The Devil's Disciple." The conferences are scheduled for the morning hours while the entertainment will be in the afternoon.

Climaxing the day-long program will be an 8 p.m. football game between Louisiana College and McMurray College of Abilene, Tex.

According to Eugene P. Langford, program coordinator, an estimated 8,000 high-school juniors and seniors have participated in the project since its inauguration a decade ago.

Langford said that more than 1,300 pastors from Baptist churches throughout the state have been invited to attend.

Speech Contest Due Tuesday By Toastmasters

A joint meeting of the Toastmasters' Clubs in the Twin Cities will feature a dinner and speech contest, scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Green Room of the Penn Hotel.

Three members each from the Monroe and West Monroe club will compete with five-minute speeches. Trophies will be presented to the top three orators.

Club officials expected to be present at the meeting are State Lieutenant Governor Mike Bearden of Alexandria and Area Governor Howard Walker of Natchez, Miss.

In charge of the session are blub officials Robert Ervin of West Monroe and Travis Davis of Monroe. Anyone interested attending the meeting is urged to contact either man for reservations or additional information.

The Toastmasters Club is an organization to help improve the speaking, listening and thinking ability of its members. At each meeting, members make speeches which are heard and criticized by their associates. Shortcomings are pointed out and hints are offered to better each speaker's technique.

Participating in Tuesday night's competition will be Raymond A. Berry, H. T. Nichols and Luke Daniels of the Monroe Club, and Bill Reed, Roland Nix and Jim Moore of the West Monroe organization.

LAST REPORT MEET WEDNESDAY

UGF 16 Per Cent Short Of Goal; Final Push Due

A sustained effort will be made this week by volunteer workers to close out the 1964 United Givers Fund campaign, which is only 16 per cent away from successful completion.

A final report meeting will be held Wednesday, November 20, at 4 p.m. in the Cameo Room, Virginia Hotel. A final push is being made by all campaign workers to complete their calls by that time so that they may be reported at the meeting.

The UGF campaign moved closer to its $260,573 goal this week. Through Saturday, hard-working campaigners had brought in a total of $219,021, for 84 per cent of the goal.

Since the three-weeks' extension was granted on October 30, the original closing date, workers have reported in an additional $25,000.

Campaign Chairman Jack S. Campbell said, "It is most gratifying to me to see the community rally its support around Ouachita's No. 1 Job, in view of the unmet needs we faced the first of November.

"Since that time, a number of employee campaigns that were incomplete are now being finished. However, there are still a lot more to be completed.

"We are still $41,552 shy of the mark," Campbell emphasized. "But, victory is in the cards, if the pledges and cash gifts can be brought in, in time."

The Campaign Chairman called on all citizens working on and contributing to the parish-wide drive to "finish the job. We simply must not fail to go over the top in this important effort."

He urged all workers to complete their assignments before Wednesday and asked that chairmen of employee campaigns waiting for their kits to be picked up to please call UGF Headquarters. Someone will be by to do so, he said.

Campbell also appealed to retired individuals or other persons who have not been called on for their gifts either to mail their gifts to UGF, Box 900, Monroe, or to call the UGF office, FA 5-3869, and someone will pick up their contributions.

Officials pointed out that scores of campaign workers are on the verge of reaching their individual quotas, for which they will be awarded the coveted "Oscar," symbol of outstanding service to the campaign.

"With an extra hard push from everyone this week," Campbell said, "we can make it."

CONFERENCE SLATED

RUSTON (Special) — Louisiana Tech's civil engineering department in co-operation with the Portland Cement Association, will conduct a "Structural Conference on the New ACI Code" at the Captain Shreve Hotel in Shreveport Dec. 11-12.

The American Concrete Institute, a society emphasizing research, design and construction in concrete technology, has adopted a 1963 ACI Code, "Building Code Requirements for Reinforced Concrete (ACI 318-63)."

Structural engineers from the sponsoring groups will present lectures on significant provisions of the code, excluding the chapter on pre-stressed concrete, announced Charles H. Edwards, professor of civil engineering at Louisiana Tech.

TO ISSUE SURPLUS

COLUMBIA (Special) — Surplus food commodities will be issued during the first three months of 1964 to qualified low income families and welfare recipients announced the Caldwell Parish police jury.

Applications are now being taken at the Caldwell Parish welfare office reports Mrs. Frances Bush, local welfare director.

BIG DAY

CLARKS (Special) — November 24 will be a big day for members of the Clarks Baptist Church. The group will celebrate homecoming plus the dedication of a new $20,000 building.

LANCASTER TALKS

FERRIDAY (Special) — The superintendent of Concordia Parish schools, James O. Lancaster, recently spoke to the Ferriday Women's Club at the club's November meeting. In his talk Lancaster presented some of the financial needs of area pupils and told the group of ways the public could help overcome these needs.

Annual Career Day Scheduled At Pineville

PINEVILLE (Special) — Louisiana College's 10th Annual Career Day, set for Saturday, Nov. 23, is expected to attract hundreds of high-school upperclassmen to the Pineville campus.

Featured will be various career guidance conferences, a concert by the Wildcat band and a matinee performance of the Louisiana College Theatre's version of George Bernard Shaw's, "The Devil's Disciple." The conferences are scheduled for the morning hours while the entertainment will be in the afternoon.

Climaxing the day-long program will be an 8 p.m. football game between Louisiana College and McMurray College of Abilene, Tex.

According to Eugene P. Langford, program coordinator, an estimated 8,000 high-school juniors and seniors have participated in the project since its inauguration a decade ago.

Langford said that more than 1,300 pastors from Baptist churches throughout the state have been invited to attend.

Speech Contest Due Tuesday By Toastmasters

A joint meeting of the Toastmasters' Clubs in the Twin Cities will feature a dinner and speech contest, scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Green Room of the Penn Hotel.

Three members each from the Monroe and West Monroe club will compete with five-minute speeches. Trophies will be presented to the top three orators.

Club officials expected to be present at the meeting are State Lieutenant Governor Mike Bearden of Alexandria and Area Governor Howard Walker of Natchez, Miss.

In charge of the session are blub officials Robert Ervin of West Monroe and Travis Davis of Monroe. Anyone interested attending the meeting is urged to contact either man for reservations or additional information.

The Toastmasters Club is an organization to help improve the speaking, listening and thinking ability of its members. At each meeting, members make speeches which are heard and criticized by their associates. Shortcomings are pointed out and hints are offered to better each speaker's technique.

Participating in Tuesday night's competition will be Raymond A. Berry, H. T. Nichols and Luke Daniels of the Monroe Club, and Bill Reed, Roland Nix and Jim Moore of the West Monroe organization.

LAST REPORT MEET WEDNESDAY

UGF 16 Per Cent Short Of Goal; Final Push Due

A sustained effort will be made this week by volunteer workers to close out the 1964 United Givers Fund campaign, which is only 16 per cent away from successful completion.

A final report meeting will be held Wednesday, November 20, at 4 p.m. in the Cameo Room, Virginia Hotel. A final push is being made by all campaign workers to complete their calls by that time so that they may be reported at the meeting.

The UGF campaign moved closer to its $260,573 goal this week. Through Saturday, hard-working campaigners had brought in a total of $219,021, for 84 per cent of the goal.

Since the three-weeks' extension was granted on October 30, the original closing date, workers have reported in an additional $25,000.

Campaign Chairman Jack S. Campbell said, "It is most gratifying to me to see the community rally its support around Ouachita's No. 1 Job, in view of the unmet needs we faced the first of November.

"Since that time, a number of employee campaigns that were incomplete are now being finished. However, there are still a lot more to be completed.

"We are still $41,552 shy of the mark," Campbell emphasized. "But, victory is in the cards, if the pledges and cash gifts can be brought in, in time."

The Campaign Chairman called on all citizens working on and contributing to the parish-wide drive to "finish the job. We simply must not fail to go over the top in this important effort."

He urged all workers to complete their assignments before Wednesday and asked that chairmen of employee campaigns waiting for their kits to be picked up to please call UGF Headquarters. Someone will be by to do so, he said.

Campbell also appealed to retired individuals or other persons who have not been called on for their gifts either to mail their gifts to UGF, Box 900, Monroe, or to call the UGF office, FA 5-3869, and someone will pick up their contributions.

Officials pointed out that scores of campaign workers are on the verge of reaching their individual quotas, for which they will be awarded the coveted "Oscar," symbol of outstanding service to the campaign.

"With an extra hard push from everyone this week," Campbell said, "we can make it."

Cub Scout Pack 31 got its fall season off to a good start at last week's pack meeting with 18 boys receiving awards. The pack, sponsored by the North Monroe Kiwanis Club, held its pack meeting at Georgia Tucker School with Aubrey Phillips, cubmaster, in charge. The new Den 1, opened the meeting with a flag ceremony. Mrs. Mattie Linzay is the den mother.

Proudest recipients of awards were the ten new cubbers who received their Bobcat pins. Among these are: Lesley E. Linzay Jr., Grgory A. White and James Wesley Bolton of Den 1 and Johnny T. Brown, Patrick Gallagher, Jackson W. Hunnicutt, Dennis Phelps, Pat Scallan, Allan Lee White, and Barry Gathright of Den 3, whose den mother is Mrs. L. A. Hunnicutt.

Other awards were given to Cole Eunson who had earned his Bear badge as well as a Gold and a Silver Arrow; Alfred Gallagher who received his Lion Badge and his Boy Scout Handbook as part of his enrollment into the Webelos Den. One year and two-year pins were given to Andy Cale, Jim Sheffield, James Murphy, Joe Worley, Alfred Gallagher, Jack Reynolds, Joe Worley, Cole Eunson, and Joe Kern. Robert Moore and Joseph H. Kern are new assistant cubmasters in the leadership post of Webelos.

A lively "ghost" skit with puppets made by the boys was presented by Den 3. The meeting closed with an appeal for more Den mothers led by the Cubmaster followed by the "Cub Scout Promise" with all Scouters present participating.

The Den Mother's Workshop will be held Thursday at 9:15 a.m. at the First National Bank in West Monroe. The theme is "An Old Fashioned Christmas," which lends itself well to Arts and Crafts which can be made by Cub Scouts for home decoration as well as gift giving.

Merle Edwards, Scouting executive in charge of the workshop, and his eager little helper, Jose Gonzales, plan a full working schedule with candle making (wax and soap suds) as the highlight.

Also of interest to Cub Scout leaders — Den Mothers, Cub Masters and Pack Committeemen — are the series of Basic Training Programs being conducted at Minnie Ruffin School. Dates for these are November 19 for Basic 2 and November 26 for Basic 3.

Bob Hanna, District Executive urges all Scouters to attend the regular monthly Scout Roundtable and District Committee meeting of Central District on Thursday, November 21, at 7 p.m. at Julia Wossman Recreation Center (formerly Westminster). This will be an important meeting and feature on the program will be the annual Scout Camporee.

Bob Trent and Earl Tarver, Campbing Activities Chairmen, anticipate a big turnout at the Camporee which will be held Friday, November 22, 4 p.m. until Saturday, November 23, 3:30 p.m. at Camp Kiroli.

Sixteen Boy Scout Troops have already signed up for the event which the Central District Committee announces will be a Western Style Camporee entitled "The Gold Rush." Boys will participate by patrols against time and knowledge of scout craft. Troops will compete by units.

2 Weeks Left For Buying Auto Plates By Mail

Only two weeks remain for north Louisiana residents to purchase their 1964-65 auto license plates in the advance renewal-by-mail program.

The new tags, which cost $6 and will be valid for two years, officially go on sale Monday, Dec. 2.

The Monroe district office of the Louisiana Department of Revenue has been conducting an advance mail order campaign enabling motorists to renew their vehicle registrations by mail before the official start of the renewal period on Dec. 2.

Application forms are sent to the local office, where the orders are processed and tags are prepared for mailing on Dec. 2, the first day of release for the new plates.

More than 100 orders were received here during the past week, reported Fred Ussery Jr., district manager. He estimated that approximately 1,200 persons will take advantage of the advance mail program to obtain their plates.

The revenue office experiences a slack period before the official sale starts, enabling them to prepare the advance orders

Ussery emphasized that the renewal-by-mail program will continue throughout the formal registration period.

The necessary application blanks can be obtained from the revenue office at 611 N. 3rd St. This form should be completed in triplicate, and together with a 1963 registration (pink) form and check or money order for $6.20, to be mailed to: Louisiana Department of Revenue, P. O. Box 2897, Monroe, La.

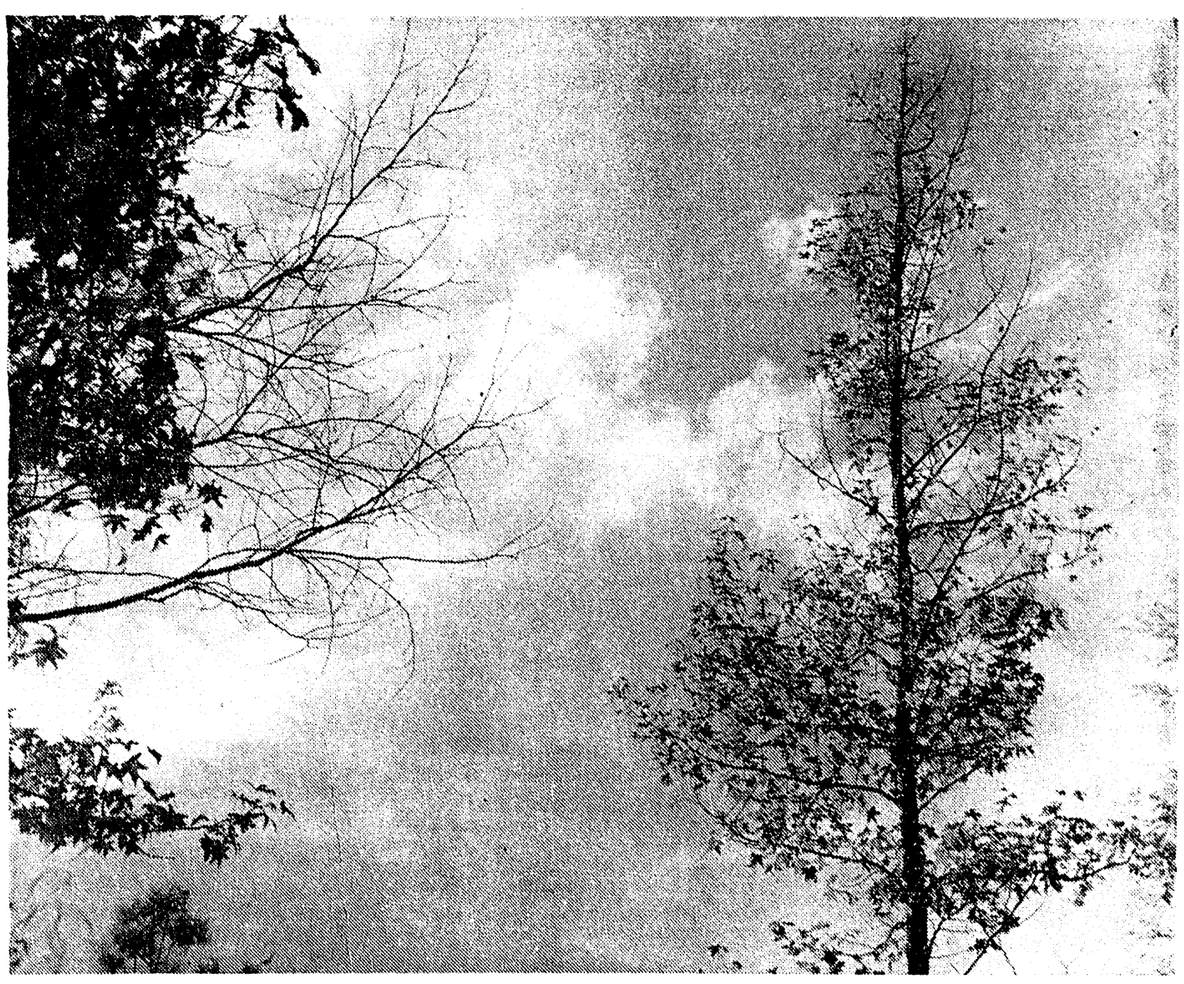
PUMPKINS, SQUASH and sugar cane provide setting for this scene of seasonal delight, that of savoring the sweet succulence from the pulp of the sugar cane.

A HEAVY CROP of large orange colored Japanese persimmons on this tree in the yard of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Antley, 403 Cryer, West Monroe, made it necessary for some of the limbs to be propped up until part of the fruit was harvested. Mrs. Antley, shown here, said the tree was producing fruit on the lot for several years before they built their home there about six years ago.

GATHERING PECANS from grassy areas under trees where they have fallen in large quantities on the Stubbs Pecanland Plantation, are Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Feroben of Delhi, their daughter, Flora, at left, granddaughters, Sharon McDonald, 3, seated by bucket, and Tina McDonald, 2, of Meridian, Miss.



SOME HARDWOOD trees have dropped their leaves, while the foliage on others has taken on a pleasing variety of colors. In the hill sections of the area the pine trees stand out green in contrast to the rapidly changing color scheme around them.

News-Star And World Endorse Dugas

The News-Star and World endorse Francis Dugas of Thibodaux — LaFourche Parish — for Lieutenant Governor in the coming Democratic Party primaries.

Mr. Dugas is the running mate of Robert F. Kennon, whom we already have endorsed for Governor. These two men constitute "The Kennon Ticket." Mr. Kennon has endorsed some candidates for other posts, but the ticket itself is "Kennon and Dugas." We believe that these two men will make a capable and effective team to head the Executive Branch of Louisiana's government. Mr. Dugas is running 100 per cent on the Kennon platform, which is published in adjoining columns.

Like Mr. Kennon, Mr. Dugas stands four square against Kennedyism and the other "isms" that have permeated the national Democratic Party in recent years — such as Adlai Stevensonism and Trumanism — and which collectively have carried the nation closer and closer to Welfare State Socialism. He not only opposes renomination and re-election of John F. Kennedy, but specifically opposes anyone who stands for the Kennedy principles, including federal power grabs and governmental socialism at any level. These principles constitute the first three planks in the Kennon-Dugas platform.

The Lieutenant Governor of Louisiana is, for all practical purposes, a Deputy Governor. He immediately and automatically — under Louisiana's Constitution — becomes Governor, with every power that the office of Governor provides constitutionally, the moment the Governor is unable to serve either through mere absence from the state, or through incapacity, such as illness or death. A Governor-Lieutenant Governor ticket is as inseparable at the state level as a President-Vice President ticket at the national level.

The Constitution of Louisiana recognizes the importance of the Lieutenant Governor post by providing that candidates for it must have exactly the same constitutional qualifications as candidates for Governor. Mr. Dugas possesses those qualifications and he possesses qualifications which especially fit him to work as a teammate of Mr. Kennon.

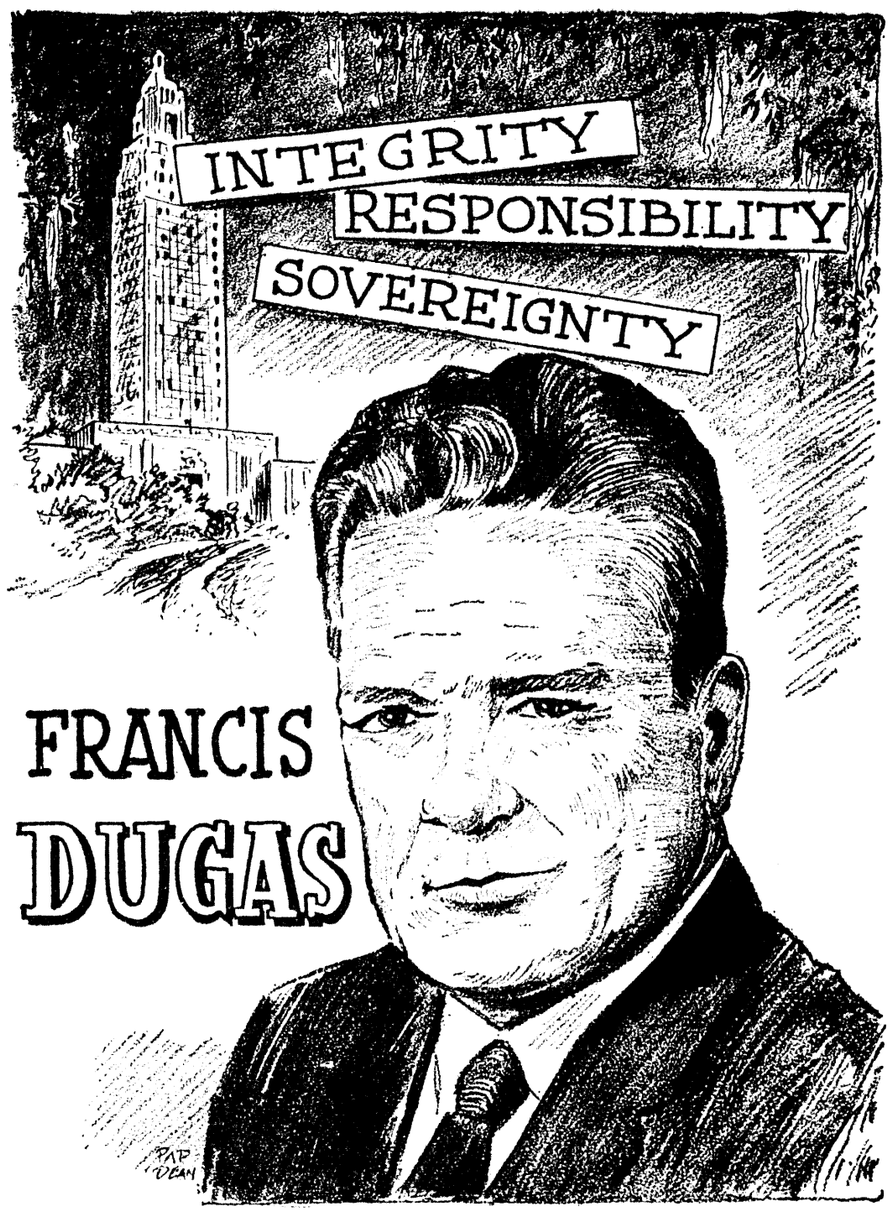
In his own right, the Lieutenant Governor is President of the State Senate. Success of the Governor's legislative programs in that body rests in large part with him. It is thus essential that he should be in sympathy with the governmental philosophy held by the Governor himself. The Lieutenant Governor also — by virtue of his office — is a member of the Board of Pardons, the Board of Voter Registration, the Board of Liquidation of State Debt and other governmental agencies.

Mr. Dugas has been especially active in furthering at times the spectacular industrial development of his own part of the state. Because of this, he would be especially valuable as Lieutenant Governor to Governor Kennon in the latter's announced intentions to launch a real industrial development program throughout Louisiana. Mr. Kennon has stated that, if this team is elected, he will place Mr. Dugas in active charge of this part of his administration's activity.

Mr. Dugas is an attorney, 44 years old. He was educated in the public schools of Thibodaux and received his LL.B. from L.S.U. He has held such posts as inspector with an aircraft corporation and field manager with a gas corporation. He served in the U.S. Air Force 1942-1945 — World War II. He is a member of the LaFourche, Louisiana State, and American Bar Associations, and of the American Legion. He served four years in the Legislature in the 1950s.

The News Star and World does not necessarily agree with every vote cast by Mr. Dugas when he was a member of the Legislature any more than we agreed with every step taken by Mr. Kennon when he was Governor. In the current era of history, with its ever increasing multiplicity of governmental problems and issues, it would be utterly impossible to find any two men of intelligence who agreed on everything.

But we agreed with and supported most of the basic principles of the Kennon administration as brought forth during it. We agree with and endorse the principles set forth in the Kennon - Dugas platform. We believe Louisiana's best interests will be best served by election of the Kennon - Dugas ticket.



Mr. Jackson's Record

A reader inquires why we have not given greater consideration to the gubernatorial candidacy of Shelby Jackson, now State Superintendent of Education.

Why should we?

For one thing, editorial space is limited and necessarily we must discuss at some length the candidates who concededly have a chance to go into a second primary.

Mr. Jackson is picked rather unanimously around the state to run about sixth. The fact would not have kept us from even endorsing him if we thought he was the best man for the job. But we don't think he is — by a long ways. We don't intend to waste much space on inconsequential candidates, but we offer these brief thoughts about Mr. Jackson:

Mr. Jackson has been State Superintendent of Education for 15 years. When he went into the office the state was 48th in literacy, according to various accepted barometers in such matters. At present, the state is 50th — two more states having joined the Union.

To take quickly available figures covering a single decade, the total spending by the state of Louisiana on public school education in 1950 was less than 100 million dollars.

Total spending now, under Mr. Jackson, is well over 200 million dollars — and the increase in population has in no way matched such an increase in spending. Yet we are still last in literacy.

If Mr. Jackson cannot do any better with Louisiana education than to keep it last in the nation while increasing spending by the state from less than 100 million dollars a year to more than 200 million dollars, a year, what can we expect of him when it comes to handling the more than 800 million dollars a year that is spent in all state government activities — a total that probably will run above 3½ billion dollars — tax money — during the four years of the next Governor?

Mr. Jackson proclaims himself to be "a conservative." We don't know whether he's a conservative, politically, because there is nothing in his record to give information on that point either way. He shouts loudly about segregation. All of the candidates are segregationists. Segregationism and conservatism are not one and the same.

There was not one thing that Mr. Jackson could do as State Superintendent of Education to prevent desegregation of schools in Louisiana by court order. There is not one thing that he could do as Governor to prevent desegregation of any school ordered by federal court to desegrate.

With tens of millions of dollars of tax money trickling through his fingers, the results of Mr. Jackson's administrative capabilities have been a statewide Jackson political machine — built around approximately 118 $10,000-a-year assistants appointed by him — instead of a better statewide school system. Where Louisiana education is good — as in Caddo — that fact comes from competence of the local school administration and in spite of Mr. Jackson's incapabilities.

It seems to us that Mr. Jackson's record does more to disqualify him for the post of Governor, rather than to qualify him for it.

On the angle of conservatism, votes by conservatives for Mr. Jackson are votes to help Chep Morrison, Gillis Long and John McKeithen — because the votes of all true conservatives certainly should go to Robert F. Kennon. He is the only man in the race who has proven his conservatism both in and out of public office — and he has done so for more than a decade.

The most effective way to vote against Kennon conservatism is to vote for Mr. Jackson and thus split the conservative vote against Mr. Morrison, Mr. Long and Mr. McKeithen.

Other Candidates

The News-Star and World also endorse the following candidates. Some may have one or more gubernatorial endorsements, including Mr. Kennon's; some may not. The Kennon ticket actually, as stated above, is simply "Kennon - Dugas."

Education Superintendent
Raphiel Teagle

News - Star and World endorse Raphiel Teagle for State Superintendent of Education, a post being made vacant by the candidacy of Shelby Jackson for Governor. Mr. Teagle has been State Director of High Schools since 1956. He is 48 years old. He was educated in the elementary and secondary schools of St. Landry and Natchitoches parishes. He received his B.A. from Northwestern State College and his M.A. from Louisiana State University. He attended Scout Executives Training School, Boy Scouts of America. He was a science teacher, 1935-1939; a principal 1939-1940; supervising teacher and instructor, Southeastern Louisiana College, 1940-1943; assistant Scout executive, 1943-1947; principal, 1947-1949 and assistant Supervisor of High Schools 1949-1950. He held the post of Supervisor of High Schools from 1950 until he became State Director of High Schools in 1956.

Mr. Teagle is a member the Louisiana Principals Association, Louisiana School Supervisors Association, Louisiana Teachers Association, Commission on Secondary Schools, Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, National Association of Secondary School Principals and National Association of State Supervisors and Directors of Secondary Education. He lives in Baton Rouge.

State Comptroller
George Dupuis Sr.

George F. Dupuis, Sr. is seeking the Democratic nomination for Comptroller. He has engaged in the real estate business and has been a stock farmer and assistant to the Director of the State Highway Department. His home is in Lafayette. Mr. Dupuis is 42 years old, and a member of the Lafayette Parish School Board. He was educated in the Lafayette public schools, attended the University of Illinois and U.S. Air Force Technical School. He served in the Air Force 1940-1945 — World War II.

Agriculture Commissioner
Dave L. Pearce

Mr. Pearce is, at present, State Commissioner of Agriculture and Immigration, a post he also held in the Kennon administration of 1952-1956. His record in both of his own administrations has been excellent. He is, truly, a "working" Agriculture Commissioner. He also has been a farmer, dairyman, merchant and realtor. He served in the State Legislature from West Carroll Parish from 1940 through 1948. He was selected as "Man of the Year in Agriculture" by Progressive Farmer in 1950. He is past President of the Southern Association of Commissioners of Agriculture, the Louisiana Sweet Potato Association, former Chairman of the West Carroll Production and Marketing Administration, member of the West Carroll Parish Farm Bureau and various other state and local organizations. He is 58 years old and now resides in Baton Rouge.

State Treasurer
Pat Tugwell

Pat Tugwell has opposition but he also has endorsement of all of the concededly leading candidates for the post of Governor. The News-Star and World has endorsed Mr. Tugwell on many occasions in the past, and gladly does so again. He has served the state well throughout his many years in office.

Insurance Commissioner
Jack Dyer

Mr. Dyer, a resident of Baton Rouge, is a State Representative from East Baton Rouge Parish and has been a practicing attorney since 1955. He is 39 years old, a veteran of World War II, and holds his LL.B. degree from L.S.U. He is a member of the Baton Rouge, the Louisiana and the American Bar Associations.

Voting Machine Custodian
Raymond LaBorde

Mr. LaBorde is Mayor of Marksville, 36 years old, educated in the public schools and at Loyola University. He is past President of the Louisiana Municipal Association and of CENLA Mayor's Association. He is a company commander in the Louisiana National Guard and has been active in the Young Democrats of Louisiana.

OTHER CANDIDACIES:

The News-Star and World has already endorsed Jack P. F. Gremillion for Attorney General — as we did in 1960. Ellen Bryan Moore has no opposition for the post of Register of State Land Office, which she now holds, and Wade O. Martin, Jr. has no opposition for his post of Secretary of State. We have endorsed them on more than one occasion in the past and look upon the fact that they are not opposed as a splendid tribute to the efficiency with which they have operated their respective offices.

Working Platform Of Kennon-Dugas

The Kennon-Dugas Platform

1. Support State Sovereignty and Segregation.
2. Oppose renomination and re-election of John F. Kennedy for President, or anyone else who condones what his administration stands for.
3. Fight federal power grab and trend toward socialism.
4. Create new and better jobs —aggressive industrial development led by Governor; encourage use of Louisiana products and Louisiana workers on Louisiana projects.
5. Strengthen citizen boards for non-political control of major state spending agencies and prevention of future attempts to address members out of office for political reasons.
6. Education — Commit all possible resources to improvement of education and provide for increased needs at all levels.
7. Further development of Louisiana highways and waterways.
8. Realistic welfare program, providing adequately for the needy; improvement of moral standards — no aid to parents for additional illegitimate children.
9. Investment of idle state funds.
10. Expanded program and additional facilities for mentally retarded.
11. Penal reform — Improve facilities and administration of penal and correctional institutions, especially for younger people.
12. Stronger civil service for state employes.
13. Offer state service to city and parish governments in public works programs.
14. Code of ethics for all state employes, including those in high positions.
15. Preserve wildlife and fisheries, forestry and water resources for enjoyment and benefit of all.
16. Promote tourism by nationwide publicity; improve state parks and facilities, hunting and fishing grounds, game refuges, streams, lakes and accesses thereto.
17. Cooperate with farmers, cattlemen, seafood producers, dairymen, poultrymen and processors to diversity and strengthen our economy.
18. Support fair expenditure of state funds — no use of state funds to control or coerce legislators.
19. Central listing of state employes.
20. Any tidelands settlement to be dedicated to retirement of the state debt and or capital improvement for colleges, universities and other institutions.
21. Prudence, integrity and thrift in administration.

Costs Of Voting

Crowley, La.

To the Editor:

How many times have we all heard the old saying, "It is our duty as American citizens to vote"? However, how many of us look at the economic side of voting?

Government, no matter if it is local, parish, state, or federal, depends on taxes for its revenue. These taxes come from us, the family wage earners. This money that we spend on government could certainly be put to good use helping raise the standard of living of our families. After all, it is money that we worked hard for. However, we all realize that government is necessary, and that we must pay for it.

Our dollars are used by elected officials to, primarily, pay salaries, administrative costs, and to finance legislative programs. On December 7, we the voting public, are being asked to "hire" a candidate to do a job for us. We must expect this person, whose salary we pay, to do the best job he can for all of Louisiana. Just as we hire only the best men available for our own employes, we must choose only the best to operate our government.

Every community has those individuals who can be "bought" by political candidates. They sell their votes for cash, or promises of jobs, or for future favors should their candidate be elected. These persons, of low moral character, always vote, for they are going to get theirs.

Louisiana politics has in the past been run by some candidates who were put into office by this "vote-buying method." We cannot expect government officials of this caliber to produce good government; government that takes our hard earned dollars and that we have every right to expect, will produce legislation beneficial to all of the citizens of Louisiana, not just the "purchased few".

We must vote on December 7. We, as the honest majority, owe it to our families to see to it that our dollars are turned over to qualified, honest and intelligent men. It is our money that they will be spending, and we deserve a fair return for that money. None of us are so wealthy that we can afford to give our money to individuals who will use our dollars carelessly, and sometimes even use our money in such a way that it harms us, our wives, and our children, through unnecessary legislation.

Remember the federal income tax started at a mere one per cent, and look at it now. Can we allow these persons who can be "bought" to elect unworthy candidates, who may well enact legislation that will take even more of our dollars from our families?

We must study all of the candidates, who are actually applying to us for jobs, and vote for, on December 7, the men who we feel will "represent" us, and who will use our hard earned dollars to benefit all of Louisiana, not just the "purchased few".

It is our money, our families, and it will be our decision on December 7.

News-Star And World Endorse Dugas

The News-Star and World endorse Francis Dugas of Thibodaux — LaFourche Parish — for Lieutenant Governor in the coming Democratic Party primaries.

Mr. Dugas is the running mate of Robert F. Kennon, whom we already have endorsed for Governor. These two men constitute "The Kennon Ticket." Mr. Kennon has endorsed some candidates for other posts, but the ticket itself is "Kennon and Dugas." We believe that these two men will make a capable and effective team to head the Executive Branch of Louisiana's government. Mr. Dugas is running 100 per cent on the Kennon platform, which is published in adjoining columns.

Like Mr. Kennon, Mr. Dugas stands four square against Kennedyism and the other "isms" that have permeated the national Democratic Party in recent years — such as Adlai Stevensonism and Trumanism — and which collectively have carried the nation closer and closer to Welfare State Socialism. He not only opposes renomination and re-election of John F. Kennedy, but specifically opposes anyone who stands for the Kennedy principles, including federal power grabs and governmental socialism at any level. These principles constitute the first three planks in the Kennon-Dugas platform.

The Lieutenant Governor of Louisiana is, for all practical purposes, a Deputy Governor. He immediately and automatically — under Louisiana's Constitution — becomes Governor, with every power that the office of Governor provides constitutionally, the moment the Governor is unable to serve either through mere absence from the state, or through incapacity, such as illness or death. A Governor-Lieutenant Governor ticket is as inseparable at the state level as a President-Vice President ticket at the national level.

The Constitution of Louisiana recognizes the importance of the Lieutenant Governor post by providing that candidates for it must have exactly the same constitutional qualifications as candidates for Governor. Mr. Dugas possesses those qualifications and he possesses qualifications which especially fit him to work as a teammate of Mr. Kennon.

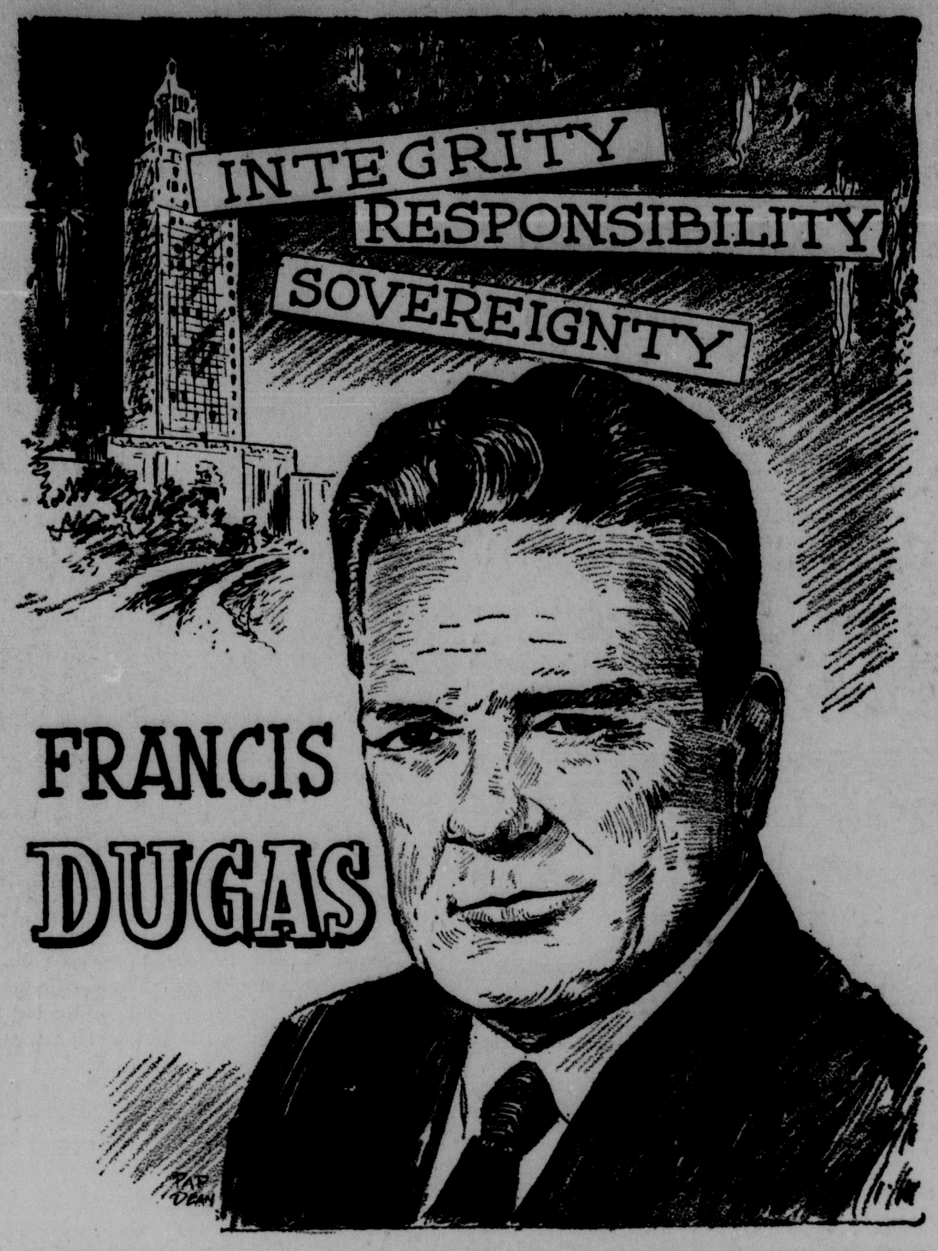
In his own right, the Lieutenant Governor is President of the State Senate. Success of the Governor's legislative programs in that body rests in large part with him. It is thus essential that he should be in sympathy with the governmental philosophy held by the Governor himself. The Lieutenant Governor also — by virtue of his office — is a member of the Board of Pardons, the Board of Voter Registration, the Board of Liquidation of State Debt and other governmental agencies.

Mr. Dugas has been especially active in furthering at times the spectacular industrial development of his own part of the state. Because of this, he would be especially valuable as Lieutenant Governor to Governor Kennon in the latter's announced intentions to launch a real industrial development program throughout Louisiana. Mr. Kennon has stated that, if this team is elected, he will place Mr. Dugas in active charge of this part of his administration's activity.

Mr. Dugas is an attorney, 44 years old. He was educated in the public schools of Thibodaux and received his LL.B. from L.S.U. He has held such posts as inspector with an aircraft corporation and field manager with a gas corporation. He served in the U.S. Air Force 1942-1945 — World War II. He is a member of the LaFourche, Louisiana State, and American Bar Associations, and of the American Legion. He served four years in the Legislature in the 1950s.

The News Star and World does not necessarily agree with every vote cast by Mr. Dugas when he was a member of the Legislature any more than we agreed with every step taken by Mr. Kennon when he was Governor. In the current era of history, with its ever increasing multiplicity of governmental problems and issues, it would be utterly impossible to find any two men of intelligence who agreed on everything.

But we agreed with and supported most of the basic principles of the Kennon administration as brought forth during it. We agree with and endorse the principles set forth in the Kennon - Dugas platform. We believe Louisiana's best interests will be best served by election of the Kennon - Dugas ticket.



Mr. Jackson's Record

A reader inquires why we have not given greater consideration to the gubernatorial candidacy of Shelby Jackson, now State Superintendent of Education.

Why should we?

For one thing, editorial space is limited and necessarily we must discuss at some length the candidates who concededly have a chance to go into a second primary.

Mr. Jackson is picked rather unanimously around the state to run about sixth. The fact would not have kept us from even endorsing him if we thought he was the best man for the job. But we don't think he is — by a long ways. We don't intend to waste much space on inconsequential candidates, but we offer these brief thoughts about Mr. Jackson:

Mr. Jackson has been State Superintendent of Education for 15 years. When he went into the office the state was 48th in literacy, according to various accepted barometers in such matters. At present, the state is 50th — two more states having joined the Union.

To take quickly available figures covering a single decade, the total spending by the state of Louisiana on public school education in 1950 was less than 100 million dollars.

Total spending now, under Mr. Jackson, is well over 200 million dollars — and the increase in population has in no way matched such an increase in spending. Yet we are still last in literacy.

If Mr. Jackson cannot do any better with Louisiana education than to keep it last in the nation while increasing spending by the state from less than 100 million dollars a year to more than 200 million dollars, a year, what can we expect of him when it comes to handling the more than 800 million dollars a year that is spent in all state government activities — a total that probably will run above 3½ billion dollars — tax money — during the four years of the next Governor?

Mr. Jackson proclaims himself to be "a conservative." We don't know whether he's a conservative, politically, because there is nothing in his record to give information on that point either way. He shouts loudly about segregation. All of the candidates are segregationists. Segregationism and conservatism are not one and the same.

There was not one thing that Mr. Jackson could do as State Superintendent of Education to prevent desegregation of schools in Louisiana by court order. There is not one thing that he could do as Governor to prevent desegregation of any school ordered by federal court to desegrate.

With tens of millions of dollars of tax money trickling through his fingers, the results of Mr. Jackson's administrative capabilities have been a statewide Jackson political machine — built around approximately 118 $10,000-a-year assistants appointed by him — instead of a better statewide school system. Where Louisiana education is good — as in Caddo — that fact comes from competence of the local school administration and in spite of Mr. Jackson's incapabilities.

It seems to us that Mr. Jackson's record does more to disqualify him for the post of Governor, rather than to qualify him for it.

On the angle of conservatism, votes by conservatives for Mr. Jackson are votes to help Chep Morrison, Gillis Long and John McKeithen — because the votes of all true conservatives certainly should go to Robert F. Kennon. He is the only man in the race who has proven his conservatism both in and out of public office — and he has done so for more than a decade.

The most effective way to vote against Kennon conservatism is to vote for Mr. Jackson and thus split the conservative vote against Mr. Morrison, Mr. Long and Mr. McKeithen.

Other Candidates

The News-Star and World also endorse the following candidates. Some may have one or more gubernatorial endorsements, including Mr. Kennon's; some may not. The Kennon ticket actually, as stated above, is simply "Kennon - Dugas."

Education Superintendent
Raphiel Teagle

News - Star and World endorse Raphiel Teagle for State Superintendent of Education, a post being made vacant by the candidacy of Shelby Jackson for Governor. Mr. Teagle has been State Director of High Schools since 1956. He is 48 years old. He was educated in the elementary and secondary schools of St. Landry and Natchitoches parishes. He received his B.A. from Northwestern State College and his M.A. from Louisiana State University. He attended Scout Executives Training School, Boy Scouts of America. He was a science teacher, 1935-1939; a principal 1939-1940; supervising teacher and instructor, Southeastern Louisiana College, 1940-1943; assistant Scout executive, 1943-1947; principal, 1947-1949 and assistant Supervisor of High Schools 1949-1950. He held the post of Supervisor of High Schools from 1950 until he became State Director of High Schools in 1956.

Mr. Teagle is a member the Louisiana Principals Association, Louisiana School Supervisors Association, Louisiana Teachers Association, Commission on Secondary Schools, Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, National Association of Secondary School Principals and National Association of State Supervisors and Directors of Secondary Education. He lives in Baton Rouge.

State Comptroller
George Dupuis Sr.

George F. Dupuis, Sr. is seeking the Democratic nomination for Comptroller. FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

The Week In Focus

by Jack Gates

More Trouble In Asia

In Southeast Asia there is a small country — as countries go — that could develop into another major trouble spot for the United States — since it doesn't have enough troubles already in that part of the world. It's name is Cambodia which lies partly against Thailand and partly against South Viet Nam where the U. S. already is engaged in a shooting war against the Communist.

The nation — about the size of Mississippi — has 6 million people living under the guidance of Prince Norodom Sihanouk, 43, who renounced the Cambodian throne to be the political leader of the Cambodians.

So far he has been a self-proclaimed neutral between the forces of the West and Communism, but accepted help from both sides. For instance: guns and fighter planes from Russia, more than $366 million worth of military and economic help from the U. S.

For the United States, holding South Viet Nam has been a prolonged and costly adventure, with more than $4 million in aid going to Viet Nam where more than 100 Americans have lost their lives in the war against the Communist guerrillas of North Viet Nam.

If Viet Nam was lost to communism, it's a safe bet' all Southeast Asia would be in time. Last September Prince Sihanouk said he was convinced the Communists already have won the battle for South Viet Nam.

And he said he felt his own neutral country eventually would fall to communism. Last August Sihanouk cut Cambodia's ties with Viet Nam because of the crackdown on the Buddhists by the then President Diem.

And he has complained that Cambodian exiles—his enemies were in Viet Nam making broadcasts against him with transmitters which, he said, were supported in part by U. S. assistance.

Wednesday he sent out the word Cambodia would cut its ties with the United States, too, and after Jan. 1, 1964, refuse any more American aid, and abandon its neutrality unless the anti - Sihanouk broadcasts were stopped.

The State Department was upset. Worse news was to come. Later Wednesday Red China said Sihanouk had sent word to Peking, pledging close friendship and cooperation.

At the same time, Norodom, 41, who has become increasingly mad at the U. S. since September, 1962, when President Kennedy in effect rejected his proposal for an international conference to guarantee Cambodia's neutrality, said he would bring in three to five Communist Chinese experts to help organize nationalized industry.

If the Red Chinese, with Sihanouk's blessing, move into Cambodia the very thing this country tried most to prevent—Red Chinese direct influence in Southeast Asia—would have come about.

This is still a murky situation. Sihanouk may not take the final step of fully abondining his neutrality and throwing open the Cambodian doors to Red China. He said later in the week he would continue to accept U. S. aid if no strings were attached.

But the way he's playing the game it's like sticking his hand into the tiger's mouth to stroke his tongue.

The South Viet Nam Wrapup

Meanwhile, there were strange reports involving South Viet Nam.

Military rulers in Saigon, along with the Pentagon, are pressing for a renewed effort against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas. Others however, in Hanoi, Moscow, Paris and in Washington, are tentatively suggesting a negotiated truce with Ho Chi Minh, North Vietnam's chief. Their reasoning:

1. Even with the new leadership in Saigon, war against the Viet Cong will be long, costly and inconclusive.

2. Ho himself no longer feels he can coquer South Viet Nam in view of the current U. S. military assistance.

3. North Vietnam is economically tied just as closely to Red China as South Viet Nam is to the U. S. and both Ho and Moscow are afraid China will eventually swallow North Vietnam.

4. The Viet Cong revolt has been aimed principally at the Diem regime. Reports from Hanoi indicate that, with Diem gone, Ho would be willing to discuss a truce. Hopes of such an event — and no doubt a truce would end up dangerous for the U. S. as usual — appear dim, however. A U. S. State Department official says a truce offer is out of the question as long as the Viet Cong continues their hostilities, and Ho is unlikely to call them off until he gets such an offer. Neither side is willing to lose face by making the first move — especially since President Kennedy can't afford a charge of giving in to the Communist in an election year.

Meanwhile, the Kennedy administration is pictured as being moderately pleased with developments in South Viet Nam. Officials claim the anti-Communist war undoubtedly was being pushed with more vigor. U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge is expected in Washington late next week to give Kennedy a first-hand report. But before there, Lodge will meet in Honolulu next Wednesday with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Defense Secretary Robert McNamara and ranking military officials for a full-dress review of the situation.

There is one major worry that could develop into more trouble in South Viet Nam. There is apprehension that personal rivalries among the revoluntionary generals that overthrew Diem might lead to instability, although so far there has been no evidence of this.

Meanwhile, in Los Angeles before she flew to Rome on Wednesday to join her three younger children who had been flown there after the Coup, Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu, whose husband was killed in the uprising, said the U. S. was the blame for the tragedy in her country, but thanked the people of the U. S. for their sympathy. She said she was grateful to the Americans but dismayed by the conduct of their government. Then she added: "Judus has sold the Christ for thirty pieces of silver. The Ngo brothers and the patroits of Viet Nam have been sold for a few dollars — that American aid, which would be given back only to those who would not hesitate to turn their guns against their own brothers and suppress the duly elected leaders of Viet Nam."

A Reminder

Nations change sides almost as quickly and easy as politicians during a campaign in the United States.

Now a special UN mission which was quickly organized and sent to South Vietnam to investigate so-called Buddhist repression now may quietly return home without publicizing its findings and thereby remove a possible source of embarrassment to the Buddhist countries which had pressed for the inquiry.

A full-blown debate — and it probably should have been held — could have revived the fading memory of a near genocide in Tibet in 1959, when some 65,000 Buddhists reportedly were slaughtered by the Red Chinese and vast numbers of others dragged into Chinese labor camps. On that occasion and through the 1961 session, the UN resolution on Tibet got a stoic reception from the Asians; it was finally dropped from the agenda as an undesirable "cold war" issue.

Ceylon, which spearheaded the anti-Diem move, abstained on Tibet. So did India, then a staunch believer in Peking's "peaceful intentions." Indonesia argued that charges of Chinese atrocities in Tibet were a "fable." The Soviet bloc argued the whole thing was China's internal affair. Other Buddhist countries felt that, had Communist China been in the UN, its leaders could have been persuaded to drop the Anti-Buddhist drive in Tibet.

Ironically, none of these arguments were used either by the U.S. or any other nation to keep the UN mission from South Vietnam. Yet the situation in South Vietnam was not nearly as bad as the situation was in Tibet.

The Washington Scene

DOES THE Country really want Congress to pass some new laws? Republicans say the voters couldn't care less about President Kennedy's New Frontier program. Administration Democrats dispute this but their conservative Southern colleagues don't. Whatever the mood of the country is at this point, it isn't being translated into any concerted drive likely to produce more than a handful of legislative measures before this year's session runs itself off the calendar . . .

MEANWHILE, most observers believe time is running out as far as action is concerned this year on civil rights and the tax cut proposal. Even President Kennedy conceded this at a press Conference the past week, saying that the outlook is bleak for passage of his two key proposals. He called the lack of action unfortunate, but did hold out some hope for approval of the tax cut bill.

SENATOR Harry Byrd of Virginia, meanwhile, has accused President Kennedy of taking a "very dangerous gamble" with the nation's solvency by trying to cut taxes while there are prospects of increased spending. Byrd, who heads the Senate Finance Committee, disputed the President's news conference assertion that "the economy will suffer" if the Senate does not act quickly on the House-passed tax cut bill. Byrd said there is room for a tax cut if substantial reductions are made in spending. Instead, he added, the Kennedy administration is planning an increase in expenditures in the coming fiscal year . . .

FROM THE Pentagon, word is out that the Army will begin sending its new Pershing atomic missiles to Europe in the next few months. The announcement was the second within a month disclosing a further buildup of the Army's battlefield atomic firepower for Western European defenses. Units of the shorter-range Sergeant missile are already on the way . . .

IN WHAT SMACKS of a political move, President Kennedy on Wednesday ordered a crash program to help eastern Kentucky — which he called the "most severely distressed area in the nation." The President directed the federal agencies to make special efforts to cooperate with the state in trying to provide enough food, shelter and medical care during the winter for an area embracing about one-fourth of Kentucky. It was in this area of the state that the Democrats suffered worst during the recent campaign for governor, which was won by a Democrat by a surprisingly small margin . . .

KENNEDY

MEANWHILE, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara stuck the past week to his refusal to recommend the construction of a nuclear-powered aircraft carrier for the Navy. Senators said McNamara refused to budge from his decision to take the $125-million to $180-million saving he has estimated will result from the construction of a conventional carrier authorized last year by Congress. McNamara's refusal has upset some congressmen as well as Navy Department personnel. . . .

A ONE-THIRD medicare plan linking the government, private insurance plans and the individual, has been offered as a compromise solution for the medical care for the aged bill. NEW TRAVEL restrictions have been imposed on some Communist bloc diplomats in this country. Assistant Defense Secretary Arthur Sylvester said the restrictions applied to diplomats from Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Hungry, Poland and Romania. The restrictions close about 11 per cent of the nation to them. Some 25 per cent of the country is already closed to the Russians. Sylvester said a "very serious" incident in which a communist diplomat picked up some valuable information at an intercontinental missile site caused the restrictions . . .

Another Russian Arrest

Another dark cloud has been cast over U.S.-Soviet relations. This one was brought on by the arrest in Russia of Yale Professor Fred C. Barghoorn on trumped up spy charges.

There is no doubt that the U.S. views the arrest with seriousness. President Kennedy, in a sharply-worded warning, told the Soviet Union that the arrest could have a "most serious effect" particularly on the future of U.S.-Russian cultural relations.

BARGHOORN

The President flatly denied that Barghoorn, a distinguished political scientist, was spying.

Shortly after the incident, the U.S. abruptly cancelled negotiations with Moscow for a new cultural exchange agreement.

Kenndey said the U.S. was deeply concerned not only at the arrest of Barghoorn, but at the fact that U.S. officials were kept in ignorance for days about the fact of his seizure.

All of this, no doubt, had some bearing on the Soviet Union's decision to release Barghoorn Saturday.

Congressional Junketeers

Some congressional junketeers came in for sharp criticism the past week. It came when they took the headwaiter of the House restaurant with them to Paris and London on a so-called inspection trip.

The criticism got so bad that the traveling congressmen, headed up by Rep. Wayne L. Hays of Ohio, cut short the trip and returned home. As the group landed, a fleet of 20 Air Force station wagons and drivers were on hand to chauffeur them home from Andrews Air Force Base. They returned in a late Air Force jet. Included in the group were 10 congressmen, eight of their wives, two senator's wives and seven staff members, including the waiter identified as Ernest Petinaud.

Hays defended the trip and said Petinaud acted as a messenger boy. Petinaud told reporters he saw nothing wrong with his part of the trip and added: "The only reason the other congressmen can object to me coming to Europe is that I'm colored."

Petinaud, who said he understands but does not speak French received $27 a day for expenses. Newsmen were unable to obtain a list of all the congressmen who made the trip at taxpayers' expense in the Air Force plane.

On The Domestic Side

IN ATLANTA, A 39-year-old white man was seized by several Negro youths who dragged him several blocks and set his clothing afire. The victim, William Lanigan, suffered serious burns . . .

DON'T COUNT Richard Nixon out of the 1964 presidential race. Although he has denied any ambition that way, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower listed Nixon as a possible dark horse at the Republican Convention. However, Nixon told a news conference he was appreciative of the statements made by Eisenhower, but that these had not changed his mind about politics. He did say he favored a debate between Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who tossed his hat into the ring officially the past week, and Sen. Barry Goldwater, who is conceded to be the front runner at this point . . .

MEANWHILE, Senator Goldwater says he sees pressure from a rather fed up America behind Congressional slashes in President Kennedy's foreign aid bill and thinks the cuts should be bigger. At his press conference, Kennedy lashed out at members of Congress who have slashed his foreign aid program. He said such cuts were severely limiting his ability to protect the national interest, then added: "I can't understand the furor. It is the same type of bill that has been in existence for 10 years." . . .

A SURPRISING NOTE — Dr. Louis I. Dublin, a famous statistician at Kansas City, says two million Americans—more than one in 100 have already tried to commit suicide. And he said some 200,000 try each year to take their own lives. And 25,000 to 35,000 actually succeed . . .

PRESUMABLY if you work for the Justice Department you are beyond the law. In Selma, Alabama, a Justice Department Attorney — David Marlin — was cited for contempt Wednesday for failing to answer to a subpoena by a grand jury investigating free federal government transportation provided integration leader, Martin Luther King Jr. A few hours later, the government obtained from the U. S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals an injunction which ordered Alabama Judge James A. Hare to protect Marling from the grand jury. Even before that, the Justice Department had sought to block the grand jury probe into the event which was unauthorized transportation. A young Negro attorney in the JP, Thelton Henderson, resigned after admitting he lent the car to King, which is in violation of regulations. When Marlin was subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury, he refused. A warrant for his arrest was then issued, but the high court set it aside . . .

IN ALABAMA, Governor George C. Wallace said a television ban slapped on the annual segregated Blue-Gray football game by a broadcasting network and two sponsors was tragic and irresponsible. The National Broadcasting Company and the Gillette Razor Company and the Chrysler Corp. decided not to televise the 26-yearo-ld classic this year because Negro players are barred from the game . . .

MORE TROUBLE IN Iraq. Latest word is that the international leadership of the Baath Socialist party has ousted the Iraqi government and has assumed control of the oil-rich country. A statement by the party's Supreme Council, composed chiefly of party leaders of Syria and Iragu ,was the latest development in the split within the Baath's Iragu leadership which erupted in an abortive revolt in Baghdad Wednesday. The party's Iragui council had run the county since September and declared the new council electd November 11, "illegal." It was the Nov. 11 election wihch ousted strong man revolt . . .

IT WAS A different story in West Germany this past week. The Previous week the Russians stopped American convoys en route through East Germany to Berlin. The past week, convoys rolled along the autobahn with no interference from the Russians . . .

IN MOSCOW, the Soviet Union charged it was nobody's business but the Kremlin's and Prime Minister Fidel Castro' if Soviet forces are stationed in Cuba. The Soviets said Russia would discuss withdrawal of troops from Cubt only in the context of an East-West agreement for withdrawal of all troop stationed abroad. This apparently would include Americans in South Viet Nam and West Germany . . .

IN THE NEVADA DESERT

By DAVID FARMER

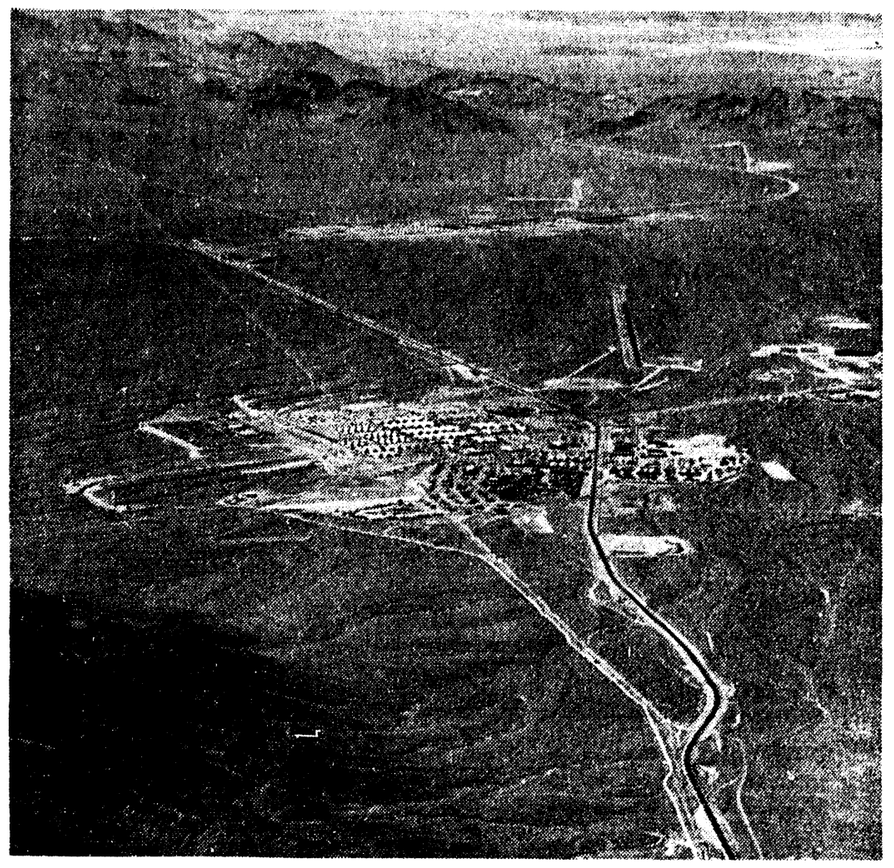
NEVADA TEST SITE (AP)— Sixty-five miles northwest of glittering Las Vegas, spread over 1,000 square miles of sage-speckled dry lakes and jagged mesas, lies a supersecret fresh air laboratory that rarely makes the headlines.

But don't let the silence fool you.

With the signing of the nuclear test-ban treaty, what goes on at the Atomic Energy Commission's Nevada Test Site is more vital than ever to the nation's security.

So far as is known, the tunnels honeycombing the desert floor are the only places the United States experiments with blasts designed to upgrade its nuclear arsenal.

The site also is headquarters for Rover, the nuclear rocket ticketed some day to propel man deep into space.



THE LITTLE TOWN of Mercury, Nev., just inside the Atomic Energy Commission's super-secret Nevada Test Site. It's primarily a camp for 1,500 persons, civilian and military test personnel. The AEC plans a big, privately owned community on the test site as it develops its underground nuclear testing, allowed under the test ban treaty. Most of the 5,000 employes now must make a daily 130-mile trip from and to Las Vegas. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

A Bird

And there's Kiwi, named for a flightless New Zealand bird, a project aimed at developing a reactor for a nuclear rocket.

And Pluto, the flying stovepipe. This is a nuclear ramjet, operating in the atmosphere, supposed to be able to cruise high at 2,000 miles an hour or hedgehop at slower speeds, carrying a nuclear warhead.

In all, the United States has poured $70 million into the site, once considered fit only for a gunnery and bombardment range.

Millions more are likely. Plans call for a brand-new $11-million city to be created for scientists and technicians, most of whom now commute daily from Las Vegas and don't like the 130-mile round trip.

A little town called Mercury, just inside the test site, already has spurted so that about 1,500 persons now bunk there. It is primarily a camp, with sleeping quarters, offices and laboratories for civilian and military personnel.

The test site's gates have been sealed to newsmen and the public since 1958. News has dwindled to a trickle in comparison with the early years, starting in 1951, when a series of spectacular above-ground tests studded the headlines with such picturesque names as Yucca Flats, Mercury, Jackass Flats and Frenchman Flat.

But if there's much that can't be talked about, there's much that can.

The site provides work for more than 5,000 men and women — largest single enterprise in Nevada.

Those workers take home $100 million each year in paychecks. Yet Nevadans seem to pay no more attention to it than any other plot of sand.

"We went through above-ground tests and lived," said Rex Noble, operator of a service station. "There's nothing to worry about now that they're underground."

The Atomic Energy Commission, which runs the site, carved this chunk out of the government-owned Las Begas bombing and gunnery range for a continental proving ground. There were things that couldn't be done in the Pacific Ocean.

The AEC examined population density, weather, air lanes, labor, transportation and security. Nevada won out over all the other deserts in the country.

Make Way

The tarantulas, lizards, scorpions and joshua trees had to make way for the neutrons, protons and electrons.

There have been more than 180 announced weapons shots, plus detonations for Plowshare the program for peaceful uses of nuclear explosives such as the possibility of digging a new Panama Canal with them.

Scientists set off 80 nuclear blasts in the air between 1951 and 1958. The biggest was the Hood shot — 74.3 kilotons — on July 5, 1957. A kiloton is equivalent to 1,000 tons of TNT.

Then came the American-Soviet nuclear moratorium. Tests stopped, but the test site didn't. Energies were challelled into the Nuclear Rocket Development Station on the southwest corner of the site.

About $45 million of the investment in the test site has been pumped into the rocket center.

The nuclear blasts started again in September 1961, and nearly all since then have been underground.

Underground shots, the kind permitted under the present limited nuclear test-ban treaty have been in shafts drilled in the Yucca Flat area near the north end of the site. Others were in the 1,000-foot Ranier Mesa bordering the flat.

While the old airbursts used to be spectacular shows — with flashes sometimes visible for thousands of miles and with clouds 30,000 feet high — the underground shots are tame affairs.

"There's nothing very exciting about an underground nuclear detonation," said Henry Vermillion, chief of information for the AEC in Las Vegas.

"Usually you see nothing but a little dust kicking up. Then you wait, and usually there's a subsidence. The blast creats a spherical cavity sometimes like a ball of molten glass—underground.

"Then the sphere collapses and there's a sink, or depression, in the ground. Some are 1,000 feet across and 100 fee' deep."

One purpose of the present underground tests is to learn how to detect other countries' underground shots.

The AEC says it has been extremely careful to guard the health of Nevadans and others against the effects of the nuclear monster.

The commission says the handful of injuries that have occurred in the past 12 years have been minor—like the time two workmen suffered temporary impairment of vision when they didn't shield their eyes from a fireball.

The AEC even classified as a nuclear-related injury the strained neck of a man who made a sudden movement when a shock wave broke a window in his house at Hiko, Nev.

More than 600 claims have been filed, most of them regarding structural damage. Most have been settled.

Big Question How Long De Gaulle Plans To Rule

Charles de Gaulle long ago wrote that a little mystery is necessary to strengthen the authority of one who desires to govern. True to this guideline, he is letting people guess how long he intends to stand at the helm of France.

The answer to this puzzler would shed some light on the biggest political question in modern France:

What happens after de Gaulle?

If De Gaulle had suddenly retired or fallen to an assassin at the height of the Algerian crisis political chaos splashed with blood likely would have followed. Now Algeria is rapidly being pushed into history. Its backwash is far less a political factor than a year ago.

De Gaulle will be 73 Friday. If he should go today, France would still be shaken to its complex and potentially explosive political underpinnings. Under constitution processes he would be replaced temporarily by the president of the Senate—now the strongly anti-Gaullist Gaston Monnerville, a native of French Guiana.

The constitution provides that a presidential election must be held 20 to 50 days after the vacancy occurs, unless the Constitutional Council, a sort of supreme court, finds unavoidable reasons to delay the vote.

De Gaulle's Fifth Republic constitution elevated the post of president to a level of supreme importance. Article 16 leaves the way open for dictatorial powers, if the president deems them necessary. One of the bitter arguments against the costitution centers around this article, with even some Gaullists expressing concern that an unscrupulous president could ride roughshod but legally over the country.

With De Gaulle in power for an indefinite period, the list of politicians of presidential timber seems meager and pale. No one at this stage commands a modicum of the personal and political authority retained by the general who led Free French forces down the Champs Elysees as Paris was liberated from the Germans.

Physically and psychologically, few Frenchmen are like De Gaulle. His six-foot-plus frame is head and often shoulders above his compatriots. And De Gaulle has a mystic approach to his mission at the head of France. This approach shows elements of Joan of Arc and Napoleon but is original enough to become the stuff of Gaullist legend.

NO POLITICIAN

So far no other politician has been able to make a convincing show that he is needed and wanted. The race for successor will probably be wide open.

The Gaullists, with a majority in the National Assembly, could normally be thought to run a stronge candidate with heavy support. But the main cohesive factor in the Union for the New Republic party is De Gaulle himself.

The UNR as a political bloc might die with him. If De Gaulle should step down and remain an elder statesman, his choice from Gaullist ranks could have a strong edge on the field.

The Week In Focus

More Trouble In Asia

In Southeast Asia there is a small country — as countries go — that could develop into another major trouble spot for the United States — since it doesn't have enough troubles already in that part of the world. It's name is Cambodia which lies partly against Thailand and partly against South Viet Nam where the U. S. already is engaged in a shooting war against the Communist.

The nation — about the size of Mississippi — has 6 million people living under the guidance of Prince Norodom Sihanouk, 43, who renounced the Cambodian throne to be the political leader of the Cambodians.

So far he has been a self-proclaimed neutral between the forces of the West and Communism, but accepted help from both sides. For instance: guns and fighter planes from Russia, more than $366 million worth of military and economic help from the U. S.

For the United States, holding South Viet Nam has been a prolonged and costly adventure, with more than $4 million in aid going to Viet Nam where more than 100 Americans have lost their lives in the war against the Communist guerrillas of North Viet Nam.

If Viet Nam was lost to communism, it's a safe bet' all Southeast Asia would be in time. Last September Prince Sihanouk said he was convinced the Communists already have won the battle for South Viet Nam.

And he said he felt his own neutral country eventually would fall to communism. Last August Sihanouk cut Cambodia's ties with Viet Nam because of the crackdown on the Buddhists by the then President Diem.

And he has complained that Cambodian exiles—his enemies were in Viet Nam making broadcasts against him with transmitters which, he said, were supported in part by U. S. assistance.

Wednesday he sent out the word Cambodia would cut its ties with the United States, too, and after Jan. 1, 1964, refuse any more American aid, and abandon its neutrality unless the anti - Sihanouk broadcasts were stopped.

The State Department was upset. Worse news was to come. Later Wednesday Red China said Sihanouk had sent word to Peking, pledging close friendship and cooperation.

At the same time, Norodom, 41, who has become increasingly mad at the U. S. since September, 1962, when President Kennedy in effect rejected his proposal for an international conference to guarantee Cambodia's neutrality, said he would bring in three to five Communist Chinese experts to help organize nationalized industry.

If the Red Chinese, with Sihanouk's blessing, move into Cambodia the very thing this country tried most to prevent—Red Chinese direct influence in Southeast Asia—would have come about.

This is still a murky situation. Sihanouk may not take the final step of fully abondining his neutrality and throwing open the Cambodian doors to Red China. He said later in the week he would continue to accept U. S. aid if no strings were attached.

But the way he's playing the game it's like sticking his hand into the tiger's mouth to stroke his tongue.

As the group landed, a fleet of 20 Air Force station wagons and drivers were on hand to chauffeur them home from Andrews Air Force Base. They returned in a late Air Force jet. Included in the group were 10 congressmen, eight of their wives, two senator's wives and seven staff members, including the waiter identified as Ernest Petinaud.

Hays defended the trip and said Petinaud acted as a messenger boy. Petinaud told reporters he saw nothing wrong with his part of the trip and added: "The only reason the other congressmen can object to me coming to Europe is that I'm colored."

Petinaud, who said he understands but does not speak French received $27 a day for expenses. Newsmen were unable to obtain a list of all the congressmen who made the trip at taxpayers' expense in the Air Force plane.

On The Domestic Side

IN ATLANTA, A 39-year-old white man was seized by several Negro youths who dragged him several blocks and set his clothing afire. The victim, William Lanigan, suffered serious burns . . .

DON'T COUNT Richard Nixon out of the 1964 presidential race. Although he has denied any ambition that way, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower listed Nixon as a possible dark horse at the Republican Convention. However, Nixon told a news conference he was appreciative of the statements made by Eisenhower, but that these had not changed his mind about politics. He did say he favored a debate between Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who tossed his hat into the ring officially the past week, and Sen. Barry Goldwater, who is conceded to be the front runner at this point . . .

MEANWHILE, Senator Goldwater says he sees pressure from a rather fed up America behind Congressional slashes in President Kennedy's foreign aid bill and thinks the cuts should be bigger. At his press conference, Kennedy lashed out at members of Congress who have slashed his foreign aid program. He said such cuts were severely limiting his ability to protect the national interest, then added: "I can't understand the furor. It is the same type of bill that has been in existence for 10 years." . . .

A SURPRISING NOTE — Dr. Louis I. Dublin, a famous statistician at Kansas City, says two million Americans—more than one in 100 have already tried to commit suicide. And he said some 200,000 try each year to take their own lives. And 25,000 to 35,000 actually succeed . . .

PRESUMABLY if you work for the Justice Department you are beyond the law. In Selma, Alabama, a Justice Department Attorney — David Marlin — was cited for contempt Wednesday for failing to answer to a subpoena by a grand jury investigating free federal government transportation provided integration leader, Martin Luther King Jr. A few hours later, the government obtained from the U. S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals an injunction which ordered Alabama Judge James A. Hare to protect Marling from the grand jury. Even before that, the Justice Department had sought to block the grand jury probe into the event which was unauthorized transportation. A young Negro attorney in the JP, Thelton Henderson, resigned after admitting he lent the car to King, which is in violation of regulations. When Marlin was subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury, he refused. A warrant for his arrest was then issued, but the high court set it aside . . .

IN ALABAMA, Governor George C. Wallace said a television ban slapped on the annual segregated Blue-Gray football game by a broadcasting network and two sponsors was tragic and irresponsible. The National Broadcasting Company and the Gillette Razor Company and the Chrysiter Corp. decided not to televise the 26-yearo-ld classic this year because Negro players are barred from the game . . .

MORE TROUBLE IN Iraq. Latest word is that the international leadership of the Baath Socialist party has ousted the Iraqi government and has assumed control of the oil-rich country. A statement by the party's Supreme Council, composed chiefly of party leaders of Syria and Iragu ,was the latest development in the split within the Baath's Iragu leadership which erupted in an abortive revolt in Baghdad Wednesday. The party's Iragui council had run the county since September and declared the new council electd November 11, "illegal." It was the Nov. 11 election wihch ousted strong man revolt . . .

IT WAS A different story in West Germany this past week. The Previous week the Russians stopped American convoys en route through East Germany to Berlin. The past week, convoys rolled along the autobahn with no interference from the Russians . . .

IN MOSCOW, the Soviet Union charged it was nobody's business but the Kremlin's and Prime Minister Fidel Castro' if Soviet forces are stationed in Cuba. The Soviets said Russia would discuss withdrawal of troops from Cubt only in the context of an East-West agreement for withdrawal of all troop stationed abroad. This apparently would include Americans in South Viet Nam and West Germany . . .

IN THE NEVADA DESERT

By DAVID FARMER

NEVADA TEST SITE (AP)— Sixty-five miles northwest of glittering Las Vegas, spread over 1,000 square miles of sage-speckled dry lakes and jagged mesas, lies a supersecret fresh air laboratory that rarely makes the headlines.

But don't let the silence fool you.

With the signing of the nuclear test-ban treaty, what goes on at the Atomic Energy Commission's Nevada Test Site is more vital than ever to the nation's security.

So far as is known, the tunnels honeycombing the desert floor are the only places the United States experiments with blasts designed to upgrade its nuclear arsenal.

The site also is headquarters for Rover, the nuclear rocket ticketed some day to propel man deep into space.

A Bird

And there's Kiwi, named for a flightless New Zealand bird, a project aimed at developing a reactor for a nuclear rocket.

And Pluto, the flying stovepipe. This is a nuclear ramjet, operating in the atmosphere, supposed to be able to cruise high at 2,000 miles an hour or hedgehop at slower speeds, carrying a nuclear warhead.

In all, the United States has poured $70 million into the site, once considered fit only for a gunnery and bombardment range.

Millions more are likely. Plans call for a brand-new $11-million city to be created for scientists and technicians, most of whom now commute daily from Las Vegas and don't like the 130-mile round trip.

A little town called Mercury, just inside the test site, already has spurted so that about 1,500 persons now bunk there. It is primarily a camp, with sleeping quarters, offices and laboratories for civilian and military personnel.

The test site's gates have been sealed to newsmen and the public since 1958. News has dwindled to a trickle in comparison with the early years, starting in 1951, when a series of spectacular above-ground tests studded the headlines with such picturesque names as Yucca Flats, Mercury, Jackass Flats and Frenchman Flat.

But if there's much that can't be talked about, there's much that can.

The site provides work for more than 5,000 men and women — largest single enterprise in Nevada.

Those workers take home $100 million each year in paychecks. Yet Nevadans seem to pay no more attention to it than any other plot of sand.

"We went through above-ground tests and lived," said Rex Noble, operator of a service station. "There's nothing to worry about now that they're underground."

The Atomic Energy Commission, which runs the site, carved this chunk out of the government-owned Las Begas bombing and gunnery range for a continental proving ground. There were things that couldn't be done in the Pacific Ocean.

The AEC examined population density, weather, air lanes, labor, transportation and security. Nevada won out over all the other deserts in the country.

Make Way

The tarantulas, lizards, scorpions and joshua trees had to make way for the neutrons, protons and electrons.

There have been more than 180 announced weapons shots, plus detonations for Plowshare the program for peaceful uses of nuclear explosives such as the possibility of digging a new Panama Canal with them.

Scientists set off 80 nuclear blasts in the air between 1951 and 1958. The biggest was the Hood shot — 74.3 kilotons — on July 5, 1957. A kiloton is equivalent to 1,000 tons of TNT.

Then came the American-Soviet nuclear moratorium. Tests stopped, but the test site didn't. Energies were challelled into the Nuclear Rocket Development Station on the southwest corner of the site.

About $45 million of the investment in the test site has been pumped into the rocket center.

The nuclear blasts started again in September 1961, and nearly all since then have been underground.

Underground shots, the kind permitted under the present liimited nuclear test-ban treaty have been in shafts drilled in the Yucca Flat area near the north end of the site. Others were in the 1,000-foot Ranier Mesa bordering the flat.

While the old airbursts used to be spectacular shows — with flashes sometimes visible for thousands of miles and with clouds 30,000 feet high — the underground shots are tame affairs.

"There's nothing very exciting about an underground nuclear detonation," said Henry Vermillion, chief of information for the AEC in Las Vegas.

"Usually you see nothing but a little dust kicking up. Then you wait, and usually there's a subsidence. The blast creats a spherical cavity sometimes like a ball of molten glass—underground.

"Then the sphere collapses and there's a sink, or depression, in the ground. Some are 1,000 feet across and 100 feet deep."

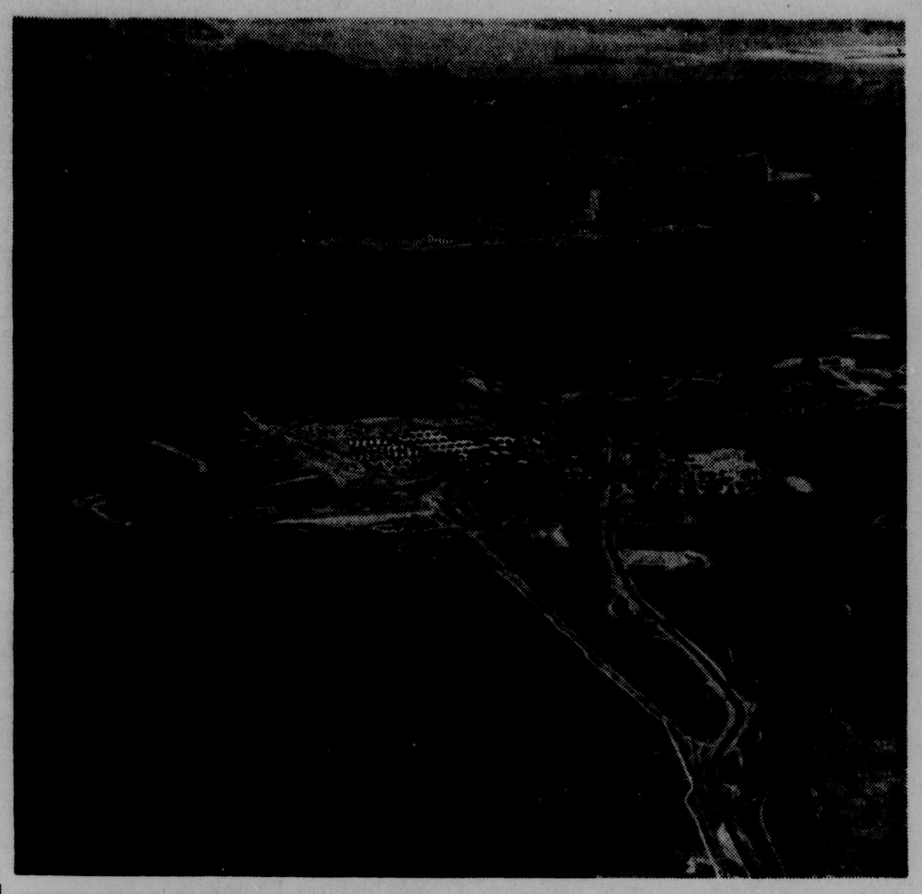
One purpose of the present underground tests is to learn how to detect other countries' underground shots.

The AEC says it has been extremely careful to guard the health of Nevadans and others against the effects of the nuclear monster.

The commission says the handful of injuries that have occurred in the past 12 years have been minor—like the time two workmen suffered temporary impairment of vision when they didn't shield their eyes from a fireball.

The AEC even classified as a nuclear-related injury the strained neck of a man who made a sudden movement when a shock wave broke a window in his house at Hiko, Nev.

More than 600 claims have been filed, most of them regarding structural damage. Most have been settled.



THE LITTLE TOWN of Mercury, Nev., just inside the Atomic Energy Commission's super-secret Nevada Test Site. It's primarily a camp for 1,500 persons, civilian and military test personnel. The AEC plans a big, privately owned community on the test site as it develops its underground nuclear testing, allowed under the test ban treaty. Most of the 5,000 employes now must make a daily 130-mile trip from and to Las Vegas. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

Big Question How Long De Gaulle Plans To Rule

Charles de Gaulle long ago wrote that a little mystery is necessary to strengthen the authority of one who desires to govern. True to this guideline, he is letting people guess how long he intends to stand at the helm of France.

The answer to this puzzler would shed some light on the biggest political question in modern France:

What happens after de Gaulle?

If De Gaulle had suddenly retired or fallen to an assassin at the height of the Algerian crisis political chaos splashed with blood likely would have followed. Now Algeria is rapidly being pushed into history. Its backwash is far less a political factor than a year ago.

De Gaulle will be 73 Friday. If he should go today, France would still be shaken to its complex and potentially explosive political underpinnings. Under constitution processes he would be replaced temporarily by the president of the Senate—now the strongly anti-Gaullist Gaston Monnerville, a native of French Guiana.

The constitution provides that a presidential election must be held 20 to 50 days after the vacancy occurs, unless the Constitutional Council, a sort of supreme court, finds unavoidable reasons to delay the vote.

De Gaulle's Fifth Republic constitution elevated the post of president to a level of supreme importance. Article 16 leaves the way open for dictatorial powers. if the president deems them necessary. One of the bitter arguments against the costitution centers around this article, with even some Gaullists expressing concern that an unscrupulous president could ride roughshod but legally over the country.

With De Gaulle in power for an indefinite period, the list of politicians of presidential timber seems meager and pale. No one at this stage commands a modicum of the personal and political authority retained by the general who led Free French forces down the Champs Elysees as Paris was liberated from the Germans.

Physically and psychologically, few Frenchmen are like De Gaulle. His six-foot-plus frame is head and often shoulders above his compatriots. And De Gaulle has a mystic approach to his mission at the head of France. This approach shows elements of Joan of Arc and Napoleon but is original enough to become the stuff of Gaullist legend.

NO POLITICIAN

So far no other politician has been able to make a convincing show that he is needed and wanted. The race for successor will probably be wide open.

The Gaullists, with a majority in the National Assembly, could normally be thought to run a stronge candidate with heavy support. But the main cohesive factor in the Union for the New Republic party is De Gaulle himself.

The UNR as a political bloc might die with him. If De Gaulle should step down and remain an elder statesman, his choice from Gaullist ranks could have a strong edge on the field.

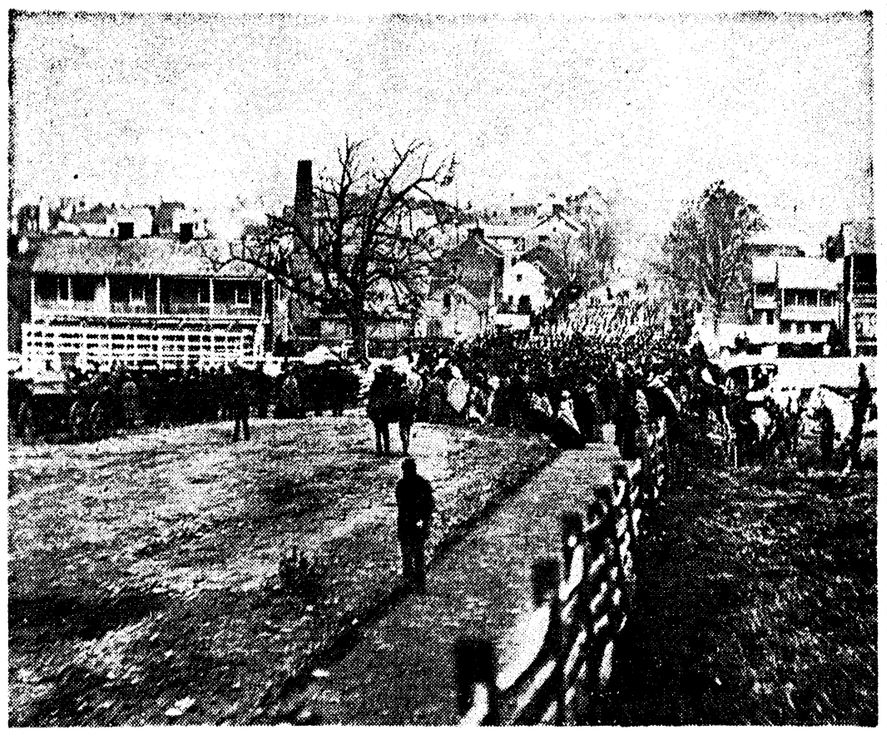
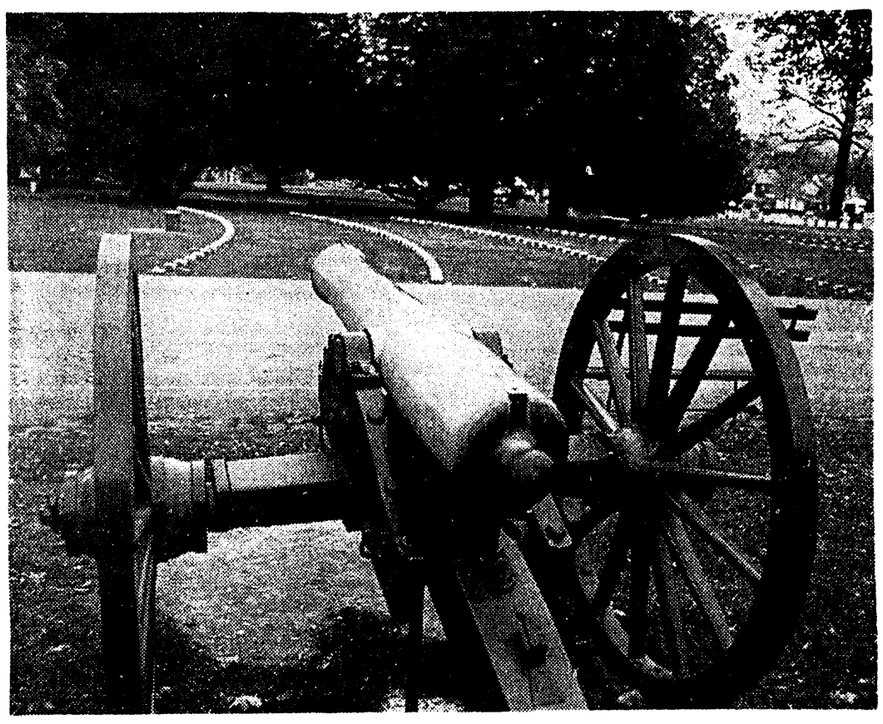
Gettsyburg Address



CROWDS WATCH the procession going north on Baltimore Street in Gettysburg, Pa., to the new soldiers' cemetery to the north on the day of its dedication, Nov. 19, 1863. The photo was made by a Mathew Brady photographer. Thousands came from outside the little town. They came to hear famed orator Edward Everett. They stayed to hear President Abe Lincoln make the short speech which was to go into history as the Gettysburg Address. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)



CANNON AND Civil War soldiers' graves in neat rows surrounded by trees now stretch out in the cemetery in Gettsyburg, Pa., where Abe Lincoln spoke on Nov. 19, 1863. On that day, when the cemetery was dedicated, low wooden crosses marked the graves of the 1,118 Union soldiers whose bodies had been moved there. They were among the more than 3,000 Union men who had died in the Battle of Gettysburg in July, 1863. Others were moved later. (Wide World Photo)

EDITOR'S NOTE — A hundred years ago this week, a weary and worried president stood near a Pennsylvania cemetery and delivered a four-minute speech he thought would be little noted nor long remembered. It was, instead, one of the great masterpieces of American literature.

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

GETTSYBURG, Pa. (AP) One hundred years ago this week, with vultures wheeling overhead and the skeletons of horses still scattered about the landscape. Abraham Lincoln mounted a wooden platform on the battlefield at Gettysburg to deliver the most famous address in American History.

The odd part about it was that no one really had intended for him to speak.

The orator of the day, as every school boy knows, was Edward Everett, former secretary of state, U.S. senator, governor of Massachusetts and president of Harvard, whose nationwide lecture tour had helped save Mount Vernon as a national shrine. Such was Everett's fame as an orator that the dedication date of the little 17-acre military cemetery at Gettysburg had been changed from Oct. 23 to Nov. 19 to accommodate his schedule.

Into The Act

Lincoln got into the act by accepting the same printed invitation that had been mailed to hundreds of others. Frankly surprised and a trifle embarrassed at his acceptance, the Board of Commissioners representing the 17 Union states which had joined to purchase the cemetery land quickly followed up with a more personal invitation in which they called on the President to make "a few appropriate remarks" after the Everett speech.

Clark E. Carr of Galesburg, the Illinois member of the board recalled later the decision to ask the President to say a few words came definitely "as an afterthought."

Contrary to persistent legend, most historians doubt that Lincoln jotted his speech down on the back of an envelope aboard the train to Gettysburg. He probably began work on it at the White House on Tuesday morning, Nov. 17, two days before it was to be delivered, writing at least the first page of it on executive mansion stationery borrowed from Wills. An hour later, he gathered his papers and went next door to show the speech to Seward, who was staying at the home of Robert Harper, editor of the local paper.

After breakfast next morning, Lincoln rewrote the speech again while waiting for the procession to start toward the battlefield.

Gettysburg, a town of 2,100 had swelled to more than 15,000, with more visitors arriving hourly by foot and carriage and by special trains from Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia. Souvenir hunters wandered over Little Round Top and Culp's Hill, the Devil's Den and Cemetery Ridge, hunting for bullets, buttons, shell fragments, canteens, muddy knapsacks and other mementos of the bloody battle of four months ago.

Union Dead

Only 1,118 of the more than 3,000 Union dead had been reburied beneath the low wooden crosses in the new cemetery, and it would be seven years before the Confederate dead were removed to cemeteries in Richmond, Charleston and Savannah. Amid the skeletons of horses and the scattered equipment, coffins protruded here and there where the rain had washed away the thin cover of earth hastily tossed on the graves by surviving comrades. People in Gettysburg blamed the high incidence of sickness that fall on the condition of the battlefield.

More than an hour late in getting started, the procession finally moved up Baltimore Street under a cloudless sky in perfect 52-degree Indian summer weather. Lincoln, in a Prince Albert coat, white gauntlets and a tall stove pipe hat that still bore a black crepe for Willie's death, sat astride a beautiful chestnut horse, "the largest in the Cumberland Valley." Even so, he seemed to dwarf the animal, with his long legs almost touching the ground. The march to the cemetery took only 15 minutes, but there was another hour-long delay because Everett was off touring the battlefield with Prof. Michael Jacobs of Gettysburg College.

During the long wait, Lincoln was handed up another telegram from Stanton containing some good news. Burnside was safe though still threatened at Knoxville, Grant had started a big battle at Chattanooga and, best news of all, "Mrs. Lincoln reports your son's health is a great deal better and he will be out today."

The ceremonies finally got under way at high noon with the Birgfield Band of Philadelphia playing a dirge and the Rev. Thomas Stockton, chaplain of the House of Representatives, intoning the opening prayer. As the Marine Band struck up "Old Hundred," the President settled back in a battered settee on the platform, flanked by Seward on his left and Everett on his right. The wooden platform, erected where the Soldiers. National Monument now stands, faced northwest across the site of the first day's battle and afforded a splendid view of Oak Ridge, the tower of the Old Dorm at Gettysburg College and, shimmering in the distant haze, the South Mountain range.

Benjamin French, officer in charge of public buildings in Washington, introduced Everett. For the next hour and 50 minutes, in deep organ-like tones, the 70-year-old spell binder reviewed funeral customs in ancent Athens, described the three-day battle at Gettysburg in detail, paid tribute to those who died there and vigorously assailed the states rights position. Once when he mistakenly said Lee for Meade, Lincoln corrected him audibly. At the conclusion of his address, Everett was wrapped in a blanket, Lincoln and Seward came forward to pump his hand and the crowd appluaded enthusiastically."

An Ode Written

Next, the Baltimore Glee Club sang an ode written for the occasion by French. During their rendition, Lincoln extracted a pair of steel bowed spectacles from a metallic case, produced his manuscript from an inside pocket and proceded to study it. The crowd fell silent and ceased its stirring as Ward H. Lamon, marshal of the District of Columbia, introduced the President. Some had been on their feet for more than four hours.

"Four score and seven years ago," Lincoln began in a squeaky, slightly falsetto voice that nevertheless carried well in the clear autumn air to the back of the crowd.

Directly in front of him, Associated Press reporter Joseph L. Gilbert scribbled furiously in shorthand. Alexander Gardner, Mathew Brady's man on the scene, crouched beneath the black cloth of his camera waiting for an emotional gesture that never came. In four minutes, the speech was over and Gardner had missed his shot. Gilbert borrowed the president's manuscript to fill out his notes and telegraphed the complete text to his Philadelphia office. From thence, it was sped to newspapers across the country.

According to Gilbert's account the crowd applauded at least five times during the speech and there was sustained applause at the end, but Lincoln was plainly dissatisfied with his performance.

Concentration must have been difficult, for the President had a great deal on his mind. The war in the West was going badly. A budget message was impending before Congress, and he had put it aside to sort out his Gettysburg thoughts. His political fortunes were than at such a low ebb that one of his own Cabinet members, Secretary of the Treasury Salmon Chase, was making noises like a presidential candidate.

Thaddeus Stevens, for one, regarded the President as a "dead card" in the political deck. Upon hearing that Secretary of State William Seward would accompany Lincoln to Gettysburg, he sneered, "The dead going to eulogize the dead."

On top of all that, his best pal in the world, Tad Lincoln, 10, lay sick of the fever in an upstairs bedroom. Mrs. Lincoln was beside herself with worry. Less than two years earlier, Willie Lincoln had died in the same bedroom after a brief illness.

The President, however, was in good spirits when Gen. James B. Fry called for him on Wednesday in an open carriage and urged him to hurry if they were to catch the special train leaving at noon for Gettysburg from the Baltimore & Ohio station. He responded with an anecdote about a fellow being jostled by crowds while en route to the gallows. "Boys," the fellow cried out, "you needn't be in such a hurry to get ahead. There won't be any fun until I get there."

It was raining heavily as the President boarded the special four-car train, the last car of which was a director's car, fitted out as a drawing room. Besides Seward, he was accompanied by Secretary of Interior John P. Usher, Postmaster General Montgomery Blair, his two personal secretaries, John Nicolay and John Hay, the Italian and French ministers, and a number of congressmen, Army officers and newspaper reporters.

Little Girl

As the train pulled out, a little girl passed up some flowers to the President. He leaned out the window to kiss her, saying, "You are a little rosebud yourself."

Further along the line an elderly man who had lost a son on Little Round Top at Gettysburg came aboard to shake hands. Moved by the incident Lincoln sighed, "When I think of the sacrifices of life yet to be offered and the hearts and homes yet to be made desolate before this dreadful war is over, my heart is like lead within me and I feel at times like hiding in deep darkness."

At Baltimore the cars were drawn by horses over to the tracks of the North Central Railroad and a baggage car fitted out as a diner was added. There was another switch over at Hanover Junction to the tracks of the Gettysburg & Hanover Railroad, and Lincoln was called to the rear platform to greet a small crowd gathered at the station. "Well," he smiled, "you have seen me, and according to the general experience you have seen less than you expected to see." The crowd cheered.

The rain had stopped by the time the train pulled into the little brick station at Gettysburg shortly before 6, and a big harvest moon was climbing into the frosty Pennsylvania night. A large enthusiastic crowd accompanied the President as he walked two blocks up the hill to the house of attorney David Wills, chairman of the cemetery board. The Wills house, a sturdy yelow brick affair, still stands overlooking the public square. It and the little railroad station are Gettysburg's main surviving reminders of the Lincoln visit.

After dining with Everett, Gov. Andrew Curtin of Pennsylvania and other dignitaries in the Wills home, the President was serenaded by the 5th New York Artillery band, but he declined to address the crowd in the square.

"In my position," he begged off, "it is somewhat important that I should not say foolish things."

"Not if you can help it," cried an impertinent voice.

To which Lincoln good naturedly retorted, "it very often happens that the only way to help it is to say nothing at all. Believing this is my present condition this evening, I be you to excuse me from addressing you further."

At 9 o'clock, Lincoln received a telegram from Secretary of War Edwin Stanton reporting that his son had improved slighlty. With his Negro servant William Johnston he retired to his bedroom on the second floor to finish the first draft of his speech on a piece of foolscap

New British Prime Minister 'Down-to-Earth' Leader

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON

LONDON (AP)—The man who is now Britain's prime minister was stuck—no tuxedo and a sudden summons to a formal function.

He called a junior official in his ministry.

"How tall are you?" he asked.

The baffled civil servant replied: "Five-foot-nine, sir."

"You're too short. But I suppose I could let the trousers down. Is your dinner jacket double-breasted?"

Two days later Sir Alec Douglas-Home gave orders that the young man was not to be transferred—the dinner jacket had fit so well.

This was the sometime 14th Earl of Home — pronounced "hume" — in action with the inbred security of the patrician who can afford to be unpretentious. He has gained most of the things he has wanted without ever seeming to try too hard.

HAS POISE

He has the poise that allows him to smile at his own heritage.

For example, he is the only millionaire on record who does not mind acknowledging descent from a long line of cattle rustlers.

Once he was asked if his Scottish ancestors, back in the Middle Ages, really used to plunder the English in the bloody border battles.

"We did very well for 300 years," came the bland reply.

But sometimes the casual assurance with which he pleases himself comes across to others with different backgrounds as icy, ruthless arrogance.

After becoming prime minister Oct. 19 he postponed a new session of Parliament by two weeks—with an elegant flick of the wrist it seemed to his critics. He said it would give his ministers time to get to know their new duties. Opponents claimed the real reason was to give himself time to become a commoner again, win a special election and so personally attend the start of parliamentary session.

Harold Wilson and the opposition Socialists he leads were furious at what they took to be a tampering with the rights of Parliament.

"We are not to be treated as his awkward or refractory tenantry," cried Wilson. "We are the House of Commons!"

As Lord Home, British foreign secretary, he displayed no obvious ambition to become prime minister. Indeed, friends billed him as a man for whom the vulgarities of personal and party maneuverings were distasteful.

IRON NERVE

Douglas-Home teamed up with that old pro, the stricken Harold Macmillan, and rose to the top in calm defiance of the political traditions of his time.

He showed iron nerve, single-mindedness and a rare political intelligence that made other would-be leaders look like amateurs.

In the process he decapitated his rivals with such gentlemanly charm that they did not realize what had happened to them.

All this was not the performance of an unwilling draftee, a "faceless earl" as his critics have called him.

To many it looked more like the climax of a British-type coup d'etat organized by those Tory forces who wanted a special kind of new leader.

Over the years he has picked up the tag of a right-wing reactionary who never ducked controversy or unpopularity for his views.

As private secretary he accompanied the late Neville Chamberlain to meet Hitler at Munich in 1938 and today is one of the few British leaders who dares to defend prewar Britain's attempts to appease the dictators.

DIPLOMACY

He was all for gunboat diplomacy to preserve British interests during the Abadan oil and Suez Canal crisis. Sympathy for Katanga's separatism during the Congo affair and criticism of the "double standards" of some United Nations members established among Afro-Asians the idea he still hankers after the good old days when the right whites ran the show. As a backbencher in Parliament he spoke out against the 1944 Yalta agreement, warning Sir Winston Churchill, then prime minister, the Russians could not be trusted.

Very likely the prime minister would like best to be regarded as a "liberal-radical" Conservative.

He accepts the concept of a mixed economy and has said the state should, if necessary, intervene to deal with unemployment, economic expansion and population drifts.

The first peer picked to head any British government in the 20th century is seen by some as the man to give the least possible offense to the greatest number of people.

Douglas - Home has a gentle manner, a look of frailty and his quiet manner of speech belies the tempered steel of the man.

He intends to govern without flamboyance or stunts. But also without compromise. He wants to let people know just what his administration is doing.

Orphans Continue Their Life

By GEOFFREY ATKINS

HUMLIKON, Switzerland (AP)—The pretty little girl with blonde pigtails clutched her doll and smiled a simple smile of childlike faith. "My mummy and daddy are in heaven," she said.

Susanna Steiger is just 5 years old. She is one of 34 orphans in this tiny farming village of 158 people.

Their parents were members of a happy, excited group of 43 villagers who set of on an excursion flight to Geneva. A few minutes after taking off from Zurich airport their Swissair Caravelle jetliner caught fire and plunged to earth. All 82 on board died.

Nineteen married couples from Humlikon were on the plane. The village lost its mayor and all five members of the village council.

The first thought of the surviving villagers was for the children. Thirty-four under the age of 20 were suddenly orphans. Thirty were under 16 years old. Five more young children lost one parent.

Two months after the disaster, the little village with its neat farmhouses nestled between gently rolling hills counts up the results.

Only two orphans, both with relatives in Humlikon, have left to be cared for elsewhere. Despite hundreds of adoption offers from all over the world, many from rich families, the children wanted to stay in their home village. Many are being cared for by grandparents or relatives.

Volunteers from neighboring villages and towns rallied round to help gather the harvest.

A former Humlikon farmer jumped on his tractor as soon as he heard news of the disaster and drove 60 miles to the stricken village.

He has been here ever since. His tractor is a familiar sight as he moves from farm to farm helping wherever he can, working by moonlight if he is needed.

The Steigers were the family worst hit by the crash. Five children, 6 to 15, were orphaned. Under the guidance of their 74-year-old grandmother, Lina Steiger, they have helped reap the harvest sown by their dead parents.

"It's a hard time without my son and daughter-in-law," said grandmother Steiger. "But the way the children have rallied round we'll get the harvest in."

Despite appalling loss, Humlikon is a village alive with hope, for it has become a village of the young. More than one quarter of the population is under 21.

Their inborn love of the land and their youthful optimism have overcome the first shattering effects of the catastrophe.

Jakob Zindel, the village registrar whose son died in the crash, watched a group of teen-age boys hauling sacks of potatoes to a car.

"The young are strong. We will survive," he said quietly.

Peru Problems, What Is Being Done To Solve Them

EDITOR'S NOTE — John M. Hightower, chief AP diplomatic correspondent in Washington, is touring South America. In this story he focuses attention on the problems of Peru and what is being done about them, particularly by the U.S. Peace Corps.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Leone Jackson, brisk and kindly, is a retired school principal from Los Angeles County in California, with love for children and a spirit of adventure. She could have settled down in a well-pensioned rocking chair. Instead she came to Peru, with the Peace Corps.

She is one of hundreds of North Americans working here on the problem of the Indians, trying to bring them peacefully from the stone age to the jet age in a generation. This is one of the great human and political problems of South America. The way it is solved can make or break modern Peru.

FEW MORNINGS

A few mornings ago Mrs. Jackson showed up as usual at 7 to help supervise the feeding of 1,000 school children from a sprawling hillside slum, the barriada of El Agustino. The black-eyed boys and girls, some scrubbed and some with grimy cheeks, lined up under a shed beside the El Agustino public school. Hot wheat gruel, milk and rolls were doled out by a committee of Indian mothers.

Mrs. Jackson and other Peace Corps volunteers watched, made an occasional suggestion and talked with some of the children to ease their shyness with strangers. At 69 Mrs. Jackson is the oldest woman in the Peace Corps in Peru.

"The terrible thing about the barriadas," she said, "is just this. A boy who lives in one of these places finds nothing to make him think he can ever get out of it."

But the schools, where they exist, and the free breakfasts from U.S. food surpluses—giving contact with the outside world—do offer some hope of escape, and the children as they get older seem to grasp at that hope. Mrs. Jackson said they learn well.

"They have the same spread of intelligence as children everywhere."

What they do not have is a good start at home in the huts of illiterate parents, in their play in the filthy streets. And they are unsure, as they grow older, of what they will do with the education they get.

Peru is a strangely split country. The narrow coastal strip on the Pacific is well developed, industrialized, productive. In this strip a fourth of the population of 10 million produces well over half of all that Peru makes. The workers are mixed Indian and white: they fare reasonably well.

Far more than half the people of Peru live in the mountains and they are almost entirely Indian. Their agriculture is extremely inefficient. The productive wealth of the region is found in such minerals as copper, zinc and gold.

LEFT OVER

The Indians are left over from the ancient empire of the Incas which was smashed by the Spanish 400 years ago. They have lived in poverty, frequently in serfdom, ever since. They are illiterate.

Agriculture, business, commerce and politics are controlled by Peru's white population, which in turn is dominated by a relatively few extremely wealthy families. About 2 per cent of the people of the country own 75 per cent of the resources including most of the good soil. The great haciendas, or farms, in the back lands are measured not in acres but in square miles.

While the government operates on a balanced budget and foreign trade is balanced, the internal economy is very uneven. Per capita income for the city of Lima is $600 a year. That for Cuzco, an important mountain city, is $40.

An Indian day laborer in Puno department can earn at most 8 or 9 soles—about 35 cents—a day. If he has a small plot of hacienda land, he must work on the hacienda three or four days without cash earnings just to pay the rent.

Thus the cards are stacked against the Indian in several ways. But there are signs of a new deal to come, peacefully or violently.

Missionaries, reformers, automobiles, Communist agitators transistor radios, Peruvian politicians have awakened the Indian to his plight the last few years. The slowly expanding road system and the airplane also are spurring his emergence from the dark past.

One reaction by the Indian has been to step up land invasions. The Indians have always claimed the lands really belonged to them, not to the white man. Sometimes there are violent clashes with police.

Another reaction has been to migrate to the city, seeking work at higher wages. This is what creates the barriadas. Even when the Indians get jobs —even when they have learned skills and found better jobs in the second generation—they usually can't find decent housing. The problem is not discrimination; the housing simply doesn't exist.

MANY GROUPS

Many groups are working with the Indians, in the mountains and in the barriadas. President Fernando Belaunde Terry, the U.S.-trained architect who heads Peru's new reform government, has projected broadscale — and costly — programs for radical change. Millions of dollars worth of U.S. assistance are going into farm improvement and road construction projects. Robert Culbertson, the respected U.S. aid chief in Lima, spends much of his time on the Indian problem.

But the role of the Peace Corps is unique. For, as in the case of Leone Jackson and the free breakfasts, the Peace Corps volunteers work directly with the Indians and often live in their communities.

Gettsyburg Address

CROWDS WATCH the procession going north on Baltimore Street in Gettysburg, Pa., to the new soldiers' cemetery to the north on the day of its dedication, Nov. 19, 1863. The photo was made by a Mathew Brady photographer. Thousands came from outside the little town. They came to hear famed orator Edward Everett. They stayed to hear President Abe Lincoln make the short speech which was to go into history as the Gettysburg Address. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

CANNON AND Civil War soldiers' graves in neat rows surrounded by trees now stretch out in the cemetery in Gettysburg, Pa., where Abe Lincoln spoke on Nov. 19, 1863. On that day, when the cemetery was dedicated, low wooden crosses marked the graves of the 1,118 Union soldiers whose bodies had been moved there. They were among the more than 3,000 Union men who had died in the Battle of Gettysburg in July, 1863. Others were moved later. (Wide World Photo)

EDITOR'S NOTE — A hundred years ago this week, a weary and worried president stood near a Pennsylvania cemetery and delivered a four-minute speech he thought would be little noted nor long remembered. It was, instead, one of the great masterpieces of American literature.

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

GETTSYBURG, Pa. (AP) One hundred years ago this week, with vultures wheeling overhead and the skeletons of horses still scattered about the landscape, Abraham Lincoln mounted a wooden platform on the battlefield at Gettysburg to deliver the most famous address in American History.

The odd part about it was that no one really had intended for him to speak.

The orator of the day, as every school boy knows, was Edward Everett, former secretary of state, U.S. senator, governor of Massachusetts and president of Harvard, whose nationwide lecture tour had helped save Mount Vernon as a national shrine. Such was Everett's fame as an orator that the dedication date of the little 17-acre military cemetery at Gettysburg had been changed from Oct. 23 to Nov. 19 to accommodate his schedule.

Into The Act

Lincoln got into the act by accepting the same printed invitation that had been mailed to hundreds of others. Frankly surprised and a trifle embarrassed at his acceptance, the Board of Commissioners representing the 17 Union states which had joined to purchase the cemetery land quickly followed up with a more personal invitation in which they called on the President to make "a few appropriate remarks" after the Everett speech.

Clark E. Carr of Galesburg, the Illinois member of the board recalled later the decision to ask the President to say a few words came definitely "as an afterthought."

Contrary to persistent legend, most historians doubt that Lincoln jotted his speech down on the back of an envelope aboard the train to Gettysburg. He probably began work on it at the White House on Tuesday morning, Nov. 17, two days before it was to be delivered, writing at least the first page of it on executive mansion stationery borrowed from Wills. An hour later, he gathered his papers and went next door to show the speech to Seward, who was staying at the home of Robert Harper, editor of the local paper.

After breakfast next morning, Lincoln rewrote the speech again while waiting for the procession to start toward the battlefield.

Gettysburg, a town of 2,100 had swelled to more than 15,000, with more visitors arriving hourly by foot and carriage and by special trains from Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia. Souvenir hunters wandered over Little Round Top and Culp's Hill, the Devil's Den and Cemetery Ridge, hunting for bullets, buttons, shell fragments, canteens, muddy knapsacks and other mementos of the bloody battle of four months ago.

Union Dead

Only 1,118 of the more than 3,000 Union dead had been reburied beneath the low wooden crosses in the new cemetery, and it would be seven years before the Confederate dead were removed to cemeteries in Richmond, Charleston and Savannah. Amid the skeletons of horses and the scattered equipment, coffins protruded here and there where the rain had washed away the thin cover of earth hastily tossed on the graves by surviving comrades. People in Gettysburg blamed the high incidence of sickness that fall on the condition of the battlefield.

More than an hour late in getting started, the procession finally moved up Baltimore Street under a cloudless sky in perfect 52-degree Indian summer weather. Lincoln, in a Prince Albert coat, white gauntlets and a tall stove pipe hat that still bore a black crepe for Willie's death, sat astride a beautiful chestnut horse, "the largest in the Cumberland Valley." Even so, he seemed to dwarf the animal, with his long legs almost touching the ground. The march to the cemetery took only 15 minutes, but there was another hour-long delay because Everett was off touring the battlefield with Prof. Michael Jacobs of Gettysburg College.

During the long wait, Lincoln was handed up another telegram from Stanton containing some good news. Burnside was safe though still threatened at Knoxville, Grant had started a big battle at Chattanooga and, best news of all, "Mrs. Lincoln reports your son's health is a great deal better and he will be out today."

The ceremonies finally got under way at high noon with the Birgfield Band of Philadelphia playing a dirge and the Rev. Thomas Stockton, chaplain of the House of Representatives, intoning the opening prayer. As the Marine Band struck up "Old Hundred," the President settled back in a battered settee on the platform, flanked by Seward on his left and Everett on his right. The wooden platform, erected where the Soldiers. National Monument now stands, faced northwest across the site of the first day's battle and afforded a splendid view of Oak Ridge, the tower of the Old Dorm at Gettysburg College and, shimmering in the distant haze, the South Mountain range.

Benjamin French, officer in charge of public buildings in Washington, introduced Everett. For the next hour and 50 minutes, in deep organ-like tones, the 70-year-old spell binder reviewed funeral customs in ancent Athens, described the three-day battle at Gettysburg in detail, paid tribute to those who died there and vigorously assailed the states rights position. Once when he mistakenly said Lee for Meade, Lincoln corrected him audibly. At the conclusion of his address, Everett was wrapped in a blanket, Lincoln and Seward came forward to pump his hand and the crowd appluaded enthusiastically."

An Ode Written

Next, the Baltimore Glee Club sang an ode written for the occasion by French. During their rendition, Lincoln extracted a pair of steel bowed spectacles from a metallic case, produced his manuscript from an inside pocket and proceded to study it. The crowd fell silent and ceased its stirring as Ward H. Lamon, marshal of the District of Columbia, introduced the President. Some had been on their feet for more than four hours.

"Four score and seven years ago," Lincoln began in a squeaky, slightly falsetto voice that nevertheless carried well in the clear autumn air to the back of the crowd.

Directly in front of him, Associated Press reporter Joseph L. Gilbert scribbled furiously in shorthand. Alexander Gardner, Mathew Brady's man on the scene, crouched beneath the black cloth of his camera waiting for an emotional gesture that never came. In four minutes, the speech was over and Gardner had missed his shot. Gilbert borrowed the president's manuscript to fill out his notes and telegraphed the complete text to his Philadelphia office. From thence, it was sped to newspapers across the country.

According to Gilbert's account the crowd applauded at least five times during the speech and there was sustained applause at the end, but Lincoln was plainly dissatisfied with his performance.

Concentration must have been difficult, for the President had a great deal on his mind. The war in the West was going badly. A budget message was impending before Congress, and he had put it aside to sort out his Gettysburg thoughts. His political fortunes were than at such a low ebb that one of his own Cabinet members, Secretary of the Treasury Salmon Chase, was making noises like a presidential candidate.

Thaddeus Stevens, for one, regarded the President as a "dead card" in the political deck. Upon hearing that Secretary of State William Seward would accompany Lincoln to Gettysburg, he sneered, "The dead going to eulogize the dead."

On top of all that, his best pal in the world, Tad Lincoln, 10, lay sick of the fever in an upstairs bedroom. Mrs. Lincoln was beside herself with worry. Less than two years earlier, Willie Lincoln had died in the same bedroom after a brief illness.

The President, however, was in good spirits when Gen. James B. Fry called for him on Wednesday in an open carriage and urged him to hurry if they were to catch the special train leaving at noon for Gettysburg from the Baltimore & Ohio station. He responded with an anecdote about a fellow being jostled by crowds while en route to the gallows. "Boys," the fellow cried out, "you needn't be in such a hurry to get ahead. There won't be any fun until I get there."

It was raining heavily as the President boarded the special four-car train, the last car of which was a director's car, fitted out as a drawing room. Besides Seward, he was accompanied by Secretary of Interior John P. Usher, Postmaster General Montgomery Blair, his two personal secretaries, John Nicolay and John Hay, the Italian and French ministers, and a number of congressmen, Army officers and newspaper reporters.

Little Girl

As the train pulled out, a little girl passed up some flowers to the President. He leaned out the window to kiss her, saying, "You are a little rosebud yourself."

Further along the line an elderly man who had lost a son on Little Round Top at Gettysburg came aboard to shake hands. Moved by the incident Lincoln sighed, "When I think of the sacrifices of life yet to be offered and the hearts and homes yet to be made desolate before this dreadful war is over, my heart is like lead within me and I feel at times like hiding in deep darkness."

At Baltimore the cars were drawn by horses over to the tracks of the North Central Railroad and a baggage car fitted out as a diner was added. There was another switch over at Hanover Junction to the tracks of the Gettysburg & Hanover Railroad, and Lincoln was called to the rear platform to greet a small crowd gathered at the station. "Well," he smiled, "you have seen me, and according to the general experience you have seen less than you expected to see." The crowd cheered.

The rain had stopped by the time the train pulled into the little brick station at Gettysburg shortly before 6, and a big harvest moon was climbing into the frosty Pennsylvania night. A large enthusiastic crowd accompanied the President as he walked two blocks up the hill to the house of attorney David Wills, chairman of the cemetery board. The Wills house, a sturdy yelow brick affair, still stands overlooking the public square. It and the little railroad station are Gettysburg's main surviving reminders of the Lincoln visit.

After dining with Everett, Gov. Andrew Curtin of Pennsylvania and other dignitaries in the Wills home, the President was serenaded by the 5th New York Artillery band, but he declined to address the crowd in the square.

"In my position," he begged off, "it is somewhat important that I should not say foolish things."

"Not if you can help it," cried an impertinent voice.

To which Lincoln good naturedly retorted, "it very often happens that the only way to help it is to say nothing at all. Believing this is my present condition this evening, I be you to excuse me from addressing you further."

At 9 o'clock, Lincoln received a telegram from Secretary of War Edwin Stanton reporting that his son had improved slighlty. With his Negro servant William Johnston he retired to his bedroom on the second floor to finish the first draft of his speech on a piece of foolscap

New British Prime Minister 'Down-to-Earth' Leader

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON

LONDON (AP)—The man who is now Britain's prime minister was stuck—no tuxedo and a sudden summons to a formal function.

He called a junior official in his ministry.

"How tall are you?" he asked.

The baffled civil servant replied: "Five-foot-nine, sir."

"You're too short. But I suppose I could let the trousers down. Is your dinner jacket double-breasted?"

Two days later Sir Alec Douglas-Home gave orders that the young man was not to be transferred—the dinner jacket had fit so well.

This was the sometime 14th Earl of Home — pronounced "hume" — in action with the inbred security of the patrician who can afford to be unpretentious. He has gained most of the things he has wanted without ever seeming to try too hard.

HAS POISE

He has the poise that allows him to smile at his own heritage.

For example, he is the only millionaire on record who does not mind acknowledging descent from a long line of cattle rustlers.

Once he was asked if his Scottish ancestors, back in the Middle Ages, really used to plunder the English in the bloody border battles.

"We did very well for 300 years," came the bland reply.

But sometimes the casual assurance with which he pleases himself comes across to others with different backgrounds as icy, ruthless arrogance.

After becoming prime minister Oct. 19 he postponed a new session of Parliament by two weeks—with an elegant flick of the wrist it seemed to his critics. He said it would give his ministers time to get to know their new duties. Opponents claimed the real reason was to give himself time to become a commoner again, win a special election and so personally attend the start of parliamentary session.

Harold Wilson and the opposition Socialists he leads were furious at what they took to be a tampering with the rights of Parliament.

"We are not to be treated as his awkward or refractory tenantry," cried Wilson. "We are the House of Commons!"

As Lord Home, British foreign secretary, he displayed no obvious ambition to become prime minister. Indeed, friends billed him as a man for whom the vulgarities of personal and party maneuverings were distasteful.

IRON NERVE

Douglas-Home teamed up with that old pro, the stricken Harold Macmillan, and rose to the top in calm defiance of the political traditions of his time.

He showed iron nerve, single-mindedness and a rare political intelligence that made other would-be leaders look like amateurs.

In the process he decapitated his rivals with such gentlemanly charm that they did not realize what had happened to them.

All this was not the performance of an unwilling draftee, a "faceless earl" as his critics have called him.

To many it looked more like the climax of a British-type coup d'etat organized by those Tory forces who wanted a special kind of new leader.

Over the years he has picked up the tag of a right-wing reactionary who never ducked controversy or unpopularity for his views.

As private secretary he accompanied the late Neville Chamberlain to meet Hitler at Munich in 1938 and today is one of the few British leaders who dares to defend prewar Britain's attempts to appease the dictators.

DIPLOMACY

He was all for gunboat diplomacy to preserve British interests during the Abadan oil and Suez Canal crisis. Sympathy for Katanga's separatism during the Congo affair and criticism of the "double standards" of some United Nations members established among Afro-Asians the idea he still hankers after the good old days when the right whites ran the show. As a backbencher in Parliament he spoke out against the 1944 Yalta agreement, warning Sir Winston Churchill, then prime minister, the Russians could not be trusted.

Very likely the prime minister would like best to be regarded as a "liberal-radical" Conservative.

He accepts the concept of a mixed economy and has said the state should, if necessary, intervene to deal with unemployment, economic expansion and population drifts.

The first peer picked to head any British government in the 20th century is seen by some as the man to give the least possible offense to the greatest number of people.

Douglas - Home has a gentle manner, a look of frailty and his quiet manner of speech belies the tempered steel of the man.

He intends to govern without flamboyance or stunts. But also without compromise. He wants to let people know just what his administration is doing.

Orphans Continue Their Life

By GEOFFREY ATKINS

HUMLIKON, Switzerland (AP)—The pretty little girl with blonde pigtails clutched her doll and smiled a simple smile of childlike faith. "My mummy and daddy are in heaven," she said.

Their parents were members of a happy, excited group of 43 villagers who set of on an excursion flight to Geneva. A few minutes after taking off from Zurich airport their Swissair Caravelle jetliner caught fire and plunged to earth. All 82 on board died.

Nineteen married couples from Humlikon were on the plane. The village lost its mayor and all five members of the village council.

The first thought of the surviving villagers was for the children. Thirty-four under the age of 20 were suddenly orphans. Thirty were under 16 years old. Five more young children lost one parent.

Two months after the disaster, the little village with its neat farmhouses nestled between gently rolling hills counts up the results.

Only two orphans, both with relatives in Humlikon, have left to be cared for elsewhere. Despite hundreds of adoption offers from all over the world, many from rich families, the children wanted to stay in their home village. Many are being cared for by grandparents or relatives.

Volunteers from neighboring villages and towns rallied round to help gather the harvest.

A former Humlikon farmer jumped on his tractor as soon as he heard news of the disaster and drove 60 miles to the stricken village.

He has been here ever since. His tractor is a familiar sight as he moves from farm to farm helping wherever he can, working by moonlight if he is needed.

The Steigers were the family worst hit by the crash. Five children, 6 to 15, were orphaned. Under the guidance of their 74-year-old grandmother, Lina Steiger, they have helped reap the harvest sown by their dead parents.

"It's a hard time without my son and daughter-in-law," said grandmother Steiger. "But the way the children have rallied round we'll get the harvest in."

Despite appalling loss, Humlikon is a village alive with hope, for it has become a village of the young. More than one quarter of the population is under 21.

Their inborn love of the land and their youthful optimism have overcome the first shattering effects of the catastrophe.

Jakob Zindel, the village registrar whose son died in the crash, watched a group of teen-age boys hauling sacks of potatoes to a car.

"The young are strong. We will survive," he said quietly.

Peru Problems, What Is Being Done To Solve Them

EDITOR'S NOTE — John M. Hightower, chief AP diplomatic correspondent in Washington, is touring South America. In this story he focuses attention on the problems of Peru and what is being done about them, particularly by the U.S. Peace Corps.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Leone Jackson, brisk and kindly, is a retired school principal from Los Angeles County in California, with love for children and a spirit of adventure. She could have settled down in a well-pensioned rocking chair. Instead she came to Peru, with the Peace Corps.

She is one of hundreds of North Americans working here on the problem of the Indians, trying to bring them peacefully from the stone age to the jet age in a generation. This is one of the great human and political problems of South America. The way it is solved can make or break modern Peru.

FEW MORNINGS

A few mornings ago Mrs. Jackson showed up as usual at 7 to help supervise the feeding of 1,000 school children from a sprawling hillside slum, the barriada of El Agustino. The black-eyed boys and girls, some scrubbed and some with grimy cheeks, lined up under a shed beside the El Agustino public school. Hot wheat gruel, milk and rolls were doled out by a committee of Indian mothers.

Mrs. Jackson and other Peace Corps volunteers watched, made an occasional suggestion and talked with some of the children to ease their shyness with strangers. At 69 Mrs. Jackson is the oldest woman in the Peace Corps in Peru.

"The terrible thing about the barriadas," she said, "is just this. A boy who lives in one of these places finds nothing to make him think he can ever get out of it."

But the schools, where they exist, and the free breakfasts from U.S. food surpluses—giving contact with the outside world—do offer some hope of escape, and the children as they get older seem to grasp at that hope. Mrs. Jackson said they learn well.

"They have the same spread of intelligence as children everywhere."

What they do not have is a good start at home in the huts of illiterate parents, in their play in the filthy streets. And they are unsure, as they grow older, of what they will do with the education they get.

Peru is a strangely split country. The narrow coastal strip on the Pacific is well developed, industrialized, productive. In this strip a fourth of the population of 10 million produces well over half of all that Peru makes. The workers are mixed Indian and white: they fare reasonably well.

Far more than half the people of Peru live in the mountains and they are almost entirely Indian. Their agriculture is extremely inefficient. The productive wealth of the region is found in such minerals as copper, zinc and gold.

Stocks Tamer As New Highs 'Consolidate'

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market last week declined on average for the third straight week as Wall Street saw a continuation of what was regarded generally as a digestion process of the recent rise to new peaks.

The so-called "consolidation" has actually been in progress for four weeks because prior to the three-week decline on average more stocks were losing ground than gaining it, even though the popular market averages rose slightly in response to advances by a few heavily-weighted blue chips.

The latest week's decline was the sharpest of them all but it took place on moderate trading which reflected no frantic rush to unload.

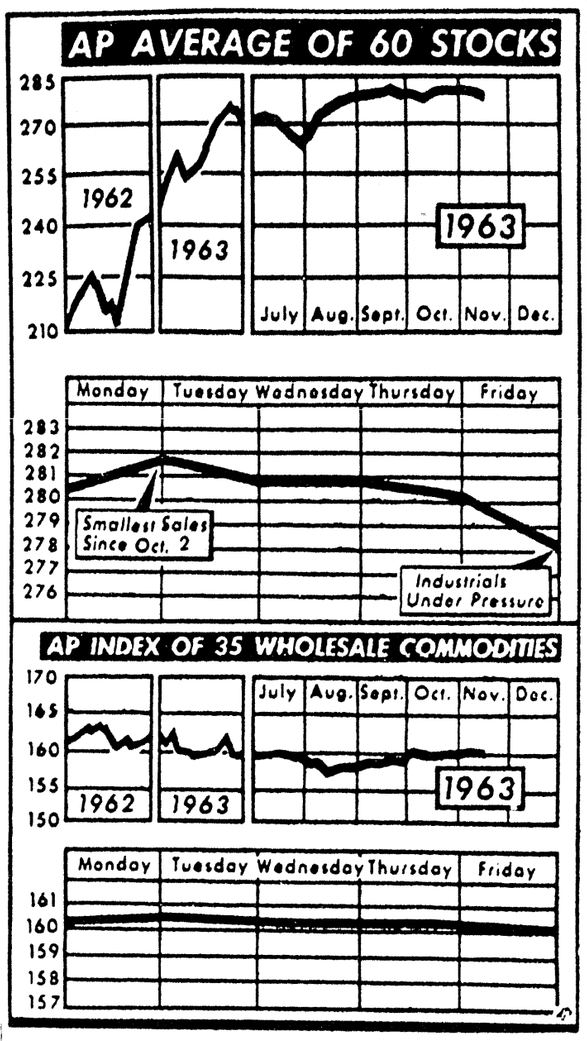
The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 2.3 to 278.1. This was the steepest decline since the week ended Sept. 28 when the average dropped 3.7.

The retreat of stock prices, however, was de-emphasized by the weekly volume of 22,664,551 shares which was the smallest for any five-day trading week since the week ended Oct. 5 when 21.5 million shares changed hands. The turnover also compared with the previous week's total of 19,883,410 shares in a four-day trading week reduced by the election day recess.

Factors in the decline were news that new car sales in early November lagged behind the like period in 1962 — the first time since the 1964 models were introduced that the sales rate has lagged behind the year ago rate.

Prices of U.S. government bonds rallied strongly from 1963 lows during the week on the strength of developments considered favorable for debt securities. The advance was close to the best of the year and reached ½ point in a few cases.

Corporate volume ballooned to $40.71 million par value for five days compared with the previous 1963 high of $30.89 million in the second week of the year. The daily average was $8.14 million compared with $6.44 million last week and $5.74 million the week before.



THE ASSOCIATED PRESS average of 60 stocks dropped sharply this week, recording the largest weekly decline since Sept. 27, when it closed today at 278.1 from 280.4 a week ago. The commodity index also declined, easing to 160.1 from 160.2 a week earlier. (AP Wirephoto)

Tax Cut Prospects Dim For President

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Prospects of an income tax cut in 1963 dimmed during the week.

The Kennedy tax program was bogged down in Congress with time running out.

As a result, the administration renewed its emphasis that action this year is necessary to forestall a recession.

The Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois predicted that Senate action on the tax legislation can't be expected before next March 15. If it is approved at that time, the tax cut would be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1964.

In an effort to counter these developments, President Kennedy strongly plugged for the tax bill at his news conference Thursday.

He xpressed hope that the measure to slash taxes by $11 billion a year can be brought to the Senate floor before the end of the year. He said action was needed to prevent the economy from suffering and that further delay would be unfortunate.

Earlier, the President's chief economic adviser, Walter Heller, told the Senate Finance Committee that, "The chances that the present economic expansion could continue through 1964 without an early tax cut are poor."

The AFL-CIO, meeting in New York for its biennial convention also called for an early tax cut as a means of spurring the economy.

The big labor organization also stumped for a 35-hour work week with no loss in pay, double time for overtime, increased public works and an increase in the minimum wage.

Things are looking up for the steel industry, which during the week registered its third weekly gain in production in a row.

The industry publication, Steel magazine, said: "The steel market is stronger than steelmakers anticipated earlier in the year and it doesn't seem to be weakening."

Output week rose to 1,958,000 tons, up 0.7 per cent from the previous week.

Demand from the automobile industry held strong despite a few strikes which nibbled into near-record production.

Production during the week was estimated at 179,400 passenger cars, down 5 per cent from the 189,048 assembled the previous week—a record for any week—and up 10 per cent from the 162,703 built a year ago.

A General Motors plant at Southgate, Calif., and Ford plants at Kansas City, Mo., and Metuchen, N.J., were closed by strikes.

Production for October was officially set at 799,388, highest for any month. This total exceeded the old record of 794,168 set in April 1955.

The Commerce Department reported the flow of dollars out of the United States dropped sharply in the three months ended Sept. 30. The deficit in the U.S. balance of payments for the period was about $250 million, only about one-fifth of the deficit in the April-June quarter. The big reason for the decline was a drop in the amount of Americans investment money going abroad.

After a two-month decline from record volume in July, retail sales moved up to another new peak in October. Sales totaled $20.8 billion, a gain of 2 per cent over September and 5 per cent over October 1962.

Briefly around the business scene: Columbia Broadcasting Co. proposed a 2-for-1 split of its common stock . . . American Machinery & Foundry Co. won a $25-million Navy contract for antisubmarine rocket-launching equipment . . . Chicago Great Western Railway and the Soo Line Railroad ended merger talks.

Lending Program Of SBA Is Given Streamlining

E. J. Molony, manager of the New Orleans office, of the Small Business Administration, has announced a "streamlining" of SBA lending programs to speed the handling of loans to small businesses.

"The new procedures, tested in a pilot operation in the New England area, have been ordered put into effect in all SBA offices throughout the Country," Molony said.

"By eliminating red tape, reducing paperwork, realignment of personnel, easing technical requirements, and acquiring the necessary financial data promptly, the SBA Office in Boston was able to reduce the time which formerly elapsed between receipt of a loan application and disbursement of funds by nearly one-third," Molony said.

Molony stressed that the new procedure will in no way weaken the sundness of the SBA business lending program.

"We will continue to insist on a thorough evaluation of each loan application," he said. "We are merely eliminating some of the less essential paperwork and speeding up the operation.

"This is another step in SBA's continuing program of streamlining its operations to provide maximum assistance to small businesses in the most efficient manner possible," Molony said.

Sideswipe Halts Railroad Traffic For Ten Hours

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Service on the Louisville & Nashville railroad was restored Saturday, some 10 hours after a passenger train sideswiped a freight being moved onto a siding.

No one was reported injured. A half dozen freight cars were derailed about 13 miles south of Bay St. Louis. While the track was blocked, passengers were shuttled by bus from Bay St. Louis to New Orleans.

A spokesman for the L&N said the Crescent, bound from Mobile to New Orleans, hit the freight about 6:15 p.m. Friday. The passenger engine was lightly damaged.

Hunters Wound Game Warden, Flee To Florida

BAY MINETTE, Ala. (UPI)—Two unidentified hunters shot and wounded an Alabama game warden Saturday after shoving him into the Perdido River south of here, then fled to Florida, Baldwin County, Ala., Sheriff Taylor Wilkens reported.

Sheriff Wilkins said Beam gave this account:

The game warden stopped the hunters to check their licenses. The shoved him into the river which divides Alabama and Florida. While Beam struggled in the water one hunter opened fire with a shotgun, the load striking Beam in his hand.

Beam managed to get ashore after the hunters fled into Florida and drove back here after issuing an alert on his Conservation Department radio.

Baldwin County and Escambia County, Fla., sheriff's deputies formed a posse to search for the two hunters.

Drilling Activity In Area Steady For Past Week

Continued lack of appreciable rainfall last week apparently helped to keep drilling in the Monroe Oil & Gas District relatively unchanged, though down somewhat from a recent high two weeks ago.

Drillers last week completed 11 wells in six of the district's 15 parishes, compared with 14 wells in eight parishes the week before, and 12 in seven the week prior.

District Manager Duncan S. Cook's report showed three of the finals in Union Parish, while Concordia, LaSalle and Rapides had two each, and Catahoula and Tensas, one each.

Wells actively drilling or testing numbered 35, found in 11 parishes, with LaSalle Parish, for the second week, continuing to lead the district. Sixteen wells were active in LaSalle, followed by five in Avoyelles, three each in Tensas and Catahoula, two in Rapides, and one each in Caldwell, Concordia, Franklin, Madison, Ouachita and Winn. There were 33 wells active in 10 parishes the week before, and 42 active the week before that.

The number of new locations staked remained the same for the second week — 28 — but were less widely scattered, being in seven parishes this week, compared to 10. There were 44 new locations two weeks ago.

Nine of this week's locations were in Concordia Parish, eight in Catahoula, four in Avoyelles, three in LaSalle, two in Ouachita, one each in Morehouse and Rapides.

One recompletion during the week occurred in Rapides Parish, the North Big Island Field; it was McGoldrick & Watson's Price SU 87; Price Ut. No. 1, at 5507 feet in section 29-5-3E.

Northeast State Chess Club To Stage Tourney

The Northeast State College Chess Club will meet today to make plans for a chess tournament to pick a campus champion and to select a four-man team to represent the college in intercollegiate competition.

Club president Lewis Cobb of Monroe said interested students are invited to attend. The meeting will be held in the College Union Building (Room 206) at 1:30 p.m.

Only amateur chess players are eligible for tourney competition, he pointed out. An amateur is a player before the rank of master — specifically, a chess player who has a U.S. Chess Foundation rating of under 2,200 or who is unrated.

Two NLSC students do hold USCF ratings — Mack Craig and Lawrence Harper — but both are under the master's rank and will be able to compete in amateur competition.

The tournament here, expected to last three days, will be the preliminary to a regional tournament bringing together chess players from several states. The regional winner will enter national competition later in the current school year.

The annual intercollegiate chess tournament is being sponsored by the Association of College Unions. This is the first year for such extensive chess competition on an intercollegiate basis, Cobb said.

Prizes will be offered in both campus and intercollegiate tourneys.

Rev. Ray Raddin Guest Speaker

A revival starting today at Oaklawn Drive Baptist Church, 1602 Oaklawn, just off of Parkview Drive, Monroe, will feature the Rev. Ray Raddin, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Sterlington, as speaker.

The services will continue daily at 7:30 p.m. through Saturday, according to the Rev. N. T. Smith, pastor.

Rev. Raddin is moderator of the Ouachita Association.

Song services will be directed by Mrs. N. T. Smith, and R. L. Mercer will be piano accompanist. A nursery will be open during services.

Indians Attempt To Stop Burning

MADRAS, India (AP) — Police have arrested 258 persons in the past two days to forestall a plan for the public burning Sunday of the Indian constitution.

The demonstration was to have been part of an anti-Hindi language campaign due to go on for a year in this Tamill-speaking state. The campaign is to protest government introduction of Hindi in Madras State.

Wildcat Test Continuing In Madison

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Production tests are continuing at J. L. Drilling Company's reopened Madison County wildcat the Hardeman No. 2, sec. 24-9n-1w, in an effort to evaluate commercial worth of shows found in the gas rock below 4,900 feet.

Operators are reported to be testing a zone at 4,922-58 feet. Swabbing operations from perforations at 4,924-34 feet after squeeze job was run recovered salt water and slight shows of oil and gas.

The well was originally drilled by C. A. Lee and was abandoned last August at total depth of 10,495 feet. Present operator was attempting to clean the well out and test shows below 9,000 feet when oil shows were found on mud pits at depth of 4,900 feet.

Electrical log and sidewall cores showed possible oil production below 4,900 feet with production casing being run to 5,055 feet. The venture is about three miles northeast of the Flora field.

Larue-Smith Production Co. has completed its Franklin County wildcat, the U.S.A. No. 1, sec. 22-5n-2e, as the discovery well of a new Wilcox sand oil field. The well is flowing at the rate of 52 barrels of oil per day from perforations at 4,595-96 feet. The new discovery is about three miles northeast of the Knoxville Tower field.

The confirmation well in the recently discovered Blackburn field of Jones County, Triad-McAlester No. 1, Odon-Jordon Sec. 14-7n-13w, is drilling below 13,140 feet. It is reported the well failed to log shows in coring operations at 12,800 feet. Contract depth is 13,800 feet. About two miles northwest of the field Chesley Pruet Drilling Co. is reported to be preparing to abandon his wildcat, the Hayes No. 1, sec. 10-7n-13w, after running electrical log to 13,500 feet.

Also in Jones County two other important wildcat tests are drilling with both ventures being drilled by Triad Oil and Gas Co. The Black No. 1, sec. 18-7n-13w, is below 11,900 feet with the venture located about four miles west of the Blackburn field. Triad's No. 1, Collins sec. 17-7n-11w, about five miles southeast of Ellisville is drilling below 13,000 feet.

Two wildcat tests in Clarke County have been abandoned with both ventures seeking production from the Smackover lime formation. State Exploration Co. abandoned its Coit No. 1, sec. 19-4n-14e, five miles west of Enterprise at total depth of 12,350 feet. The Brandon Co. quit its Board of Supervisors No. 1, sec. 16-2n-17e, at total depth of 12,000 feet.

GETS DIPLOMA

John R. Evans, claim representative for State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Co. at 407 Hudson Lane, Monroe, has been awarded a diploma from Vale Technical Institute at Blairsville, Pa.

Evans has just returned from a three-weeks advanced training course in auto damage estimating and repair techniques at the institute. He is one of 800 State Farm men who will complete the course this year.

WIN TRIP

In recognition of "outstanding achievement," Mr. and Mrs. Dick Howard, Seventh and Cypress, West Monroe, were honored guests of Skelly Oil Company officials, Nov. 6, 7, 8 and 9.

Howard was awarded the all-expense trip to Kansas City by placing first in his district in the "Skelly Service Sweepstakes". The award was the result of dealers' efforts to improve service and maintain cleanliness and good appearance of their Skelly service stations.

The Howards were among a group of twenty-three dealers and jobbers, and their wives, from eighteen states who were honored by Skelly Oil Company.

STOCK EXCHANGE

Commercial Solvents Corporation's offer to exchange one share of its new Series A convertible preferred stock for 12¼ shares of Northwest Nitro-Chemicals Ltd., common stock was declared effective on Friday, Nov. 8. CSC said that holders of Northwest common shares who have not yet accepted the Exchange Offer may do so until 5 p.m., Eastern Standard Time, Friday, Nov. 15.

Maynard C. Wheeler, Commercial Solvents president, said that CSC will issue certificates for its new Series A preferred stock as soon as practicable.

REGIONAL MANAGER

Diebold, Inc., has announced the appointment of Earl Wearstler as southeast regional manager of the bank division. Wearstler will be headquartered in Atlanta, supervising the States of Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee, North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

The announcement was made by Raymond Koontz, Diebold president.

A 16-year veteran of Diebold, Wearstler started with the company as a service representative in Cincinnati and New York. Since 1951, he has been assigned to the Bank Division's Atlanta, Georgia, office, serving first as sales representative and then Regional Manager.

EARNINGS

General Finance Corp., first nine months earnings, after taxes, amounted to $3,035,712, according to Paul H. Brown, chairman of the board. This compares with $2,830,545 for the similar period in 1962. The net earnings, after preferred dividends, equalled $1.12 per share of common stock as compared with $1.02 for the nine months in 1962.

TOP SALES

Volkswagen reported today that 181,608 new VW passenger cars were sold in the United States during the first nine months this year, more than in any comparable period in the company's history. That total for the first three quarters of 1963 is 28 per cent ahead of the same 1962 period when 141,725 new VW passenger cars were sold.

BONDS FOR STAMPS

An entirely new concept in trading stamps has been announced by American Savings Stamp Company, Inc., Chicago. The company has developed a plan whereby its stamps will be redeemable only for United States Government Savings Bonds. Sherman D. Rubenstein, president of American Savings Stamp Company, believes that his unique plan will have wide appeal, especially to men.

Boeing Aircraft Gets Contract

WASHINGTON (AP)—Boeing Aircraft Co. has been awarded a $27,443,676 contract for work on the first stage of the Saturn 1-C booster at the Michoud plant in New Orleans.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced Friday that the contract is for the construction of a model to be used in testing devices which will later be used in the booster.

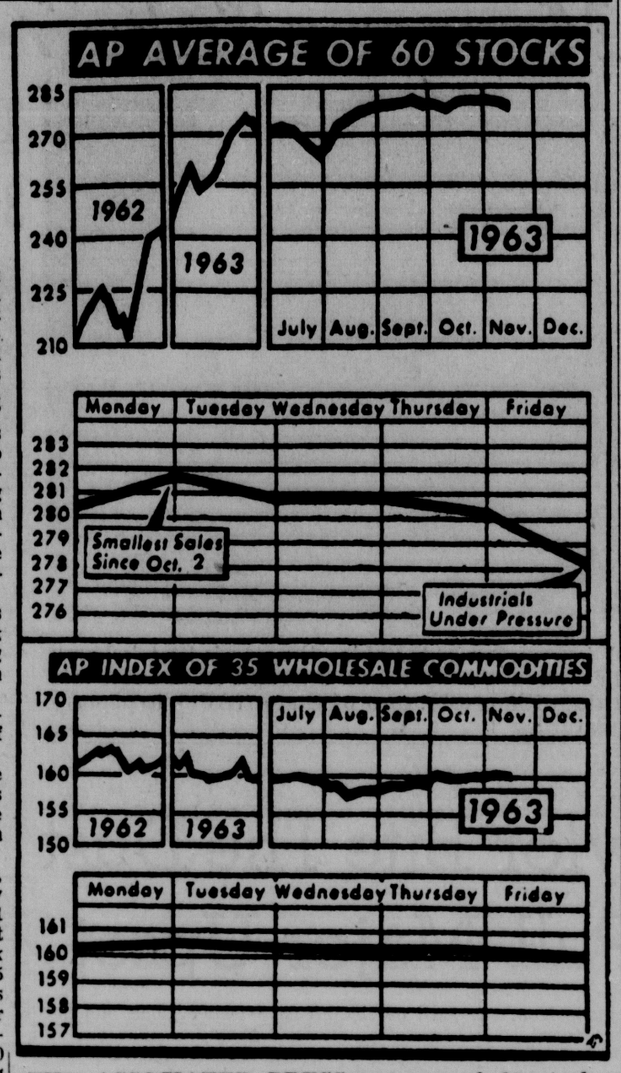
Stocks Tamer As New Highs 'Consolidate'



NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market last week declined on average for the third straight week as Wall Street saw a continuation of what was regarded generally as a digestion process of the recent rise to new peaks.

The so-called "consolidation" has actually been in progress for four weeks because prior to the three-week decline on average more stocks were losing ground than gaining it, even though the popular market averages rose slightly in response to advances by a few heavily-weighted blue chips.

The latest week's decline was the sharpest of them all but it took place on moderate trading which reflected no frantic rush to unload.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 2.3 to 278.1. This was the steepest decline since the week ended Sept. 28 when the average dropped 3.7.

The retreat of stock prices, however, was de-emphasized by the weekly volume of 22,664,551 shares which was the smallest for any five-day trading week since the week ended Oct. 5 when 21.5 million shares changed hands. The turnover also compared with the previous week's total of 19,883,410 shares in a four-day trading week reduced by the election day recess.

Factors in the decline were news that new car sales in early November lagged behind the like period in 1962 — the first time since the 1964 models were introduced that the sales rate has lagged behind the year ago rate.

Prices of U.S. government bonds rallied strongly from 1963 lows during the week on the strength of developments considered favorable for debt securities. The advance was close to the best of the year and reached ½ point in a few cases.

Corporate volume ballooned to $40.71 million par value for five days compared with the previous 1963 high of $30.89 million in the second week of the year. The daily average was $8.14 million compared with $6.44 million last week and $5.74 million the week before.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS average of 60 stocks dropped sharply this week, recording the largest weekly decline since Sept. 27, when it closed today at 278.1 from 280.4 a week ago. The commodity index also declined, easing to 160.1 from 160.2 a week earlier. (AP Wirephoto)

Tax Cut Prospects Dim For President

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Prospects of an income tax cut in 1963 dimmed during the week.

The Kennedy tax program was bogged down in Congress with time running out.

As a result, the administration renewed its emphasis that action this year is necessary to forestall a recession.

The Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois predicted that Senate action on the tax legislation can't be expected before next March 15. If it is approved at that time, the tax cut would be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1964.

In an effort to counter these developments, President Kennedy strongly plugged for the tax bill at his news conference Thursday.

He xpressed hope that the measure to slash taxes by $11 billion a year can be brought to the Senate floor before the end of the year. He said action was needed to prevent the economy from suffering and that further delay would be unfortunate.

Earlier, the President's chief economic adviser, Walter Heller, told the Senate Finance Committee that, "The chances that the present economic expansion could continue through 1964 without an early tax cut are poor."

The AFL-CIO, meeting in New York for its biennial convention also called for an early tax cut as a means of spurring the economy.

The big labor organization also stumped for a 35-hour work week with no loss in pay, double time for overtime, increased public works and an increase in the minimum wage.

Things are looking up for the steel industry, which during the week registered its third weekly gain in production in a row.

The industry publication, Steel magazine, said: "The steel market is stronger than steelmakers anticipated earlier in the year and it doesn't seem to be weakening."

Output week rose to 1,958,000 tons, up 0.7 per cent from the previous week.

Demand from the automobile industry held strong despite a few strikes which nibbled into near-record production.

Production during the week was estimated at 179,400 passenger cars, down 5 per cent from the 189,048 assembled the previous week—a record for any week—and up 10 per cent from the 162,703 built a year ago.

A General Motors plant at Southgate, Calif., and Ford plants at Kansas City, Mo., and Metuchen, N.J., were closed by strikes.

Production for October was officially set at 799,388, highest for any month. This total exceeded the old record of 794,168 set in April 1955.

The Commerce Department reported the flow of dollars out of the United States dropped sharply in the three months ended Sept. 30. The deficit in the U.S. balance of payments for the period was about $250 million, only about one-fifth of the deficit in the April-June quarter. The big reason for the decline was a drop in the amount of Americans investment money going abroad.

After a two-month decline from record volume in July, retail sales moved up to another new peak in October. Sales totaled $20.8 billion, a gain of 2 per cent over September and 5 per cent over October 1962.

Briefly around the business scene: Columbia Broadcasting Co. proposed a 2-for-1 split of its common stock . . . American Machinery & Foundry Co. won a $25-million Navy contract for antisubmarine rocket-launching equipment . . . Chicago Great Western Railway and the Soo Line Railroad ended merger talks.

Lending Program Of SBA Is Given Streamlining

E. J. Molony, manager of the New Orleans office, of the Small Business Administration, has announced a "streamlining" of SBA lending programs to speed the handling of loans to small businesses.

"The new procedures, tested in a pilot operation in the New England area, have been ordered put into effect in all SBA offices throughout the Country," Molony said.

"By eliminating red tape, reducing paperwork, realignment of personnel, easing technical requirements, and acquiring the necessary financial data promptly, the SBA Office in Boston was able to reduce the time which formerly elapsed between receipt of a loan application and disbursement of funds by nearly one-third," Molony said.

Molony stressed that the new procedure will in no way weaken the sundness of the SBA business lending program.

"We will continue to insist on a thorough evaluation of each loan application," he said. "We are merely eliminating some of the less essential paperwork and speeding up the operation.

"This is another step in SBA's continuing program of streamlining its operations to provide maximum assistance to small businesses in the most efficient manner possible," Molony said.

Sideswipe Halts Railroad Traffic For Ten Hours

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Service on the Louisville & Nashville railroad was restored Saturday, some 10 hours after a passenger train sideswiped a freight being moved onto a siding.

No one was reported injured. A half dozen freight cars were derailed about 13 miles south of Bay St. Louis. While the track was blocked, passengers were shuttled by bus from Bay St. Louis to New Orleans.

A spokesman for the L&N said the Crescent, bound from Mobile to New Orleans, hit the freight about 6:15 p.m. Friday. The passenger engine was slightly damaged.

Hunters Wound Game Warden, Flee To Florida

BAY MINETTE, Ala. (UPI)—Two unidentified hunters shot and wounded an Alabama game warden Saturday after shoving him into the Perdido River south of here, then fled to Florida, Baldwin County, Ala., Sheriff Taylor Wilkens reported.

Sheriff Wilkins said Beam gave this account:

The game warden stopped the hunters to check their licenses. The shoved him into the river which divides Alabama and Florida. While Beam struggled in the water one hunter opened fire with a shotgun, the load striking Beam in his hand.

Beam managed to get ashore after the hunters fled into Florida and drove back here after issuing an alert on his Conservation Department radio.

Baldwin County and Escambia County, Fla., sheriff's deputies formed a posse to search for the two hunters.

Drilling Activity In Area Steady For Past Week

Continued lack of appreciable rainfall last week apparently helped to keep drilling in the Monroe Oil & Gas District relatively unchanged, though down somewhat from a recent high two weeks ago.

Drillers last week completed 11 wells in six of the district's 15 parishes, compared with 14 wells in eight parishes the week before, and 12 in seven the week prior.

District Manager Duncan S. Cook's report showed three of the finals in Union Parish, while Concordia, LaSalle and Rapides had two each, and Catahoula and Tensas, one each.

Wells actively drilling or testing numbered 35, found in 11 parishes, with LaSalle Parish, for the second week, continuing to lead the district. Sixteen wells were active in LaSalle, followed by five in Avoyelles, three each in Tensas and Catahoula, two in Rapides, and one each in Caldwell, Concordia, Franklin, Madison, Ouachita and Winn. There were 33 wells active in 10 parishes the week before, and 42 active the week before that.

The number of new locations staked remained the same for the second week — 28 — but were less widely scattered, being in seven parishes this week, compared to 10. There were 44 new locations two weeks ago.

Nine of this week's locations were in Concordia Parish, eight in Catahoula, four in Avoyelles, three in LaSalle, two in Ouachita, one each in Morehouse and Rapides.

One recompletion during the week occurred in Rapides Parish, the North Big Island Field; it was McGoldrick & Watson's Price SU 87; Price Ut. No. 1, at 5507 feet in section 29-5-3E.

Northeast State Chess Club To Stage Tourney

The Northeast State College Chess Club will meet today to make plans for a chess tournament to pick a campus champion and to select a four-man team to represent the college in intercollegiate competition.

Club president Lewis Cobb of Monroe said interested students are invited to attend. The meeting will be held in the College Union Building (Room 206) at 1:30 p.m.

Only amateur chess players are eligible for tourney competition, he pointed out. An amateur is a player before the rank of master — specifically, a chess player who has a U.S. Chess Foundation rating of under 2,200 or who is unrated.

Two NLSC students do hold USCF ratings — Mack Craig and Lawrence Harper — but both are under the master's rank and will be able to compete in amateur competition.

The tournament here, expected to last three days, will be the preliminary to a regional tournament bringing together chess players from several states. The regional winner will enter national competition later in the current school year.

The annual intercollegiate chess tournament is being sponsored by the Association of College Unions. This is the first year for such extensive chess competition on an intercollegiate basis, Cobb said.

Prizes will be offered in both campus and intercollegiate tourneys.

Rev. Ray Raddin Guest Speaker

A revival starting today at Oaklawn Drive Baptist Church, 1602 Oaklawn, just off of Parkview Drive, Monroe, will feature the Rev. Ray Raddin, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Sterlington, as speaker.

The services will continue daily at 7:30 p.m. through Saturday, according to the Rev. N. T. Smith, pastor.

Rev. Raddin is moderator of the Ouachita Association.

Song services will be directed by Mrs. N. T. Smith, and R. L. Mercer will be piano accompanist. A nursery will be open during services.

Indians Attempt To Stop Burning

MADRAS, India (AP) — Police have arrested 258 persons in the past two days to forestall a plan for the public burning Sunday of the Indian constitution.

The demonstration was to have been part of an anti-Hindi language campaign due to go on for a year in this Tamill-speaking state. The campaign is to protest government introduction of Hindi in Madras State.

Wildcat Test Continuing In Madison

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Production tests are continuing at J. L. Drilling Company's reopened Madison County wildcat the Hardeman No. 2, sec. 24-9n-1w, in an effort to evaluate commercial worth of shows found in the gas rock below 4,900 feet.

Operators are reported to be testing a zone at 4,922-58 feet. Swabbing operations from perforations at 4,924-34 feet after squeeze job was run recovered salt water and slight shows of oil and gas.

The well was originally drilled by C. A. Lee and was abandoned last August at total depth of 10,495 feet. Present operator was attempting to clean the well out and test shows below 9,000 feet when oil shows were found on mud pits at depth of 4,900 feet.

Electrical log and sidewall cores showed possible oil production below 4,900 feet with production casing being run to 5,055 feet. The venture is about three miles northeast of the Flora field.

Larue-Smith Production Co. has completed its Franklin County wildcat, the U.S.A. No. 1, sec. 22-5n-2e, as the discovery well of a new Wilcox sand oil field. The well is flowing at the rate of 52 barrels of oil per day from perforations at 4,595-96 feet. The new discovery is about three miles northeast of the Knoxville Tower field.

The confirmation well in the recently discovered Blackburn field of Jones County, Triad-McAlester No. 1, Odon-Jordon Sec. 14-7n-13w, is drilling below 13,140 feet. It is reported the well failed to log shows in coring operations at 12,800 feet. Contract depth is 13,800 feet. About two miles northwest of the field Chesley Pruet Drilling Co. is reported to be preparing to abandon his wildcat, the Hayes No. 1, sec. 10-7n-13w, after running electrical log to 13,500 feet.

Also in Jones County two other important wildcat tests are drilling with both ventures being drilled by Triad Oil and Gas Co. The Black No. 1, sec. 18-7n-13w, is below 11,900 feet with the venture located about four miles west of the Blackburn field. Triad's No. 1, Collins sec. 17-7n-11w, about five miles southeast of Ellisville is drilling below 13,000 feet.

Two wildcat tests in Clarke County have been abandoned with both ventures seeking production from the Smackover lime formation. State Exploration Co. abandoned its Coit No. 1, sec. 19-4n-14e, five miles west of Enterprise at total depth of 12,350 feet. The Brandon Co. quit its Board of Supervisors No. 1, sec. 16-2n-17e, at total depth of 12,000 feet.

GETS DIPLOMA

John R. Evans, claim representative for State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Co. at 407 Hudson Lane, Monroe, has been awarded a diploma from Vale Technical Institute at Blairsville, Pa.

Evans has just returned from a three-weeks advanced training course in auto damage estimating and repair techniques at the institute. He is one of 800 State Farm men who will complete the course this year.

WIN TRIP

In recognition of "outstanding achievement," Mr. and Mrs. Dick Howard, Seventh and Cypress, West Monroe, were honored guests of Skelly Oil Company officials, Nov. 6, 7, 8 and 9.

Howard was awarded the all-expense trip to Kansas City by placing first in his district in the "Skelly Service Sweepstakes". The award was the result of dealers' efforts to improve service and maintain cleanliness and good appearance of their Skelly service stations.

The Howards were among a group of twenty-three dealers and jobbers, and their wives, from eighteen states who were honored by Skelly Oil Company.

STOCK EXCHANGE

Commercial Solvents Corporation's offer to exchange one share of its new Series A convertible preferred stock for 12¼ shares of Northwest Nitro-Chemicals Ltd., common stock was declared effective on Friday, Nov. 8. CSC said that holders of Northwest common shares who have not yet accepted the Exchange Offer may do so until 5 p.m., Eastern Standard Time, Friday, Nov. 15.

Maynard C. Wheeler, Commercial Solvents president, said that CSC will issue certificates for its new Series A preferred stock as soon as practicable.

REGIONAL MANAGER

Diebold, Inc., has announced the appointment of Earl Wearstler as southeast regional manager of the bank division. Wearstler will be headquartered in Atlanta, supervising the States of Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee, North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

The announcement was made by Raymond Koontz, Diebold president.

A 16-year veteran of Diebold, Wearstler started with the company as a service representative in Cincinnati and New York. Since 1951, he has been assigned to the Bank Division's Atlanta, Georgia, office, serving first as sales representative and then Regional Manager.

EARNINGS

General Finance Corp., first nine months earnings, after taxes, amounted to $3,035,712, according to Paul H. Brown, chairman of the board. This compares with $2,830,545 for the similar period in 1962. The net earnings, after preferred dividends, equalled $1.12 per share of common stock as compared with $1.02 for the nine months in 1962.

TOP SALES

Volkswagen reported today that 181,608 new VW passenger cars were sold in the United States during the first nine months this year, more than in any comparable period in the company's history. That total for the first three quarters of 1963 is 28 per cent ahead of the same 1962 period when 141,725 new VW passenger cars were sold.

BONDS FOR STAMPS

An entirely new concept in trading stamps has been announced by American Savings Stamp Company, Inc., Chicago. The company has developed a plan whereby its stamps will be redeemable only for United States Government Savings Bonds. Sherman D. Rubenstein, president of American Savings Stamp Company, believes that his unique plan will have wide appeal, especially to men.

Boeing Aircraft Gets Contract

WASHINGTON (AP)—Boeing Aircraft Co. has been awarded a $27,443,676 contract for work on the first stage of the Saturn 1-C booster at the Michoud plant in New Orleans.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced Friday that the contract is for the construction of a model to be used in testing devices which will later be used in the booster.

Northeast Tramples Delta Staters, 29-7

Louisiana State Fails In Extra Point Try; Maroons Take 7-6 Edge

Weird Official Calls Big Lift For Maroons

JACKSON, Miss. — Quarterback Billy Ezell sparked Louisiana State on a 51-yard touchdown drive with less than a minute to play, then went for two points which failed as Mississippi State won a bruising football game 7-6 this chilly Saturday night.

The Greenville, Miss. youth, who hasn't had much success so far this season with his passes, put on a dazzling display in the final few seconds and almost pulled the game out of the fire after State had scored earlier in the final period for a 7-0 lead.

On the two-point conversion try, the sophomore swung to his right and threw to Moreau again, but the ball sailed high over his head. And that was the ball game as fans broke onto the field a few second later.

On the spectacular drive, Ezell first threw to scatback Joe Labruzzo, who swung to State's 31 for a gain of 20. Then Ezell passed to end Walter Pillows who carried it to the 13.

With 40 seconds left, Another pass was incomplete, and then Pillows dropped another pass on the two.

On the next try, he hit big Bill Truax on the two, then on the next play he hit Moreau for the score.

Many LSU fans figured LSU actually won the game, although it didn't count because of some unusual official calls.

Midway of the first period, LSU was at State's two yard line. Bruising halfback Donald Schwab went up and over the line and most of those in the pressbox thought he went over the goal line, but the officials ruled the ball dead at the four inch line. When a five - yard penalty moved the ball back to the five yard line, fullback Buddy Soefker stabbed the line and it appreared he went over, but the officials ruled the ball dead at the two.

On the next play, Labruzzo tried it, but was stopped for no gain and State took over to end the threat.

Late in the fourth period, Ezell was back to pass at his own 38.

An LSU end down field at the State 40 was pushed down before the ball reached him. One official started to pull his red flags, but didn't. As a result of the LSU player being shoved out of the way, quarterback Sonny Fisher intercepted for State at the 35, and returned it to the LSU 42 to start the Maroon's only touchdown drive of the night.

Four plays later, Fisher, who is trouted as one of the great quarterbacks in the Southeastern Conference, hit end Tommy Inman with the 17-yard pass for the touchdown. Guard Justin Canale booted the extra point, which was the victory margin.

The Tigers, who were battered and bruised from a rough schedule, won the statistical battle, picking up 177 yards rushing and 66 yards passing to 147 and 38 for State.

In the first downs department, LSU picked up 14 to 10 for State, and ran 67 plays to 47 for State.

It was hard to understand why the Tigers didn't attempt to pass more.

In all, Ezell attempted 15, completed seven and had one intercepted, but most of the completions came on the touchdown drive. The Tigers basic offense was the usual bruising game.

In the rushing department the speedy Labruzzo carried 12 times for 59 yards, while the reliable Schwab crashed into the bruising line 17 times for 72 yards.

State's most consistent runner was halfback Ode Burrell who gained 62 yards on 11 trips with the ball.

Ironically, State was bottled up in its own end of the field most of the night and didn't cross the midfield stripe during the first half.

The only other drive the Maroons made besides the touchdown spurt, was also in the fourth period when it reached the Tiger 21. From there Canale attempted a field goal that was short and wide.

In the line for the Tigers it was the usual standouts such as Truax, Robbie Huckle-

Tribe Gains 3rd Straight; Bulldogs Next

By GLYNN HUDSON
World Sports Writer

Northeast State College, without the use of top ground gainers Willy Ragan and Ken Newton, used a brilliant defensive effort and the arm of junior quarterback Bookie Shillcutt to trounce Delta State of Mississippi 29-7 at Brown Stadium Saturday night.

The victory, third in a row for the on rushing Tribe, brings the season total to 4-5, with one game remaining at Louisiana Tech in which to even out the slate.

Delta, coming into the game a slight favorite, was struck with its third loss of the season against six wins.

The Tribe amassed a total of 20 points in the final quarter, more than they have scored in any game of the season, to completely route the highly touted Delta defense, which held Arkansas State to only 65 yards rushing a week ago.

Shillcutt passed for two touchdowns, both to end Steve Regan and ran for another from two yards out to spark the Indians in their best offensive showing of the year. Senior quarterback Mike Cooper picked up the other six pointer on a one yard burst, and Ragan kicked a 35 yard field goal and two extra points to round out the scoring.

The Indians picked up 171 yards on the ground most of it coming on the fine running of sophomore Ronnie Graham. Graham, playing in the place of the injured Ragan, paced the Tribe rushers with 60 yards on 15 cracks at the Statesman line.

Delta rolled to 230 yards on the ground, with fullback George Chesser, also a sophomore, leading the Tribesmen with 60 yards.

The big difference in the game was the passing of Shillcut who hit on 6 of 19 for 164 yards and two touchdowns. Three Delta quarterbacks were able to complete only two of 12 for five yards.

Cooper gave the home fans a little hint of what was to come when he threw a pass on the first play from scrimmage after the Indians had recovered a Delta fumble on the Statesman 38.

Although it only made two yards, it showed that the Indians would be playing a wide open football game. A few seconds later Cooper fumbled at the 32 and Delta took over again.

Delta could keep the ball but three plays before defensive halfback R. F. Wilson snared one of quarterback Laurin Collins' passes, the first of three for the alert Tribe defense of the night. Wilson, Carlysle Williams, and Morris Douglas each had a hey day in the defensive secondary, coming u pwith key interceptions, two of which led to Tribe tallies.

The Tribe got on the scoreboard first late in the first period, moving 37 yards in two plays. Shillcutt after calling two running plays into the line, faked once, dropped back and spotted Ragan all alone at the 10.

The pass was perfect and the tall end slipped into the end zone unmolested for the six pointed. Ragan's kick was wide and the Tribe took a 6-0 lead with 5:10 remaining in the initial quarter.

The Statesmen marched right back, taking the ensuing kickoff 66 yards on 19 plays for their only tally of the night. Chesser was the big man in the drive, turning in 30 hard fought yards in key situations.

Chesser picked up the final two yards after the Indians had held twice at that point. Guard Bill Hunt's kick split the uprights and Delta had a 7-6 lead with 11:01 remaining in the half.

Wilson returned the following kickoff to the Tribe 43, and from that point, the Indians cranked up a march that was to carry to the 10 before being halted. Ragan tried his first field goal of the night with a fourth and seven situation but it was wide.

He got another chance and made good later, as Williams came up with his big interception at the Delta 48. Shillcutt hurled a 33 yard strike to end Jim Love to set up the play. When Shillcutt couldn't move the Tribe on three passes, Ragan came in and made good on his second attempt from 35 yards out and the Indians took

Louisiana Tech Flips High-Rated Southern

RUSTON — Southern Mississippi is the nation's second ranked team defensively in major college football.

But you couldn't convince the 7,500 spectators here Saturday night that somebody hadn't made a mistake as minor college Louisiana Tech beat the Southerners at their own game, throwing up a magnificient defensive effort for a 10-0 upset victory.

Tech scored on freshman end C. T. "Speedy" Campbell's 24-yard field goal in the second quarter and halfback Kenny Tidwell's 42-yard punt return early in the fourth period.

But it was the Bulldogs' defense and an exceptional kicking game by David Lee who averaged 46.1 yards on nine boots which kept the Southerners bottled up most of the night and probably contributed more than anything else to the Canine victory.

Tech put a complete trottle on what is traditionally been a rugged Southern rushing game, holding the Hattiesburg club to only 41 yards rushing. Southern gained 86 yards through the air, but most of this came late when the game was out of reach. Time and time again in the early going the redshirted Canines swarmed through to dump Southern quarterback Vic Purvis for losses both in the pocket on the rollout.

The Canines in turn, met the challenge of Southern's vaunted defense squarely in the face, choosing to run against the visitors' big line instead of using their potent passing game. ing compared to 25 passing. The Bulldogs completed three of seven aerials and did not throw a single pass in the second half.

The victory upped Tech's record to 5-3 for the season and assured head coach Joe Aillet of his 21st winning season in 23 years at the Ruston helm. The game was also the third Canine victory over the Southerners in the past five seasons.

Southern is now 3-3-1 with the other losses coming at the hands of major powers Memphis State and North Carolina State. Florida State battled USM to a scoreless tie.

Tech's fullback Gerald McDowell picked up 33 yards on nine attempts. He was followed by freshman halfback John Wurzburger with 27 on 11 runs.

USM fullback Harmon Brannon gained 31 on 11 carries, and halfback Herman Nall had 25 on four.

Southern took the opening kickoff and moved to the Bulldog 33 where center John Laird was short on the first of two field goal attempts.

Lee's boots gradually pushed the Southerners back, and Tech took over on the USM 43 late in the first quarter. Two plays gained to the 25, but Brannon hauled down a Billy Laird pass at this point to kill the drive.

Three plays later Tidwell intercepted a Purvis pass at the USM 42. Tech moved the ball to the seven in five plays and picked up two more on a penalty, but the Hattiesburg club got tough at this point and pushed the Bulldogs back to the eight where Campbell toed his three-pointer with the ball resting on the 14 and 9:27 left in the second quarter.

Neither team could move successfully in the remainder of the second period and early stages of the third quarter in the brutal defensive battle. Late in the third period, however, Southern's Brannon recovered Tommy Linder's fumble at the Tech 20. Three plays gained only to the 18, and, on fourth down, Laird's field goal attempt from the 25 was long enough but off to the side.

USM kicked out from the four on the fourth down and Tidwell fielded the ball at the Southern 42. He moved to his left and was sprung loose by a tremendous block by Tech's center, J. R. Williamson.

Williamson, who was on his hands and knees, turned around and knifed down two Southerners to open the way for Tidwell to turn up the speed and he went into the end zone untouched. Campbell's extra point kick upped the margin to 10-0 with 9:20 left in the game.

Tech stopped the Southerners quickly and Lee got off a booming 66-yard punt which was downed at the USM 15. Southern filled the air with passes in two series of downs, but was unable to muster a serious scoring threat.

Ags Upset Owls' Bowl Game Aim

HOUSTON (AP)—Texas A&M jolted Rice University's bowl game hopes by striking for 10 second half points Saturday for a 13-6 Southwest Conference upset as student groups provided halftime fist fight entertainment.

The fights in which several hundred students were involved ended in a draw as the Aggie band struck up the national anthem.

A&M's first conference victory in six games all but erased Rice's hopes of being host team in the Dec. 21 Bluebonnet Bowl.

Rice, a 12-point favorite to run its conference record to 4-1-1 appeared to have things under control as Gene Fleming returned the opening kickoff 98 yards for a touchdown.

The Aggies dominated play after the halftime, however taking a 10 - 6 lead on Travis Reagan's five-yard run in the third period, tacking on a 44-yard field goal by Bobby Lee in the fourth, and permitting Rice to cross midfield only once the second half.

Reagan's run climaxed a 55-yard drive that featured the passing of Jim Keler.

Lee also had kicked a 311-yard second period field goal after the Aggies had recovered a Rice fumble at the Owl 16.

Memphis State Tags Moccasins, Still Unbeaten

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Relying once again on the power running of fullback Dave Casinelli, mighty Memphis State strained to a 13-0 football victory over little Chattanooga Saturday night.

The win kept bowl hopes alive for the Tigers who have won eight games and tied third-ranked Mississippi this season and are unbeaten in 16 games.

Casinelli scored both touchdowns on short gallops after carrying for most of the yardage that set them up. He scored from two yards out in the first period and from the three in the fourth.

Chattanooga's one big threat was a long drive that started when Elton Holmes returned a kickoff from his own 15 to the 39 in the second quarter. Quarterback Ron Eisaman directed and passed the Moccasins to the Memphis State seven where the drive stalled.

A Chattanooga penetration in the second half went to the Memphis State 35 before Olie Cordil intercepted an Eisaman pass, starting a Tiger drive that ended in an unsuccessful field goal try from the 29.

The first Memphis State touchdown came on an 80-yard march with Casinelli carrying nine times, including the scoring plunge. Casinelli scored again later in the game after carrying eight times in another long drive that started at the Chattanooga 36.

Casinelli racked up 140 yards in 28 carries.

Trull, Baylor Bite The Dust As Cats Pull Major Upset

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Kentucky's Wildcats slashed their way to one of the major football upsets of the season Saturday by beating Baylor 19-7.

The Wildcats' Rick Norton passed for one touchdown and tossed 73 yards to set up another made from one yard out by Ken Bocard.

Darrell Cox intercepted a pass and ran it back 42 yards for another Wildcat touchdown.

The intercepted pass was a misfire from Don Trull, the nation's leading pass gainer and offensive leader going into Saturday's game.

Trull, once he finally started passing, had another fine statistical day. But he never could hit consistently, although one was good for a touchdown.

Kentucky alternately rushed Trull, then blanketed the receivers, and without Lawrence Elkins to catch for him, Trull did not appear sharp.

Trull showed one flash of brilliance when he passed 17 yard to James Ingrom for Baylor's only touchdown. This was in the fourth quarter and Kentucky was 19 points ahead.

TO GO FOR 2

Corbett Lauds Mac's Decision

JACKSON, Miss. — I'm glad Mac went for two," said LSU Athletic Director James Corbett moments after Mississippi beat LSU 7-6 here Saturday night.

Corbett backed up Coach Charles McClendon's choice to go for two points after quarterback Billy Ezell threw for a last moment touchdown.

"I'm glad Mac did it," Corbett repeated.

With State leading 7 to 6 and 14 seconds remaining in the game, LSU went for 2 points rather than electing to kick.

Ezell threw into a mass of players in the end zone, but overshot his target.

Mississippi State won, 7 to 6.

Prior to tonight's game, Corbett said LSU had a pretty good chance of receiving an invitation to the Blue Bonnett Bowl or the Liberty Bowl.

"But whether we receive a bowl bid or not, I am more than happy with the season for the Tigers," Corbett said. "Our kids are awful bruised and battered up after a grueling schedule."

Corbett praised McClendon, in his second season as head football coach at LSU, for the Tigers performance this season.

"Coach Mac has taken a sophmore team, against one of the toughest schedules in the nation, and put together what I know to be an outstanding showing. He has done a wonderful job.

As the partisan Mississippi State crowd spilled out of the stadium, Corbett again said, "I'm glad Mac went for 2."

Jimmie Sidle Sparks Auburn Over Georgia

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—Nationally-ranked Auburn, led by quarterback Jimmie Sidle, kept its bowl hopes alive Saturday with a 14-0 Southeastern Conference football victory over Georgia.

Auburn, the No. 9 team in the nation, recorded its seventh victory against one loss as fullback Larry Rawson ran for one touchdown and Sidle passed to halfback George Rose for the other. Woody Woodall kicked both conversions.

The loss gave Georgia a 4-4-1 season record.

An Auburn gamble in the second quarter resulted in the Tigers' first touchdown. The Tigers elected to go for the touchdown after Woodall kicked a 39-yard field goal with three yards to go for a first down. Georgia was penalized five yards on the play for offsides and Auburn took the penalty, declining the field goal.

Auburn's second touchdown was set up midway of the third period when Georgia faked a punt. Auburn took over on its 45 and on the next play Sidle threw a 55-yard scoring toss to Rose.

Demons Toppled By Southwestern In 19-13 Scrap

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — Southwestern Louisiana trimmed Northwestern Louisiana 19-13 Saturday night to move into a fourth place Gulf States Conference tie with two others.

Bert Resweber opened the scoring for USL in the second period from the three. Gerald Landry kicked.

Lonny Price got USL's next tally on a one-yard plunge, and O'Neal Weber added the third with a quarterback sneak.

Claude Patrick recovered a fumble in the end zone for NSC's first touchdown and Don Beasley passed four yards to Roy Gentry for the second. Bobby Parker converted after Gentry's marker.

USL is now 1-3 in the GSC and 4-4 overall while NSC is 1-3 in the league and 3-6 for the season.

Pokes Command GSC Race, Sock Lions, 35 To 6

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP)—McNeese cinched at least a tie for the Gulf States Conference title by smacking Southeastern, the league's other leader, 35-6 Saturday night.

Fullback Darrell Lester scored two touchdowns for McNeese, one on a three-yard run in the opening period and the other in the third from one out.

Richard Guillory, who kicked all five extra points, passed 38 yards to George Berger for a second period marker.

The other McNeese tallies came on a 19-yard pass from Thompson to Robert Young and on a blocked punt which Henry Brett recovered in the end zone.

Cougars Roll, 32-15

STANFORD, Calif. (AP)—Washington State's Cougars rolled to a 32-15 victory over the Stanford Indians Saturday as quarterback Dale Ford scored two touchdowns and kept the offense in high gear.

Isaacson Tallies To Carry Cadets

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—Sparkling Terry Isaacson tallied two touchdowns and engineered three other scoring drives as the Air Force Falcons crushed New Mexico 30-8 Saturday in a nonconference football game.

Isaacson, a small 175-pounder, tallied the opening and the closing Air Force touchdowns and in between put on a dazzling offensive show before a dust-laden University Stadium record crowd of 29,004.

The Falcon defense survived a few shaky moments in the first quarter and never permitted New Mexico's fleet running backs to get outside. The Lobos' only score came as back Claude Ward picked off an Isaacson pass and ran it back 45 yards.

Weird Official Calls Big Lift For Maroons

News-Star—World

JACKSON, Miss. — Quarterback Billy Ezell sparked Louisiana State on a 51-yard touchdown drive with less than a minute to play, then went for two points which failed as Mississippi State won a bruising football game 7-6 this chilly Saturday night.

The Greenville, Miss. youth, who hasn't had much success so far this season with his passes, put on a dazzling display in the final few seconds and almost pulled the game out of the fire after State had scored earlier in the final period for a 7-0 lead.

On the two-point conversion try, the sophomore swung to his right and threw to Moreau again, but the ball sailed high over his head. And that was the ball game as fans broke onto the field a few second later

On the spectacular drive, Ezell first threw to scatback Joe Labruzzo, who swung to State's 31 for a gain of 20. Then Ezell passed to end Walter Pillows who carried it to the 13.

With 40 seconds left. Another pass was incomplete, and then Pillows dropped another pass on the two.

On the next try, he hit big Bill Truax on the two, then on the next play he hit Moreau for the score.

Many LSU fans figured LSU actually won the game, although it didn't count because of some unusual official calls.

Midway of the first period, LSU was at State's two yard line. Bruising halfback Donald Schwab went up and over the line and most of those in the pressbox thought he went over the goal line, but the officials ruled the ball dead at the four inch line. When a five - yard penalty moved the ball back to the five yard line, fullback Buddy Soefker stabbed the line and it appreared he went over, but the officials ruled the ball dead at the two.

On the next play, Labruzzo tried it, but was stopped for no gain and State took over to end the threat.

Late in the fourth period, Ezell was back to pass at his own 38.

An LSU end down field at the State 40 was pushed down before the ball reached him. One official started to pull his red flags, but didn't. As a result of the LSU player being shoved out of the way, quarterback Sonny Fisher intercepted for State at the 35, and returned it to the LSU 42 to start the Maroon's only touchdown drive of the night.

Four plays later, Fisher, who is trouted as one of the great quarterbacks in the Southeastern Conference, hit end Tommy Inman with the 17-yard pass for the touchdown. Guard Justin Canale booted the extra point, which was the victory margin.

The Tigers, who were battered and bruised from a rough schedule, won the statistical battle, picking up 177 yards rushing and 66 yards passing to 147 and 38 for State.

In the first downs department, LSU picked up 14 to 10 for State, and ran 67 plays to 47 for State.

It was hard to understand why the Tigers didn't attempt to pass more.

In all, Ezell attempted 15, completed seven and had one intercepted, but most of the completions came on the touchdown drive. The Tigers basic offense was the usual bruising game.

In the rushing department the speedy Labruzzo carried 12 times for 59 yards, while the reliable Schwab crashed into the bruising line 17 times for 72 yards.

State's most consistent runner was halfback Ode Burrell who gained 62 yards on 11 trips with the ball.

Ironically, State was bottled up in its own end of the field most of the night and didn't cross the midfield stripe during the first half.

The only other drive the Maroons made besides the touchdown spurt, was also in the fourth period when it reached the Tiger 21. From there Canale attempted a field goal that was short and wide.

In the line for the Tigers it was the usual standouts such as Truax, Robbie Hucklebridge, Remi Prudhomme, Willis Langley and Milton Trosclair. Time and time again they charged Fisher, throwing him for losses, or blasting down his passes. In the backfield defensive for the Tigers, Dwight Robinson, while Graves and Ken Cormier turned in top performances.

End Danny Neumann's punting was better in the contest than in previous games this season. He ended up with a 31 average but a couple rolled dead inside the State 10 yard line.

Actually, the Tigers controlled the ball much of the game with hard bucks into the line.

Early in the third period, the Tigers were moving well and drove to the State 24 where Schwab fumbled and James Carroll recovered for state to end the threat.

One thing was apparent from the game, however, Mississippi fans shouldn't be able to complain about the noise in Tiger stadium. In Jackson Memorial Stadium, cowbells rang, whistles tooted and shredded paper fell throughout the game.

TO GO FOR 2

Corbett Lauds Mac's Decision

JACKSON, Miss. — I'm glad Mac went for two," said LSU Athletic Director James Corbett moments after Mississippi beat LSU 7-6 here Saturday night.

Corbett backed up Coach Charles McClendon's choice to go for two points after quarterback Billy Ezell threw for a last moment touchdown.

"I'm glad Mac did it," Corbett repeated.

With State leading 7 to 6 and 14 seconds remaining in the game, LSU went for 2 points rather than electing to kick.

Ezell threw into a mass of players in the end zone, but overshot his target.

Mississippi State won, 7 to 6.

Prior to tonight's game, Corbett said LSU had a pretty good chance of receiving an invitation to the Blue Bonnett Bowl or the Liberty Bowl.

"But whether we receive a bowl bid or not, I am more than happy with the season for the Tigers," Corbett said. "Our kids are awful bruised and battered up after a grueling schedule."

Corbett praised McClendon, in his second season as head football coach at LSU, for the Tigers performance this season.

"Coach Mac has taken a sophmore team, against one of the toughest schedules in the nation, and put together what I know to be an outstanding showing. He has done a wonderful job.

As the partisan Mississippi State crowd spilled out of the stadium, Corbett again said, "I'm glad Mac went for 2."

Jimmie Sidle Sparks Auburn Over Georgia

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—Nationally-ranked Auburn, led by quarterback Jimmie Sidle, kept its bowl hopes alive Saturday with a 14-0 Southeastern Conference football victory over Georgia.

Auburn, the No. 9 team in the nation, recorded its seventh victory against one loss as fullback Larry Rawson ran for one touchdown and Sidle passed to halfback George Rose for the other. Woody Woodall kicked both conversions.

The loss gave Georgia a 4-4-1 season record.

An Auburn gamble in the second quarter resulted in the Tigers' first touchdown. The Tigers elected to go for the touchdown after Woodall kicked a 39-yard field goal with three yards to go for a first down. Georgia was penalized five yards on the play for offsides and Auburn took the penalty, declining the field goal.

Auburn's second touchdown was set up midway of the third period when Georgia faked a punt. Auburn took over on its 45 and on the next play Sidle threw a 55-yard scoring toss to Rose.

Demons Toppled By Southwestern In 19-13 Scrap

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — Southwestern Louisiana trimmed Northwestern Louisiana 19-13 Saturday night to move into a fourth place Gulf States Conference tie with two others.

Bert Resweber opened the scoring for USL in the second period from the three. Gerald Landry kicked.

Lonny Price got USL's next tally on a one-yard plunge, and O'Neal Weber added the third with a quarterback sneak.

Claude Patrick recovered a fumble in the end zone for NSC's first touchdown and Don Beasley passed four yards to Roy Gentry for the second. Bobby Parker converted after Gentry's marker.

USL is now 1-3 in the GSC and 4-4 overall while NSC is 1-3 in the league and 3-6 for the season.

USL—Resweber 3 run (Landry kick)

Cougars Roll, 32-15

STANFORD, Calif. (AP)—Washington State's Cougars rolled to a 32-15 victory over the Stanford Indians Saturday as quarterback Dale Ford scored two touchdowns and kept the offense in high gear.

Tribe Gains 3rd Straight; Bulldogs Next

By GLYNN HUDSON
World Sports Writer

Northeast State College, without the use of top ground gainers Willy Ragan and Ken Newton, used a brilliant defensive effort and the arm of junior quarterback Bookie Shillcutt to trounce Delta State of Mississippi 29-7 at Brown Stadium Saturday night.

The victory, third in a row for the on rushing Tribe, brings the season total to 4-5, with one game remaining at Louisiana Tech in which to even out the slate.

Delta, coming into the game a slight favorite, was struck with its third loss of the season against six wins.

The Tribe amassed a total of 20 points in the final quarter, more than they have scored in any game of the season, to completely route the highly touted Delta defense, which held Arkansas State to only 65 yards rushing a week ago.

Shillcutt passed for two touchdowns, both to end Steve Regan and ran for another from two yards out to spark the Indians in their best offensive showing of the year. Senior quarterback Mike Cooper picked up the other six pointer on a one yard burst, and Ragan kicked a 35 yard field goal and two extra points to round out the scoring.

The Indians picked up 171 yards on the ground most of it coming on the fine running of sophomore Ronnie Graham. Graham, playing in the place of the injured Ragan, paced the Tribe rushers with 60 yards on 15 cracks at the Stateman line.

Delta rolled to 230 yards on the ground, with fullback George Chesser, also a sophomore, leading the Tribesmen with 60 yards.

The big difference in the game was the passing of Shillcut who hit on 6 of 19 for 164 yards and two touchdowns. Three Delta quarterbacks were able to complete only two of 12 for five yards.

Cooper gave the home fans a little hint of what was to come when he threw a pass on the first play from scrimmage after the Indians had recovered a Delta fumble on the Statesman 38.

Although it only made two yards, it showed that the Indians would be playing a wide open football game. A few seconds later Cooper fumbled at the 32 and Delta took over again.

Delta could keep the ball but three plays before defensive halfback R. F. Wilson snared one of quarterback Laurin Collins' passes, the first of three for the alert Tribe defense of the night. Wilson, Carlysle Williams, and Morris Douglas each had a hey day in the defensive secondary, coming u pwith key interceptions, two of which led to Tribe tallies.

The Tribe got on the scoreboard first late in the first period, moving 37 yards in two plays. Shillcutt after calling two running plays into the line, faked once, dropped back and spotted Ragan all alone at the 10.

The pass was perfect and the tall end slipped into the end zone unmolested for the six pointed. Ragan's kick was wide and the Tribe took a 6-0 lead with 5:10 remaining in the initial quarter.

The Statesmen marched right back, taking the ensuing kickoff 66 yards on 19 plays for their only tally of the night. Chesser was the big man in the drive, turning in 30 hard fought yards in key situations.

Chesser picked up the final two yards after the Indians had held twice at that point. Guard Bill Hunt's kick split the uprights and Delta had a 7-6 lead with 11:01 remaining in the half.

Wilson returned the following kickoff to the Tribe 43, and from that point, the Indians cranked up a march that was to carry to the 10 before being halted. Ragan tried his first field goal of the night with a fourth and seven situation but it was wide.

He got another chance and made good later, as Williams came up with his big interception at the Delta 48. Shillcutt hurled a 33 yard strike to end Jim Love to set up the play. When Shillcutt couldn't move the Tribe on three passes, Ragan came in and made good on his second attempt from 35 yards out and the Indians took

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP)—McNeese cinched at least a tie for the Gulf States Conference title by smacking Southeastern, the league's other leader, 35-6 Saturday night.

Fullback Darrell Lester scored two touchdowns for McNeese, one on a three-yard run in the opening period and the other in the third from one out.

Richard Guillory, who kicked all five extra points, passed 38 yards to George Berger for a second period marker.

The other McNeese tallies came on a 19-yard pass from Thompson to Robert Young and on a blocked punt which Henry Brett recovered in the end zone.

Isaacson Tallies To Carry Cadets

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—Sparkling Terry Isaacson tallied two touchdowns and engineered three other scoring drives as the Air Force Falcons crushed New Mexico 30-8 Saturday in a nonconference football game.

Isaacson, a small 175-pounder, tallied the opening and the closing Air Force touchdowns and in between put on a dazzling offensive show before a dust-laden University Stadium record crowd of 29,004.

The Falcon defense survived a few shaky moments in the first quarter and never permitted New Mexico's fleet running backs to get outside. The Lobos' only score came as back Claude Ward picked off an Isaacson pass and ran it back 45 yards.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Unbeaten, untied and top-ranked Texas cinched the Southwest Conference football title and became the Cotton Bowl host on Jan. 1 Saturday by whipping Texas Christian University 17-0.

Sophomore backs Phil Harris and Tommy Stockton took the scoring honors for Texas, both taking in touchdowns from three yards out.

Stocking-footed kicking specialist Tony Crosby provided the other Texas scoring with a 42-yard field goal and two conversions, running his string to 24 straight conversions this season.

Quarterback Duke Carlisle kept TCU defenses loose hitting several passes and his always-dangerous run-pass option plays.

Texas has only Texas A&M remaining on Thanksgiving Day in its quest for the national championship.

The victory assured Texas of being Cotton Bowl host Jan. 1, since it has beaten all other conference title contenders. It will be the third straight year for Texas to be Cotton Bowl host.

Texas Christian staged two drives deep in Texas territory but failed to penetrate the Longhorn defense to bring a tally across.

Texas broke the scoring ice when safety man Tony King picked off a long pass by Donny Smith and returned it 21 yards to the Texas Christian 46.

Ford and Stockton punched through the TCU line for short gains. Wingback Harris took a pitchout from Carlisle to carry it in for the first touchdown from three yards out after Stockton threw a vital block.

Texas took advantage of another TCU miscue in the second period to pad the score 10-0 at the halftime. TCU punter Garry Thomas got a bad snap on a fourth down situation and got caught on his own 31-yard line. Texas failed to make yardage, and Crosby put a field goal through the uprights from 42 yards out.

REBELS ROLL ON

Ole Miss Has No Trouble With Stubborn Tennessee

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Third-ranked Mississippi rolled easily over the stubborn but ineffectual resistance of Tennessee Saturday for a 20-0 Southeastern Conference Football victory.

Tennessee threatened three times, but never had the payoff punch. Their deepest penetration was to the Rebel 4 in the second quarter.

The Rebels struck again in the second quarter with an 80-yard scoring drive. Fullback Fred Roberts capped it with a touchdown plunge from the 2.

Jimmy Heidel set up the final Mississippi score in the third period when he took a punt at mid-field and went to the Vol 22. Fullback Frank Kinard got the score with a two-yard plunge.

Mississippi had another opportunity in the second quarter when the Rebs took a fumble at the Tennessee 45 and drove to the 9 before running into a fourth down. Billy Carl Irwin's short field goal try was ruled bad over his strong protest.

Tennessee's most serious threat came late in the first half with a 76-yard drive that was swamped by the hard-charging Rebel line.

Taking over on their 20 after an end zone punt, Tennessee moved upfield with long runs by Billy Tomlinson and Stan Mitchell. Mallon Faircloth broke loose to the Rebel 4, but two incomplete passes and two long losses hurled the Vols away from the goal as time ran out.

TO ESCAPE SEC CELLAR

Wave Deadlock Hurts Chances

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A 33-yard field goal by Toby Wilt gave Vanderbilt a 10-10 tie with Tulane Saturday and spiked the Green Wave's efforts to climb out of the Southeastern Conference cellar.

In a see-saw struggle of the "have - nots" Vandy marched from the Tulane 48 to the 17 in fourth quarter to set up the tying field goal. Then, the Commodores snuffed out Tulane's desperate drives.

Vanderbilt's touchdown came on a four-yard sweep by quarterback David Waller. Tulane scored a touchdown on a one-yard plunge by fullback George Smith and a 41-yard field goal by Don Bright.

Smith's touchdown — the first Tulane has scored at home this season—came in the second period. Halfback Carl Crowder intercepted a pass that had overshot Wilt and streaked 24 yards down the sidelines to the Vandy 2. Smith drove across in two attempts.

Halfback Art Guepe, son of Vandy's former coach, keyed the drive with a 43-yard run. Guepe scooped up his own fumble on a deep reverse and went through the Tulane backfield to the Greenie 15. Waller took it over from the 4.

Bright's boot, set up by three passes from quarterback Al Burguieres, put Tulane ahead 10-7 in the third period. Vandy matched the kick with Wilt's field goal to tie the game.

After a scoreless third period, which saw the Indians tenatiously holding on to a two point lead, Northeast exploded for 20 points to ice the victory.

The first of three touchdowns came as the Indians took over on a punt late in the third quarter and marched 53 yards. Shillcutt hurled to Regan from five yards out to cap the eight play drive with 12:40 remaining. The PAT failed.

Shillcutt's 15 yarder to Wilson earlier in the drive was the big play, bring the Tribe frem a 3-5 situation at the 33.

Trailing by eight, Delta tried desperately to get back into the game, but a hard rushing Tribe line halted their every move. Again Wilson made some great saves, batting down passes that could have gone all the way.

With less than five minutes remaining in the game, the Tribe threatened to make it a run-away.

Douglas picked off Collins' pass and took it back to the Statesman 15 to set up the second tally of the quarter. A roughness penalty carried it to the 4 yard line and two plays later Cooper sneaked over from the one yard line and Ragan added the PAT. This ran the score to 23-7 with 3:09 left.

Adding insult to injury, the Tribe came back for the final touchdown with less than two minutes left. Forcing the Statesmen to set up in punt formation with only 2:20 left in the game, the Indians were not content to take the ball and run out the clock.

Billy Ross Graves smashed through to block the punt and recover the ball at the Delta 2. Shillcutt found the end-zone on the next play. Ragan's kick was blocked, leaving the final score 29-7, the highest offensive showing in two years for the Indians.

TEXAS WINGBACK Phil Harris (25) is halted by Christian quarterback Ken Nix and halfback Marvin Chipman (25) after gaining four yards in the first quarter of the game in Austin Saturday. (AP Wirephoto)

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Unbeaten, untied and top-ranked Texas cinched the Southwest Conference football title and became the Cotton Bowl host on Jan. 1 Saturday by whipping Texas Christian University 17-0.

Sophomore backs Phil Harris and Tommy Stockton took the scoring honors for Texas, both taking in touchdowns from three yards out.

Stocking-footed kicking specialist Tony Crosby provided the other Texas scoring with a 42-yard field goal and two conversions, running his string to 24 straight conversions this season.

Quarterback Duke Carlisle kept TCU defenses loose hitting several passes and his always-dangerous run-pass option plays.

Texas has only Texas A&M remaining on Thanksgiving Day in its quest for the national championship.

The victory assured Texas of being Cotton Bowl host Jan. 1, since it has beaten all other conference title contenders. It will be the third straight year for Texas to be Cotton Bowl host.

Texas Christian staged two drives deep in Texas territory but failed to penetrate the Longhorn defense to bring a tally across.

Texas broke the scoring ice when safety man Tony King picked off a long pass by Donny Smith and returned it 21 yards to the Texas Christian 46.

Ford and Stockton punched through the TCU line for short gains. Wingback Harris took a pitchout from Carlisle to carry it in for the first touchdown from three yards out after Stockton threw a vital block.

Texas took advantage of another TCU miscue in the second period to pad the score 10-0 at the halftime. TCU punter Garry Thomas got a bad snap on a fourth down situation and got caught on his own 31-yard line. Texas failed to make yardage, and Crosby put a field goal through the uprights from 42 yards out.

MISSISSIPPI END Allen Brown (80) comes to the end of the line after taking a pass from quarterback Jim Weatherly for a gain of 11 yards in the first quarter of the Rebel-Vol clash in Memphis Saturday. REBELS ROLL ON

Ole Miss Has No Trouble With Stubborn Tennessee

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Third-ranked Mississippi rolled easily over the stubborn but ineffectual resistance of Tennessee Saturday for a 20-0 Southeastern Conference Football victory.

Tennessee threatened three times, but never had the payoff punch. Their deepest penetration was to the Rebel 4 in the second quarter.

The Rebels struck again in the second quarter with an 80-yard scoring drive. Fullback Fred Roberts capped it with a touchdown plunge from the 2.

Jimmy Heidel set up the final Mississippi score in the third period when he took a punt at mid-field and went to the Vol 22. Fullback Frank Kinard got the score with a two-yard plunge.

Mississippi had another opportunity in the second quarter when the Rebs took a fumble at the Tennessee 45 and drove to the 9 before running into a fourth down. Billy Carl Irwin's short field goal try was ruled bad over his strong protest.

Tennessee's most serious threat came late in the first half with a 76-yard drive that was swamped by the hard-charging Rebel line.

Taking over on their 20 after an end zone punt, Tennessee moved upfield with long runs by Billy Tomlinson and Stan Mitchell. Mallon Faircloth broke loose to the Rebel 4, but two incomplete passes and two long losses hurled the Vols away from the goal as time ran out.

TO ESCAPE SEC CELLAR

Wave Deadlock Hurts Chances

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A 33-yard field goal by Toby Wilt gave Vanderbilt a 10-10 tie with Tulane Saturday and spiked the Green Wave's efforts to climb out of the Southeastern Conference cellar.

In a see-saw struggle of the "have - nots" Vandy marched from the Tulane 48 to the 17 in fourth quarter to set up the tying field goal. Then, the Commodores snuffed out Tulane's desperate drives.

Vanderbilt's touchdown came on a four-yard sweep by quarterback David Waller. Tulane scored a touchdown on a one-yard plunge by fullback George Smith and a 41-yard field goal by Don Bright.

Smith's touchdown — the first Tulane has scored at home this season—came in the second period. Halfback Carl Crowder intercepted a pass that had overshot Wilt and streaked 24 yards down the sidelines to the Vandy 2. Smith drove across in two attempts.

Halfback Art Guepe, son of Vandy's former coach, keyed the drive with a 43-yard run. Guepe scooped up his own fumble on a deep reverse and went through the Tulane backfield to the Greenie 15. Waller took it over from the 4.

Bright's boot, set up by three passes from quarterback Al Burguieres, put Tulane ahead 10-7 in the third period. Vandy matched the kick with Wilt's field goal to tie the game.

Tribe Gains 3rd Straight; Bulldogs Next

After a scoreless third period, which saw the Indians tenatiously holding on to a two point lead, Northeast exploded for 20 points to ice the victory.

The first of three touchdowns came as the Indians took over on a punt late in the third quarter and marched 53 yards. Shillcutt hurled to Regan from five yards out to cap the eight play drive with 12:40 remaining. The PAT failed.

Shillcutt's 15 yarder to Wilson earlier in the drive was the big play, bring the Tribe from a 3-5 situation at the 33.

Trailing by eight, Delta tried desperately to get back into the game, but a hard rushing Tribe line halted their every move. Again Wilson made some great saves, batting down passes that could have gone all the way.

With less than five minutes remaining in the game, the Tribe threatened to make it a run-away.

Douglas picked off Collins' pass and took it back to the Statesman 15 to set up the second tally of the quarter. A roughness penalty carried it to the 4 yard line and two plays later Cooper sneaked over from the one yard line and Ragan added the PAT. This ran the score to 23-7 with 3:09 left.

Adding insult to injury, the Tribe came back for the final touchdown with less than two minutes left. Forcing the Statesmen to set up in punt formation with only 2:20 left in the game, the Indians were not content to take the ball and run out the clock.

Billy Ross Graves smashed through to block the punt and recover the ball at the Delta 2. Shillcutt found the end-zone on the next play. Ragan's kick was blocked, leaving the final score 29-7, the highest offensive showing in two years for the Indians.

Good Season For Archers

With Sam Hanna

TOTAL KILL CLIMBS

Archers, who fought for so long to get a bow season, are enjoying their best season yet, but at the same time they're missing the boat on an opportunity to sell their sport.

With interest in the sport at its highest peak to date, bow hunters will exceed last year's total kill before the current season ends next Sunday.

Last year, according to the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission, the total kill for the entire state was from 10 to 15 deer. That, of course, is not completely accurate, because the state does not maintain an accurate system of keeping a count on deer kills.

But the archer has killed 15 deer that we know of in the Fifth District so far this season and of course there are others that haven't been reported.

It's safe to say that before the season closes the total kill will far exceed last year's total.

However, this brings us to the points that should be made. In the first place, the bow hunter, regardless of his kill, is not going to put a dent in Louisiana's deer population.

This was the argument that many police jurors put up several years ago when the state was first selling the archery season. The police juries fought it on grounds that it would give the archer the advantage and hurt the deer herds.

Just isn't so!

So now is the time for the archer to help sell the point that he is not destroying the deer population before the gun hunter gets a chance to pop a cap.

Now is the time for the archer to report his kill to his game warden or biologist — to the Monroe office or the Ferriday office in this district — so that the Wild Life & Fisheries Commission can have an accurate picture of the bow season in case it must be sold over and over again.

And this case also brings us to our old contention that the commission should have a system of its own to keep tabs on the kill, a system that would work.

Check stations undoubtedly would not be feasible during the bow season, but the commission could have educated the bow hunter to report his kill.

We still maintain that Louisiana should be able to have an accurate account of its deer kill. Other states do. Why can't we?

DRY DUCK SEASON

This is the kind of fall that makes the duck hunter appreciate places like Wham Brake where there's always water regardless of a drought.

But this is the kind of fall that also makes the duck hunter wish there was water like there used to be in Lafourche Swamp — before it was drained.

Discounting just a hand full of private spots, Northeast Louisiana really doesn't have an all - around program for ducks. That is to say we aren't doing much for ducks.

For instance, despite the drought, Arkansas has water for ducks. Thanks largely to private development, Arkansas has reservoirs that will provide water for ducks, drought or not.

They've gone to a lot of trouble in the Razorback State to flood woods here and there, actually giving Arkansas more water for mallards than any other state in the Mississippi Flyway.

Louisiana needs to get into more of this.

Locally, the Wild Life & Fisheries Commission each year floods about 1200 acres in Lafourche Swamp just across the drainage canal in Richland Parish, located south of U.S. 80.

Biologist Cliff Williams says the area will be flooded again this year. In fact, work has already begun. State crews ripped out a beaver dam so that water can be brought down from Little Lake Lafourche to flood the area.

Hunters will recall that they can reach the area on a dirt road that runs on the bank of the canal.

Just across the canal, Cliff Williams, Jack Rushing and their crews have built temporary levees to keep the water from running out of the Russell Sage area into the Lafourche canal. However, if there isn't a great deal of rainfall before the duck season, this area will be dry and of course not suitable for duck hunting.

The point is this: The Lafourche Public Shooting Area in Richland will be ready for the opening of the duck season on November 29th.

And the point is this also:

If we want ducks, we're going to have to work for them. And that means the development of private reservoirs that will contain water for waterfowl.

It could be developed into a going business enterprise for the landowner who has land that should be put in use.

And here's the latest waterfowl survey that came in Saturday's mail. Conducted November 4-7, the survey showed Louisiana with 3,486,550 ducks. Northeast Louisiana had 34,250, including 6,400 mallards. Southwest Louisiana, as usual, had the most with 2,284,000.

QUAIL POPULATION GOOD

From the reports that we get from hunters, landowners and biologists, the quail population is much better than average this year.

In fact, the reports are the best in recent years.

This is encouraging, since the opening of the quail season is just a few days away — November 28th through February 23rd. However, unless there is some rainfall, it'll be pretty tough on the birddogs.

There doesn't seem to be a real answer for the good production of quail this year, unless it can be traced to the weather conditions during the nesting season.

But the quail nesting period varies from bird to bird. Some hatch sooner than others. Some of the young birds now are not completely grown, or at least a covey that we saw two or three weeks ago wasn't.

If we get some rain and continued chilly weather, the partridge season will be a good one.

While on the subject of bird populations, our sources also report a big production of young turkeys. And this is the game bird that needs a boost here and there.

The turkey season doesn't open until April 4-19th. Hunters should control their itchy shooting fingers when the turkeys cross in front of their deer stands.

LITTLE MAN'S CORNER

It was cold, but the ducks were flying and the fish were biting and the little men made news afield.

Tensas has broken out with a rash of fire-hunting of a twisted variety. The outlaws are preferring beef to vension. Instead of shooting deer this year, they're shooting cattle.

There have been 15 arrest of persons changed with shooting cattle during the past several weeks in Tensas. The latest victim was a registered bull owned by Jimmy Noe.

But it's a risky sport. One man was sentenced to three years at Angola, which might lead one to believe that it is safer to shoot a man.

Meantime, the bow hunters are having their kicks. A third deer was reported killed this week on Russell Sage area, but the identity of the hunter is not known.

In Madison Parish, Ben Pearson, the archery expert from Pine Bluff, killed two, but so did Sterling Harrell of Ruston. Dick Wall of Ruston also killed a deer.

And from Newellton, Billy Poe killed an 8 - point buck, then dropped a spike — two for the season. Mickey Thomas of St. Joseph also killed a spike.

Meantime, Wham Brake and Black Bayou have been wrapped up with ducks, according to the hunters who have been out there working on their duck blinds.

Allen Ensminger, the biologist, flew over Coulee Refuge on Friday, reporting he saw about 2,000 ducks, plus three deer standing in the water.

A Monroe sport, Harry Cooper, wearing waders to his chest, was out on Wham working on his duck blind, topped from his boat, filling his waders with the pleasant waters from Wham. Wayne Causey thought it was funny, but was rewarded. He fell in too.

The special still hunts in parts of Union, Jackson and Winn created a lot of interest among their deer hunters anxious for the regular opening on November 29th. A 15-year-old youngster. Jerry Huffman of Dubach, killed a 10-point buck in Union. It was a big deer.

Locally, Johnny Danna has been out-fishing his brothers on Black Bayou. Johnny came by the office with a string of 15 bass, including seven that weighed over five pounds each. They were beautiful.

Biologist Jim Davis reports that a 9½-pound bass was caught at Bussey — largest since the man-made lake was stocked with fish a few years back. The state is preparing to release 330,000 beam in D'Arbonne.

From the Ferriday area, Bill and Al Strickland of Ferriday and also Oren Zimmerman of Ferriday caught 23 bass in the Red River barpits downstream from Vidalia.

J. A. Gulledge of Ferriday and Mrs. Louise Lee of Lake St. John caught their limits of bass in St. John. Mrs. Effie Pylant of Winnsboro got the limit of bream there.

Fishing in the Blue Hole, H. M. Guner of Ferriday got the limit of white perch. Jimmy Tullos and Milton Brown of Ferriday landed the limit of bass in Lake Concordia.

Lake Providence would be good for bass fishing if the wind would quit blowing. Dr. W. A. Harris landed 11 there.

NAVY DUMPS DUKE

Roger Staubach Strikes Again

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Marvelous Roger Staubach's running and passing ignited a devastating Navy offense in the first half and the second-ranked Middies defeated Duke 38-25 Saturday in a wild-scoring regionally televised football game.

The crowd of 41,000 saw Navy and Duke score a total of 56 points during the first half. The Middies, now 8-1 for the season and apparently headed for a post-season bowl game, scored every time they got the ball during the first two periods.

It was Duke's third loss against five victories and one tie.

Duke threatened several times in the closing quarter but the Middies held each time and forced the Blue Devils to punt. Navy halfback John Sar raced 93 yards off tackle for a touchdown in the closing minutes to seal the victory.

Navy had a 31-25 halftime edge.

Navy jumped off a 7-0 lead in the opening minutes by rolling 68 yards in 10 plays. Staubach banged over right tackle from the four for the touchdown.

Duke came back with the kickoff and swept 65 yards in seven plays with halfback Biff Bracy going over from the three.

Navy, with Staubach turning in a 44-yard run, moved into high gear again and scored on a 72-yard first period drive. Sai got the touchdown from the one to give the Middies a 14-6 lead.

Duke quarterback Scotty Glacken circled left end from the Navy five midway the second quarter to cap a 70-yard scoring march. Navy went ahead a few minutes later 17-12 when Fred Marlen kicked a 31-yard field goal.

The Blue Devils roared back to score on an 11-yard pass from Glacken to end Stan Crisson. A pass interference ruling gave Duke the ball on Navy 11.

Navy, continuing to grind out huge yardage, took the next kickoff and slammed 68 yards in five plays with fullback Nick Markoff scoring from the five.

The second period fireworks continued as Navy end Dave Sjuggerud intercepted a Glacken pass and raced 34 yards for a touchdown to give Navy a 31-19 edge.

But it was not all over for Duke as the Blue Devils drove 71 yards with halfback Jay Wilkinson going over from the one as the half ended. A 44-yard pass from Glacken to end Chuck Drulis set up the Duke touchdown.

Purdue Drops Gophers 13-11 With Long Run

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—An 88-yard kickoff return by Purdue sophomore Gordon Teter was the difference Saturday in the Boilermakers' 13-11 football victory over Minnesota.

Minnesota had a statistical edge in everything but punts and fumbles. It lost the ball three times on bobbles, making 16 lost-ball fumbles in its last four games.

The Gophers were left in undisputed last place in the Big Ten at 1-5. They missed four field goal attempts in the last half after fullback Mike Reid gave them a 3-0 lead by booting a 33-yarder in the first quarter.

Nebraska Tops Oklahoma State

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Substitute quarterback Fred Duda sparked league-leading Nebraska to a 20-16 Big Eight Conference football victory over improving Oklahoma State Saturday.

Duda, subbing for injured quarterback Dennis Claridge, led the Cornhuskers on scoring drives of 55, 70 and 63 yards. He scored once himself on an eight-yard keeper.

The victory was Nebraska's eighth of the season against a single loss, and its sixth without a defeat in conference play.

The Cornhuskers have only one foe standing between them and their first conference title since 1940—but that foe is defending champion Oklahoma. The Sooners play Nebraska next Saturday at Lincoln.

85-Yard Romp Gives Spartans 12-7 Victory

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Speester Sherm Lewis sprinted 85 yards for a touchdown in the fourth period and led Michigan State to a 12-7 victory over upset-minded Notre Dame Saturday.

Lewis twisted through the Irish defense, aided by a key block by Mike Currie. It was the fifth run of more than 80 yards this season for the mighty little MSU co-captain. Included were two runs, two pass receptions and a punt return.

A crowd of 70,128 in Spartan Stadium had been smelling an upset after Notre Dame had a 7-6 lead over Michigan State going into the final quarter.

State, now with a 6-1-1 record, is the fourth ranked team in the nation. The Spartans also lead the Big Ten with a 4-0-1 conference mark. They played Illinois in what shapes up as a battle for league championship honors and the Rose Bowl bid at East Lansing next Saturday.

North Carolina Outscores Mira For 27-16 Win

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina topped Miami of Florida 27-16 Saturday behind a sparkling passing attack and the power running of halfback Ken Willard.

The Tar Heels, now 7-2 and boasting the nation's fourth-best pass defense, held Miami's passer George Mira in check—mainly by outscoring him.

Mira threw two touchdown passes and set up a field goal by leading the Hurricanes from their 1 to the Tar Heel 22 in the third period.

Panthers Slash Army Defense

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Lightning like touchdown dashes by Paul Martha and Fred Mazurek and the bull-like rushes of Rick Leeson ripped apart Army's vaunted rush defense Saturday as sixth-ranked Pittsburgh scored a 28-0 football victory.

Halfback Martha scored what turned out to be the winning points for the bowl-minded Panthers when he raced around his right end for 48 yards and a touchdown late in the opening quarter.

Nittany Lions Defeat Holy Cross 28-14

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa., (AP)—Don Caum scored two touchdowns Saturday on a fake field goal and a 60-yard pass play to spark Penn State to a 28-14 football victory over Holy Cross.

The Nittany Lions hiked their record to 7-2 and stayed in contention for a bowl bid.

Tulsa Squeaks By Houston U.

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Jerry Rhome led Tulsa to a 22-21 football upset of Houston Saturday, with his passes accounting for 81 yards in four plays for a closing-seconds touchdown, then completing a two-point conversion.

Tide Smashes Tech

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Alabama's fired-up Crimson Tide smashed to a 27-11 Southeastern Conference football victory over Georgia Tech Saturday behind the running of halfback Benny Nelson and quarterback Joe Namath.

Nelson scored two touchdowns on runs of one and six yards. Namath scored one and kept the Tide's touchdown drives going with his keepers on the option play.

Junior halfbacks Ray Ogden scored Alabama's first touchdown in the opening period on a 44-yard run around right end in the fourth period and ran it to the 15. Nelson went to the two and Namath scored the Tide's final touchdown with only four seconds remaining in the last quarter.

The Tide defense stopped the Yellow Jackets once on this one-foot line in the third quarter and again on the Alabama 24 with only inches to go in the fourth quarter.

Alabama, seventh ranked in the nation, turned the game into a runaway after this play, marching 76 yards to a touchdown which Nelson scored on a six-yard run. The Tide adding another a few plays later after Piper intercepted Lothridge's desperation pass.

Tech threatened to go ahead in the third period after scoring a touchdown on a 55-yard march and making a two-point conversion to trail 14-11. The Yellow Jackets forced an Alabama punt and drove to the Tide 24, but the Crimson defense held.

Tech made its touchdown after Alabama's goal-line stand. Lothridge completed a 23-yard at the 12 and passing to end Billy Martin for a first down at the 1. Lothridge scored on the next play.

UCLA Throws Bowl Switch, Blanks Huskies

LOS ANGELES (AP)—UCLA threw the switch on the Rose Bowl-bound Washington football team Saturday, dealing the Huskies a 14-0 defeat in one of the biggest upsets in the nation this year.

The Bruins of UCLA, who had won only one game and had lost seven, traveled 88 yards in the second quarter to score their first touchdown, and put together another drive of 76 yards in the third for another.

UCLA was two-touchdown underdog going into the Big Six Conference game before 30,398 under sunny skies in Memorial Coliseum.

Washington still has the inside track for the Rose Bowl assignment but must defeat Washington State in their traditional struggle at Seattle next Saturday.

This was the first conference defeat for the Huskies and the second converence victory for UCLA. Officially, the conference will not vote on its Rose Bowl representative until after the final games this week.

YMCA Football

In other Red League action, the Colts dumped the Packers, 19-7, on Miles' power.

Sales scored three times to carry the Cardinals to a 21-0 second victory over the Giants.

Boston College Wins By 30-21

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — A pair of plays executed by a couple of enterprising juniors set up Boston College's first two scores and started the Eagles to a 30-21 victory over Virginia Saturday.

The plays, a 30-yard pass to end Bill Cronin at the Virginia and a 50-yard run by halfback Bobby Shann, came in the second period after the underdog visitors twice held Boston within their own 10.

Cronin grabbed Jack Concannon's long pass after Virginia defender John Pincavage batted it away from the intended receiver, Bob Budzinski, at the goal line.

Northwestern Upsets Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Northwestern's Wildcats saved State. Theloss knocked the Bu something from a disappointing football season Saturday as they wound up the campaign with a 17-8 victory over Ohio State. The of the fight for the Big Ten conference title and a Rose Bowl bid.

Texas Tech Shades Texas Western 7-3

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Texas Tech marched 72 yards in the second period, then withstood the fired up bids of Texas Western for a 7-3 football victory Saturday night.

The touchdown came on a one-yard plunge by quarterback James Ellis, climaxing the only successful offensive display of the game.

The march began on the Tech 28, where the Raiders recovered a Texas Western fumble. It required 11 plays, including 10-yard runs by James Zanios and Donny Anderson, a 14-yard pass from Ellis to Charles Graham and a 23-yard dash by Johnny Agan to a first down on the Miner six.

Illini Survive, Look Westward

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Illinois kept alive its hopes for the Big Ten football championship and a trip to the Rose Bowl by defeating Wisconsin 17-7 Saturday with the help of a stubborn defense.

The Illini put together a long drive after the opening kickoff and a 24-yard runback with a pass interception by George Donnelly for first half touchdowns and then held on until Jim Plankenhorn booted a 26-yard field goal 38 seconds before the final gun.

Good Season For Archers

With Sam Hanna

TOTAL KILL CLIMBS

Archers, who fought for so long to get a bow season, are enjoying their best season yet, but at the same time they're missing the boat on an opportunity to sell their sport.

With interest in the sport at its highest peak to date, bow hunters will exceed last year's total kill before the current season ends next Sunday.

Last year, according to the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission, the total kill for the entire state was from 10 to 15 deer. That, of course, is not completely accurate, because the state does not maintain an accurate system of keeping a count on deer kills.

But the archer has killed 15 deer that we know of in the Fifth District so far this season and of course there are others that haven't been reported.

It's safe to say that before the season closes the total kill will far exceed last year's total.

However, this brings us to the points that should be made. In the first place, the bow hunter, regardless of his kill, is not going to put a dent in Louisiana's deer population.

This was the argument that many police jurors put up several years ago when the state was first selling the archery season. The police juries fought it on grounds that it would give the archer the advantage and hurt the deer herds.

Just isn't so!

So now is the time for the archer to help sell the point that he is not destroying the deer population before the gun hunter gets a chance to pop a cap.

Now is the time for the archer to report his kill to his game warden or biologist — to the Monroe office or the Ferriday office in this district — so that the Wild Life & Fisheries Commission can have an accurate picture of the bow season in case it must be sold over and over again.

And this case also brings us to our old contention that the commission should have a system of its own to keep tabs on the kill, a system that would work.

Check stations undoubtedly would not be feasible during the bow season, but the commission could have educated the bow hunter to report his kill.

We still maintain that Louisiana should be able to have an accurate account of its deer kill. Other states do. Why can't we?

DRY DUCK SEASON

This is the kind of fall that makes the duck hunter appreciate places like Wham Brake where there's always water regardless of a drought.

But this is the kind of fall that also makes the duck hunter wish there was water like there used to be in Lafourche Swamp — before it was drained.

Discounting just a hand full of private spots, Northeast Louisiana really doesn't have an all - around program for ducks. That is to say we aren't doing much for ducks.

For instance, despite the drought, Arkansas has water for ducks. Thanks largely to private development, Arkansas has reservoirs that will provide water for ducks, drought or not.

They've gone to a lot of trouble in the Razorback State to flood woods here and there, actually giving Arkansas more water for mallards than any other state in the Mississippi Flyway.

Louisiana needs to get into more of this.

Locally, the Wild Life & Fisheries Commission each year floods about 1200 acres in Lafourche Swamp just across the drainage canal in Richland Parish, located south of U.S. 80.

Biologist Cliff Williams says the area will be flooded again this year. In fact, work has already begun. State crews ripped out a beaver dam so that water can be brought down from Little Lake Lafourche to flood the area.

Hunters will recall that they can reach the area on a dirt road that runs on the bank of the canal.

Just across the canal, Cliff Williams, Jack Rushing and their crews have built temporary levees to keep the water from running out of the Russell Sage area into the Lafourche canal. However, if there isn't a great deal of rainfall before the duck season, this area will be dry and of course not suitable for duck hunting.

The point is this: The Lafourche Public Shooting Area in Richland will be ready for the opening of the duck season on November 29th.

And the point is this also:

If we want ducks, we're going to have to work for them. And that means the development of private reservoirs that will contain water for waterfowl.

It could be developed into a going business enterprise for the landowner who has land that should be put in use.

And here's the latest waterfowl survey that came in Saturday's mail. Conducted November 4-7, the survey showed Louisiana with 3,486,550 ducks. Northeast Louisiana had 34,250, including 6,400 mallards. Southwest Louisiana, as usual, had the most with 2,284,000.

QUAIL POPULATION GOOD

From the reports that we get from hunters, landowners and biologists, the quail population is much better than average this year.

In fact, the reports are the best in recent years.

This is encouraging, since the opening of the quail season is just a few days away — November 28th through February 23rd. However, unless there is some rainfall, it'll be pretty tough on the birddogs.

There doesn't seem to be a real answer for the good production of quail this year, unless it can be traced to the weather conditions during the nesting season.

But the quail nesting period varies from bird to bird. Some hatch sooner than others. Some of the young birds now are not completely grown, or at least a covey that we saw two or three weeks ago wasn't.

If we get some rain and continued chilly weather, the partridge season will be a good one.

While on the subject of bird populations, our sources also report a big production of young turkeys. And this is the game bird that needs a boost here and there.

The turkey season doesn't open until April 4-19th. Hunters should control their itchy shooting fingers when the turkeys cross in front of their deer stands.

LITTLE MAN'S CORNER

It was cold, but the ducks were flying and the fish were biting and the little men made news afield.

Tensas has broken out with a rash of fire-hunting of a twisted variety. The outlaws are preferring beef to vension. Instead of shooting deer this year, they're shooting cattle.

There have been 15 arrest of persons changed with shooting cattle during the past several weeks in Tensas. The latest victim was a registered bull owned by Jimmy Noe.

But it's a risky sport. One man was sentenced to three years at Angola, which might lead one to believe that it is safer to shoot a man.

Meantime, the bow hunters are having their kicks. A third deer was reported killed this week on Russell Sage area, but the identity of the hunter is not known.

In Madison Parish, Ben Pearson, the archery expert from Pine Bluff, killed two, but so did Sterling Harrell of Ruston. Dick Wall of Ruston also killed a deer.

And from Newellton, Billy Poe killed an 8 - point buck, then dropped a spike — two for the season. Mickey Thomas of St. Joseph also killed a spike.

Meantime, Wham Brake and Black Bayou have been wrapped up with ducks, according to the hunters who have been out there working on their duck blinds.

Allen Ensminger, the biologist, flew over Coulee Refuge on Friday, reporting he saw about 2,000 ducks, plus three deer standing in the water.

A Monroe sport, Harry Cooper, wearing waders to his chest, was out on Wham working on his duck blind, topped from his boat, filling his waders with the pleasant waters from Wham. Wayne Causey thought it was funny, but was rewarded. He fell in too.

The special still hunts in parts of Union, Jackson and Winn created a lot of interest among their deer hunters anxious for the regular opening on November 29th. A 15-year-old youngster. Jerry Huffman of Dubach, killed a 10-point buck in Union. It was a big deer.

Locally, Johnny Danna has been out-fishing his brothers on Black Bayou. Johnny came by the office with a string of 15 bass, including seven that weighed over five pounds each. They were beautiful.

Biologist Jim Davis reports that a 9½-pound bass was caught at Bussey — largest since the man-made lake was stocked with fish a few years back. The state is preparing to release 330,000 beam in D'Arbonne.

From the Ferriday area, Bill and Al Strickland of Ferriday and also Oren Zimmerman of Ferriday caught 23 bass in the Red River barpits downstream from Vidalia.

J. A. Gulledge of Ferriday and Mrs. Louise Lee of Lake St. John caught their limits of bass in St. John. Mrs. Effie Pylant of Winnsboro got the limit of bream there.

Fishing in the Blue Hole, H. M. Guner of Ferriday got the limit of white perch. Jimmy Tullos and Milton Brown of Ferriday landed the limit of bass in Lake Concordia.

Lake Providence would be good for bass fishing if the wind would quit blowing. Dr. W. A. Harris landed 11 there.

NAVY DUMPS DUKE

Roger Staubach Strikes Again

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Marvelous Roger Staubach's running and passing ignited a devastating Navy offense in the first half and the second-ranked Middies defeated Duke 38-25 Saturday in a wild-scoring regionally televised football game.

The crowd of 41,000 saw Navy and Duke score a total of 56 points during the first half. The Middies, now 8-1 for the season and apparently headed for a post-season bowl game, scored every time they got the ball during the first two periods.

It was Duke's third loss against five victories and one tie.

Duke threatened several times in the closing quarter but the Middies held each time and forced the Blue Devils to punt. Navy halfback John Sarraced 93 yards off tackle for a touchdown in the closing minutes to seal the victory.

Navy had a 31-25 halftime edge.

Navy jumped off a 7-0 lead in the opening minutes by rolling 68 yards in 10 plays. Staubach banged over right tackle from the four for the touchdown.

Duke came back with the kickoff and swept 65 yards in seven plays with halfback Biff Bracy going over from the three.

Navy, with Staubach turning in a 44-yard run, moved into high gear again and scored on a 72-yard first period drive. Sai got the touchdown from the one to give the Middies a 14-6 lead.

UCLA Throws Bowl Switch, Blanks Huskies

LOS ANGELES (AP)—UCLA threw the switch on the Rose Bowl-bound Washington football team Saturday, dealing the Huskies a 14-0 defeat in one of the biggest upsets in the nation this year.

The Bruins of UCLA, who had won only one game and had lost seven, traveled 88 yards in the second quarter to score their first touchdown, and put together another drive of 76 yards in the third for another.

UCLA was two-touchdown underdog going into the Big Six Conference game before 30,398 under sunny skies in Memorial Coliseum.

Washington still has the inside track for the Rose Bowl assignment but must defeat Washington State in their traditional struggle at Seattle next Saturday.

This was the first conference defeat for the Huskies and the second converence victory for UCLA. Officially, the conference will not vote on its Rose Bowl representative until after the final games this week.

YMCA Football

In other Red League action, the Colts dumped the Packers, 19-7, on Miles' power.

Sales scored three times to carry the Cardinals to a 21-0 second victory over the Giants.

In Flag League play, the Bandits tripped the Vikings, 8-2.

Boston College Wins By 30-21

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — A pair of plays executed by a couple of enterprising juniors set up Boston College's first two scores and started the Eagles to a 30-21 victory over Virginia Saturday.

The plays, a 30-yard pass to end Bill Cronin at the Virginia and a 50-yard run by halfback Bobby Shann, came in the second period after the underdog visitors twice held Boston within their own 10.

Cronin grabbed Jack Concannon's long pass after Virginia defender John Pincavage batted it away from the intended receiver, Bob Budzinski, at the goal line.

Northwestern Upsets Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Northwestern's Wildcats saved State. Theloss knocked the Bu something from a disappointing football season Saturday as they wound up the campaign with a 17-8 victory over Ohio State. The of the fight for the Big Ten conference title and a Rose Bowl bid.

Texas Tech Shades Texas Western 7-3

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Texas Tech marched 72 yards in the second period, then withstood the fired up bids of Texas Western for a 7-3 football victory Saturday night.

The touchdown came on a one-yard plunge by quarterback James Ellis, climaxing the only successful offensive display of the game.

The march began on the Tech 28, where the Raiders recovered a Texas Western fumble. It required 11 plays, including 10-yard runs by James Zanios and Donny Anderson, a 14-yard pass from Ellis to Charles Graham and a 23-yard dash by Johnny Agan to a first down on the Miner six.

Illini Survive, Look Westward

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Illinois kept alive its hopes for the Big Ten football championship and a trip to the Rose Bowl by defeating Wisconsin 17-7 Saturday with the help of a stubborn defense.

The Illini put together a long drive after the opening kickoff and a 24-yard runback with a pass interception by George Donnelly for first half touchdowns and then held on until Jim Plankenhorn booted a 26-yard field goal 38 seconds before the final gun.

Methodists Trip Hogs

DALLAS (AP) — A low pass from center on fourth down set Southern Methodist up on the Arkansas 10 yard line Saturday and the Methodists won an error-filled 14-7 victory over Arkansas.

Trailing 7-6 in the third period Southern Methodist got the break when Tommy Moore, back to kick on fourth down, fumbled the low center pass and recovered but he was down on the 10. The ball went to SMU. Tom Sherwin made one yard. Mac White ran to the 1 and then went over for the touchdown.

From there on Southern Methodist threatened repeatedly and was on the Arkansas 7 line as the game ended.

Billy Gannon intercepted two Arkansas passes to help keep the Razorbacks bottled up in their end of the field in the last quarter.

Arkansas scored first, getting the ball on the SMU 47 when the Methodists tried an onside kick. The ball didn't travel far enough and rolled outside. Fred Marshall ran for 25 yards, his 13-yarder setting up the touchdown on the 4. He made it with a one yard smash and Tom McKnelly kicked the extra point.

Southern Methodist got a touchdown in the second period with a 51-yard drive set up by John Roderick's 29-yard kickoff return. The touchdown came on a five-yard throw from Tommy Caughran to Tom Hillary in the end zone.

Michigan And Iowa Fight To 0-0 Deadlock

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan and Iowa battled to a 21-21 tie Saturday in a Big Ten game that developed into a scoring duel between Michigan's Mel Anthony and Iowa quarterback Gary Snook.

Anthony scored all three Wolverine touchdowns. Snook passed for two Hawkeye scores and registered another himself.

Each team missed field goals in the closing minutes.

Michigan end John Henderson caught a pass from quarterback Bob Timberlake following Michigan's final touchdown for the two important extra points that assured them a tie. A similar pass had failed following Anthony's second score.

The deadlock left each team with an over-all 3-3-2 record. Michigan, 2-2-2, in the Big Ten, retained its position in the conference's first division. The Hawkeyes are 2-3-1 in league play.

Nicklaus Will Enter Cajun Classic Tourney

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, the pudgy boy wonder of professional golf, will try to become the second play-for-pay swinger to ever earn more than $100,000 in official tournament money this week.

The 23-year-old Nicklaus, who in two years as a pro has set golfdom afire with victories in the Masters, National Open, and World Championship tourney, heads the field for the Cajun Classic invitational which starts Thursday.

Sponsors of the tourney—the last 1963 event on the PGA circuit—upped the prize money from $17,500 to $20,000 Saturday. In addition, the pros will compete for $2,500 in the pro-am tuneup Wednesday.

Miss Engelhorn Saves 1st Spot In Mary Mills

OCEAN SPRINGS, Miss. (AP) —Front-running Shirley Engelhorn ballooned to a 77 Saturday but held on to her 3-stroke lead in the $15,600 Mary Mills Invitational Gulf Coast golf tournament.

The bespectacled brunette, bidding for her first victory since the Carling Eastern Open in July, posted a 2-round total of 146.

Her 38-39 card showed three 3-outted greens and only two birdie holes. But no one bettered par today in the 54-hole tourney.

Miss Engelhorn, a 23-year-old native of Caldwell, Idaho, said she "putted drastically." The big, rolling greens of the 6,294-yard par 35-36—71 Gulf Hills course baffled most of the field.

Leading-money winner Mickey Wright posted a 72—the day's lowest round—to tie Kathy Whitworth and Betsy Rawls at 149 for second spot. Miss Whitworth carded a 77 and Miss Rawls came in at 72.

Sybil Griffin shot a 77 to take fifth spot at 150, and Gloria Armstrong had a 78 for sixth at 152.

Shields Paces Sooner Victory

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Sophomore Larry Shields led fifth-ranked Oklahoma to a crucial 13-3 Big Eight football victory over Missouri Saturday with two touchdowns, one a 65-yard punt return. He also intercepted two passes.

The victory kept Oklahoma's conference record clean at 5-0 and set up a title showdown with 10th-ranked Nebraska next week at Lincoln. The winner will go to the Orange Bowl.

Missouri was eliminated with a 4-2 league record. The Tigers stand 6-3 in all games, Oklahoma 7-1.

Oklahoma's tough second half defense made the difference. Both of Shields' stolen passes came when Missouri quarterback Gary Lane had the wind at his back in the final period.

The gritty Missourians, outweighed in the line, stopped the Sooners three times inside the Missouri 10.

Lane had three passes intercepted and Missouri lost three fumbles.

The victory before 50,800 was Oklahoma's 16th straight in the conference and OU hasn't lost in Columbia since 1945.

Grambling Rolls To 34-8 Victory For Old Grads

GRAMBLING (Special) — Hardened through long association with misery, the Grambling Tigers treated a homecoming crowd of 10,000 fans to an explosive 34-8 victory over Wiley College here Saturday afternoon.

The resurgent Tigers turned the stadium turf into a freeway in a contest that was arduous and discouraging for the Wildcats.

Grambling used a succession of long drives and adverse breaks to score in every quarter.

All-American halfback J. D. Garrett raced 58 yards for the initial TD and the rest of the contest bore only ominous shades of black for Coach Fred Long's determined squad.

The indestructible Texan completed his 42nd season of college coaching in the contest.

Seniors stole the spotlight as the Tigers summoned homecoming spirit to end two weeks of apathy.

Halfback Willie Williams, the fickle favor of old grads, had two touchdowns.

Ron Pennington caught him wandering lonely with a nine-yard toss and Lawrence Hunter hit him with a 22-yard strike.

Anderson Cheffin slanted off tackle for two yards for the fourth TD, and Isadore Haynes gleefully fell on a fumble in the end zone for the other marker.

Wiley drove 75-yards for a third period touchdown with quarterback Fred Dotson threading his way through a confused field for most of the yardage.

Dotson scored from the one on a quarterback sneak.

The contest was the season finale for the cross-state rivals who found themselves cloaked in anonymity in the Southwestern Conference race.

Grambling finished with a 5-3-1 record. Wiley has a 4-4-0 record.

Score by quarters:

Grambling	6	7	7	14	—34

Fired Up FSU Tops N. C. State

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—A fired-up Florida State University football team bottled up North Carolina State for a 14-0 victory before 23,851 homecoming fans Saturday.

It was FSU's first homecoming victory since 1958.

The first Seminole touchdown came with five minutes left in the first half. The second came within two minutes of the end of the game.

Fullback Larry Brinkley scored the first by diving over the center from one-foot out, capping a drive that began on the North Carolina State 31. The fans were so noisy that quarterback Steven Tenis had to call for silence before signaling the play.

Fired Up FSU Tops N. C. State

It was FSU's first homecoming victory since 1958.

The first Seminole touchdown came with five minutes left in the first half. The second came within two minutes of the end of the game.

Fullback Larry Brinkley scored the first by diving over the center from one-foot out capping a drive that began on the North Carolina State 31. The fans were so noisy that quarterback Steven Tenis had to call for silence before signaling the play.

Story Of Famous Divorce

DOROTHY AND RED. By Vincent Sheean. Houghton Mifflin. $6.95.

When a marital disaster occurs on the celebrity level, all the world wants to share the gossipy details. In this exceedingly candid book, the world gets an earful.

The groom was Sinclair Lewis, the famous author of Main Street, Babbitt, Arrowsmith and Elmer Gantry, who later was to write Dodsworth and some lesser works.

The bride was Dorothy Thompson, European correspondent, who soon was to become internationally known as a journalist, pundit and radio commentator.

They were married in London on May 14, 1928. Each had been through one disastrous marriage; the bride was 33 and the groom nearly 10 years older. Their divorce became final in Vermont on Jan. 3, 1942. This chronicle of their marriage was written by a foreign correspondent and novelist who was in a unique position to observe it, as he had known both of them rather intimately over the years.

The papers — personal correspondence and diaries — which Miss Thompson deposited with Syracuse University, were the major source of Sheean's documentary materials. From the way in which she had annotated some of them, it was clear she had expected them to be published eventually. She had left untouched all the highly revealing passages containing her inmost, private thoughts, emotions and desires.

Sheean also has reproduced some of Lewis' letters, and all through the book has woven his own observations and those of Red's friends and Dorothy's friends, all the while taking care to distinguish among facts, surmises, impressions and interpretations. His skill as a reporter remains superb.

Those who have read Mark Schorer's full - length biography of Lewis will know why the marriage was certain to be disastrous—for Lewis was a self - centered, disagreeable person who finally alienated all his friends, and Miss Thompson was a strong - minded woman incapable of subservience to a domineering husband.

There are some amusing love notes here — oddly sophomoric, considering the fact they were written by two literary figures. But mainly the letters and diaries reveal a poignant tragedy, expressed in highly articulate terms, against a a feverish background of the 1930s.

New Myth Threatens Resources

THE QUIET CRISIS. By Stewart L. Udall. Holt, Rinecheart. $5.

The Secretary of the Interior presents a thesis that the conservation of America's natural resources has reached a new crisis. He says we are lulled foolishly by the notion that the scientists can fix everything.

Much of his book is a stirring review of our country's belated efforts to salvage for future generations some small share of the original inheritance.

It is written for the layman, and it has a dramatic flow. It sums up the work of such famous names in conservation as Marsh, Schurz, Powell, Pinchot, Muir and the two Roosevelts.

It tells movingly the long battle of a minority of farsighted individuals, during the late 19th and early 20th Centuries, to recoup the staggering losses created by land grabbers and predatory promoters (without hindrance from such administrators as President Grant) who wasted prodigiously the country's land, timber, water, oil, gas, animal and bird life and scenic beauties.

Much of this early battle, he says, was waged in the face of the Myth of Superabundance.

Now, says Udall, we have the Myth of Scientific Supremacy, a witless assumption that short-term, greedy gains are justified in the prsence of long-term losses, because the laboratory geniuses can make everything come out all right.

But he warns that, ironically, the very successes of technology have created new hazards -- snythetic poisons, air and water pollution, new dangers of erosion, new pressures of urban proliferation.

It is an eloquent exhortation, directed toward the mobile, nomadic "asphalt American," to develop what he calls a "land ethic for tomorrow."

Stranded People And Their Love

LOVE, LET ME NOT HUNGER. By Paul Gallico. Doubleday. $4.75.

Using an oddly assorted handful of characters who are humanly vulnerable to the hazards of fate, Gallico has created a touching story of the irrepressible desire for love and affection.

He writes about a small British circus travelling through the bleak Spanish countryside. An act of God — storm, fire, flash flood—smashes the circus and leaves a residue of five human beings to look after the starving animals.

There is Rose, the waif who never had known parental or romantic love, a forlorn, wistful creature who had followed a cynical performer into the circus world only to be scorned by the insiders. But she found a rapport with the animals.

There is Toby, just coming of age in a family of equestrians, whose narrow-minded stodginess puzzles him; Janos, a physical outcast because he is a dwarf, who took solace in food and the love of his performing dogs; Fred Deeter, an American cowboy who at least loved his best horse; and finally, Mr. Albert, the timid, aging drifter who discovered late in life an affinity for wild creatures.

The crisis of the stranded circus shows that Deeter cannot meet the test, and it brings poor Janos to a strange sacrifice in the clutches of a pitifully grotesque Spanish marquesa of gothic, absurd dimensions.

But mostly this story is about Rose and Toby, with a counter - point of serio-comic tragedy in the figure of old Mr. Albert.

This full - length novel does not have the brilliant stylistic polish of Gallico's novellas, a form in which he is a master, but it does have in full measure his earthy, throbbing, arterial blood kinship with the humble people whose sufferings he depicts so movingly.

Satire Stabs The Mommas

THE CHILD WORSHIPPERS. By Martha Weinman Lear. Crown. $3.95.

Just for laughs. Mrs. Lear's book is so funny. But in the midst of all this ho-ho-ho, don't you feel that knife sticking in your ribs?

Her theme is child monsters and their mommas, a live topic these days. At the heart of her prose foray is the professional Good Mother, who shoves and pushes her little darlings into precocious participation in practically everything.

There are brats who are started in kindergarten too early, to beat the neighbors, of course. There are the premature dancing lessons, the over-promoted birthday parties, the summer camps that offer French lessons, the vacation trips of the togetherness type, clothing fads in which toddlers ape their elders, and scads of over - organized "activities" for bored small fry.

The author has examined the horrors of competition in getting offspring into kudos - decorated private schools; the snobbery of shoving children into special classes for the gifted; the calculating campaigns of toy purveyors and dydee-wash companies; the canny machinations of television merchandisers, who know how to tease the kids into hollering for mom to buy, buy, buy at the supermarket.

Mrs. Lear's main point is that highly competitive mommas have pushed their little monsters into becoming status symbols, only to feel the boomerang of juvenile revolt.

The author is a fine wielder of ridicule, a weapon of humor. But this weapon also happens to be the knife that you parents may be feeling down there in your innards.

Antique Plane Fly-In Slated At Shreveport

The OX-5 Club of Louisiana is sponsoring an Antique Airplane Fly-In and Antique Automobile show Sunday, November 24 at Downtown Airport in Shreveport.

Awards will be given for the best antique Airplane and to the person coming from the farthest distance.

Nat Pedro, president of the Shreveport Chapter, OX-5 Club, said there will be a banquet at 8 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 23, at Holiday Inn North, following a cocktail hour starting at 6:30 p.m. He said those attending are to make their own reservations.

New Members Are Received

New members were received into the Holy Name Society of Jesus the Good Shepherd Church here last Sunday.

Received into membership at ceremonies conducted by Father Dave Dabria, were L. J. Stanley, Charles Desormeaux, Harry Black, T. J. Canizaro Sr., Joseph V. Housey, U. V. Rivoire, and John Hanlon. H. D. Helm, president of the society, welcomed the group. A breakfast followed the ceremony.

Area Wholesale Oil Marketers To Meet Here

Wholesale marketers of petroleum products from the 5th Congressional District will meet at Monroe, La., on Dec. 4, for one of a series of meetings being held by the Louisiana Oil Marketers Association.

The meetings, open to all oil wholesalers, are aimed at bringing the LOMA membership story to the home towns of association members and at offering every wholesaler an opportunity to attend, speak up and tell what's on his mind.

Problems currently facing petroleum products wholesalers, particularly those facing Louisiana wholesalers, will be discussed, along with the programs developed by LOMA to help solve those problems.

The Monroe meeting will be held at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club at 7:30 p.m., with LOMA directors, Dewey C. Thurmon, of Ruston, and D. V. Loflin, Jr., of Monroe, in charge of arrangements.

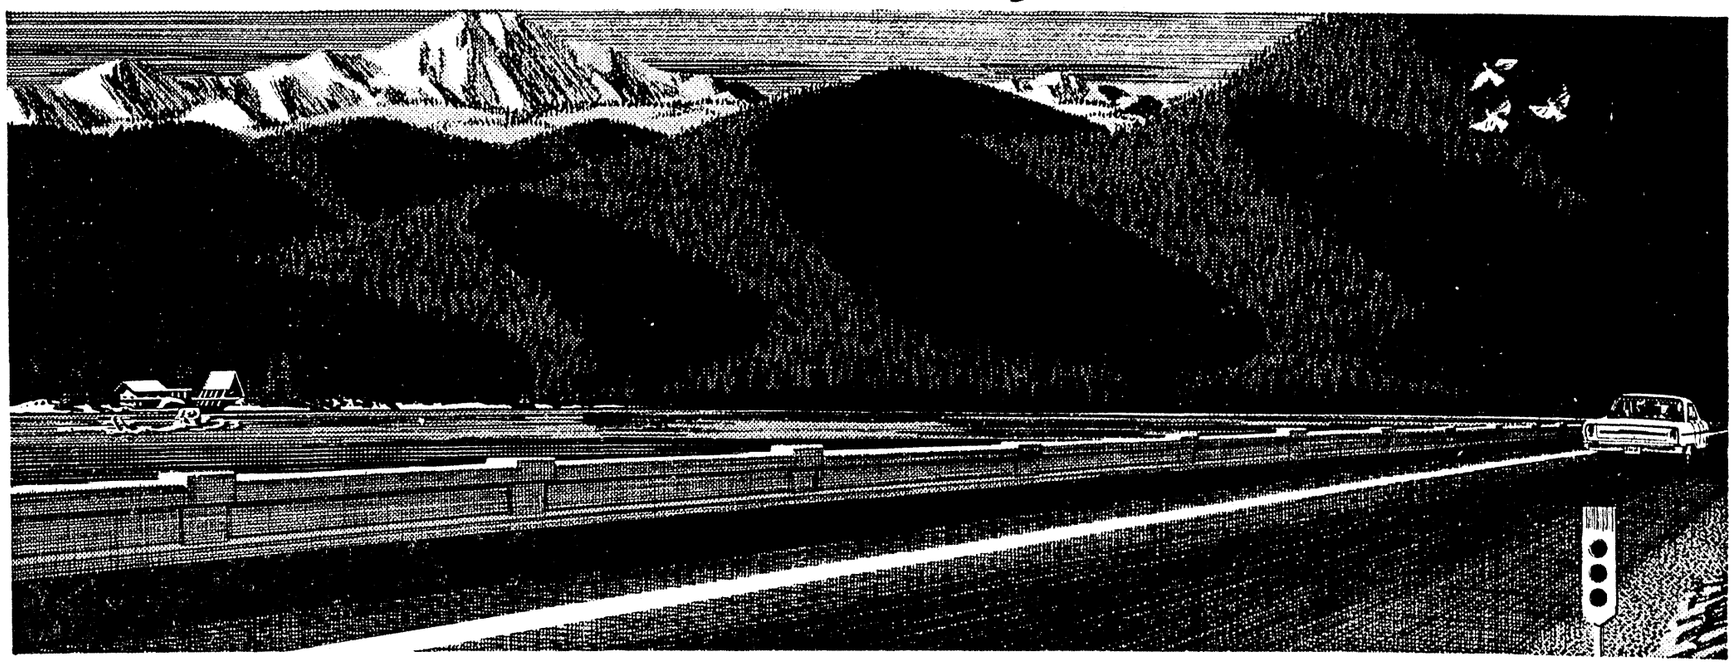
Chevy II Nova 4-Door Sedan

Now—'64 Chevy II...



with a V8 engine

Now you see it. Now you don't. When a Chevy II does that kind of disappearing act you know without looking twice: It's a '64 with a V8 engine.

It's available for the first time this year along with a choice of three other engines—the standard 4 (in 100 Series sedans), the standard 6 and a new 155-hp 6.* (And all of them, you'll be happy to know, maintain their high spirits on modest amounts of regular gasoline.)

You can take this V8 through the gears most any way you choose—with personal encouragement from a 4-speed shift* if you like.

But the changes that have come over this new Chevy II aren't by any means confined to what happens when you slip into the driver's seat.

There are new styling features like the tasteful grille design and trim accents, for instance. And the larger self-adjusting brakes that further reduce upkeep on a car that already has a reputation of coming about as close to perpetual motion as anything on four wheels can get.

The place to get the full details on the '64 is your Chevrolet dealer's. And after you've got them, we hope you'll attend to one further detail yourself. Drive it.

Autumn Theme Prevails At Furlow-Wells Wedding

In a double ring ceremony solemnized at 3 p.m. Saturday, November 16 in the First Baptist Church of Bastrop, Miss Sherry Gail Wells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer L. Wells, Bastrop, became the bride of Lt. Jewel Leslie Furlow Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Jewel Leslie Furlow of West Monroe.

Dr. Ray P. Rust performed the ceremony before an altar banked with arrangements of mammoth bronze chrysanthemums combined with pompons and autumn hued foliage, flanked by branched triple candelabra holding lighted maize colored cathedral tapers.

Mrs. J. B. Spier presented a concert of organ music preceding the ceremony and accompanied the vocalists, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Santo.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of Parisian peau ivory satin featuring a sweetheart neckline and long tapering sleeves with tiny covered buttons at the wrist. The contoured bodice was enhanced with designs of hand cut French Chantilly lace in applique attached with tiny seed pearls, with the motifs repeated on the floor length skirt, which terminated in a chapel train from a back bustle effect. Her bouffant veil of imported illusion fell shoulder length from a crown of iridescent flowers encrusted with seed pearls. She carried a specimen white cattleya orchid, encircled with stephanotis and lily of the valley.

Attending the bride were her sister, Mrs. Troy Davis, as matron of honor and Mrs. Hugh Parker, Mrs. William Musgrove, Miss Laney Ware and Miss Patsy Shaw, a cousin of the bride, as bridesmaids. Their identical gowns of Glolite satin peau in turquoise were designed with Sabrina necklines, Kaluchie sleeves, and bell shaped skirts. They wore matching satin pumps and headdresses formed by three satin roses centering a circle of nylon maline. They wore short white gloves and carried cascade bouquets of bronze chrysanthemums interspersed with bronze and maize pompons with ombre - colored ribbon.

Joe Thompson of Monroe, served as best man for Lt. Furlow. Groomsmen - ushers were Larry Furlow, brother of the groom, Marvin Conrad, Odis Howze, all of West Monroe; Hershel Womack, Leesville; Bill John and C. A. Lowe, Monroe.

Candlelighters were Tommy Medley, Bruce Medley and Paul Medley, cousins of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Wells chose a bronze satin gown designed with sleeveless bodice and bell shaped skirt, topped by a Chanel jacket of French Chantilly lace. Her small pillbox hat of bronze Chantilly lace over matching satin was topped with a hand cut lace flower studded with bugle beads. Her shoes and bag were also of bronze and her corsage was of cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Furlow, mother of the bridegroom, wore a sheath gown of pink bronze peau paree satin with cardigan bolero jacket. Her small draped turban, satin gloves and pumps were of harmonizing shade and she wore a corsage of cymbidium orchids.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Wells entertained with a reception in the social room of the church. The fall color scheme of the wedding was further carried out in floral arrangements about the room. Centering the reception table the bouquets of the bridesmaids flanked a silver epergne holding lighted tapers. Mrs. Robert Woodhead of Sterlington, and Miss Jo Jones of Bastrop, served the tiered wedding cake and presiding at the punch bowl were Mrs. Murray Caldwell of Bastrop and Mrs. Flave Trichell of West Monroe. Miss Judy Tucker of Monroe, presided at the guest book in the foyer of the church and Mrs. Howard Hobson had charge of the book during the reception.

Circulating hostesses were Mrs. Clinton Russell, Mrs. Louise Allen, Mrs. Hilma Medley and Mrs. Fred Ester Smith, who was in charge of the reception. Tea girls were Misses Mary Jane Parnell, Judy Tucker and Cherie Martin, Mrs. Marsha Roan and Mrs. Carolyn Godwin, all of Monroe.

Small net bags of turquoise blue rice were presented guests by Debbie O'Neal, Susan and Lorrie Crnkovio, cousins of the bride, who wore frocks of bronze velveteen.

For travel when the couple left on a wedding trip to New Orleans, the bride was wearing a turquoise wool with hat of almond green, white and turquoise feathers, veiled in almond green. Black pumps, and white kid gloves completed her ensemble and she wore the orchid from her bouquet. The couple will depart in the near future for Mannheim, Germany, where Lt. Furlow has been assigned for overseas duty.

A graduate of Bastrop high school the bride was a junior at Northeast Louisiana State College prior to her marriage. She is a member of Phi Mu social sorority and Phi Beta professional speech fraternity. Lt. Furlow graduated from West Monroe high school and received his B. S. degree in chemistry from Northeast Louisiana State College. He is a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity, the American Chemical Society, Pershing Rifles and Scabbard and Blade Military fraternity.

BRIDES NEEDS

Five stainless steel appliances every bride should have: coffeemaker, automatic fry pan, electric mixer with stainless steel bowls, steam and dry iron, toaster. Hints on their care: wash appliances after each use with soap and water, rinse well and dry with a soft cloth. If scouring is needed, use stainless steel scouring pads only.

Goade-Masters Nuptial Vows Read In Olla

The wedding of Miss Barbara Louise Masters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emsley Masters of Olla to Bobby Glyn Goade, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Goade of Wynn, Ark., was solemnized November 2 in the Standard Baptist Church near Olla. Rev. E. D. Dearman performed the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m.

An arch of greenery flanked by tall baskets of chrysanthemums and branched candelabra, formed a setting for the exchange of vows. Miss Pat Carroll, organist and Miss Elaine Wright, soloist, presented a program of traditional wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a short gown of white silk organza, styled with belled skirt, bordered in lace. The fitted bodice featured a scoop neckline and cap sleeves. Her shoulder length veil was held in place by a small lace cap studded with pearls.

Mrs. Patsy Perkins, wearing a sheath of blue wool jersey and a corsage of white chrysanthemums, served as matron of honor. Candles were lighted by Miss Francis Sandiage.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Masters wore a blue wool suit with white hat and corsage of white carnations. The bridegroom's mother chose a model of rose jersey, tinged with brown and a complementary corsage.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained with a reception. The bride's table, covered with a white cloth was centered with a low bowl of white roses and gladioli. Miss Jackie Carroll of Olla served the tiered wedding cake and Miss Elaine Wright of Olla, presided at the punch bowl. Assisting in the courtesies was Miss Pat Carroll.

The couple will be at home in Pine Bluff, Ark., where Mr. Goade is employed by Missouri-Pacific Railroad Co.

Brown Persian Has Problem

Furs are tricky things, and women know less about them than about any other clothes they buy. So here's a new headache, the delicacy of brown-dyed Persian lamb.

The bleaching necessary before Persian can be dyed this shade has to weaken the fur and make it more brittle. Coats bought only a year or two ago often show fading, excessive wear at edges and other parts that get rubbed.

Repair is expensive because new skins used must be treated to make them blend with the old ones. Fortunately, customers aren't bearing the brunt of charges, since the coats are too new. It goes back to the original manufacturer.

Morning Coffee Honors Guests In Highland Home

Out - of - town guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hughes on Camellia Drive in Town and Country subdivision, were the inspiration for a coffee given Friday morning by Mrs. Hughes to introduce the visitors to local friends.

The occasion honored Mrs. Clyde R. Welman of Montpelier, Vermont, sister of Mrs. Hughes, and Mrs. R. Bruce Snow of St. Louis, Missouri.

An autumnal theme was carried out in all appointments. Covered with a yellow linen cloth the table from which coffee was served held a central arrangement of Harvest Glow chrysanthemums. Other fall floral arrangements were seen throughout the rooms.

Guests invited included Mrs. Robert Murdock, Mrs. Hank Pliatt, Mrs. Leroy Haynes, Mrs. R. E. Taylor, Mrs. Carol Burns, Mrs. Everett Sands, Mrs. Warren Brown, Mrs. Paul Karlowitz, Mrs. M. L. Johnson, Mrs. B. J. Bruce, Mrs. Ira Cagle Jr., Mrs. Robert DeMoss, Mrs. James Ellis, Mrs. A. A. Kemp Jr., Mrs. Ed Routt and Mrs. Norman H. Smith, and Mrs. Buddy Webb.

Vows will be exchanged on December 21 in West Monroe Free Methodist Church. Rev. E. W. Corley, grandfather of the bride-elect, and retired Methodist minister, will perform the ceremony at 6 p.m.

Miss Corley has chosen as her maid of honor, Miss Marilyn Roark, cousin of her fiance. Houston Roark will serve his brother as best man.

A graduate of West Monroe high school, the bride - elect is at present a junior at Northeast Louisiana State College. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Patrick, Oak Grove and Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Corley, West Monroe.

Rev. Roark was graduated from West Monroe high school, attended Greenville College, Greenville, Illinois and graduated from Northeast. He is now pastor of West Monroe Free Methodist church.

We'll Soon Walk On Fur

If artists can create masterpieces with old beer cans, match covers and lipsticks, why can't they transform bits and pieces of furs into luxurious dimensions of art?

Jacques Kaplan, an imaginative furrier, experimented with the idea successfully to the delight of his friends. Then he began to paint fuzzy pelts.

Miss Betty Lou Hopson To Wed George A. Elias

Announcement is made today of the engagement of Miss Betty Lou Hopson, Monroe, daughter of Rual Hopson, Tallulah and the late Mrs. Hopson to George A. Elias, son of Mr. and Mrs. Georgia A. Elias, 505 Erin, Monroe.

The wedding will be solemnized January 4 at 9 a.m. in Our Lady of Fatima Church with Father Martinez officiating.

Miss Karen Donaldson has been chosen by Miss Hopson to serve as maid of honor, and Abdalla Elias will attend the bridegroom as best man.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mrs. Louetta Jane Hopson and the late John Alvin Hopson of Winnsboro and the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brantley of Jackson, Mississippi. She was graduated from Crowville high school and is also a graduate of Louisiana Business College, Monroe.

Mr. Elias is the grandson of C. M. Aboud and the late Mrs. Aboud and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Abdalla Elias, all of Monroe. He graduated from St. Matthews high school and attended Louisiana Business College and Northeast Louisiana State College.

Glamor Shoes Bedeck Milady's Feet At Home

Home has always been where the heart is. In these days of a retreat to the hearth for heart-warming hospitality, it's also where the hostess is. And this season, her choice of mood setting, pace setting at home fashions is as wide as all indoors.

High heeled and frankly flattering, there are jeweled sandals, T-straps, broadly banded styles, backless wonders with Turkish toes. There are confections of pleated lace, embroidered silk, puffy, gathered taffeta. High wedges are angled, curved, slimmed in infinite ways for the all important look of lightness.

Young, casually elegant ankle length skirts like the flash of color in a webbing of sandal, or the eloquence of little open backs. Marshmallow leathers, brocades, satins, metallic fabrics, plushy velvets pamper a pretty foot in a parade of opulent colors. So do lush furry fabrics and mock reptiles.

Trousers, wide-cuffed or clingy, are an invitation to bootlets in a whole wide world of color. There are high-rising skimmers of lame, brightly printed silks, wool paisleys, baubled, bangled and beaded evening fabrics. High heeled boots take a plunge at jeweled or furred necklines or combine boot news up front with the frank sorcery of bared backs.

Precious little flats might be the barest minimum of a one-toed thong, or they might mask the instep with a broad, Oriental shield to emphasize an uncovered toe and heel.

For the quiet, cozy corner sort of evening there are crushable kidskins and tailored little unlined shells, breezy cut-out shapes and furry.

Out of town visitors have occasioned several pleasurable events on the week's social calendar. Guests of MARIE BENDEL have been her mother-in-law, MRS. SAM BENDEL; and sister-in-law, MRS. H. E. VITERBO of Los Angeles. The latter left on Wednesday, leaving Mrs. Bendel for a stay of several weeks.

Last Friday LILY HARRINGTON invited some forty-five ladies, friends of the Bendels from previous visits, for an informal morning party at her home. Lavender and pink chrysanthemums were used throughout the reception area, with a large silver bowl of the blossoms centering the dining table. Here coffee was served, with chicken salad sandwiches, salted nuts, and tiny confections.

In the sun parlor, a more informal table was set up, decorated with autumn foliage. Lily, ever one to bring home a new idea from her travels, here served cheese and cider, a la West Texas. Assorted cheeses were set out on the board, with a chafing dish of Welsh rarebit. Apple cider was poured from a glass pitcher.

A visitor from Denver, MRS. WILLIAM HUMPHREY, was honored at luncheon Friday at Bayou DeSiard country club. Hostess was ADRIENNE GASTON, in whose home the Humphreys were guests, stopping over here en route to New Orleans from Colorado. A white cloth covered the table, which was centered with an arrangement of white chrysanthemums and greenery. Green crystal completed the appointments. Six other ladies were invited to meet the honoree.

Guest of the A. C. WARNERS last weekend was Virginia's mother, MRS. JAMES NELSON of Rhodessa. She arrived on Friday, returned home Tuesday morning.

Here for the day Thursday was MRS. ELMO BOYD of Shreveport, president of the Louisiana State Medical Auxiliary, who visited the local auxiliary at the regular monthly meeting. BARRIE SPENCER, president of the Ouachita Parish group, invited members to her home for sherry before the luncheon meeting. Honor guests were Mrs. Boyd and new members of the Ouachita Parish Medical auxiliary.

Pink gladioli decorated the eterge in the Spencer home. Barrie centered her dining table with a tall fruit stand filled with pineapple, red and black grapes, limes, and apples. Sherry and coffee were served to about fifty ladies.

The Auxiliary's luncheon meeting was held at Bayou DeSiard country club, at noon Thursday. An antique swinging copper kettle, filled with lavender, yellow, and white daisy mums, was placed on the head table. Side tables were decorated with a copper pot and a copper cream and sugar filled with fall foliage.

COVETED RED POINTS were awarded ELISE MAPP and ELAINE MILLSAPS, who placed second in the Women's Pairs event at the Regional ACBL Tournament in Gulfport last weekend. Elise's daughter, MALISE RUSSELL and her daughter, LISA, accompanied the pair to the coast and there visited MRS. S. A. DEARMAN and MARJORIE DEARMAN, Malise's grandmother and aunt.

Other area bridge players taking part in the Regional included ANN and BILL WILSON, FERRIS YOUNGBLOOD, GEORGIA and CARROLL SUMMER, BOBBIE BUIE, NANNIE WINBERRY, HAMILTON CAGE, GRACE STONE.

Three members of Nevilles' 1962 AA state championship football team were on opposing sides Friday night when freshman teams of LSU and Mississippi State met in Baton Rouge. KURT GUELZOW plays for the Baby Bengals; while ANDY MAPP and DON SAGET are on the Mississippi State freshman squad. Proud parents down for the night were the RICHARD GUELZOWS, DOUGLAS SAGETS, and MARCUS MAPPS. They returned to Jackson yesterday for the LSU-Mississippi State game last night, and then home to sleep. Don and Andy are to leave here today, returning to Columbus.

JUST BECAUSE IT'S FALL, LYDIA NICHOLS invited ten ladies for luncheon a beautiful Indian Summer day last Friday. The party was held in the private dining room at Bayou DeSiard country club, with decorations reflecting the Autumn season. A yellow cloth covered the table, which was centered with a brass bowl filled with yellow and bronze chrysanthemums and slender candles shaped like cattails. Brass candlesticks at each side held terra cotta candles and stalks of wheat.

Invitations were in the mail this week to members of BIG TIMERS, announcing the winter ball to be held Saturday evening, November 23, at Bayou DeSiard country club. Everything points to a real gala event here, as rumors repeat that all the ladies will be decked out in new floor-length dresses. There's nothing so grand in wearing apparel, and nothing that so delights your clothes-watching reporter. A cocktail hour will precede the dance, from eight until nine, with music by Paul Neighbors' orchestra from nine until one. Dutch treat breakfast will be served after the dance.

Young miss CLAIRE CAMPBELL SEYMOUR celebrated her fifth birthday with an outdoor party at home last Friday. There were live ponies to ride, and a pin-the-tail-on game which was won by JAY RIVERS. Favors given at the go-fishing game were handcuffs and wrist watches for boys; doll comb and brush sets for girls. Refreshments were served on the balloon - hung patio. The birthday cake, decorated with ponies, was served with ice cream to thirty-five children.

One of the most interesting new houses in town is the home of GAIL and CARL KINNEY on Jamar street. Of antique brick, the street facade is a wall broken only by the vertically louvered gate into the entrance courtyard. Feather rocks, ajuga, loquat are planted in beds encircled by the paved walkway to the main door. A screen of antique brick divides the courtyard from the enclosed patio beyond.

In the family room, walls are panelled in Oriental ash, with floors of off-white vinyl squares. Overlooking the patio are fixed glass panels, below which are smaller sliding panels which can be opened for ventilation. Draperies are a sheer white printed with bamboo in shades of green. A blue rug defines the seating area with its sofa and side chairs of blue-green and a pair of bittersweet arm chairs. In the corner is a bittersweet bush rooted in a large black iron pot . . . . The kitchen beyond the family dining area is also panelled in Oriental ash, with cabinets of the same wood. Floors are white vinyl, and draperies of a blue and green print on white.

On beyond the family room is the hall to the bedroom area. To the left as one enters the hall is a door onto the patio, and then the master bedroom. Here walls are off-white, with natural walnut furniture. A woven cane motif is noted on the double headboard and on doors of the dresser-chest. Focal point of the room is the glass wall overlooking the patio. Here are a pair of green chairs, with draw draperies of sheer white with olive green and blue stripes.

Sandra Edwards, Fiance Complete Wedding Plans

Miss Sandra Edwards and her fiance, William McKay have completed plans for their wedding which will be solemnized November 27 at 6 p.m. in Central Baptist Church. Rev. Carl Owens will officiate.

The bride-elect has chosen her sister, Mrs. Joseph Mahfouz, of Anderson, Indiana, to serve as matron of honor. Bridesmaids will be Mrs. H. B. Bennett, Monroe; Miss Linda Phillips, Lake Chares, cousin of the bride-elect; Mrs. James R. Hoskins, Gretna and Mrs. Luther Buckner, Monroe. Chosen to serve as flower girl is Margaret Shepard, Vidalia, niece of the future bridegroom.

Earl Griffin of Natchez, Miss., has been named by his cousin to serve as best man. Chosen as groomsmen are Fred Peters, Fort Benning, Ga., Jim Hopson, Delhi; Will J. Riser, Winnsboro and Richard Burgoyne, Monroe. Ushers will be Aubrey A. Wolleson and Robert Dhu Thompson, both of Monroe and ring bearer will be Conrad McKay of Metairie, nephew of the prospective bridegroom.

Lighting the candles will be the bride-elect's brother, David Edwards of Beaumont, Tex. Mrs. E. W. Robertson, Natchitoches, cousin of the bride-elect, will be organist and her aunt, Mrs. Frankie Dixon, Monroe will sing.

Reception assistants have also been chosen. Mrs. Ralph Ward, Monroe, will serve the bride's cake and Miss Patsy Dixon Monroe, cousin of the bride-to-be will serve groom's cake. Mrs. Bill Shepard, Vidalia, sister of the future groom, will be in charge of the bride's book. Presiding at the punch bowl will be Mrs. Buck Lawrence, Monroe and at the coffee service Miss Lilian Keasler, Vidor, Texas, cousin of Miss Edwards. Tea girls will be Misses Penny Renegar, Pineville; Brenda Keasler, Vidor, Tex., Ann Dixon, Monroe, also cousins of the bride-elect.

Miss Edwards is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Edwards, Beaumont, Tex., formerly of this city and parents of Mr. McKay are Mr. and Mrs. C. A. McKay, Monroe.

Young Again Wearing Hats

Even a hat enthusiast can be pardoned for going weak with astonishment at a sudden new trend. The young are wearing hats?

What's more, they're hatty hats, big and brimmed, very dashing. In New York the other day ,at a fashionable restaurant, no less than seven young fashionables never seen in a hat before, were luxuriating in designs by Halston and Barthet.

In Paris, at the opening of Longchamps race track, the camera couldn't snap fast enough all the tender youths in hats. Perhaps it's Chanel, who is so favored by the young Parisiennes. She has always insisted on hats, designed her own.

Not so many dashing brims in Paris. The young there like a smaller hat, perky or quite sophisticated in the off-face style of Gloria Guinness. But it does look as if the slavery of hair may have been broken by the young fashionables.

MIDDY LOOK

For the young in heart is the middy look, most popular in two-piece dresses, complete with sailor collar, and a gay red scarf to polish it off.

This verse by John Saxe is hardly poetry, but it points an interesting moral:

Alas for the player who idly depends
In the struggle for life upon kindred or friends;
Whatever the value of blessings like these,
They can never atone for inglorious ease,
Nor comfort the coward who finds with a groan
That the winner is he who can go it alone!
There's something, no doubt, in the hand you may hold:
Health, family, culture, wit, beauty and gold
The fortunate owner may fairly regard
As, each in its way, a most excellent card;
Yet the game may be lost with all these for your own,
Unless you've the courage to go it alone
In battle or business, whatever the game,
In law or in love, it is ever the same;
In the struggle for power, or the scramble for pelf,
Let this be your motto — rely on yourself!
For whether the prize be a ribbon or throne,
The victor is he who can go it alone!

Ostrich Plumes Wave In Fall Evening Dress

Ostrich plumes wave in delight over fall evening dress, particularly since Norman Norell showed his slinky black crepes topped with plumes that sometimes reached the floor.

Every milliner has a few ostrich fancies in the collection. Miss Alice pours it like a black lion's mane over the head, while Mr. Arnold sweeps it back and down like a pony tail. John Frederics treats it like a wig, parting it in the center with a jeweled strip. Vincent-Harmik ties a hood of black ostrich around a jeweled cone cap. Adolfo not only covers the head with gray and white ostrich, but swathes the throat in a boa.

The rage for ostrich is the result of all the slim, simple evening gowns which are this fall's fashion.

KURT GUELZOW plays for the Baby Bengals; while ANDY MAPP and DON SAGET are on the Mississippi State freshman squad. Proud parents down for the night were the RICHARD GUELZOWS, DOUGLAS SAGETS, and MARCUS MAPPS. They returned to Jackson yesterday for the LSU-Mississippi State game last night, and then home to sleep. Don and Andy are to leave here today, returning to Columbus.

JUST BECAUSE IT'S FALL, LYDIA NICHOLS invited ten ladies for luncheon a beautiful Indian Summer day last Friday. The party was held in the private dining room at Bayou DeSiard country club, with decorations reflecting the Autumn season. A yellow cloth covered the table, which was centered with a brass bowl filled with yellow and bronze crysanthemums and slender candles shaped like cattails. Brass candlesticks at each side held terra cotta candles and stalks of wheat.

Invitations were in the mail this week to members of BIG TIMERS, announcing the winter ball to be held Saturday evening, November 23, at Bayou DeSiard country club. Everything points to a real gala event here, as rumors repeat that all the ladies will be decked out in new floor-length dresses. There's nothing so grand in wearing apparel, and nothing that so delights your clothes-watching reporter. A cocktail hour will precede the dance, from eight until nine, with music by Paul Neighbors' orchestra from nine until one. Dutch treat breakfast will be served after the dance.

Young miss CLAIRE CAMPBELL SEYMOUR celebrated her fifth birthday with an outdoor party at home last Friday. There were live ponies to ride, and a pin-the-tail-on game which was won by JAY RIVERS. Favors given at the go-fishing game were handcuffs and wrist watches for boys; doll comb and brush sets for girls. Refreshments were served on the balloon - hung patio. The birthday cake, decorated with ponies, was served with ice cream to thirty-five children.

One of the most interesting new houses in town is the home of GAIL and CARL KINNEY on Jamar street. Of antique brick, the street facade is a wall broken only by the vertically louvered gate into the entrance courtyard. Feather rocks, ajuga, loquat are planted in beds encircled by the paved walkway to the main door. A screen of antique brick divides the courtyard from the enclosed patio beyond.

In the family room, walls are panelled in Oriental ash, with floors of off-white vinyl squares. Overlooking the patio are fixed glass panels, below which are smaller sliding panels which can be opened for ventilation. Draperies are a sheer white printed with bamboo in shades of green. A blue rug defines the seating area with its sofa and side chairs of blue-green and a pair of bittersweet arm chairs. In the corner is a bittersweet bush rooted in a large black iron pot . . . . The kitchen beyond the family dining area is also panelled in Oriental ash, with cabinets of the same wood. Floors are white vinyl, and draperies of a blue and green print on white.

On beyond the family room is the hall to the bedroom area. To the left as one enters the hall is a door onto the patio, and then the master bedroom. Here walls are off-white, with natural walnut furniture. A woven cane motif is noted on the double headboard and on doors of the dresser-chest. Focal point of the room is the glass wall overlooking the patio. Here are a pair of green chairs, with draw draperies of sheer white with olive green and blue stripes.

Alas for the player who idly depends
In the struggle for life upon kindred or friends;
Whatever the value of blessings like these,
They can never atone for inglorious ease,
Nor comfort the coward who finds with a groan
That the winner is he who can go it alone!
There's something, no doubt, in the hand you may hold:
Health, family, culture, wit, beauty and gold
The fortunate owner may fairly regard
As, each in its way, a most excellent card;
Yet the game may be lost with all these for your own,
Unless you've the courage to go it alone
In battle or business, whatever the game,
In law or in love, it is ever the same;
In the struggle for power, or the scramble for pelf,
Let this be your motto — rely on yourself!
For whether the prize be a ribbon or throne,
The victor is he who can go it alone!

Sandra Edwards, Fiance Complete Wedding Plans

Miss Sandra Edwards and her fiance, William McKay have completed plans for their wedding which will be solemnized November 27 at 6 p.m. in Central Baptist Church. Rev. Carl Owens will officiate.

Miss Edwards is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Edwards, Beaumont, Tex., formerly of this city and parents of Mr. McKay are Mr. and Mrs. C. A. McKay, Monroe.

Young Again Wearing Hats

Even a hat enthusiast can be pardoned for going weak with astonishment at a sudden new trend. The young are wearing hats?

What's more, they're hatty hats, big and brimmed, very dashing. In New York the other day ,at a fashionable restaurant, no less than seven young fashionables never seen in a hat before, were luxuriating in designs by Halston and Barthet.

In Paris, at the opening of Longchamps race track, the camera couldn't snap fast enough all the tender youths in hats. Perhaps it's Chanel, who is so favored by the young Parisiennes. She has always insisted on hats, designed her own.

Not so many dashing brims in Paris. The young there like a smaller hat, perky or quite sophisticated in the off-face style of Gloria Guinness. But it does look as if the slavery of hair may have been broken by the young fashionables.

MIDDY LOOK

Ostrich Plumes Wave In Fall Evening Dress

Ostrich plumes wave in delight over fall evening dress, particularly since Norman Norell showed his slinky black crepes topped with plumes that sometimes reached the floor.

Every milliner has a few ostrich fancies in the collection. Miss Alice pours it like a black lion's mane over the head, while Mr. Arnold sweeps it back and down like a pony tail. John Frederics treats it like a wig, parting it in the center with a jeweled strip. Vincent-Harmik ties a hood of black ostrich around a jeweled cone cap. Adolfo not only covers the head with gray and white ostrich, but swathes the throat in a boa.

The rage for ostrich is the result of all the slim, simple evening gowns which are this fall's fashion.

MRS. JUSTIN EARL GROSS

Miss Mulhern Becomes Bride Of J. E. Gross

Our Lady of Fatima Catholic Church in Monroe was scene of the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Virginia Caron Mulhern of Clear Lake and Justin Earl Gross of Lake Providence, on Saturday, November 2 at 4 p.m.

The Rev. Earl G. Beauhin performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of family members.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Mulhern of Clear Lake and Mr. Gross is the son of Mrs. J. C. Gross Sr. and the late Mr. Gross of Lake Providence.

For her wedding the bride wore a three-piece suit in a deep blue shade with matching veiled velvet pillbox, black patent accessories and a single strand of pearls. She carried a white orchid.

Miss Ruby Mulhern, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore a two piece suit of rust wool complemented by a matching veiled hat, brown accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

E. H. Coleman of Lake Providence, uncle of the bridegroom, served as best man.

A graduate of Rayville high school Mrs. Gross is working on her Master's degree in biology with a teaching assistantship at Northeast Louisiana State College. Mr. Gross was graduated from St. Paul's high school and Northeast Louisiana State College and is employed by a medical supply company of Jackson, Miss.

After a brief wedding trip the couple has established a home at 3607 Armand Street in Monroe.

FORTHCOMING MARRIAGE of Miss Mary Ann Cumpton, daughter of Mrs. Geneva Cumpton and the late Luther L. Cumpton of Rayville to Billy Ray Parks is announced by her mother. Mr. Parks is the son of Mrs. Daisy Parks and the late Hiram Parks of Dunn. The wedding will take place November 28 at 3 p.m. in the Eastside Baptist Church of Rayville, with Rev. Fred Keys officiating.

Bernardine Semmes Weds Michael Darryle Fontana

Solemnized at 10 a.m. Saturday, November 16 in St. Joseph's Catholic Church was the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Bernardine Marie Semmes and Michael Darryle Fontana.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert K. Semmes Jr., 110 Pershing Place and Mr. Fontana is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Fontana, 2411 Gordon Avenue.

The Rev. Joseph Robert Inzina, cousin of the bridegroom, officiated at the double ring ceremony followed by the Nuptial High Mass celebrated by The Rev. Lambert Leykam, O.F.M. Nuptial music was provided by the Rev. Ardwin Hiller, O.F.M., organist and Mrs. John Filhoil, soloist.

Baskets of Harvest Glow gladioli with bronze Fuji chrysanthemums decorated the altar and a white aisle cloth was used for the bridal party's entrance.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a chapel length gown of bombazine and imported handclipped Chantilly lace, featuring a basque waist etched with iridescent sequins and seed pearls. The voluminous skirt was appliqued with Chantilly lace, seed pearls and sequins and featured a back bustle caught up with self-fabric roses. A regal queen's crown of seed pearls and iridescents held her fingertip veil of nylon tulle. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses encircling a white orchid, showered with white satin streamers.

Attending the bride were Miss Grace Hodge, maid of honor; Mrs. George Paul Fontana, matron of honor and Miss Juanita Hebert, cousin of the bride and Miss Diane Machnik, bridesmaids. Their gowns of verdi eau slipper satin with overblouses of fern nylon organza, were styled with bateau necklines and belled skirts. Their headdresses were of verdi eau satin and fern velvet leaves with matching veils and they carried bouquets of large bronze chrysanthemums, backed with maline and harvest tone ribbon.

Junior bridesmaids, Miss Mary Ellen Semmes, sister of the bride and Miss Virginia Ann Standard, wore matching ensembles of A-line shifts with three-quarter length fern organza underblouses. A band of self-fabric roses formed their headpieces and short white gloves and dress-matching shoes completed their costumes.

Dr. George Paul Fontana attended his brother as best man and groomsmen were Bobby Lee Bryant, Phillip Youngblood and Bobby Cerniglia. Altar boys were Johnny Semmes, brother of the bride; Tom Semmes, her cousin and Ronnie Factor.

Mrs. Semmes was wearing for her daughter's wedding a gown of Pervenche blue Chantilly lace with matching three-quarter length coat of peau de soie. She wore a matching hat, white gloves and blue iridescent shoes and bag and a purple orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Fontana wore a mink colored velveteen suit with matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

RECEPTION

A reception followed at 11 a.m. in St. Joseph's Hall. The tiered wedding cake was served from the bride's table, overlaid with a white satin cloth and garlanded with greenery. A three branched silver candelabra held yellow tapers. The reception table, covered with a hemstitched cloth had as its centerpiece an arrangement of yellow and bronze Fuji chrysanthemums with harvest glow gladioli and yellow tapers. Mrs. Jack Dyer presided at the silver punch bowl and Mrs. E. P. Machnik at the silver coffee service at opposite ends of the table. Mrs. Aubrey Young served the cake and Miss Georgette Varino presided at the guest book at a table graced with a memory candle. Tea girls were Misses Sally Carroll, Brenda Smith and Linda DeStefano.

For a wedding trip to Hot Springs, Ark., the bride changed into a forest green velveteen suit with matching accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. Upon their return the couple will be at home at 2407 Gordon Ave. in Monroe. Both are graduates of Ouachita Parish high school and Mr. Fontana attended Northeast Louisiana State College.

Tin Can Easily Converted Into Pencil Holder

How's the desk drawer at your house? Cluttered with pencils, pens, paper clips and such?

You can solve this problem easily and decoratively, just by using an empty tin can, a pair of scissors, a pencil, a ruler, and a roll of adhesive covering.

Here's how to do it. First, cut a strip of adhesive covering, in your choice of color or pattern, two inches wider than the height of the can and long enough to go around the can. Remove the backing sheet, and smooth the covering onto the can. Be sure to center the can on the covering, so that you have an inch of extra covering at both top and bottom. Then, using the scissors, cut fringes at about quarter-inch intervals and stick them to the bottom and the inside of the can at the top one at a time.

You'll want to put the covering material on the bottom of the can, too, so place the can on the backing sheet, trace around the bottom with a pencil and cut out the circle. Fit it to the bottom of the can and trim it if necessary.

MR. AND MRS. MEREDITH LAWRENCE RAMBIN

Sylvia Hayden Is Bride Of Meredith L. Rambin

Miss Sylvia Sue Hayden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hayden, 1105 Audubon, West Monroe, became the bride of Meredith Lawrence Rambin, 207 King, Monroe, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Rambin of Shreveport, in a double ring ceremony on Friday, November 8.

Dr. Clifton Tennison, pastor of the First Baptist church, West Monroe, performed the ceremony at 7 p.m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Albritton, 2517 N. 10th, West Monroe, close family friends. A large fan shaped arrangement of white gladioli and gold chrysanthemums flanked by cupid candelabra which held lighted tapers, formed a background for the exchange of vows.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a street length dress of champagne brocade satin with champagne veiled pillbox hat and matching accessories. She carried a colonial nosegay of white bridal roses.

Mrs. Kenneth D. Furlow, Beaumont, Texas, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor and only attendant. She wore a mint green street length dress of brocade satin with accessories to match and carried a nosegay of bronze chrysanthemums.

Stanley Starr Jr. attended Mr. Rambin as best man.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Hayden wore a cranberry knit dress with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations and forget-me-nots. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Rambin, chose a teal blue knit model with black accessories and corsage of white carnations and forget-me-nots.

A reception followed in the home. The bride's table covered with a white cloth, overlaid with a net floor length skirt, had as its central decor a cupid candelabra holding white tapers and a bouquet of white pompons and white roses, accented with gold and white ferns. The tiered wedding cake, decorated with pale green roses was served by Mrs. Stanley Passman of Monroe and Miss Judy Wilhite served green punch from a crystal bowl. Alternating at the guest book were Mrs. Glenda Lambert and Mrs. Jerry Gentry. Tea girls were Mrs. Stanley Starr Jr. and Mrs. Jim Beard. Corsages of white chrysanthemums were presented to the grandmothers and reception assistants.

Rice bags were presented by Susan, and Polly Passman and Cynthia and Lisa Furlow.

The couple has established a home at 207 King Street, Monroe, and both will be continuing studies at Northeast Louisiana State College.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Furlow, and children; Mrs. Nora Wales, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wales, all of Beaumont, Texas; Mrs. Eunice Long, San Antonio, Texas; Mrs. Dorothy Chism, Victoria, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Roberts, Houston, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Troegel, Jackson, Miss., and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew S. Rambin, Shreveport.

Mrs. Landreaux Named To State DAR Position

Mrs. Joseph B. Landreaux of West Monroe has been appointed state chairman for D.A.R. Schools, Louisiana Society, Daughters of the American Revolution by the state regent, Mrs. R. J. Holzer of New Orleans. The appointment was made due to the recent death of Mrs. Ethel W. Farber of Baton Rouge, formerly of Monroe.

Mrs. Landreaux, a member of Chief Tusquahoma Chapter since February, 1957, is now serving the chapter as first vice-regent and has served as chairman for various committees, including national defense, librarian, by-laws, program and lineage research in addition to work on special committees.

From 1959-1962, she served as D.A.R. librarian for the state. Born in West Monroe, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Frantom, she is descended from William Frantom and Ann Elizabeth Fenner, who were among the earliest settlers of Ouachita Parish. Mrs. Landreaux is employed as cataloguer of the Ouachita Parish Public Library.

In the new capacity, she will head 53 chapters as chairman of DAR Schools. Mrs. J. A. Rainbolt is chairman for Chief Tusquahoma chapter, which is active with this project.

One of the three objectives of the National Society DAR is education. An approved school means that the school has been endorsed by the Daughters of American Revolution of the state in which it is located; has been investigated by the national chairman of the committee and finally approved by the Continental Congress. To qualify, a school or college must be definitely for underprivileged boys and girls who otherwise would not have the opportunity for education; or for Americanization of foreign parentage; maintaining high scholastic standards and teaching Patriotic American principles.

Two schools, Kate Duncan Smith DAR School at Grant, Ala., and Tamassee DAR School, Tamassee, S. C., have been established and are owned and operated by the DAR. Both meet state requirements for elementary and high schools. Seven other schools and colleges are on the approved list. They are the Berry Schools, Mount Berry, Ga., Blue Ridge School, St. George, Greene County, Va., Crossnore School Inc., Crossnore, N. C., Hillside School Inc., Marlborough, Mass., Hindman Settlement School, Hindman, Ky., Lincoln Memorial University, Harrogate, Tenn., and Northland College, Ashland, Wisc.

Simple Styles Take To Bold Accessories

The fashion look these days is made by choosing classic silhouettes, bold accessories. When a dress is nothing but a semi-fitted tube, or a print shirtwaist, it escapes dowdiness only by the use of the unusual handbag, the dramatic stole or the big jewel.

Watch earrings, such as silver leaves practically life-size, or floral brooches as big as the natural flowers they simulate. Look for handbags in new shapes, such as pleated leather triangles on bamboo or metal chain handles.

Stoles and scarves, of course, are the established way of accenting plain black wools, classic suits and full coats.

Daylily Society Installs, Plans Christmas Party

Installation of new officers highlighted the November meeting of the Dixieland Daylily Society held Tuesday night in the Agriculture Building in West Monroe.

A covered dish supper preceded the meeting, with the Thanksgiving theme portrayed in an autumn arrangement of fruit and flowers which graced the table.

Mrs. Ruth Pylant presided over the business session during which C. R. Clay gave a report on the slides and talk presented by J. R. McKeithan, past national president of the Hemerocallis Society, in Monroe recently.

Mrs. W. R. Gates conducted the installation ceremony for the 1964 officers who are Mrs. J. G. Haynes Sr., president; W. R. Gates, first vice-president; Mrs. Wiley Roach Sr., second vice-president; C. R. Clay, recording secretary and treasurer; and Mrs. C. R. Clay, corresponding secretary. Mrs. Pylant, outgoing president, was presented a gift of appreciation, a green Jade bowl by the new president.

Plans were made for the annual Christmas party to be held December 9 at Olinkraft Cafeteria at 7 p.m. Mrs. Bess Robinson was appointed committee chairman in charge of arrangements.

Standing committees for the coming year were named and include year book, Mrs. Pylant; membership, Mrs. J. A. Kilpatrick; publicity, Mrs. W. R. Gates; program, Mrs. Rowena Mulhearn; telephone, Mrs. Collier Murphrey Sr., courtesy, Mrs. C. R. Clay; horticulture, Wiley Roach Sr., projects and decoration, Mrs. Bess Robinson and tour, W. R. Gates.

Those attending the meeting were Mrs. Beulah Albright, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Clay, Mrs. Fred Cox, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gates, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Haynes Sr., Mrs. Effie Horton, Mrs. Warren McGee, Mrs. Rowena Mulhearn; Mrs. Collier Murphrey Sr. and Mrs. A. R. Robinson.

Anniversary Celebration Set By Church

The Wisner First Baptist Church, Wisner, will celebrate its 40th anniversary with all day services Sunday, November 24.

The church was organized on November 25, 1923 following a revival meeting held in the old Wisner theater by the Rev. A. H. Cullen, pastor of the Winnsboro First Baptist Church. It then moved to the local school building until a brick veneer building was constructed in 1926.

The present church edifice was erected in 1953 and since that time two new wings have been added.

Americans Spending Less For Shoes Now

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

The shoe industry's trade magazine, "Boot and Shoe Recorder," reports sadly that Americans are spending 18 per cent less for shoes than they did a dozen years ago.

In such mundane figures one occasionally spots a fashion trend. Could the country be reverting to the simple, barefoot life? In Mississippi, said the report, they're only spending $5 per capita a year on shoes.

But a second look reveals that if anybody's going barefoot it's the men and boys. Even when a man's making over $5,000 a year, he spends only $5 of it for shoes. But a woman in the same bracket spends $[illegible] which is probably why he's going barefoot.

Of course, it's good old fashion that makes the difference. A man buys a pair of shoes and wears it out before he's bought another. Even well-dressed men aren't likely to have more than four or five pairs at a time. But his wife may have up to twenty (result of poll taking among friends). Women can always use another pair of shoes.

Terry Shifts Hit Fashions

Wrapping up in a bath towel is such a cozy, provocative way of not-quite-dressing that women are loathe to give it up for the conventional apparel required for street appearance.

No wonder then that the better known towel companies got into the fashion business. They have an eager market for these slinky ankle-length terry cloth shifts which have more shape than the towel but are almost as casual.

The terry wardrobes for at home and the beach are lively with vivid floral prints and stripes.

ACCENT ON BAGS

New accent is on good handbags, perfectly shaped in boxes, oblongs, triangles with bone or gold chain handles.

ENGAGEMENT and approaching marriage of Miss Martha Thomas to Kermit Burnside, both junior students at Northeast Louisiana State College, is announced by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas of Winnsboro. Mr. Burnside is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Burnside of Fort Necessity. The wedding will be an event of November 28 at Temple Baptist church in Winnsboro.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the forthcoming marriage of Miss Sylvia Joye Bartley to Larry Joe Cummings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elzie Cummings of West Monroe, is made by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Bartley of Sikes. The ceremony will take place November 29 at Friendship Baptist Church, in Sikes at 7 p.m.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Clicks Often Wish They'd Stayed Clucks

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 13-year-old girl and in the eighth grade. In our class at school there are two groups of girls. One group is known as the clicks and the other group is known as the clucks.

The clicks are the fast kids and the clucks are the slow kids. Clicks do their hair up fancy, smoke, make-out, and are boy crazy. Clucks study a lot, they do not wear lipstick, even on the sneak, and they seem sort of boring and babyish.

My problem is that I can't make up my mind which group I want to join. I look more like a Click, but my actions fit the Clucks better.

Can you help me decide? — BIRDIE

Dear Birdie: No, I can't help you decide. This decision is one only you can make.

I can tell you, however, that I've received thousands of letters from Clicks who wish they had stayed Clucks.

Dear Ann Landers: I just finished reading the letter from the young man who wrote about his dainty bride who snored worse than any Army buddy he'd ever bunked with.

Well, I, too, have been married less than a year. My wife told me after two weeks that I had to do something about my snoring because I was keeping her up nights.

I went to a doctor and he could find nothing wrong with my nose or throat. He told me I had developed a habit of sleeping with my mouth open and that's why I snored.

I was determined to break the habit and decided to experiment. Before retiring I placed two pieces of ordinary adhesive tape over my mouth. This is not nearly so uncomfortable as it sounds. After one week my problem was solved. I no longer have to use the tape. I now sleep with my mouth closed.

No kidding, Ann. It works. Try it. — SNORE NO MORE

Dear Snore: Thanks for your suggestion but I don't have to try it. I don't snore.

Dear Ann: My mother was always certain I would marry the richest and handsomest man in the world. When I married only the kindest and most loving she was crushed. Mother punished me for disappointing her by denying me the lovely wedding I had always dreamed of. She said his family was "not suitable to show off to our friends."

For two years after our marriage I tried to get mother to see Ben's fine qualities and to accept him. She refused even to speak his name. We were never once invited to her home for a meal. She came to our home only when Ben was out of the city.

Six months ago mother suffered a heart attack. She made a good recovery after several weeks in the hospital. The doctor said she should not be left alone. After she fired three nurses in two weeks, Ben insisted that we take her into our home. Since mother has been with us I have become a nervous wreck. She criticizes his English and belittles him continually. I leave the dinner table in tears every night. What shall I do? — ALICIA

Dear Alicia: Move your mother out of your home at once. Contribute to her support elsewhere if necessary, but don't subject yourself or Ben to her presence. The alternative may be a monstrous medical bill to restore your own shattered health (and Ben's, too).

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

'ALBATROSS' IN LONDON

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Albatross" is going to test its dramatic wings in London before venturing to Broadway.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Fall Colors In Designs

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

The Winnsboro Garden Club members and their president, Mrs. B. T. Lanier, can be justly proud of the program brought to T.V. and Fifth District Garden Center last Wednesday by seven of their co-members. All of the richness of fall colors and textures were blended together in each of the six designs displayed.

Clever use of all foliage in a large massed triangular design was the artistic work of Mrs. C. R. Adams Sr. The overall line was created by rich green sago palm placed in a large copper dipped pewter urn. This line was filled - in with Japanese fir (sometimes called Cunninghamia) and yew branches. Accuba Japonica foliage created the focal interest. This was accented at the basic part of the design with variegated euonymous which also added contrast and broke the line of the container's edge. This type arrangement has very lasting qualities, easy to do, perhaps due to the fact that most of these materials can be found in the arranger's own garden.

THANKSGIVING

Two members, Mrs. Carl Frit, and Mrs. W. R. Baker made a "Thanksgiving Bounty" composition using clipped pine for the triangular line with fruits and flowers arranged on a slanting cut of a large log round. Small yellow mums were used throughout the design within the line of pine. Limes, lemons, oranges, green grapes and yellow Japanese persimmons were placed within the line as a filler. All of these colors blended splendidly. For contrast and "highlight" filler the native Louisiana Bittersweet was placed in small groups throughout the design. Soft green fabric was draped over a base to give good balance and color harmony to the large design.

Mrs. F. C. Howard and Mrs. H. I. Hill combined artistic efforts in making the next arrangement, of oriental feeling, using the daisy-type mums (orange with chartreuse centers) for the vertical placement in a soft green into tan colored pottery vase. Three large mums (nursery grown) in colors of bronze into gold, formed the focal interest. Fern was used as a filler around these and placed in the back to give depth. A black teakwood base was used to give added weight and create good balance as well as further the feeling of the orient already established by the use of the mums.

TWO DESIGNS

Mrs. Joe Panky made two designs for the program. One was quite striking because of the attractive and daring color scheme of orange - red, yellow and green. Variegated euonymous formed the over-all massed-vertical design in a soft green into tan ceramic compote. Next a filler of small yellow mums was placed within the line. Small clusters of red ornamental tomatoes were used as filler around the focal interest, a massed grouping of native Louisiana Bittersweet. A red napkin was draped over a round wooden base on which the design was placed giving it good balance and color harmony. This colorful design simply reeks with cheerfulness and would be excellent for the hall entrance to invite guests into the home. For her second design Mrs. Panky chose a curving piece of driftwood which set the pattern for the triangular design and served as a container for the dried materials used. Dried brown dock formed the line, filled in with golden wheat sprays and tan seed pods which accented the focal interest — three bronze mums. Just the finishing touch for the man's room or the den.

LARGE DESIGN

Mrs. Roy Taylor created a large asymetrical design using aspidestra leaves for the basic line in a tall creamy white urn. Rich red celosia followed next as a focal fiiller about which was placed sprigs of coleus which blended perfectly in color. A large cluster of rose-red polyethylene grapes (frosted) furnished the lower section of the design, hanging from the lip of the container. The whole design was placed on a large brown wooden base which added the proper balance with the large leaves in the upper part of the design. A lovely design for the large formal living room or placed on a pedestal in the entrance hall.

Our thanks for a wonderful show by ladies from a wonderful club, the Winnsboro Garden Club.

Congratulations — Two new LGCF garden clubs: The Collinston Garden Club in Collinston, Mrs. J. E. Savage, president. The Lakeshore Garden Club of Monroe, Mrs. Henry Nyhuis, president. The Fifth District is proud to welcome you into the Louisiana Federation. Mrs. Jettie Barnum, Fifth District director makes this announcement.

Pleasant surprise for you — Remember we were not going to have Dr. John Wright (Louisiana Tech) again for a long time — fall of 1964 — Well, we have persuaded him to come back sooner, after an absence of three months. He will be back with us once a month (regularly) starting next Wednesday. Aren't we more than pleased. We are happy to have him back — so-be watching for our next program — and, don't forget to come by the Garden Center in Sears.

Important date — Fifth District Council of the Louisiana Council of Nationally Accredited Flower Show Judges meets Wednesday, Nov. 20, at 2 P.M., West Monroe Branch Library, 315 Cypress St. Program will be presented by Mrs. John McInnis Jr., Minden. Slides from the Jackson - Perkins Sterling Bowl Tournament in Newark, New Jersey will be shown. Mrs. McInnis received honorable mention on her design, "The Rose," her entry in this wonderful show, of which all members of Louisiana Garden Club Federation are truly proud and share her joy. All judges, senior and junior, should make plans to attend this meeting.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

More Sturdy Daffodils

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Continuing last week's list of durable daffodils for garden effect, we would like to add the following varieties: Quirinus, Carbineer, Dick Wellband, Lady Kestiven, Scarlet Elegans, Scarlet Leader, Thalia, Silver Chimes.

Heavy spring rains, late freezes, hail, sleet and even snow assail daffodils during their season to such an extent that we sometimes just have to go out and cut the flowers that have been smashed to the ground and bring them in and enjoy them as cut flowers.

When the temperature sometimes dips down low at night in February and March, the last little bit of daffodil stems that have just been stimulated into sudden growth, will freeze. More often than not, the temperature will rise way above freezing the next morning, and the flowers simply fall over on their faces.

LONG OBSERVANCE

Some daffodils stand up to all these vicissitudes better than others, and we have observed the above varieties for 10 or 15 years, now. If any varieties will stand up in our weather, these will.

Quirinus is certainly a long lasting, tough flower. When the beautiful Selma Lagerlof next to it falls over in the heavy rains, Quirinus, Carbineer, and Scarlet Elegans seem to stand right up to the pelting. Perhaps, if we were to put the flowers of these varieties under a microscope, we would find that their petals were thicker and tougher than those of other kinds.

The red and yellow combination of Quirinus, Carbineer and Scarlet Elegans has its counterpart in the three red and white varieties: Lady Kesteven, Dick Wellband and Scarlet Leader. These also stand up to the weather.

OTHERS ADAPTED

There are, of course, many other good out-door daffodils — some of them more expensive and some quite expensive. The "New Weather Proof Incomparables" that came out some years ago have somewhat larger flowers that stand up better than one would think such big flowers could. Some of these are: Diamond Jubilee, Duke of Windsor, Emerald, Lemon Cup, Leviathan, Majarda, Mary Blonk, Mekkada, Milk and Cream, Orange Monarch and Rene de Chalons. All of these won medals between 1927 and about 1940.

Kitchens Key Points In Design

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Interior designers seem to be in a conspiracy to make women enjoy their kitchens. Many kitchens are designed so it is difficult to tell where the work begins and the fun stops. One designed by Joseph Freitag for Frigidaire for the Decoration and Design Show in New York is a three-in-one Oriental style unit that is large enough to permit inviting friends into the kitchen to cook with plenty of space left over for dancing.

And if the friends want to help with the washing, there is a peek-a-boo laundry around a bend that also exudes plenty of eastern charm.

It's really two kitchens — one to get ready, and one to go. There is a serving kitchen where foods may be prepared, simmered and casseroled, and a main kitchen for immediate cooking with a center aisle barbecue table, and the home laundry.

"The point of the center cooking idea for a crowd is that many people can cook at the barbecue table and not get in each other's way," explains Freitag. Even your mother-in-law can enjoy it, and if everything is prepared in the serving kitchen where there is a built-in blender and other precooking conveniences, there won't be a mess.

A refrigerator and feezer in the main kitchen serves as a room divider between it and the laundry where there is a coppertoned washer, dryer, sink for pretreatment of washables, wicker slide-out baskets and scenic patterned cabinet doors that close in a folded look.

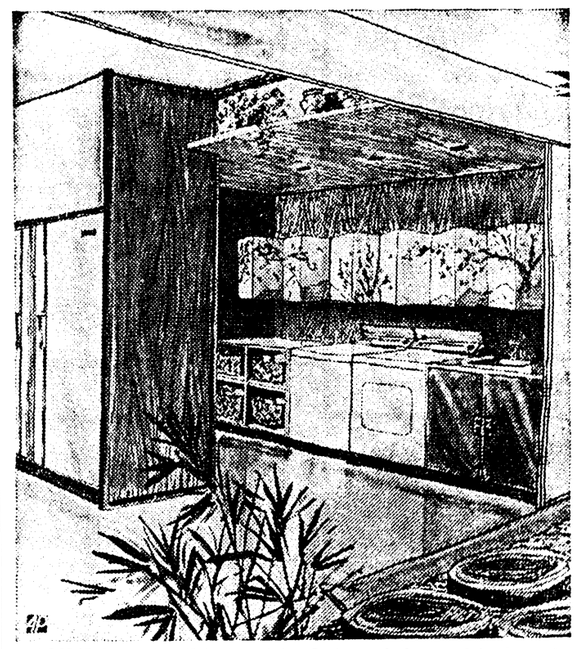
Freitag loves the tranquility an Oriental look can give a kitchen. He has improvised to achieve it. On the turquoise cabinets there is a carved molding resembling bamboo, accomplished by using a stock 60-cents-a-foot molding. There are Chinese-style floor cabinets with large white brasses. Dark brown tile was selected to resemble the look of North Chinese clay floors that turn brown with age and waxing. Window shades from floor to ceiling of a homespun texture were treated to vertical stripes of a brown stickon tape. There is a bamboo rod at the bottom. Bamboo poles are used as columns and ceiling beams in the main kitchen.

Cabinets in the serving kitchen are copper, turquoise, black and natural wood. There are burners, oven and work surfaces for the preparation of simmer foods. The wall oven is set in a book case. The cork center aisle table has a chopping block at one end near the refrigerator, electric burners and space for hibachis.

"You can use a two or 10-person hibachi here, building as many fires as you like. And when you are not using this area, you have a table top," Freitag explains.

He figures this kitchen can be built in a space as small as 12 by 18 feet for the kitchen and 6 to 12 feet for the laundry.

GARDENERS planning for next year, might want to arrange daffodils on either side of a walkway to provide blooms in early spring. Good companions for daffodils are pansies in purple or white, or English daisies with pink or white blossoms.



LAUNDRY AREA in this Oriental-decor kitchen is separated from the rest of the kitchen by a tall refrigerator and freezer. Cabinets above the washer, dryer and sink have patterned doors and, when closed, have the look of a long, floded screen.

On The House

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Inadequate electrical wiring continues to plague the large majority of home owners throughout the country. The latest estimate is that about 85 per cent of all private houses have wiring systems insufficient to carry the daily burdens placed upon them.

Wiring that does not meet the needs of modern living, with its almost endless list of electrical appliances, produces a number of results.

It causes lights to go dim momentarily when a major appliance is turned on, it shrinks television pictures, it prevents electrical equipment from operating at peak efficiency and it causes frequent blown fuses and tripped circuit breakers.

The blowing of fuses is the most serious result, because all too often fuse replacements are made carelessly.

PROTECTION LOST

Instead of using a fuse of the proper amperage, a larger-sized fuse is installed. Since a fuse is made to fail when an overload is placed upon the circuit, the protection is lost if the proper fuse is not used. That's one of the causes of burned wires and resultant tragic and costly fires.

Even if the safety factor were not involved, inadequate wiring costs you money. Voltage drops mean that heating appliances take longer to get hot, which in turn means that you use and pay for more electricity. A motor that burns out long before its normal life might have lasted indefinitely but for the extra work it had to perform to keep the refrigerator or other heavy appliance operating day in and day out even when the voltage was too low.

SOME INADEQUATE

In some cases, of course, old wiring systems won't even handle certain types of appliances, let alone handle them poorly. Many home owners now have adequate wiring simply because it became a necessity when they installed air conditioning units. But generally, most persons attempt to struggle along with the old facilities, some of which were built into their homes 20 or 30 years ago.

If and when you get around to updating your home's wiring system, be sure you see that enough outlets are installed. This will eliminate the unsightly and unsafe jumble of plugs often seen in a single outlet. And don't neglect weatherproof outlets for outdoor use to take the place of many extension cords now strung from inside the house to outside locations. Extension cords are meant for temporary use, not as permanent installations.

Here's The Answer

By ANDY LANG

QUESTION: I have read that paint should never be applied over calcimine unless the calcimine is first removed. What about the other way around? I'd like to apply calcimine over a painted surface. Do I have to remove the paint first and can I use ordinary paint remover?

ANSWER: There is no necessity to take off the paint in order to apply calcimine. However, it is imperative that all dirt, dust and grease be removed from the paint, which is what should be done no matter what kind of new finish is contemplated.

ANSWER: Some persons use a piece of aluminum foil or some other covering, attaching it to the wall before hanging the picture. The disadvantage of this is that it leaves a "clean" area on the wall when the picture is taken down, much like a piece of adhesive tape does when you remove it from a finger. Actually, the only way to keep the wall in back of a picture frame from getting dirty is to dust it every time you do any housecleaning.

One trick that may help is to cement little pieces of rubber to the bottom corners of the back of a picture frame. This keeps that part of the wall from developing a dirt outline of the frame and, at the same time, prevents the picture from shifting.

Special Care Is Needed For Arrangements

Keep flower arrangements away from drafts, direct sunshine, hot radiators and air conditioning units. To prolong their beauty, flowers should be permitted to rest in a cool dark place at night.

Plant leaves give off moisture, helping to keep the air moist. They help purify the air by absorbing carbon dioxide and giving out oxygen in its place.

New Fireplace Easy To Install

NEW YORK (AP) — New steel fireplaces can be installed with the ease and flexibility of light fixtures. They can be hung on a wall, suspended from the ceiling, or stand free, reports "Steel Facts," published by American Iron and Steel Institute. Available in a variety of colors and finishes, some fireplaces can also be painted to match a particular room color scheme.

Existing chimneys can be used for vents, or a new packaged steel chimney can be installed by the homeowner.

Geranium Plants Are Preserved

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

It seems such a waste to let the geranium plants freeze to death in the late fall and then have to buy new ones each spring to give your garden the gay touch these flowers provide.

You may prevent complete waste. You may try to keep the old plants alive indoors through the winter. Or you may take cuttings and root them to get a head start on spring, if you have the space and adequate growing conditions.

If you hope to keep the mother plant alive on your window sill, you'll need a sunny spot, and you shoud pinch the plants back about one-third to keep them from becoming too leggy. New top growth also should be pinched. Water just enough to keep the soil moist. Geraniums don't like to be very wet.

METHODS

Some gardeners have good luck hanging the geranium plant roots upward in the cellar through the winter, then trimming the tops and roots, repotting and finally replanting.

If your cellar is very dry, put the plants in air-vented plastic bags in which you pack some moist peat or sphagnum moss.

Our choice is to cut the tips, four or five inches long, from the garden plants in the early fall, remove the two lowest leaves, root them in water or sand, then pot them and nurse them until spring.

Potting medium recipes vary. Some prefer one-third sterilized sand, one - third peat moss and one - third loam. A Memphis, Tenn., woman who raises more than 60 varieties of geraniums, uses one-half garden soil and humus mixed, one-fourth sand and one-fourth peat moss. She advises keeping plants in small pots so that the roots are crowded, and feeding every two weeks and watering sparingly.

A serious problem in raising geraniums indoors in winter is legginess, induced largely by lack of light and too much heat. Pinch the tops of new growth to encourage bushing out.

Blue Spruce Is Native To Rockies

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

A visitor to New England and upstate New York was captivated by the beautiful blue spruce and inquired if this evergreen specimen would grow in his home state of Alabama and the deep South.

The blue spruce is native to the Rocky Mountains and flourishes generally in the North with little care. With tender, constant attention, it might grow to be a lawn ornament in the northerly sections of Alabama, but we wouldn't be overly optimistic about raising them in large numbers.

BLUE SPRUCE

Blue spruce, as with most spruce, is slow to start and it does best in moist clay or loam. It matures in 12 to 18 years, requires little or no pruning and often grows to a height of 140 feet. The needles are long, sharp and at right angles to the stem. It makes one of the finest Christmas trees.

If planted in the South, the blue spruce, would need considerable watering. A peat moss mulch would help retain the moisture. This spruce doesn't like the ocean atmosphere.

One of the most popular of the blue spruces for lawn planting is Koster's. Its foliage is more blue and it has pendulous branches.

The blue spruce has the common spruce enemy, a gall aphid, a sucker insect so small that it is not readily seen. The insect's feeding on developing plant tissue causes formation of cone-like growths, or galls, which stunt and kill the twigs.

Work Over Plant Beds

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

There are many jobs that need attention in our gardens this month. You can clean flower beds, clear away dead annuals and cut back prennials that have ceased blooming and remake beds for later planting. Beds which are not to be replanted right away profit from being worked up and left in the rough. Dead leaves or other vegetative matter worked into the beds help to loosen and lighten the soil for spring planting.

Plant annuals that survive Louisiana winters as pansy, calendula and sweet pea.

November is not too late for planting spring flowering bulbs, especially hyacinths and tulips. Four inches is adequate depth to plant tulip bulbs. If tulip bulbs are planted too shallow in light sandy soils the frequent changes in the Louisiana weather will affect the bulbs.

BULB STORAGE

After frost has killed the tops of your dahlias, lift and store the bulbs in a dry, cool place. Allow tubers to air dry for a half day to dry out soil on the tubers, then store in peat moss or sand. If stored in the open some varieties will shrivel badly, especially if the atmosphere is extremely dry.

If you, Mrs. Gardener, want a green lawn during the winter months, be sure to sow rye grass now. Don't over-seed. Use about four pounds of winter rye per 1,000 square feet of lawn surface. Over-seeding results in a heavy, matted turf. We have only a short span of cold weather when our permanent grasses will not be green, so rye grass is needed for a period of about three months. If the rye turf becomes too heavy, the growth of permanent grasses will be retarded at the beginning of spring.

TURKEY

If you, Mrs. Young Homemaker, need help in buying and roasting your Thanksgiving turkey, be sure to clip this information and refer to it. What size should I buy, is a question so often asked. That depends on whether you are planning for "leftover" turkey meals, or whether you have a freezer, or how thrifty you want to be. The heavier the bird, the less expensive each serving will be. The percentage of meat to bone increases with size. For estimating the number a turkey will serve use the following table: Ready to cook turkey — 6 to 8 pounds will serve 6 to 10 persons; 8-12 pounds, 10-20 people, and 12-16 pounds will serve 32-40 people.

How should the turkey be thawed is the next question often asked. Reputable brands usually include thawing directions on the label and you would do well to follow them. If you do not have the directions, then use this guide for thawing. Ready to cook weight 4-12 pounds takes from one to two days to thaw; 12-20 pounds two to three days. To speed thawing, remove wrapped giblets from the cavity as soon as the bird is pliable enough for you to do so. Never thaw a turkey at room temperature or in warm water. If you must hasten thawing, place the turkey in its original wrapping under cold running water.

ROASTING TURKEY

The bird should be completely thawed and pliable before roasting. An unthawed or partially thawed bird will not cook evenly. Birds should be placed in open shallow pan, without water, back side down. Placing the bird on a rack rather than the pan surface will help keep the skin intact. Cooking the bird in heavy aluminum foil or in a closed pan results in a steamed rather than roasted effect. There is generally no increased tenderness with the steaming method. Following is a guide for roasting:

4-12 pounds — 325 degrees F for 2-3½ hours. 16-20 pounds — 300 degrees F for 4¼ to 6 hours. 20-24 pounds — 300 degrees F for 6 to 7 hours.

Kitchens Key Points In Design

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Interior designers seem to be in a conspiracy to make women enjoy their kitchens. Many kitchens are designed so it is difficult to tell where the work begins and the fun stops. One designed by Joseph Freitag for Frigidaire for the Decoration and Design Show in New York is a three-in-one Oriental style unit that is large enough to permit inviting friends into the kitchen to cook with plenty of space left over for dancing.

And if the friends want to help with the washing, there is a peek-a-boo laundry around a bend that also exudes plenty of eastern charm.

It's really two kitchens — one to get ready, and one to go. There is a serving kitchen where foods may be prepared, simmered and casseroled, and a main kitchen for immediate cooking with a center aisle barbecue table, and the home laundry.

"The point of the center cooking idea for a crowd is that many people can cook at the barbecue table and not get in each other's way," explains Freitag. Even your mother-in-law can enjoy it, and if everything is prepared in the serving kitchen where there is a built-in blender and other precooking conveniences, there won't be a mess.

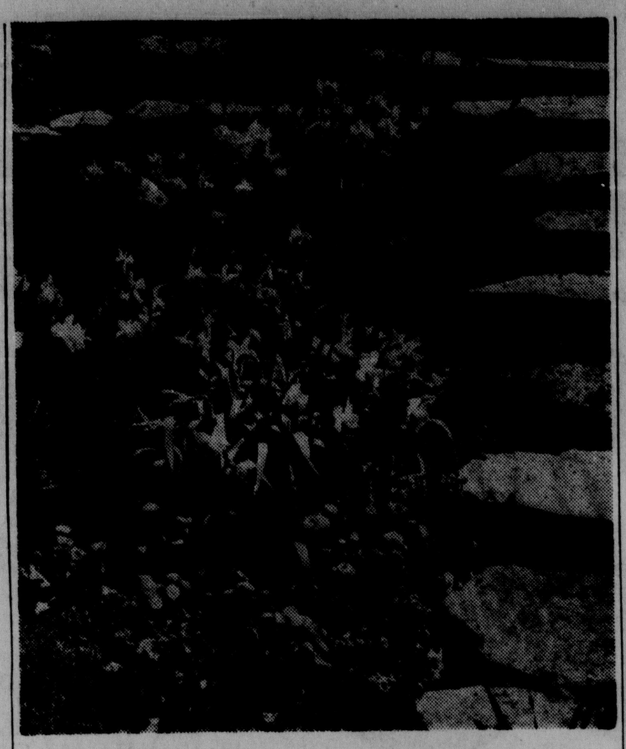
A refrigerator and feezer in the main kitchen serves as a room divider between it and the laundry where there is a coppertoned washer, dryer, sink for pretreatment of washables, wicker slide-out baskets and scenic patterned cabinet doors that close in a folded look.

Freitag loves the tranquility an Oriental look can give a kitchen. He has improvised to achieve it. On the turquoise cabinets there is a carved molding resembling bamboo, accomplished by using a stock 60-cents-a-foot molding. There are Chinese-style floor cabinets with large white brasses. Dark brown tile was selected to resemble the look of North Chinese clay floors that turn brown with age and waxing. Window shades from floor to ceiling of a homespun texture were treated to vertical stripes of a brown stickon tape. There is a bamboo rod at the bottom. Bamboo poles are used as columns and ceiling beams in the main kitchen.

Cabinets in the serving kitchen are copper, turquoise, black and natural wood. There are burners, oven and work surfaces for the preparation of simmer foods. The wail oven is set in a book case. The cork center aisle table has a chopping block at one end near the refrigerator, electric burners and space for hibachis.

"You can use a two or 10-person hibachi here, building as many fires as you like. And when you are not using this area, you have a table top," Freitag explains.

He figures this kitchen can be built in a space as small as 12 by 18 feet for the kitchen and 6 to 12 feet for the laundry.



GARDENERS planning for next year, might want to arrange daffodils on either side of a walkway to provide blooms in early spring. Good companions for daffodils are pansies in purple or white, or English daisies with pink or white blossoms.

LAUNDRY AREA in this Oriental-decor kitchen is separated from the rest of the kitchen by a tall refrigerator and freezer. Cabinets above the washer, dryer and sink have patterned doors and, when closed, have the look of a long, floded screen.

Inadequate electrical wiring continues to plague the large majority of home owners throughout the country. The latest estimate is that about 85 per cent of all private houses have wiring systems insufficient to carry the daily burdens placed upon them.

Wiring that does not meet the needs of modern living, with its almost endless list of electrical appliances, produces a number of results.

It causes lights to go dim momentarily when a major appliance is turned on, it shrinks television pictures, it prevents electrical equipment from operating at peak efficiency and it causes frequent blown fuses and tripped circuit breakers.

The blowing of fuses is the most serious result, because all too often fuse replacements are made carelessly.

PROTECTION LOST

Instead of using a fuse of the proper amperage, a larger-sized fuse is installed. Since a fuse is made to fail when an overload is placed upon the circuit, the protection is lost if the proper fuse is not used. That's one of the causes of burned wires and resultant tragic and costly fires.

Even if the safety factor were not involved, inadequate wiring costs you money. Voltage drops mean that heating appliances take longer to get hot, which in turn means that you use and pay for more electricity. A motor that burns out long before its normal life might have lasted indefinitely but for the extra work it had to perform to keep the refrigerator or other heavy appliance operating day in and day out even when the voltage was too low.

SOME INADEQUATE

In some cases, of course, old wiring systems won't even handle certain types of appliances, let alone handle them poorly. Many home owners now have adequate wiring simply because it became a necessity when they installed air conditioning units. But generally, most persons attempt to struggle along with the old facilities, some of which were built into their homes 20 or 30 years ago.

If and when you get around to updating your home's wiring system, be sure you see that enough outlets are installed. This will eliminate the unsightly and unsafe jumble of plugs often seen in a single outlet. And don't neglect weatherproof outlets for outdoor use to take the place of many extension cords now strung from inside the house to outside locations. Extension cords are meant for temporary use, not as permanent installations.

Here's The Answer

QUESTION: I have read that paint should never be applied over calcimine unless the calcimine is first removed. What about the other way around? I'd like to apply calcimine over a painted surface. Do I have to remove the paint first and can I use ordinary paint remover?

ANSWER: There is no necessity to take off the paint in order to apply calcimine. However, it is imperative that all dirt, dust and grease be removed from the paint, which is what should be done no matter what kind of new finish is contemplated.

ANSWER: Some persons use a piece of aluminum foil or some other covering, attaching it to the wall before hanging the picture. The disadvantage of this is that it leaves a "clean" area on the wall when the picture is taken down, much like a piece of adhesive tape does when you remove it from a finger. Actually, the only way to keep the wall in back of a picture frame from getting dirty is to dust it every time you do any housecleaning.

One trick that may help is to cement little pieces of rubber to the bottom corners of the back of a picture frame. This keeps that part of the wall from developing a dirt outline of the frame and, at the same time, prevents the picture from shifting.

Special Care Is Needed For Arrangements

Keep flower arrangements away from drafts, direct sunshine, hot radiators and air conditioning units. To prolong their beauty, flowers should be permitted to rest in a cool dark place at night.

Plant leaves give off moisture, helping to keep the air moist. They help purify the air by absorbing carbon dioxide and giving out oxygen in its place.

New Fireplace Easy To Install

NEW YORK (AP) — New steel fireplaces can be installed with the ease and flexibility of light fixtures. They can be hung on a wall, suspended from the ceiling, or stand free, reports "Steel Facts," published by American Iron and Steel Institute. Available in a variety of colors and finishes, some fireplaces can also be painted to match a particular room color scheme.

Existing chimneys can be used for vents, or a new packaged steel chimney can be installed by the homeowner.

Geranium Plants Are Preserved

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

It seems such a waste to let the geranium plants freeze to death in the late fall and then have to buy new ones each spring to give your garden the gay touch these flowers provide.

You may prevent complete waste. You may try to keep the old plants alive indoors through the winter. Or you may take cuttings and root them to get a head start on spring, if you have the space and adequate growing conditions.

If you hope to keep the mother plant alive on your window sill, you'll need a sunny spot, and you shoud pinch the plants back about one-third to keep them from becoming too leggy. New top growth also should be pinched. Water just enough to keep the soil moist. Geraniums don't like to be very wet.

METHODS

Some gardeners have good luck hanging the geranium plant roots upward in the cellar through the winter, then trimming the tops and roots, repotting and finally replanting.

If your cellar is very dry, put the plants in air-vented plastic bags in which you pack some moist peat or sphagnum moss.

Our choice is to cut the tips, four or five inches long, from the garden plants in the early fall, remove the two lowest leaves, root them in water or sand, then pot them and nurse them until spring.

Potting medium recipes vary. Some prefer one-third sterilized sand, one - third peat moss and one - third loam. A Memphis, Tenn., woman who raises more than 60 varieties of geraniums, uses one-half garden soil and humus mixed, one-fourth sand and one-fourth peat moss. She advises keeping plants in small pots so that the roots are crowded, and feeding every two weeks and watering sparingly.

A serious problem in raising geraniums indoors in winter is legginess, induced largely by lack of light and too much heat. Pinch the tops of new growth to encourage bushing out.

Blue Spruce Is Native To Rockies

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

A visitor to New England and upstate New York was captivated by the beautiful blue spruce and inquired if this evergreen specimen would grow in his home state of Alabama and the deep South.

The blue spruce is native to the Rocky Mountains and flourishes generally in the North with little care. With tender, constant attention, it might grow to be a lawn ornament in the northerly sections of Alabama, but we wouldn't be overly optimistic about raising them in large numbers.

BLUE SPRUCE

Blue spruce, as with most spruce, is slow to start and it does best in moist clay or loam. It matures in 12 to 18 years, requires little or no pruning and often grows to a height of 140 feet. The needles are long, sharp and at right angles to the stem. It makes one of the finest Christmas trees.

If planted in the South, the blue spruce, would need considerable watering. A peat moss mulch would help retain the moisture. This spruce doesn't like the ocean atmosphere.

One of the most popular of the blue spruces for lawn planting is Koster's. Its foliage is more blue and it has pendulous branches.

The blue spruce has the common spruce enemy, a gall aphid, a sucker insect so small that it is not readily seen. The insect's feeding on developing plant tissue causes formation of cone-like growths, or galls, which stunt and kill the twigs.

Work Over Plant Beds

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

There are many jobs that need attention in our gardens this month. You can clean flower beds, clear away dead annuals and cut back prennials that have ceased blooming and remake beds for later planting. Beds which are not to be replanted right away profit from being worked up and left in the rough. Dead leaves or other vegetative matter worked into the beds help to loosen and lighten the soil for spring planting.

Plant annuals that survive Louisiana winters as pansy, calendula and sweet pea.

November is not too late for planting spring flowering bulbs, especially hyacinths and tulips. Four inches is adequate depth to plant tulip bulbs. If tulip bulbs are planted too shallow in light sandy soils the frequent changes in the Louisiana weather will affect the bulbs.

BULB STORAGE

After frost has killed the tops of your dahlias, lift and store the bulbs in a dry, cool place. Allow tubers to air dry for a half day to dry out soil on the tubers, then store in peat moss or sand. If stored in the open some varieties will shrivel badly, especially if the atmosphere is extremely dry.

If you, Mrs. Gardener, want a green lawn during the winter months, be sure to sow rye grass now. Don't over-seed. Use about four pounds of winter rye per 1,000 square feet of lawn surface. Over-seeding results in a heavy, matted turf. We have only a short span of cold weather when our permanent grasses will not be green, so rye grass is needed for a period of about three months. If the rye turf becomes too heavy, the growth of permanent grasses will be retarded at the beginning of spring.

TURKEY

If you, Mrs. Young Homemaker, need help in buying and roasting your Thanksgiving turkey, be sure to clip this information and refer to it. What size should I buy, is a question so often asked. That depends on whether you are planning for "leftover" turkey meals, or whether you have a freezer, or how thrifty you want to be. The heavier the bird, the less expensive each serving will be. The percentage of meat to bone increases with size. For estimating the number a turkey will serve use the following table: Ready to cook turkey — 6 to 8 pounds will serve 6 to 10 persons; 8-12 pounds, 10-20 people, and 12-16 pounds will serve 32-40 people.

How should the turkey be thawed is the next question often asked. Reputable brands usually include thawing directions on the label and you would do well to follow them. If you do not have the directions, then use this guide for thawing. Ready to cook weight 4-12 pounds takes from one to two days to thaw; 12-20 pounds two to three days. To speed thawing, remove wrapped giblets from the cavity as soon as the bird is pliable enough for you to do so. Never thaw a turkey at room temperature or in warm water. If you must hasten thawing, place the turkey in its original wrapping under cold running water.

ROASTING TURKEY

The bird should be completely thawed and pliable before roasting. An unthawed or partially thawed bird will not cook evenly. Birds should be placed in open shallow pan, without water, back side down. Placing the bird on a rack rather than the pan surface will help keep the skin intact. Cooking the bird in heavy aluminum foil or in a closed pan results in a steamed rather than roasted effect. There is generally no increased tenderness with the steaming method. Following is a guide for roasting:

4-12 pounds — 325 degrees F for 2-3½ hours. 16-20 pounds — 300 degrees F for 4¼ to 6 hours. 20-24 pounds — 300 degrees F for 6 to 7 hours.

A THOUGHT

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Continuing last week's list of durable daffodils for garden effect, we would like to add the following varieties: Quirinus, Carbineer, Dick Wellband, Lady Kestiven, Scarlet Elegans, Scarlet Leader, Thalia, Silver Chimes.

Heavy spring rains, late freezes, hail, sleet and even snow assail daffodils during their season to such an extent that we sometimes just have to go out and cut the flowers that have been smashed to the ground and bring them in and enjoy them as cut flowers.

When the temperature sometimes dips down low at night in February and March, the last little bit of daffodil stems that have just been stimulated into sudden growth, will freeze. More often than not, the temperature will rise way above freezing the next morning, and the flowers simply fall over on their faces.

LONG OBSERVANCE

Some daffodils stand up to all these vicissitudes better than others, and we have observed the above varieties for 10 or 15 years, now. If any varieties will stand up in our weather, these will.

Quirinus is certainly a long lasting, tough flower. When the beautiful Selma Lagerlof next to it falls over in the heavy rains, Quirinus, Carbineer, and Scarlet Elegans seem to stand right up to the pelting. Perhaps, if we were to put the flowers of these varieties under a microscope, we would find that their petals were thicker and tougher than those of other kinds.

The red and yellow combination of Quirinus, Carbineer and Scarlet Elegans has its counterpart in the three red and white varieties: Lady Kesteven, Dick Wellband and Scarlet Leader. These also stand up to the weather.

OTHERS ADAPTED

There are, of course, many other good out-door daffodils — some of them more expensive and some quite expensive. The "New Weather Proof Incomparables" that came out some years ago have somewhat larger flowers that stand up better than one would think such big flowers could. Some of these are: Diamond Jubilee, Duke of Windsor, Emerald, Lemon Cup, Leviathan, Majarda, Mary Blonk, Mekkada, Milk and Cream, Orange Monarch and Rene de Chalons. All of these won medals between 1927 and about 1940.

CATS AND KITTENS, sample above, have been Walter Chandoha's photographic specialty for the past dozen years. From his collection of 50,000 pictures, a selection of 240 of his favorite photos have been gathered for "Walter Chandoha's Book of Kittens and Cats,' a treat for feline fanciers.

CAMERA Angles

Cat lovers have a treat in store . . . a book of their favorite subject with hundreds of superb photos by the country's best-known cat photographer. It's "Walter Chandoha's Book of Kittens and Cats" (Citadel Press, N.Y., $8.50), a selection of his favorite pictures from 50,000 taken in the last 12 years.

Not everybody appreciates cats or understands the devotion of feline fanciers. Like the fellow in the train alongside Chandoha as they discussed odd occupations.

"I heard of a chap who makes a living raising earthworms in his cellar," ventured Chandoha. "He sells the worms to fishermen and organic gardeners."

NOT PECULIAR

"That is not peculiar," his neighbor shot back. "Take this fellow in Annavdale, N.J., who does nothing but take pictures of cats and dogs all day long. Dogs I can understand-but who in his right mind would want a picture of a cat!"

Chandoha has discovered it's a full-time job all right to supply the right kind of cat photographs to magazines, advertising agencies, book and calendar publishers and to aleurophiles — cat lovers all. But if you want to provide a bit of competition or wish to take your own cat pictures, Chandoha adds some helpful hints for other photographers.

You need four things: 1; a reflex camera; 2) flash — either bulbs or strobe; 3) an assistant; 4) lots of potience.

SUBSTITUTES

You can use substitutes for the first three items but you can't replace infinite patience. If you have a camera other than a reflex, you can still get good pictures. Instead of flash, you can shoot with available light or use reflector floods. If there is no one around to assist, you can work by yourself. But patience is the key, the secret ingredient, for good animal photographs.

A twin-lens reflex camera is recommended because you can follow the antics of a pet on the ground glass and know what you are shooting. You can focus it quickly, shoot, turn to the next picture and shoot again to make a series, when the action is right.

A fast shutter speed of 1-250 or 1-500th of a second is advisable to stop a moving head or an upraised paw. To get the entire zone of action sharp, the lens should be set at f-16 or f-22. This makes it imperative that flash be used to get enough light for the combination of fast shutter speed and small lens opening. However, since you'll be working at very close distances — around three feet — the smallest flashbulbs may be used or one of the new small speedlights.

QUIET CORNER

Use any quiet corner of your home for your shooting, making sure that the background is simple and nondistracting visually. If the subject can be confined to a small area, such as on a table or bench, it will be easier to keep in focus.

To evoke expressions, the photographer can use a battery of sounds or noises. Bark, whistle, sing or groan, crinkle cellophane, snap your fingers or beat a tattoo — anything to arouse the curiosity inherent in all cats. As soon as a certain sound gets a reaction from the subject, even if he looks suspiciously out of the corner of his eye — shoot! And keep on shooting. In pet photography, the slightest difference in expression or body action may make the picture you're after.

"But, good expression or bad," Chandoha sums up, "none of your subjects will ever complain that the pictures aren't flattering. You'll hit 100 per cent satisfaction — something you'll never get with pictures of people!"

The Republic of China, located on the Island of Formosa, has paid philatelic tribute to the 10th Anniversary of its "Land to the Tillers" program, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency.

This program, started in 1953, is an extension of the land reform program which began in 1949. In that year the government reduced the rent to farm lands 37.5 per cent.

The lower value stamp features a portrait of Chiang Kai-shek with Vice President Chen Cheng. The higher value shows a portrait of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, father of the Republic of China, plus a copy of his famous book, 'Three Principles of the People." Farm workers in a field appear in the background.

The Republic of Somalia commemorates the third anniversary of its independence with a set of three new stamps featuring a portrait of President Aden Abdulla Osman. The lowest value is for regular mail and the two higher values are air mails. Also issued by Somalia were three new stamps honoring the Seventh Somalia Fair.

The American Philatelic Society held its convention recently in Mexico City and many members from the United States traveled south of the border to participate in the proceedings. To honor this organization and the convention, Mexico issued two new stamps. A 5 peso air mail shows a postage stamp with the convention's initials "EMMEX 1963" in the center surrounded by the initials of the participating societies. A 1-peso illustrated the "stamp on stamp" issue of 1956 superimposed on a larger stamp containing the names of the three participating organizations.

Iran has issued two new stamps, 6 rials and 14 rials, to honor the state visit of Queen Juliana of Holland to Iran. Depicted on the stamps are portraits of Queen Juliana and the Shah of Iran.

Also issued by that country to honor a state visit are two stamps commemorating Gen. De Gaulle's trip. These stamps show a portrait of Gen. DeGaulle with the ruins of Persepolis Palace in the background.

CURTAIN CALL

"The Glass Menagerie" is scheduled to run two weekends: Friday, Saturday and Sunday, November 29, November 30 and December 1, and again Friday, Saturday and Sunday, December 6, 7 and 8. The box office at Strauss Playhouse will be open Wednesday through Sunday both weeks between the hours of 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. to take reservations in person or by phone at FAirfax 3-1235.

A mailing will go to members this coming week with an announcement of these dates and with a form for making advance reservations by mail. Please reserve by mail if you possibly can.

If you have to contact the box office, bear in mind that it will be closed Monday and Tuesday, December 2 and 3. It will, however, be manned Thanksgiving Day since the play opens the following night.

EARLY SHOWING

This is the earliest the second show of the season has even been presented, so we hope that no member will be deprived of the opportunity to see it by the distractions of the onrushing holidays. Few contemporary plays have gained the widespread reputation of "The Glass Menagerie," and we know our audiences will recognize the genius that has made Tennessee Williams so famous among modern playwrights.

Technical director Lonny Fraze has fashioned a superlative set to carry out the mood of "The Glass Menagerie." Why has the cover over the stage apron been removed? To draw the audience closer to the characters and the action on stage.

We can still accept about 150 members before reaching our limit and would like to give preference to those of previous seasons who have failed to renew as yet. In revising the address plates, we were astonished to see that some of the names put aside were those of people who have belonged to Little Theatre and even performed in its shows over a long period of years. We feel that many of these have simply overlooked renewal of their memberships and hope they will resume their rightful place in our ranks.

REHEARSAL GUESTS

The Russ Kettenrings and Ted Landhys were invited by Stocker Fontelieu to see a rehearsal of "Sunday In New York" at Le Petit Theatre during a recent visit to New Orleans. This was a successful comedy on Broadway two seasons ago and will soon emerge as a film.

Frances McHenry saw eight plays in the course of a week in New York recently. She reports that "Barefoot In The Park" is the hottest ticket in town. By Neil Simon who wrote "Come Blow Your Horn," this is even funnier and a definite candidate for us when released.

"Here's Love," and "She Loves Me," were two musicals she enjoyed, although she shares the general apathy toward "Jennie," except for Mary Martin. Mrs. McHenry also saw "Luther," "A Case Of Libel," "The Irregular Verb To Love," and the twin bill "The Private "Ear," and "The Public Eye," by the author of "Five Finger Exercise."

PERIOD COSTUMES

We are indebted to the family of the late Mrs. Minnie Loewenberg for an enormous trunkful of period costumes which we shall preserve against the day when they will prove indispensable. The trunk itself will make a valuable prop.

Construction on the additions mentioned last week is progressing rapidly. The concrete slabs were to have been poured by this weekend, so the walls will be rising soon. Several business firms have again been very helpful to use in keeping our costs within budget.

Northeast State College demonstrated the timeestimed virtues of "The Importance of Being Earnest," in the production offered by its drama department last week. Shirley Allen and Mike Parkerson, often seen in Little Theatre plays, took two of the leading roles, and George Brain, a favorite with our audiences, directed it. Some day we hope to see the musical version, "Earnest In Love," presented here.

The El Dorado Little Theatre dedicated its production of "South Pacific" last week in honor of our 150th play. This comparatively new community theatre is making great strides.

Robert Lowell Writes Triology

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Lowell, winner of the Pulitzer Prize for poetry in 1947, has written a triology of brief plays about incidents in American history under the title "The Old Glory."

The program is scheduled for off-Broadway prsentation early in 1964, directed by Jonanthan Miller. Until recently a member of the "Beyond the Fringe" company, Miller is concentrating now on several directing assignments and writing.

TO TRY AGAIN

NEW YORK (AP) — Producer Saint Subber is planning a revival of "House of Flowers," a musical that achieved 165 performances in initial 1959 presentation.

That run, Subber feels, was a limited success, and he hopes for "vindication" in the new staging. It is to be done off-Broadway. Script versions are to be by Truman Capote who authored the the original, and composer Harold Arlen is at work on three or four more songs.

SUBSTITUTES

You can use substitutes for the first three items but you can't replace infinite patience. If you have a camera other than a reflex, you can still get good pictures. Instead of flash, you can shoot with available light or use reflector floods. If there is no one around to assist, you can work by yourself. But patience is the key, the secret ingredient, for good animal photographs.

A twin-lens reflex camera is recommended because you can follow the antics of a pet on the ground glass and know what you are shooting. You can focus it quickly, shoot, turn to the next picture and shoot again to make a series, when the action is right.

A fast shutter speed of 1-250 or 1-500th of a second is advisable to stop a moving head or an upraised paw. To get the entire zone of action sharp, the lens should be set at f-16 or f-22. This makes it imperative that flash be used to get enough light for the combination of fast shutter speed and small lens opening. However, since you'll be working at very close distances -- around three feet — the smallest flashbulbs may be used or one of the new small speedlights.

QUIET CORNER

Use any quiet corner of your home for your shooting, making sure that the background is simple and nondistracting visually. If the subject can be confined to a small area, such as on a table or bench, it will be easier to keep in focus.

To evoke expressions, the photographer can use a battery of sounds or noises. Bark, whistle, sing or groan, crinkle cellophane, snap your fingers or beat a tattoo — anything to arouse the curiosity inherent in all cats. As soon as a certain sound gets a reaction from the subject, even if he looks suspiciously out of the corner of his eye — shoot! And keep on shooting. In pet photography, the slightest difference in expression or body action may make the picture you're after.

"But, good expression or bad," Chandoha sums up, "none of your subjects will ever complain that the pictures aren't flattering. You'll hit 100 per cent satisfaction — something you'll never get with pictures of people!"

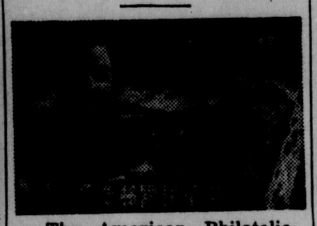
Stamp News

The Republic of China, located on the Island of Formosa, has paid philatelic tribute to the 10th Anniversary of its "Land to the Tillers" program, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency.

This program, started in 1953, is an extension of the land reform program which began in 1949. In that year the government reduced the rent to farm lands 37.5 per cent.

The lower value stamp features a portrait of Chiang Kai-shek with Vice President Chen Cheng. The higher value shows a portrait of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, father of the Republic of China, plus a copy of his famous book, 'Three Principles of the People." Farm workers in a field appear in the background.

The Republic of Somalia commemorates the third anniversary of its independence with a set of three new stamps featuring a portrait of President Aden Abdulla Osman. The lowest value is for regular mail and the two higher values are air mails. Also issued by Somalia were three new stamps honoring the Seventh Somalia Fair.



The American Philatelic Society held its convention recently in Mexico City and many members from the United States traveled south of the border to participate in the proceedings. To honor this organization and the convention, Mexico issued two new stamps. A 5 peso air mail shows a postage stamp with the convention's initials "EMMEX 1963" in the center surrounded by the initials of the participating societies. A 1-peso illustrated the "stamp on stamp" issue of 1956 superimposed on a larger stamp containing the names of the three participating organizations.

Iran has issued two new stamps, 6 rials and 14 rials, to honor the state visit of Queen Juliana of Holland to Iran. Depicted on the stamps are portraits of Queen Juliana and the Shah of Iran.

Also issued by that country to honor a state visit are two stamps commemorating Gen. De Gaulle's trip. These stamps show a portrait of Gen. DeGaulle with the ruins of Persepolis Palace in the background.

CURTAIN CALL

"The Glass Menagerie" is scheduled to run two weekends: Friday, Saturday and Sunday, November 29, November 30 and December 1, and again Friday, Saturday and Sunday, December 6, 7 and 8. The box office at Strauss Playhouse will be open Wednesday through Sunday both weeks between the hours of 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. to take reservations in person or by phone at FAirfax 3-1235.

A mailing will go to members this coming week with an announcement of these dates and with a form for making advance reservations by mail. Please reserve by mail if you possibly can.

If you have to contact the box office, bear in mind that it will be closed Monday and Tuesday, December 2 and 3. It will, however, be manned Thanksgiving Day since the play opens the following night.

EARLY SHOWING

This is the earliest the second show of the season has even been presented, so we hope that no member will be deprived of the opportunity to see it by the distractions of the onrushing holidays. Few contemporary plays have gained the widespread reputation of "The Glass Menagerie," and we know our audiences will recognize the genius that has made Tennessee Williams so famous among modern playwrights.

Technical director Lonny Fraze has fashioned a superlative set to carry out the mood of "The Glass Menagerie." Why has the cover over the stage apron been removed? To draw the audience closer to the characters and the action on stage.

We can still accept about 150 members before reaching our limit and would like to give preference to those of previous seasons who have failed to renew as yet. In revising the address plates, we were astonished to see that some of the names put aside were those of people who have belonged to Little Theatre and even performed in its shows over a long period of years. We feel that many of these have simply overlooked renewal of their memberships and hope they will resume their rightful place in our ranks.

REHEARSAL GUESTS

The Russ Kettenrings and Ted Landhys were invited by Stocker Fontelieu to see a rehearsal of "Sunday In New York" at Le Petit Theatre during a recent visit to New Orleans. This was a successful comedy on Broadway two seasons ago and will soon emerge as a film.

Frances McHenry saw eight plays in the course of a week in New York recently. She reports that "Barefoot In The Park" is the hottest ticket in town. By Neil Simon who wrote "Come Blow Your Horn," this is even funnier and a definite candidate for us when released.

"Here's Love," and "She Loves Me," were two musicals she enjoyed, although she shares the general apathy toward "Jennie," except for Mary Martin. Mrs. McHenry also saw "Luther," "A Case Of Libel," "The Irregular Verb To Love," and the twin bill "The Private "Ear," and "The Public Eye," by the author of "Five Finger Exercise."

PERIOD COSTUMES

We are indebted to the family of the late Mrs. Minnie Loewenberg for an enormous trunkful of period costumes which we shall preserve against the day when they will prove indispensable. The trunk itself will make a valuable prop.

Construction on the additions mentioned last week is progressing rapidly. The concrete slabs were to have been poured by this weekend, so the walls will be rising soon. Several business firms have again been very helpful to use in keeping our costs within budget.

Northeast State College demonstrated the timeestimed virtues of "The Importance of Being Earnest," in the production offered by its drama department last week. Shirley Allen and Mike Parkerson, often seen in Little Theatre plays, took two of the leading roles, and George Brain, a favorite with our audiences, directed it. Some day we hope to see the musical version, "Earnest In Love," presented here.

The El Dorado Little Theatre dedicated its production of "South Pacific" last week in honor of our 150th play. This comparatively new community theatre is making great strides.

Robert Lowell Writes Triology

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Lowell, winner of the Pulitzer Prize for poetry in 1947, has written a triology of brief plays about incidents in American history under the title "The Old Glory."

The program is scheduled for off-Broadway prsentation early in 1964, directed by Jonanthan Miller. Until recently a member of the "Beyond the Fringe" company, Miller is concentrating now on several directing assignments and writing.

TO TRY AGAIN

NEW YORK (AP) — Producer Saint Subber is planning a revival of "House of Flowers," a musical that achieved 165 performances in initial 1959 presentation.

That run, Subber feels, was a limited success, and he hopes for "vindication" in the new staging. It is to be done off-Broadway. Script versions are to be by Truman Capote who authored the the original, and composer Harold Arlen is at work on three or four more songs.

Girl, 12, Accidentally Shot

A 12-year-old West Monroe girl was shot in a gun accident and three others injured in traffic accidents in the Twin Cities and area Saturday.

Sheryl Brister, of Rt. 2, Box 209, New Arant Road, West Monroe, was treated at Glenwod hospital for gunshot wounds of the right wrist and upper right thigh Saturday afternoon. Her condition was reported good.

The youngster was accidentally shot by her nine-year-old brother in the family home Saturday around 4 p.m. Investigating deputy sheriffs said the girl had gone into another room from the boy, and closed the door when the accident occurred. The lad, Curtis Brister, reportedly picked up a .410-gauge shotgun which he found in a corner, aimed it while playing and pulled the trigger. The bullet went through the door and struck the girl. The boy told officers he didn't know the shotgun was loaded. The two are children of Mr. and Mrs. Delmas Brister.

A two-year-old Negro boy, Randy Woodard, son of Margaret Woodard, of Rt. 2, Columbia, sustained head lacerations and body bruises and abrasions Saturday afternoon when struck by an automobile on Ridge Drive in West Monroe. Officials at Glenwood hospital said he might possibly have a fractured skull, and was being checked for such an injury late Saturday. The tot and his mother were visiting friends on Ridge Drive when the accident occurred.

Investigating state troopers said the youngsier reportedly ran across the road, then turned around and started back across when he was hit. Hazel I. Moore, 40, of 122 Debra Ln., West Monroe, was driving east on Ridge Drive and struck the youth. She told police she saw him cross the road the first time, and had no idea he would immediately turn around and dart back across in the path of her oncoming car, and she was unable to stop before hitting him. No charges were made by troopers in the accident.

Two persons were injured in a two-car collision at Breard and Louisville Avenue around 11:30 a.m. Saturday. Mrs. Thelma E. Strahan, 51, of 721 Bayou Shores Dr., Monroe, and nine-year-old Elizabeth Ann Strahan, same address, were given emergency treatment at St. Francis hospital following the accident. Neither was seriously hurt.

Investigating Monroe police said Mrs. Strahan was driving west on Louisville Avenue and crashed into an eastbound vehicle, attempting to make a left turn off Louisville onto Breard Street. The car was operated by Darrel R. Doke, 27, of Rt. 1, Jones, La., who told police he had the left turn signal arrow on the traffic light when the accident occurred. Police said Mrs. Strahans auto skidded approximately 63 feet before the impact, and both cars were extensively damaged. Police ticketed her for reckless driving.

In another traffic accident in Monroe in which no injuries were recorded, a West Monroe man crashed into two parked automobiles and was arrested on five separate counts by Monroe police.

Harold L. Matthews, 29, of 703½ Lazarre Ave., West Monroe, was booked on three counts of simple criminal damage to property, driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages and reckless driving at 4:30 a.m. Saturday. He was held under bonds totaling $935.

Police said that Matthews struck two cars, parked near the Penn Hotel at South Grand and Grammont Streets, as he drove north on South Grand. The two vehicles hit belonged to Gwen Scalia, an employee of the hotel, and Joseph Cauldon, Womsoct, Rhode Island, a guest of the hotel.

Mystery Blast Rips Up Street Near Dormitory

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI)—A mysterious explosion early Saturday tore a small hole in the middle of a street 100 yards from the dormitory of Vivian Malone, one of two Negroes who entered the University of Alabama last summer.

No one was injured by the blast which was heard in widely scattered sections of the city.

"It may have been a prank. We don't know," Police Chief W. N. Marable said.

He said he doubted the blast was connected with the admission of Miss Malone, of Mobile, Ala., to the university under a federal court order.

Gov. George Wallace last June sought to personally turn away Miss Malone and James Hood, who later dropped out of school, but backed down when National Guardsmen federalized by President Kennedy appeared on the campus.

Miss Malone was asleep in her dormitory a block away when the explosion occurred about 3:15 a.m. CST (4:15 a.m. EST).

Crosses Burned Near Rayville

RAYVILLE (Special) — Over 1,000 hooded and robed Ku Klux Klansmen assembled in an open field near here Saturday night amid the glow of burning crosses in what was described as a "demonstration of the strength of the Klan in this area."

According to officials of the Richaland Parish sheriff's department the group met around 7:30 p.m. about seven miles west of Rayville near U. S. Hwy. 80. Reports indicated that at least three crosses were burning simultaneously and most of the Klansmen carried lit torches.

A spokesman for the sheriff's department stated that the assembly was orderly and under the observation of the parish's law enforcement agencies.

A passing motorist reported that traffic was moving smoothly on the highway and that most person along the highway right-of-way appeared to be curious onlookers.

Harriman Warns Latins Of Fair Play

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman warned Saturday that fair treatment of private capital is an important aspect of Latin-American development.

Harriman's remarks came at the close of the second annual conference of the Inter-American Economic and Social Council and a day after Argentina's announcement that it had annulled multimillion-dollar oil contracts with eight American and four other foreign firms.

The veteran diplomat, Washington's delegate to the inter-American conference, told a news conference that the actions of any country against fair treatment of private capital results in "a reaction on other countries of the Alliance for Progress."

Harriman visited Argentina last week and warned President Arturo Illia and other officials of the consequences of the oil contract annulments.

He told newsmen the United States admits the right of countries to nationalize any industry which they believe is in the interest of their people.

"But we've also required that there should be adequate and prompt compensation which is in accordance with international practice," he added.

Harriman opens talks in Brasilia on Monday with President Joao Goulart, but he denied the meeting was arranged by Washington. He said the talks would follow the usual protocol and no agenda had been set up.

However, there was speculation that Harriman will discuss with Goulart the matter of compensation for nationalized American-owned utilities investments for which Brazil agreed to pay some $138 million.

Police said Mrs. Strahans auto skidded approximately 63 feet before the impact, and both cars were extensively damaged. Police ticketed her for reckless driving.

In another traffic accident in Monroe in which no injuries were recorded, a West Monroe man crashed into two parked automobiles and was arrested on five separate counts by Monroe police.

Harold L. Matthews, 29, of 703½ Lazarre Ave., West Monroe, was booked on three counts of simple criminal damage to property, driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages and reckless driving at 4:30 a.m. Saturday. He was held under bonds totaling $935.

Police said that Matthews struck two cars, parked near the Penn Hotel at South Grand and Grammont Streets, as he drove north on South Grand. The two vehicles hit belonged to Gwen Scalia, an employee of the hotel, and Joseph Cauldon, Womsoct, Rhode Island, a guest of the hotel.

Mystery Blast Rips Up Street Near Dormitory

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI)—A mysterious explosion early Saturday tore a small hole in the middle of a street 100 yards from the dormitory of Vivian Malone, one of two Negroes who entered the University of Alabama last summer.

No one was injured by the blast which was heard in widely scattered sections of the city.

"It may have been a prank. We don't know," Police Chief W. N. Marable said.

He said he doubted the blast was connected with the admission of Miss Malone, of Mobile, Ala., to the university under a federal court order.

Gov. George Wallace last June sought to personally turn away Miss Malone and James Hood, who later dropped out of school, but backed down when National Guardsmen federalized by President Kennedy appeared on the campus.

Miss Malone was asleep in her dormitory a block away when the explosion occurred about 3:15 a.m. CST (4:15 a.m. EST).

Crosses Burned Near Rayville

RAYVILLE (Special) — Over 1,000 hooded and robed Ku Klux Klansmen assembled in an open field near here Saturday night amid the glow of burning crosses in what was described as a "demonstration of the strength of the Klan in this area."

According to officials of the Richaland Parish sheriff's department the group met around 7:30 p.m. about seven miles west of Rayville near U. S. Hwy. 80. Reports indicated that at least three crosses were burning simultaneously and most of the Klansmen carried lit torches.

A spokesman for the sheriff's department stated that the assembly was orderly and under the observation of the parish's law enforcement agencies.

A passing motorist reported that traffic was moving smoothly on the highway and that most person along the highway right-of-way appeared to be curious onlookers.

Harriman Warns Latins Of Fair Play

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman warned Saturday that fair treatment of private capital is an important aspect of Latin-American development.

Harriman's remarks came at the close of the second annual conference of the Inter-American Economic and Social Council and a day after Argentina's announcement that it had annulled multimillion-dollar oil contracts with eight American and four other foreign firms.

The veteran diplomat, Washington's delegate to the inter-American conference, told a news conference that the actions of any country against fair treatment of private capital results in "a reaction on other countries of the Alliance for Progress."

Harriman visited Argentina last week and warned President Arturo Illia and other officials of the consequences of the oil contract annulments.

He told newsmen the United States admits the right of countries to nationalize any industry which they believe is in the interest of their people.

"But we've also required that there should be adequate and prompt compensation which is in accordance with international practice," he added.

Harriman opens talks in Brasilia on Monday with President Joao Goulart, but he denied the meeting was arranged by Washington. He said the talks would follow the usual protocol and no agenda had been set up.

However, there was speculation that Harriman will discuss with Goulart the matter of compensation for nationalized American-owned utilities investments for which Brazil agreed to pay some $138 million.

THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK

A Modest Dreamhouse For A Family Of 'Any Size'

HIDDEN EXPANSION: This lovely three-bedroom home has a spacious rear dormer which allows for expansion of an additional two bedrooms and bath when the need arises. Its basic area is a modest 1,299 square feet.

From coast to coast young couples spend Sunday afternoons in search of a medium priced six - room house with three bedrooms, an attractive exterior and an up-to-date room arrangement.

Two main obstacles stand in their way:

1. The homes in many developments simply don't offer the individuality, much less the livability, that middle - income families feel their hard earned money should bring.

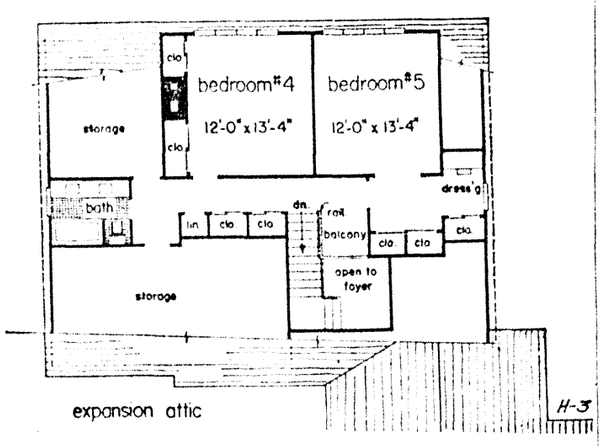
2. If they are lucky enough to find this dreamhouse, and move in, there's a strong possibility that a family population explosion would soon force them to flee to a larger but less desirable house, with a financial loss that in many cases would be crippling.

Most couples in this category simply can't afford the gamble — and there's no need to if they choose today's House of the Week; it was selected specifically to solve this twofold problem.

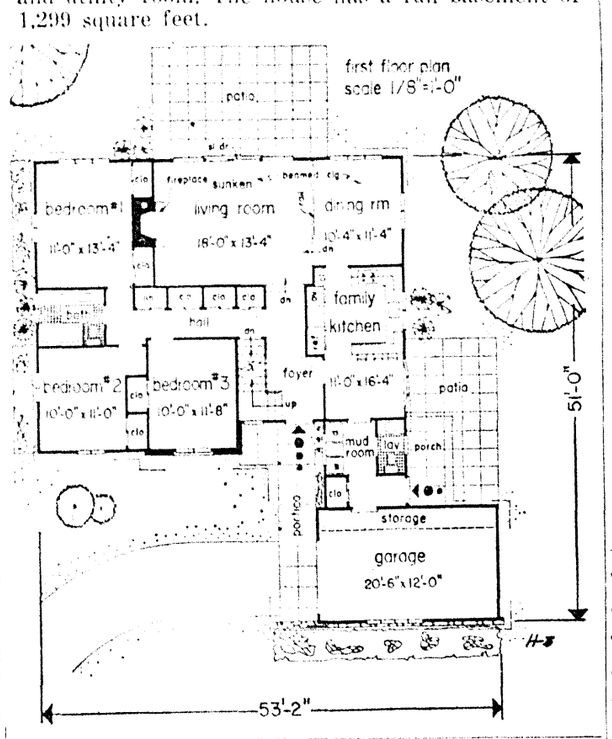
The house is a quietly elegant three - bedroom model of traditional design which encompasses a basic area of only 1,299 square feet. It's the product of architect Samuel Paul and is design H-3 in the weekly series.

It's greatest attraction is an expansion attic, made possible by a spacious rear dormer, which will add two more enormous bedrooms, a full bath, and an abundance of closet and storage space. Best of all, the space can be developed piecemeal as the need arises and much of the work can be done by a handy husband because the basis space is already built and paid for.

Meanwhile the still-young family can ejoy the imaginative and sensible downstairs layout with its sunken living room, balconied dining room, efficient kitchen with plenty of counterton space, breakfast room with a glamorous bow window, nicely located lavatory, mud room, main-level laundry, attached garage, and such other touches as a cathedral ceiling in the foyer and beamed ceilings in the living and dining rooms.



FLOOR PLANS: The attic expansion would add an additional 675 square feet to the basic area of 1,299 square feet which doesn't include the portico, garage and utility room. The house has a full basement of 1,299 square feet.



ADDITIONAL DETAILS

The upstairs expansion will add 675 square feet of living area when it is completed. This is not "emergency" space, but offers full eight - foot - high flat ceilings, a bath with double vanity, a dressing alcove in one of the rooms, and a dramatic balcony overlooking the downstairs foyer.

The lower three bedrooms also are equipped with ample closets and all are within a few steps of the main bath.

Closet space in this house actually deserves special mention. When fully developed there are no less than 18 closets with 125 feet of shelves and 52 feet of hanging space.

The sunken living room has a 9'3" ceiling height, a grand fireplace, and connects through sliding glass doors to the rear patio. An attractive balcony rail separates it from the corner dining room, and both rooms combined provide an expanse of more than 28 feet overlooking the rear terrace.

The family kitchen is nicely located with an excellent view of the side play terrace and only a few steps from both the main entry and service entry. Washer and dryer, and a handy mud room closet, also are nearby, and a sheltered service porch adjoins the side entry behind the garage.

The exterior features a charming covered portico with graceful arches. A low stone wall across the garage shields the garage door from the street view. With its diamond - paned windows and cupola stop the garage wing, the house offers a facade which will be popular for years to come.

Though it appears considerably larger the home actually has modest over-all dimensions — only 53'2" wide by 51' deep. Architect Paul suggests a 70' by 100' plot to take full advantage of its L-sharped design.

H-3 STATISTICS

A 1½-story home of three bedrooms and 1½ baths with upstairs expansion for two additional bedrooms and full bath. Basic area is 1,299 square feet; expansion attic is 675 square feet (full height ceilings); garage and utility room add 366 square feet; front portico 123 square feet; full cellar of 1,299 square feet. Over-all dimensions 53'2" wide by 51' deep. Recommended plot: 70' by 100'.

Running the Scales

By JOHN CALE

With the opening performances of the concerts and theatre season for 1963 and '64 now matters of cultural history in northeast Louisiana, we may list a few events of the future or take a more general look at the fine arts.

Let's have a little of both. The Little Theatre of Monroe is now in the midst of rehearsals for Tennessee Williams' "Glass Managerie" which will open for a broken six-day run on November 29. In other words, the play will run Friday, Saturday and Sunday right after Thanksgiving, then resume for three more performances on Friday, December 6.

Director Richard Clark pointed out attendance was better every night because of the two weekend shifts for the "Auntie Mame" schedule. In previous seasons, Little Theatre audiences have dropped off somewhat during mid-week evenings and overflowed on weekends.

SYMPHONY

The Twin City Symphony has scheduled its first concert of the season for December 17 in Brown Hall auditorium on the Northeast campus. Eloy Fominaya, who, by the way, recently received his doctor's degree from Michigan State University, will conduct.

The next booking on the Louisiana Tech series at Ruston will be the Schola Cantorum singing group from the University of Arkansas. Concerts are set for Saturday afternoon and evening, December 7. There's a state governor's primary that day, too, but there should be time to vote and attend one of the concerts, if you're so inclined.

Right now, the gubernatorial campaign is giving the fine arts of conversation and speculation a good workout, but other than that it's pretty much out of the culture bracket — no "geetar" playing and singing this time.

Those able to view channel 12, Shreveport, might be interested in a program of music for cello and piano set for Sunday, November 24, at 4 p.m. Performers will be Betty Martin, cellist, and Helen Tucker Wooldridge, both of the Louisiana Tech faculty.

MORE OPERA

Word from Shreveport says reservations are being made locally and from faraway places for the November 26 presentation of Verdi's "Il Trovatore" by the city's Civic Opera.

One special notation will be reserved for the eight complete settings and costumes designed especially for the opera and brought to this country for the performance by Rexford Harrower of Amsterdam. Harrower has worked with performances of "Trovatore" in San Francisco and Houston, and art critics in both cities said the effects were equal to those backing up productions at the Met or LaScala.

This coming Saturday, Dallas Civic Opera will feature its third annual student matinee with a production of "Carmen." Verdi's "Masked Ball" set for Friday and again for next Sunday's matinee will bring that city's opera schedule to a climax. The season will close with a special pre-Christmas memorial performance of Handel's "Messiah."

ART CYNICS

For that general look into the nature of art we mentioned back in paragraph one, we might review a publication called "Critical" which has a policy (or is it a mission?) of ridding the art world of hypocrisy.

Their warnings to art lovers who like to indulge their enthusiasms and superlatives run something like this:

"Take it easy, my boy, don't lose your head about Velasquez, or Bach, or Cervantes, or Tolstoi, or Moliere. They are remarkable men, no doubt, but there'll be another along soon."

There may be some sense in this approach. Stripping the glow of false rapture off a few cultural high-water marks might encourage a few persons to listen, look or try a hand at music or art who wouldn't go near it otherwise.

But the high standards the old masters set for themselves should not be discounted in the process. The one element all great artists share is the matter of highly conscientious workmanship. We could use more — not less — of it today.

Detroit Group Pickets Concert By Red Players

DETROIT (AP)—A group of 35 to 40 men and women picketed Detroit's masonic temple just before the Moscow chamber orchestra began a concert Friday night.

The pickets carried signs bearing such slogans as "Krushchev's Trojan Horse! Cultural Exchange!" and "Culture Yes, Reds No." They disbanded shortly after the concert started.

At one point, police stepped in when a group of pickets tried to carry a flower - shrouded coffin into the auditorium. The coffin bore signs saying "captive Nations." It was taken from a herse driven up to the building by the group which called itself "Americans for the Restoration of Freedom to Captive Nations."

Police told the group's leader, Don Lobsinger, he would have to get management's permission to take the coffin inside. C. W. Van Lopik, building manager, refused. Van Lopik, at Lobsinger's request, then refunded money for five tickets, apparently purchased to provide enough room for the coffin.

Lobsinger issued a prepared statement saying the casket was meant to show that "wherever the Communists hold power today they seized and established it solely by turning once free and independent nations into virtual graveyards for millions of their murdered victims," and that the Communists have made a "living hell on earth for millions more they hold in bondage."

Reds Sentence Lewd Bachelor To Three Years

MOSCOW (AP) — Boris Yudkin, 50, has been sentenced to three years imprisonment for seducing two score or more girls, reliable sources said Saturday.

Yudkin, the court found, enticed scores of girls from 15 to 20 years of age into his room, persuaded them they were not living full lives the way he said educated people in the West did, then seduced them.

Parish Diabetes Detection Drive To Open Today

The year-round Diabetes Detection Drive in Ouachita Parish begins today, which is the first day of 1963's national Diabetes Week.

From today through Saturday, the 23rd, a community-wide effort under direction o the Fifth District Pharmaceutical Association and the Ouachita Parish Medical Society will be conducted to:

Test every member of the community for diabetes, since over 1,400,000 people in the United States have the condition without knowing it.

Inform everyone about the symptons of diabetes, and persaude those whose tests for diabetes are postive to seek medical care as soon as possible

Dr. Christian A. Ulrich, chairman of the 1963 Diabetes Week campaign, stated that diabetes can be dangerous if not diagnosed and brought under control. It can lead to serious complications, he said, including heart condition, eye troubles, kidney disorders, hardening of the arteries and gangrene.

"Our Diabetes Week Committee urgently requests everyone in the community to respond to the campaign for diabetes testing during the coming week," Dr. Ulrich said. "For those among our citizens who have undetected diabetes, early detection and prompt medical care will always make it possible for them to continue to lead essentially normal lives."

Tests for all members of this community are being made available at local pharmacies, it has been pointed out. Randolph Cage, chairman of the Diabetes Committee of the Fifth District Pharmaceutical Association, urges all to participate in the program since every effort has been made to make the testing kits available to the public.

THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK

HIDDEN EXPANSION: This lovely three-bedroom home has a spacious rear dormer which allows for expansion of an additional two bedrooms and bath when the need arises. Its basic area is a modest 1,299 square feet.

From coast to coast young couples spend Sunday afternoons in search of a medium priced six - room house with three bedrooms, an attractive exterior and an up-to-date room arrangement.

Two main obstacles stand in their way:

1. The homes in many developments simply don't offer the individuality, much less the livability, that middle - income families feel their hard earned money should bring.

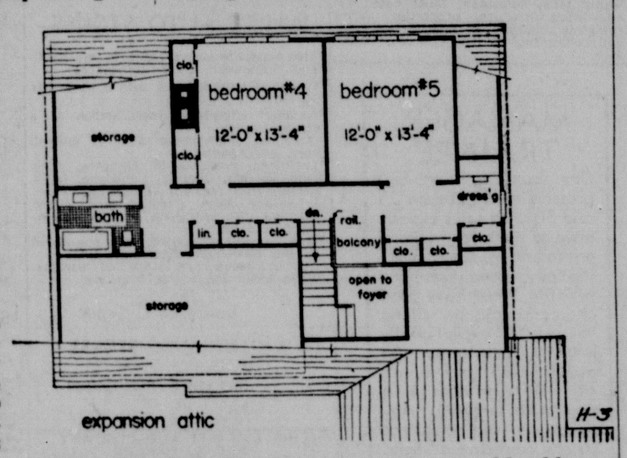
2. If they are lucky enough to find this dreamhouse, and move in, there's a strong possibility that a family population explosion would soon force them to flee to a larger but less desirable house, with a financial loss that in many cases would be crippling.

Most couples in this category simply can't afford the gamble — and there's no need to if they choose today's House of the Week; it was selected specifically to solve this twofold problem.

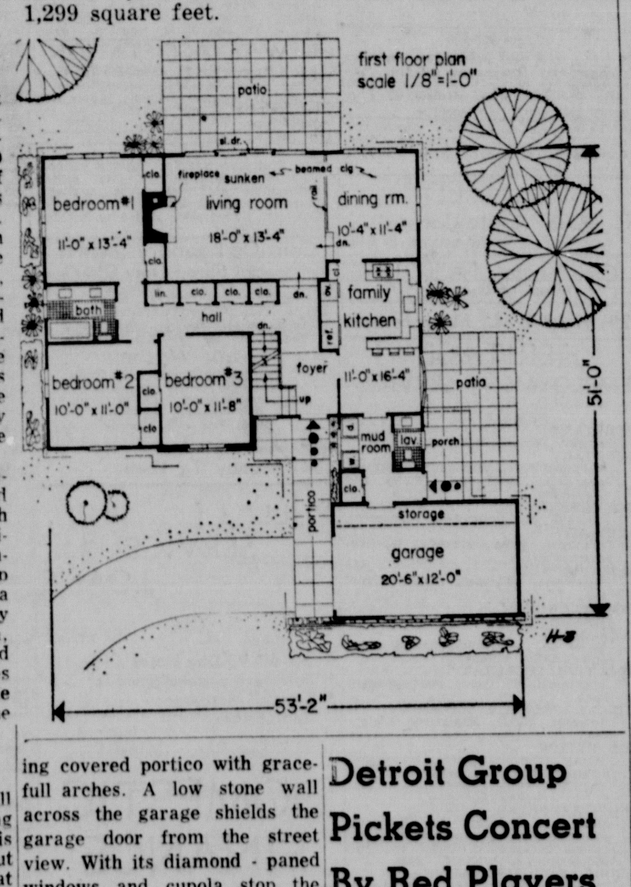
The house is a quietly elegant three - bedroom model of traditional design which encompasses a basic area of only 1,299 square feet. It's the product of architect Samuel Paul and is design H-3 in the weekly series.

It's greatest attraction is an expansion attic, made possible by a spacious rear dormer, which will add two more enormous bedrooms, a full bath, and an abundance of closet and storage space. Best of all, the space can be developed piecemeal as the need arises and much of the work can be done by a handy husband because the basis space is already built and paid for.

Meanwhile the still-young family can ejoy the imaginative and sensible downstairs layout with its sunken living room, balconied dining room, efficient kitchen with plenty of countertop space, breakfast room with a glamorous bow window, nicely located lavatory, mud room, main-level laundry, attached garage, and such other touches as a cathedral ceiling in the foyer and beamed ceilings in the living and dining rooms.



FLOOR PLANS: The attic expansion would add an additional 675 square feet to the basic area of 1,299 square feet which doesn't include the portico, garage and utility room. The house has a full basement of 1,299 square feet.



ADDITIONAL DETAILS

The upstairs expansion will add 675 square feet of living area when it is completed. This is not "emergency" space, but offers full eight - foot - high flat ceilings, a bath with double vanity, a dressing alcove in one of the rooms, and a dramatic balcony overlooking the downstairs foyer.

The lower three bedrooms also are equipped with ample closets and all are within a few steps of the main bath.

Closet space in this house actually deserves special mention. When fully developed there are no less than 18 closets with 125 feet of shelves and 52 feet of hanging space.

The sunken living room has a 9'3" ceiling height, a grand fireplace, and connects through sliding glass doors to the rear patio. An attractive balcony rail separates it from the corner dining room, and both rooms combined provide an expanse of more than 28 feet overlooking the rear terrace.

The family kitchen is nicely located with an excellent view of the side play terrace and only a few steps from both the main entry and service entry. Washer and dryer, and a handy mud room closet, also are nearby, and a sheltered service porch adjoins the side entry behind the garage.

The exterior features a charming covered portico with gracefull arches. A low stone wall across the garage shields the garage door from the street view. With its diamond - paned windows and cupola stop the garage wing, the house offers a facade which will be popular for years to come.

Though it appears considerably larger the home actually has modest over-all dimensions — only 53'2" wide by 51' deep. Architect Paul suggests a 70' by 100' plot to take full advantage of its L-sharped design.

H-3 STATISTICS

A 1½-story home of three bedrooms and 1½ baths with upstairs expansion for two additional bedrooms and full bath. Basic area is 1,299 square feet; expansion attic is 675 square feet (full height ceilings); garage and utility room add 366 square feet; front portico 123 square feet; full cellar of 1,299 square feet. Over-all dimensions 53'2" wide by 51' deep. Recommended plot: 70' by 100'.

Running the Scales

By JOHN CALE

With the opening performances of the concerts and theatre season for 1963 and '64 now matters of cultural history in northeast Louisiana, we may list a few events of the future or take a more general look at the fine arts.

Let's have a little of both. The Little Theatre of Monroe is now in the midst of rehearsals for Tennessee Williams' "Glass Managerie" which will open for a broken six-day run on November 29. In other words, the play will run Friday, Saturday and Sunday right after Thanksgiving, then resume for three more performances on Friday, December 6.

Director Richard Clark pointed out attendance was better every night because of the two weekend shifts for the "Auntie Mame" schedule. In previous seasons, Little Theatre audiences have dropped off somewhat during mid-week evenings and overflowed on weekends.

SYMPHONY

The Twin City Symphony has scheduled its first concert of the season for December 17 in Brown Hall auditorium on the Northeast campus. Eloy Fominaya, who, by the way, recently received his doctor's degree from Michigan State University, will conduct.

The next booking on the Louisiana Tech series at Ruston will be the Schola Cantorum singing group from the University of Arkansas. Concerts are set for Saturday afternoon and evening, December 7. There's a state governor's primary that day, too, but there should be time to vote and attend one of the concerts, if you're so inclined.

Right now, the gubernatorial campaign is giving the fine arts of conversation and speculation a good workout, but other than that it's pretty much out of the culture bracket — no "geetar" playing and singing this time.

Those able to view channel 12, Shreveport, might be interested in a program of music for cello and piano set for Sunday, November 24, at 4 p.m. Performers will be Betty Martin, cellist, and Helen Tucker Wooldridge, both of the Louisiana Tech faculty.

MORE OPERA

Word from Shreveport says reservations are being made locally and from faraway places for the November 26 presentation of Verdi's "Il Trovatore" by the city's Civic Opera.

One special notation will be reserved for the eight complete settings and costumes designed especially for the opera and brought to this country for the performance by Rexford Harrower of Amsterdam. Harrower has worked with performances of "Trovatore" in San Francisco and Houston, and art critics in both cities said the effects were equal to those backing up productions at the Met or LaScala.

This coming Saturday, Dallas Civic Opera will feature its third annual student matinee with a production of "Carmen." Verdi's "Masked Ball" set for Friday and again for next Sunday's matinee will bring that city's opera schedule to a climax. The season will close with a special pre-Christmas memorial performance of Handel's "Messiah."

ART CYNICS

For that general look into the nature of art we mentioned back in paragraph one, we might review a publication called "Critical" which has a policy (or is it a mission?) of ridding the art world of hypocrisy.

In one issue, these fellows turned their dart guns on the idea that art was immortal. No armor plate could withstand their barbs; they fired left and right and struck at everyone from T. S. Eliot to Life Magazine who happened to say that some works of art — in any field — were truly immortal.

Their warnings to art lovers who like to indulge their enthusiasms and superlatives run something like this:

"Take it easy, my boy, don't lose your head about Velasquez, or Bach, or Cervantes, or Tolstoi, or Moliere. They are remarkable men, no doubt, but there'll be another along soon."

There may be some sense in this approach. Stripping the glow of false rapture off a few cultural high-water marks might encourage a few persons to listen, look or try a hand at music or art who wouldn't go near it otherwise.

But the high standards the old masters set for themselves should not be discounted in the process. The one element all great artists share is the matter of highly conscientious workmanship. We could use more — not less — of it today.

Parish Diabetes Detection Drive To Open Today

The year-round Diabetes Detection Drive in Ouachita Parish begins today, which is the first day of 1963's national Diabetes Week.

From today through Saturday, the 23rd, a community-wide effort under direction o the Fifth District Pharmaceutical Association and the Ouachita Parish Medical Society will be conducted to:

Test every member of the community for diabetes, since over 1,400,000 people in the United States have the condition without knowing it.

Inform everyone about the symptoms of diabetes, and persaude those whose tests for diabetes are postive to seek medical care as soon as possible

Dr. Christian A. Ulrich, chairman of the 1963 Diabetes Week campaign, stated that diabetes can be dangerous if not diagnosed and brought under control. It can lead to serious complications, he said, including heart condition, eye troubles, kidney disorders, hardening of the arteries and gangrene.

"Our Diabetes Week Committee urgently requests everyone in the community to respond to the campaign for diabetes testing during the coming week," Dr. Ulrich said. "For those among our citizens who have undetected diabetes, early detection and prompt medical care will always make it possible for them to continue to lead essentially normal lives."

Tests for all members of this community are being made available at local pharmacies, it has been pointed out. Randolph Cage, chairman of the Diabetes Committee of the Fifth District Pharmaceutical Association, urges all to participate in the program since every effort has been made to make the testing kits available to the public.

Detroit Group Pickets Concert By Red Players

DETROIT (AP)—A group of 35 to 40 men and women picketed Detroit's masonic temple just before the Moscow chamber orchestra began a concert Friday night.

The pickets carried signs bearing such slogans as "Krushchev's Trojan Horse! Cultural Exchange!" and "Culture Yes, Reds No." They disbanded shortly after the concert started.

At one point, police stepped in when a group of pickets tried to carry a flower - shrouded coffin into the auditorium. The coffin bore signs saying "captive Nations." It was taken from a herse driven up to the building by the group which called itself "Americans for the Restoration of Freedom to Captive Nations."

Police told the group's leader, Don Lobsinger, he would have to get management's permission to take the coffin inside. C. W. Van Lopik, building manager, refused. Van Lopik, at Lobsinger's request, then refunded money for five tickets apparently purchased to provide enough room for the coffin.

Lobsinger issued a prepared statement saying the casket was meant to show that "wherever the Communists hold power today they seized and established it solely by turning once free and independent nations into virtual graveyards for millions of their murdered victims," and that the Communists have made a "living hell on earth for millions more they hold in bondage."

Reds Sentence Lewd Bachelor To Three Years

MOSCOW (AP) — Boris Yudkin, 50, has been sentenced to three years imprisonment for seducing two score or more girls, reliable sources said Saturday.

Yudkin, the court found, enticed scores of girls from 15 to 20 years of age into his room, persuaded them they were not living full lives the way he said educated people in the West did, then seduced them.

A Nature Blessed Location—New Brick Home

Picturesque, high, well-drained land . . . "chock full" of beautiful trees. And that's just the beginning—for this is a restricted area where pride of ownership is evident, where home-value will never decrease! And for an extra bonus, it's convenient to schools, churches, shopping! This new brick home features 3 bedrooms, 2 ceramic baths, birch paneled den and kitchen with built-in oven and range, extra large living and dining combination. Centrally air conditioned. Double carport. On extra large tree-studded lot.

help McKeithen "KO" Kennedy?

this would be funny... if it wasn't so serious!

Mayor Jack Howard said in a recent TV address that Mr. McKeithen was sorry that he supported John F. Kennedy for President of the United States in 1960 . . . that Mr. McKeithen is willing to admit he made a mistake. Is Mr. McKeithen really sorry? . . . is he sorry that he took an active part in raising money for the Kennedy - Democratic campaign of 1960?

Mr. Kennedy's basic principles, actions, and philosophy of government were spelled out in detail by the candidate himself, by his followers, and by the platform which he specifically endorsed word for word during the 1960 democratic presidential nomination campaign and the 1960 presidential campaign.

If there was one man in the entire world whose complete political philosophy and government plans were wide open and on the counter for everybody to see, it was John F. Kennedy. Surely Mr. McKeithen looked these points over before he endorsed Kennedy and served as Master of Ceremonies at a Monroe $30. a plate dinner to raise funds for the 1960 Kennedy - Democratic campaign.

is Mr. McKeithen sorry

he helped raise money and voted to put KENNEDY in office?

. . . or is he saying now, he'll "KO" Kennedy because he believes that this is what the voters of this area want to hear . . . and knows that the majority of free thinking voters in Louisiana will not accept the dictatorial Kennedy philosophy of government.

...AND THESE KENNEDY- MCKEITHEN SUPPORTERS...ARE THEY SORRY?

Dr. A. E. McKeithen ..... McKEITHEN'S BROTHER

KENNEDY'S 5TH DISTRICT CAMPAIGN MANAGER

J. M. "Pete" Menefee ..... McKEITHEN'S STATE FINANCE CHAIRMAN

KENNEDY'S 5TH DISTRICT FINANCE CHAIRMAN

KENNEDY'S ARDENT SUPPORTER & MONEY-RAISER

● Shreveport Times

"Gillis Long has stated repeatedly that John McKeithen, while now denouncing Kennedyism, is "smeared with Kennedy lipstick." What he means is that Mr. McKeithen had a part in the Kennedy campaign in North Louisiana in 1960. For one thing, he was the man who introduced Senator Russell Long as a chief speaker at a Monroe $30-a-plate dinner to raise funds for the 1960 Kennedy, Democratic campaign."

● Monroe Morning World

"Mayor Howard said that Mr. McKeithen voted for John F. Kennedy in 1960, but that the candidate now knows this was a mistake and frankly admits it. Mayor Howard did not mention that Mr. McKeithen also took part in money raising for the Kennedy, Democratic campaign of 1960."

● New Orleans Times Picayune

"Friends of President Kennedy both in the nations capital and in Louisiana are hoping to carry the state by a "substantial majority" in 1964. Should either Morrison or Long or State Public Service Commissioner John McKeithen be elected they would be expected to back the Kennedy administration in its reelection bid in 1964."

MR. KENNEDY DID NOT FOOL THE VAST MAJORITY OF VOTERS IN NORTH LOUISIANA IN 1960.. IF MR. McKEITHEN DIDN'T KNOW ANY BETTER THAN TO ACTIVELY SUPPORT AND HELP FINANCE MR. KENNEDY IN 1960, THEN THE VAST MAJORITY OF VOTERS IN THIS AREA ACTUALLY TRIED TO "KO" KENNEDY WHILE MR. McKEITHEN PERSONALLY "OKED" MR. KENNEDY...WHO'S SORRY NOW?

hints from Heloise

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:

After years of dog feeding, I have found that it's a good idea to open both ends of the can of dog food, leaving the tops STUCK to the food.

Push the food—using one end of the can—into the dog bowl. If the dog cannot eat a whole can at one feeding, simply take a knife and cut off what he can eat and replace the ends of the can. This save mess and prevents waste of food.

Marshall

Instead of dirtying that knife why not use the lid from one end of the can to cut the dog food? I found out this works.

TRAVEL TIE PRESS

DEAR HELOISE:

When my husband and I are traveling, it is especially hard to keep his ties from wrinkling in the suitcase.

I now place several of them over, around and between two shirt cardboards from the laundry and fasten the cardboards together with paper clips!

Ties will never wrinkle and they will lie flat in the suitcase.

We now keep two cardboards and some paper clips in our suitcase at all times for just this very purpose.

Cardiff

QUICK PICK-UP

DEAR HELOISE:

To mothers with preschoolers who scatter toys throughout the house . . . a shopping bag for each child with her name marked on it makes "pick-up time" a game rather than a problem! Even two-year-olds can take part in this "game". Saves mother lots of energy and stooping.

Annatte Himmelstein

TANGLED WASH

DEAR HELOISE:

Here's a little hint to pass along. Clothes with ties or sashes should be turned INSIDE OUT before placing them in the washing machine. This will keep the ends from becoming tangled!

Ruby Crisco

GUMMED-UP IVY

DEAR HELOISE:

If you are trying to encourage ivy to grow up the brick or rock walls of your house, and cannot train it to go in the right direction, I have found a solution. If you chew a wad of bubble gum and get all the juice out of it . . . you can stick it near the end of the vine and mash it on the brick or rock and it will hold long enough so that the vine and its roots take hold on the porous surface.

Lick your finger before you mash the bubble gum below the first leaf of the vine and it will grow and stick the way you want it to!

When the bubble gum dries out, it will fall off the wall and the vine continues to hang.

Sammy McCormick

FRESH ERASER

DEAR HELOISE:

Here is something I discovered the other day:

I was trying to find my art-gum eraser to remove the fingerprints on and around my light switches. And you know I couldn't find that eraser?

The longer I looked the more it irritated me.

So finally I picked up a slice of real fresh bread, tore the centre out of it and made my own eraser. It removed all the marks!

Elsie P.

SHOE HOOK-UP

DEAR HELOISE:

For those of you who live in trailers or in small apartments with no space, here's a little space saver.

I bought two packages of cup hooks from a dime store, and I hang all my shoes up under my vanity on BOTH sides. They hardly show at all and they're up and out of the way.

Laura Herbert

LONGER DRAPES

DEAR HELOISE:

If your drapes have shrunk through process of cleaning or washing . . . buy some knotted fringe and baste it onto the bottom!

This not only makes the drapes longer, but also makes them look expensive!

Rose Brennan

GRAND PRIX HEELS

DEAR HELOISE:

Women drivers can prevent scuffed heels by cementing a large piece of foam rubber to the floor mat of the car just back of the gas and clutch pedals where their heels are liable to hit the floor. This is especially helpful in foreign cars which do not have full pedals.

Mrs. J. A. Franklin

PAINTER'S TIP

DEAR HELOISE:

We have so many kinds, colors and cans of paint . . . (because my wife is a changer and home decorator!) . . . that I take the paint brush which has been used in that particular can of paint, and slop some of the paint on the outside of the can. Then, the next time she wants something repainted I know exactly the color of the paint that's in the can. The outside of the can reveals the exact color, whether mixed or raw.

Tommy L.

DISPOSABLE ASHES

DEAR HELOISE:

Here's something I've found that saves washing ash trays:

I take foil and cut it to fit the bottom of my ash trays and pack several pieces on the bottom. When the ash tray need emptying all one has to do is throw the top piece of foil away. Saves running and washing your ash tray each time.

Housewife

SOAP PLASTER

DEAR HELOISE:

I happen to have plaster walls. Once in a while they get nicked. When we get ready to repair these holes I pick up a bar of colored face soap (that has been on our bathroom basin and is soft) and rub it back and forth across the hole.

The soap fills up the holes and the cracks in our plaster.

Bar soap may be bought in many colors. Sometimes we just use a DRY bar of soap and rub it across the damaged part. It works beautifully and suffices until next time we paint the room.

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:

After years of dog feeding, I have found that it's a good idea to open both ends of the can of dog food, leaving the tops STUCK to the food.

Push the food—using one end of the can—into the dog bowl. If the dog cannot eat a whole can at one feeding, simply take a knife and cut off what he can eat and replace the ends of the can. This save mess and prevents waste of food.
